New mayor, city attorney trade charges at council

VanTreese will sue for "lies and slander"

by DOUG TRUAX

Ralph McRae, presiding over his first city council meeting since being elected mayor in November, Monday declared he had "absolutely have no confidence in our city attorney."

The charge, which came during a brief speech by the new mayor, renewed a controversy over the City Attorney Jeffery VanTreese's role in the city's purchase of property at Ferry Beach.

McRae's statement brought an angry response from VanTreese. "First of all, I assume that Mr. McRae's statement that he has no confidence in the city attorney deals with the Ferry Beach acquisition, although you have personally never had the courage to speak with me face to face," VanTreese said.

"The lies and slander which you caused to be printed in the newspaper will be the subject of litigation," VanTreese added. He said that whether the new mayor had confidence in him or not was "really irrelevant from my perspective."

McRae, soon after being elected mayor in November, renewed a charge that VanTreese had acted improperly in the city's purchase of the land by representing both the city and the Huntington National Bank of Dayton, Ohio which sold the property to a third party through a bankruptcy proceeding.

McRae called for an investigation of the city attorney's action in the Ferry Avenue beach property acquisition.

City council on Nov. 17, 1986 passed a resolution in support of VanTreese, stating that it was satisfied after its 1984 investigation that the city attorney had no conflict of interest in representing the two clients. Council rejected any request for an investigation.

VanTreese said Monday he had "no intention on resigning this commission. I feel I have the support of the city commission on this."

After the meeting he said of McRae's charges, "More than anything it's an embarrassment to the City of Charlevoix."

In his statement McRae reiterated his election platform which included promotion of the industrial park, opposition to budget increases beyond the dollar amounts produced by new construction, reduction of sewage rates, zoning to prevent condominium development on the waterfront and in downtown Charlevoix, and higher taxes for the Chicago Club and Belvedere Association.

"I am fully aware that probably only one member of the present council voted for me," McRae said. "However, I was elected by the people and not the council."

McRae added that, "I hope to work very closely with the council

Commencement date approved

by FRAN MARTIN

Commencement exercises for the 1987 graduating class of the Charlevoix High School will be held on Sunday, June 7, it was decided at the regular meeting of the Charlevoix Board of Education Monday night.

David J. Smith, high school principal, advised the board that he had met with parents and the students to discuss graduation and that there had been excellent cooperation in resolving the issue of the unruly behavior that disrupted last year's commencement.

Rusty Coolman, class president, served as spokesman for the delegation of 50 students who had attended the meeting. He said many of the group had traveled abroad and had been together under other circumstances and there had never been a problem with this class. He said the leadership in the class was good and assured that board that there would be no problems.

Karl Erber, also speaking in behalf of the class, said that 123 students had been polled and the greater majority agreed that if there was a disturbance the person or persons creating the problem should be removed. He said the students would like to have an outdoor ceremony at 2 p.m. He also mentioned other recommendations the students had made. These were taken under advisement by the board.

In other action, the board voted to increase substitute teacher pay from $35 to $43 per day for the first five days in any one classroom. Other provisions will remain the same for the remainder of the present school year.

- Accepted the retirement letter from Gladys Schuch, who has been employed in the cafeteria since September 1969 and who will retire Jan. 16. The board commended her for a job well done.

- Tabled policies relating to communicable disease control and the administration of non-prescription medicines until the Jan 19 meeting of the board.

Public defenders contract signed

Six Charlevoix County attorneys have signed a contract with the County to act as legal counsel for persons charged with criminal offenses who are not financially able to retain private counsel.

The attorneys – Gordon Boydston, Mark Muniak, Kevin Klevorn, John Michael, Karen Neumeyer, and Michael Buckingham – as a group, will receive a total of $60,000 for their services during the year 1987, plus $1,000 for extra ordinary out-of-pocket expenses.

Also, when a felony case trial continues beyond two days, the attorney will receive an additional $35 an hour for his services, beginning on the third day of the trial.

This is the second year in which Charlevoix County attorneys have signed such a contract with the County. Last year, five attorneys (all the above with the exception of Buckingham) participated in a similar program.

This method of supplying counsel for indigent criminal offenders was suggested by Prosecuting Attorney Kraag Lieberman as a means of reducing the escalating costs of defense attorneys. While figures are not yet available to indicate what the savings amounted to last year, those in the program believe they will be substantial.

Smokers get the message in '87

by PEG OHLE

"P.A. Act 198 of 1986, now in effect, prohibits all smoking in public buildings".

This notice was placed in several areas of the Charlevoix County Building on Monday, but no one seems to know when and if an area will be set aside for use by smokers, as the law provides.

While there are only a dozen or so smokers among County Building employees, there is a steady stream of lawyers, jurors, and others of the general public who do business in the building. On Court days, especially, the air in the hallways can become quite polluted.

It will be up to the County Board of Commissioners to work out a plan that will provide the needed facilities and still abide by the law.

Public Act 198, called the "Clean Air Act", prohibits smoking in any enclosed indoor space owned or operated by state or local governmental facilities, meeting rooms, health care facilities, buses, and auditoriums. It also prohibits smoking in privately owned or operated enclosed places that cater to the public – museums, sports arenas, concert halls, theaters, hospitals, schools, and any facility temporarily being used for an art exhibit or performance.

Smoking is still permitted in most private work places, in enclosed offices in public buildings, in public places being used for private functions, such as a wedding reception in a museum, and in bars and restaurants outside "no smoking" areas.

The Clean Air Act does not apply to federal buildings, such as post offices, which are regulated by federal law.

Those who smoke where they are not supposed to may be fined up to $100 the first time they are convicted and $500 the next time. If they offend a person by smoking where they shouldn't, that person may bring civil action against the smoker or call a law enforcement official.

New Year's Baby

The New Year's baby for 1987 arrived unexpectedly on Jan. 3 at the Charlevoix Area Hospital. The proud parents were Bonnie and Dennis Dominic of Charlevoix who welcomed Jessica Anne into the world at 10:31 p.m. Despite the fact that she was not expected until Jan. 29, the newborn weighed in at a healthy 7 lbs., 3 oz.

Shown with mom and dad, above, are other family members Sarah, 5, and Christopher, 7. Asked if she anticipated having the New Year's baby, Bonnie said she "never dreamed about it." Bonnie was formerly employed by the Charlevoix County State Bank but will now devote full time to being a mother and housewife. Dennis works at Wickes Manufacturing in East Jordan.

Will-Flow Corp. sold

The Hastings Group of Belding, Mich. recently announced that it has purchased Will-Flow Corportation of Charlevoix.

Kenneth Kensington, CEO of the Hastings Group, said Will-Flow will operate as an independent unit providing manufacturing services to customers of the Hastings Group.

Kensington said James Taylor, plant superintendent, will continue to manage the Charlevoix operations. The Charlevoix office is headed by Elaine McDonald.

Will-Flow, which currently employs some 36-37 people, manufactures stainless steel tanks and related equipment for the food, cosmetic, beverage and pharmaceutical industries.

The Hastings Group also owns

BEWARE OF RESTRICTIONS

The courts permit property owners to put in deeds to buyers reasonable restrictions on the use of the real estate being transferred. It might be looked upon as zoning on a very personal basis.

For example, a home in a commercial zoned area may have a restriction against use for any commercial purpose. This may be OK for the first buyer who plans to live in the house, but a lending institution may refuse to loan any money on it because commercial use may be the only reason for a new purchaser to buy it. They prefer to play it safe and give funds for less questionable and risky situations.

From the point of view of the buyer, it is preferable that the agreement enumerate any and all restrictions. The point is this. If there ARE restrictions, bring them out in the open and get the advice of your Realtor or attorney before going any further. It's for your own protection.

New book takes historical look at life in northern Michigan

by PEG OHLE

At the end of the Civil War, northern Michigan was opened to homesteading by veterans, and settlement began in earnest. In the years following, families arrived regularly, mostly from Ohio, New York State, and Canada. Others came from foreign countries, seeking the peace and opportunity ascribed to the new land.

Among the latter were the Germans, who sought refuge from the war-mongering Chancellor, Otto Von Bismarck. Three German immigrants, the Schmitt brothers, Wilhelm, Philip, and Aegidius, came to rural Petoskey by way of Baltimore, and thus the story begins.

The story is the one told in a new book by Beatrice Henshaw of Petoskey, granddaughter of Wilhelm Schmitt. In "Backward, Turn Backward", Mrs. Henshaw chronicles the family's life from her grandfather's clearing the land at what is described as "Four Mile Clearing on East Mitchell Street", to her own adulthood.

The best portions of the books are those in which Mrs. Henshaw recalls her girlhood: She tells of the one-room school house and the teachers who guided her through her early years, the birthing of the three sisters and one brother who followed her in the family, the arduous hours spent in dirt farming with primitive tools, the simple but joyous preparations for holiday seasons, but, most of all, the activities surrounding their church, St. Francis Xavier of Petoskey.

The Bay View community played an important role in the lives of the Schmitt family by providing a market for fresh fruits and vegetables, eggs, and roasting chickens. Beatrice attended her first birthday party in Bay View and experienced her first insight into the lives of "rich people".

Fochtman's Department Store, the source of all the Schmitt's dry goods, no longer exists, but Gruler's Feed Store, where the family's horses were bedded down during church hours on cold winter days, is still in business, albeit under a more modern name. The Petoskey Normal School, where one of Beatrice's aunts prepared to teach in a one-room school, is also gone, but the faded name remains on the bricks in the back of the building in downtown Petoskey it once occupied.

Those who are interested in "what it was like" in northern Michigan in the latter part of the 19th century and a large part of this century will find "Backward, Turn Backward" to their liking. Beatrice Henshaw tells her story in an easy style, perfected by many years of writing sketches and fiction.

Charlevoix artist Cara Bobbitt Hochhalter has contributed 24 pen and ink drawings to the book, adding a visual experience to such chapters as "Babies from Heaven", "Unfirm in the Faith", "Bad Books", and "Fatherless Children" (the latter the product of the scourge called "Socialism".)

Mrs. Hochhalter visited the original Schmitt farmhouse to take pictures and get a feeling for her sketches. The house is still standing and is owned by her father's descendents. As the author writes, "The fields lie fallow, its buildings are deserted but to see it pass into the hands of strangers would somehow seem a violation of parental trust".

Mrs. Henshaw and Mrs. Hochhalter have combined their artistic skills to recall a way of life that no longer exists but which formed the foundation of independence and hard work still seen in descendants of northern Michigan's pioneer families.

"Backward, Turn Backward" is available in Charlevoix at Backdoor Antiques on Bridge Street and Connie's Place in the Market Mall.

Cara Bobbitt Hochhalter of Charlevoix, artist and owner of Backdoor Antiques, contributed 24 pen and ink drawings to the recent volume of northern Michigan recollections by Beatrice Schmitt Henshaw.

Brigadier General E.B. Leedy Receives distinguished scout award

MUNICH - Brigadier General E.B. Leedy, Commander of Army and Air Force Exchange Service-Europe, has joined the ranks of such prominent Americans as John Glenn, Gerald Ford and William Westmoreland by receiving the Distinguished Eagle Scout Award.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E.H. Leedy, and the brother of Julia Leedy Baer, all of Charlevoix.

Leedy was presented the award by the National Court of Honor of the Boy Scouts of America after being recommended by the organization's Trans-Atlantic Council.

The award cited Leedy's continued interest in scouting, his efforts in promoting German-American friendship and his support of Army quality-of-life programs in Europe. The last time the council nominated an individual for the award was in 1984, and only 10 others have received the award in Europe since 1969. Nationally about 200 former Eagle Scouts have received the award.

Leedy has been active in scouting programs in Europe serving as chairman of Expo '86 which drew about 2,200 scouts representing 100 units in Europe.

Leedy earned his Eagle rank in 1953 while a member of Troop 149 in Mariemont, Ohio, a suburb of Cincinnati.

Themm named Realtor of the Year

Charles Themm of Charlevoix has been named as realtor of the year by the Antrim-Charlevoix Board of Realtors.

He is currently an associate broker at Ski and Shore of Charlevoix and has been a broker at both Century 21 Real Estate in Bellaire and Char-Kay Realty in Charlevoix.

The board said the award "recognizes Chuck's involvement in community service as well as his service to the real estate profession."

Themm was president of the Antrim-Charlevoix Board of Realtors for 1986. He served as treasurer (1984) and vice-president (1985).

Themm has been involved in a variety of community service projects. He is immediate past president of the Rotary Club of Charlevoix which he helped form in 1985.

A former banker in Bellaire, he was president of the Central Lake Chamber of Commerce in both 1979 and 1982 and second vice-president of the Central Lake Lions Club.

Themm is an active member of the Community Church of God in Charlevoix.

"The pleasure is our's in naming Charles Themm as realtor of the year and our way of saying thank you for his service and great contributions to the community, his friends and family, and the real estate industry," the realtors' group said in making the award.

Opinion

Romance is alive and well

'Round Town

by EDITH GILBERT

MANY MICHIGAN FOOTBALL FANS watched the University of Michigan defeat the University of Hawaii's Rainbow Team on Dec. 6. What we didn't see on our TV screen was Jeannine Wallace sporting the Charlevoix T-shirt that she had made to order for her in maize and blue by Jim Mabee's Clothing Company. (Jeannie owns the Shop of the Gulls - but most of you know that.)

Jeannine even had her picture taken at a luau with one of the players on the Michigan team. But the most fun, according to Jeannine, was the many people, who stopped and talked to her while they were tailgating in the parking lot, and who said, "Hi, there! We have a place in Harbor Springs." or, "Well, you're a long way from home." Or, "We love Charlevoix!"

Jeannine was traveling with Michigan fans from Ann Arbor, Illinois and Ohio, and these companions were wide-eyed at the number of people who spoke to her. At first they started to count, but after 30 friendly comments they stopped.

Jeannine reports with an envious sigh that Honolulu was trimmed for the Christmas holidays with garland of flowers instead of greens, and the Christmas trees were made of poinsettia plants, some two stories high!

She also thought I'd like to know that Hawaii is today's Japanese wedding capital. For $600 each as many as 20 couples get married a day in a Honolulu wedding palace, complete with rented wedding gowns, Rolls Royce limousines, the works. She was particularly charmed to notice that almost every petite bride chose the hoop style wedding gown, which confused Jeannine into thinking she was on the set of "Gone with the Wind" instead of on the Islands. Aloha Atlanta and welcome home to Charlevoix Jeannine and the real world!

ROMANCE IS ALIVE AND WELL in Charlevoix! I just talked to my former Free Press carrier, Steve Hufford, son of Ann and Walter Hufford, who is now grown up and in this third year at the Illinois College of Optometry in Chicago. The fact that he is going to marry Debbie Strandemo, on August 29 at the Congregational Church, is somewhat newsworthy.

And the fact that she is an industrial engineer, working for General Motors in Pontiac, is also interesting. And the fact that Steve has been sailing with neighbor John Friedly for the last six years in the Red Fox Regatta is nice to know, too. But the manner in which Steve proposed to Debbie - that is extra special!

Way back last spring Steve began thinking of a romantic and appropriate time and place to pop the big question. He decided that the most opportune time would be when they were together in the two day Red Fox Regatta. He took the Friedlys and a few friends into his confidence. And he planned carefully. He even tied a bottle of champagne to the boat, dropped it over the side to keep it cool and out of Debbie's sight.

At the end of the first day's race the young couple took down the sails, returned to the club house for a while. As the sun set and the moon rose over the lake, Steve said: "Will you?" and Debbie says "Yes" and the young sailors became engaged. From now on, the Red Fox Regatta will always be a very special race for the young Huffords.

ROMANTIC BLIND DATES lead to weddings on the horizon. Many of us bought tickets last May, hoping to win a dinner for two, catered by this area's finest chefs. The five lucky couples were chauffeured by limousine to the MacGillivray estate, where they were waited on by volunteer waiters dressed in tuxedo.

Five wines accompanied the seven-course meal. The table was exquisitely set with masses of purple iris in an antique silver bowl. There were 40 people in the kitchen waiting on 14 people in the dining room. It was truly a royal affair, this Five Million Dollar Dinner, which benefited the Crooked Tree Arts Council.

One of the lucky Charlevoix winners was Jan Biddick, who was delighted to hear the good news. But no sooner had she hung up the phone, when she began to ponder whom she would invite as her escort? One person was in Florida, another in Chicago. Finally a friend suggested she invite Dr. Ronald Vanden Brink, who Jan didn't know, but it was arranged and he graciously accepted. The young couple had a marvelous time the whole elegant evening. But his is not the end of the story. Last week, Jan and Ron announced their engagement! A spring wedding is planned.

And so be ready to say "yes" when someone approaches you to buy a ticket to this year's dinner. Something wonderful may happen to you too, if your name is chosen.

The new abstinence

Clockwise

BY BOB CLOCK

"With the Lodge Motel closed for the winter for the first time in its long history, the corner of Michigan Avenue and East Dixon has to be one of the loneliest spots in town."

No woodsmoke billowing from the big chimney, no cheerful Christmas tree in the lobby, no "ice fountain" in the inner courtyard, no ski cars and ski buses coming and going, no lights, no..."

My problem is that I never thought of The Lodge as a seasonal business. But I guess it is. Just like everything else.

A BIG SURPRISE in Charlevoix on New Year's Eve was that a couple of bars didn't even stay open. One closed at 8 p.m. and another in the suburbs called it quits at 10 p.m. Some that did stay open report more out-of-towners than regular patrons.

But today's NYE celebrations can't hold a firecracker to the olden days when New Year's Eve was one of the biggest nights of the year in the bar trade — right up there with St. Patrick's Day.

But times have changed.

Tough drunk-driving penalties — most involving jail sentences — have made a lot of folks think twice about climbing behind the wheel of a car while half in the bag. They probably haven't stopped drinking, but they are doing it at home — or walking to neighborhood pubs.

Of course, some residents have made New Year's resolutions to abstain from alcohol altogether, which is also OK. Think back to the best time you ever had in your life, and chances are pretty good alcohol wasn't involved.

COME TO THINK of it, you don't have to smoke either. Michigan's new law relative to smoking in public buildings is in effect and so many smokers are so confused they have given up the habit rather than find themselves in hot water with Lansing.

Which is OK, too. If they understood the law, they might not quit, and then they'd be in trouble with their non-smoking co-workers, who don't understand the law either.

So it's better just to quit and let the nicotine and tar fall where they may.

Now, when is the U.S. Congress going to stop paying farmers for growing tobacco which has become as popular across the country poison ivy and ragweed?

I'm definitely going to touch base with my congressional delegation on this one before I cast another vote. And if any one of them mentions "back-scratching," "log-rolling" or the proverbial "pork barrel," I'm going to look for another candidate.

Or buy a tobacco farm.

Letters to the editor:

Notes leave wonderful feeling of good will to men

Dear Editor:

A few years ago while I was visiting my daughter in Kingston, Ontario during the Christmas holidays, we spent an afternoon shopping. When we returned to the car, naturally it was longer than the two hours we had provided in the parking meter, so I was not surprised to see a white card under the windshield wiper.

However, we were both surprised and delighted when we examined it. It showed a picture of a parking meter with the word "Welcome" written across the face of it, and underneath, these words:

"Your meter may have expired, but your welcome never will. Park with our compliments, enjoy your visit to Kingston and please come back soon. On behalf of the citizens of the City of Kingston... a sincere welcome."

I was so impressed with the card that I have kept it all these years.

This Christmas season an occurrence in Charlevoix, Michigan impressed me equally. In my mailbox I received a Christmas card from an out-of-town friend who had not included a return address and had forgotten to put a stamp on the envelope!

The post office had stamped in the upper right hand corner, "Postage Due 22". However, this was crossed out, and written over it were the words: "Merry Christmas From Your Mailman"

I shall leave the correct amount at the post office, but I want my mailman to know that one hundred times that amount couldn't buy me the wonderful feeling of "Peace on Earth, Good will to Men" that he gave me.

A very Happy New Year, Kingston, Ontario and Charlevoix, Michigan.

Lyla Arvilla
Charlevoix

Your meter may have expired but your welcome never will. Park with our compliments, enjoy your visit to Kingston and please come back soon.

On behalf of the citizens of the City of Kingston. . . a sincere welcome.

Christian way to overcome anxiety and depression

Dear Editor,

So many people are depressed or are very prone to anxiety. Some of the ways of overcoming depression listed in the book, "Happiness is a Choice," by Frank Minirith M.D. and Paul Meier M.D.:

Commit your life daily to the purpose of glorifying Jesus Christ.

Spend a little time nearly every day getting more intimate with your mate and children. Parents, brothers, sisters and other close relatives should also have a high priority. Do all you can to resolve family conflicts.

Get rid of grudges daily.

Spend some time each week having fellowship and fun with at least one or two committed Christian friends of the same sex. If you are married, have fun with other married couples. In this way husband and wife can together benefit from intimacy with others.

Be involved in a daily routine (including work, play, housework, projects). This routine is God's will and purpose for your life, your way of glorifying Him.

Do something nice for one special person each week. This kind deed can be physical (helping with a chore, for example), emotional (buying a book or giving council), or spiritual (having devotions together).

Beacons of Blessing

A devotional column prepared by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association

by Rev. Thomas Black
First Baptist Church

Please turn to and read Deuteronomy 4 through 12, Chapter 11 Verse 1 is our text: God chose and used Israel even as we believe He chose the U.S.A. for His special purpose in the affairs of the family of nations.

However, we often feel as probably the Israelites were inclined to feel at times, that our greatness comes from within - from ourselves - and independent of God's intervention.

God's choice of Israel in the scheme of things was based not upon humanity's merit, but rather on God's grace. We too soon forget that chosen people have added responsibility in following God's commands.

Ours is a nation whose builder and maker is God, yet it cannot always be said that we are a Christian nation. We must learn that those who are received into communion with God are to have no communication with the unfruitful works of darkness.

Think about it - God promised that you would never be alone. His power is irresistible and therefore He can do as He commands; His promise is inviolable, and therefore He will do as He says. God always has His reasons for His actions, and while sometimes His ways are not our ways, still there is purpose and plan in the destiny He writes.

Remember always that the blessings of Christ's salvation always extend beyond the individual and make the whole world a better place for all of us. Prosperity which most of us enjoy and take for granted often endangers the human soul and leads people to feel that they are self-sufficient. Please try to remember that it is God's guiding hand that has made the U.S.A. great and given us the power to build a mighty nation. Please turn to and read I John 1:9 and John 15:14. Thank you and God bless you one and all real good.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Palmer

Martincheck - Palmer

Debra K. Martincheck and Jack Isaac Palmer exchanged wedding vows in late October at the Ellsworth Wesleyan Chapel.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Martincheck of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Jessie M. Moose of Boyne City.

The Reverend William Lyons officiated at the ceremony, in which the birde was given in marriage by her father.

The bride wore a gown of organza trimmed with lace and seed pearls. The leg-of-mutton sleeves were trimmed with matching lace, and the full skirt featured accordion pleats and lace trim, ending in a semi-cathedral length train. The Juliet cap was also trimmed in lace, as was the fingertip veil of illusion.

The bride's bouquet was made up of purple and orchid sweetheart roses, white miniature roses, and baby's breath.

Brenda Bennett, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor, and Jill Ostrum and Janet Potter were bridesmaids. They wore orchid taffeta gowns with melon sleeves and matching sashes. Each carried a long-stemmed white rose.

Amy Martincheck was flower girl, wearing a gown trimmed with ruffles. Ryan Potter was ringbearer.

Ben Moose attended the bridegroom as best man, and Jim Moose and Bruce Moose served as groomsmen. Brian Martincheck and David Martincheck were ushers.

Music for the ceremony was provided by Ken Boss.

The parents of the bride hosted a reception at the church Fellowship Hall, and the mother of the bridegroom hosted the rehearsal dinner.

The newlyweds are at home in Charlevoix, where the bride is employed in the County Building. The bridegroom is employed by Giantway in Petoskey.

Paula Moats

Moats - Bradley

Paula D. Moats and John L. Bradley will exchange marriage vows on St. Valentine's Day at St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Winter Haven, Florida.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Crandell of Charlevoix and David A. Moats of Big Bear, California. She graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1981 and has been making her home in Dundee, Florida, where she is employed by Thayer Industries.

Her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Bradley of Citrus Springs, Florida. He graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1980 and has been living in Winter Haven, where he is employed by Vegter, Inc.

Kids activity hour to stress health

The annual Children's Activity Hour sponsored by the Charlevoix Public Library for students in the kindergarten through the fifth grade will begin Saturday, Jan. 10 at the library, Marybeth Wallick, librarian, has announced.

All children in this age group are invited to attend the activity hour to be held from 11 a.m. until noon each Saturday beginning Jan. 10 and running through Feb. 14.

"We have arranged what we think will be a program of interest to everyone for it includes a variety of events built around the idea that a health body and a healthy mind go hand in hand," Wallick said.

The program will be conducted by Vital Options headed by Candy Smith and will feature the idea that exercise can be fun. The program will include information on good nutrition, physical awareness, substance abuse awareness, games to develop coordination and exercises "just for fun."

The program is designed to be entertaining as well as educational, Wallick said.

To participate in this program, students need only to show up at the Charlevoix public library no later than 10:55 a.m. Saturday so the hour-long class may begin at 11 a.m. sharp.

Free tuition available

Free tuition is available at North Central Michigan College for the spring semester, which starts the week of Jan. 19.

Applications are due Jan. 9. Applicants who qualify for tuition reimbursement include:

- A person who has been a homemaker but now, because of dissolution of the marriage, must seek employment;
- A person who is a single head of a household and who lacks adequate job skills;
- A person who is currently a homeowner and part-time worker but who wishes or needs to secure full-time employment;
- A person who wishes to seek employment in a job area which has not been traditionally considered a job area for his-her particular sex.

Funds are provided by the Michigan Department of Vocational Education and are exclusively for vocational classes at the college including business, registered nursing, respiratory therapy, marketing, secretarial, allied health, criminal justice, data processing-computer programming, manufacturing processes, technical drawing, industrial arts technology and engineering.

For further information, contact the Women's Resource Center at Room 52, North Central Michigan College, or phone 347-0067.

Burns' birthday to be celebrated

The birthday of Scottish Poet Laureate Robert Burns will be celebrated with a traditional Burns Night dinner at the McCune Arts Center in Petoskey, Monday Jan. 26.

Richard Kent, a native of Scotland, will prepare the meal which will include a ceremonial serving of the Haggis. Storytellers and musicians will recreate the poems and tunes Burns wrote and collected during the 18th Century and diners will be escorted to the banquet room as the Highland Pipes are played.

Seating is limited and reservations must be made in advance by calling the McCune Arts Center 347-4337.

Threesome given award for rescue effort

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department recently presented Citizen Awards to Lori Kopecki, Shirley Werden and Joey Stilson for their efforts in rescuing a youngster on Lake Charlevoix.

Sheriff George T. Lasater said the three swam out into Lake Charlevoix when a six-year-old boy floated away from the swimming area at Ferry Beach in a plastic inner-tube. He said the three saved the young boy from a possible life threatening situation.

"The Sheriff's Office is pleased to recognize the rescue efforts of these citizens of Charlevoix County," Lasater said.

Lakefront development conference planned

Local government officials and others interested in land use will have an opportunity to hear an expert on the subject at a meeting scheduled for Saturday, January 17, in Boyne City.

Mark Wyckoff, Assistant Professor of Urban Planning at Michigan State University and editor of Planning and Zoning News, will discuss "Lake Front Development When Revising a Comprehensive Plan or When Considering Zoning Requests".

The meeting, sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service in cooperation with the County Planning Department, will consider the results of the Lake Charlevoix Attitude Survey, which has now been broken down into city and township categories.

The meeting will be held at the Boyne City City Hall from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The cost per participant will be $10 to cover materials, coffee, and rolls. Reservations should be made with the Cooperative Extension Service, phone 582-6232, by January 9.

LEGAL NOTICES 207

PUBLIC NOTICE

All interested persons are hereby advised that the Charlevoix County Road Commission is proposing construction of relocated Boyne Mt. Road from US 131, west and north to existing Boyne Mt. Road, Boyne Valley Township. The proposed construction includes a bridge crossing the Boyne River and approximately 0.4 mile of two lane bituminous asphalt pavement.

Under Federal, State and Local Procedures, any citizen who would be affected by the proposed project may request in writing that a formal Public Hearing be held concerning the social, environmental and economic effects of this proposal.

As required by Federal Regulations, an Environmental Assessment (EA) has been prepared evaluating the social, economic and environmental aspects of the project. The Environmental Assessment demonstrates that implementation of the proposed action will not have a significant impact on the quality of the human environment. Copies of the Environmental Assessment are available for public inspection or may be obtained at Charlevoix County Road Commission, P.O. Box 39, 1051 E. Division St., Boyne City, MI. 49712.

Any person that believes that the analysis of the social, economic and environmental impacts presented in the EA is inadequate to assess their significance is invited to submit in writing the substative and factual basis for their belief. Also, any person may request, in writing, a public hearing. These should be sent to Fred Welch, Engineer-Manager, Charlevoix County Road Commission, P.O. Box 39, Boyne City, Michigan 49712 before February 6, 1987.

Mayor and city attorney square off at council meeting and the city manager. I want to have a private and personal meeting with each council member. And most of all, I will keep in touch with my boss, the taxpayers."

IN OTHER ACTION, council elected Councilwoman Shirely Roloff as deputy mayor. Roloff was nominated by Councilman Norm Probert "considering her seniority and good looks." She was elected by a unanimous vote of the council (Roloff abstained).

Council also delayed action on a request from Great Lakes Fish and Chips for a dance and entertainment permit for the Villager restaurant planned for the corner of Bridge and Antrim streets. Council recently voiced no objection to extending the existing liquor license to the new restaurant.

Probert asked city manager for a report on the cost of maintaining the Christmas lights in the downtown area beyond the holiday season. Probert said he had received numerous favorable comments on the lights.

City Manager Michael Wiesner said the lights cost an additional $231 per month in electrical consumption. Replacement of the bulbs, which are rated for 800 hours of service, would cost an additional $1,140.

Probert also questioned whether the Techlin Corp. which has begun construction on an apartment complex on Petoskey Avenue had paid sewer tap-in fees. Wiesner said the company would be required to pay $7,500 for one-half the cost of constructing a new water main prior to any construction by the city. The other half would be paid on completion.

Probert also took issue with an editorial published in last week's Charlevoix Courier criticizing council for being paid for an additional monthly meeting at which little business was conducted.

Probert said closing on the new fire hall had been considered for the agenda but was taken off at the last minute. He also noted that council members put in considerable extra time in the interests of the city. Probert said he was offended by the editorial.

Councilman Earl Muma asked the city to look into complaints he had received about wild parties at a home on the corner of Garfield and State streets. He also questioned the use of government plates on the new petunia truck. Bruce MacArthur of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful later explained that the plates were issued to non-profit organizations and had not been borrowed from any governmental institution.

Grand Opening

Rite Aid began a two-week grand opening sale and celebration this week. The pharmacy, located in the Captain's Corner mall, moved into a new mall location on Dec. 7. The business began operation in Charlevoix last May after buying Crown Drugs from Jack Urban, who continues as staff pharmacist.

The grand opening will involve a ribbon cutting at noon on Friday, Jan. 9. There will be 49 cent videos offered along with other sale items and specials. The pharmacy will offer free blood pressure screenings on Jan. 9 and 16 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The grand opening celebration continues until Jan. 18.

Will-Flow corporation sold

Process Equipment Corporation of Belding which manufactures similar equipment from fiberglass.

Kensington said there would be no change in the manufacturing operations at Will-Flow. The engineering and sales operations would be consolidated in Belding.

"Our main intention is to make the company grow," Kensington said. He said the sales operations would be beefed up after several years of lying dormant. "The skill, labor and experise is there," Kensington added.

He noted that the company recently laid off six people because December and January are traditionally slow months. The action was taken in lieu of a temporary shutdown of the plant as was done in the past, Kensington said.

When the Hastings Group purchased Will-Flow it terminated four or five persons in management, he said.

The Hastings Group also owns Hastings Reinforced Plastics of Hastings, Mich.

Big Rock output in '86 sets record

James P. Weisel, Big Rock Point shift supervisor, heads one of the five teams of reactor operators who helped the plant set a new site record for power generation during 1986.

The Big Rock Point Nuclear Plant generated more electricity during 1986 than during any other calendar year in its history. The plant's 1986 output of 505,740 megawatt-hours broke its previous record of 501,168 megawatt-hours set in 1967.

In the process of setting the new record, the plant staff achieved a safety record of equal significance: the best employee radiation safety performance in the plant's 24-year history.

"We've achieved our highest electric output ever with the lowest total exposure ever," said David P. Hoffman, plant superintendent. "We've proven that an older nuclear plant can continue to be a safe and reliable energy source for the customers of Consumers Power Company." The plant first generated electricity in 1962 and is now the second oldest operating commercial nuclear power plant in the United States.

"Our peak output comes at a particularly critical time since customer demand for electricity continues to grow and the company's electric reserve margin is tight," Hoffman added. Big Rock Point's production in 1986 was sufficient to serve the electric power needs of more than 75,000 homes.

The plant was taken out of service Friday night for refueling and maintenance. It has run almost continuously since the last refueling was completed in November 1985.

The nuclear plant's 1986 production - with a retail value exceeding $33 million - would be difficult to replace by alternative energy sources, Hoffman said. "For example, it would have taken more than a quarter of a million cords of dry firewood to generate the same electric output."

Big Rock Point has an electric generating capacity of 69 megawatts. It is owned and operated by Consumers Power Company.

Smokeless tobacco dangerous

Many young people in northern Michigan, and nationally are using smokeless tobacco products including snuff and chewing tobacco. Successful marketing strategies of moist snuff, the type that comes in small tins, have helped to increase sales by over 50 percent between 1978 to 1984.

Starting in February 1987 all smokeless tobacco products and print advertisements will be accompanied by one of the following health warnings that will be rotated every 4 months: (1) WARNING: THIS PRODUCT MAY CAUSE MOUTH CANCER, (2) WARNING: THIS PRODUCT MAY CAUSE GUM DISEASE, and (3) WARNING: THIS PRODUCT IS NOT A SAFE ALTERNATIVE TO CIGARETTS. Outdoor advertisements are exempt from this law.

"The general public and health professionals have recognized a multitude of health problems that may be linked to cigarette use," Dr. Brian Youngs, medical director of District Health Departments 3 and 4 said recently. "What has not been recognized by much of the general public, especially many young people, is the content of potent cancer causing agents that is present in smokeless tobacco products, especially moist snuff."

A study of rural Colorado teenagers who used smokeless tobacco showed that over 60 percent had developed lesions in the area of the mouth and gums, Youngs pointed out. The January 1986 results of a survey conducted by the Office of the Inspector General, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services showed that 37 percent of regular users of smokeless tobacco reported that they had some form of sore, ulcer, blister, or lesion of the gums, lips or mouth, he said.

The January 1986 National Institutes of Health Consensus Development Conference concerning the health implications of smokeless tobacco use concluded that the use of smokeless tobacco is one of a number of health-endangering behaviors that raise the clear potential for long-term and serious consequences.

In 1986, almost 30 years after the Public Health Service's first statement on the health effects of cigarette smoking, a comprehensive review by the Advisory Committee to the Surgeon General on the health consequences of using smokeless tobacco concluded that "the oral use of smokeless tobacco represents a significant health risk. It is not a safe substitute for smoking cigarettes. It can cause cancer and a number of noncancerous oral conditions and can lead to nicotine addiction and dependence."

Dr. Youngs encourages interested individuals or groups to contact any office of the District Health Department if they would like more information about the problems associated with smokeless tobacco products.

Obituaries

Clarence Trojanek

Funeral services for Clarence Trojanek, 74, of East Jordan, were held Friday at the Church of the Everlasting God in East Jordan. The Rev. Jimmie McWatters and Pastor Wesley Norton officiated.

Mr. Trojanek died Monday, Dec. 29, at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Battle Creek.

Born in Antrim County July 25, 1912, Mr. Trojanek was raised in the East Jordan area. He was a veteran of World War II. On Dec. 11, 1949 he married the former Ellen Rose Saganek at East Jordan where they had always made their home.

Mr. Trojanek was a lumberjack by trade. He was a member of the Everlasting Church of God in East Jordan.

Surviving are his wife; one daughter, Mrs. Robert (Regina) Paul of Houghton; two sons, James of Torch Lake Village and Franklin of East Jordan; six grandchildren and a sister, Mrs. Velma Watkins of Mancelona.

The family suggests memorials to the East Jordan ambulance fund.

The Hastings Funeral Home in Ellsworth was in charge of arrangements.

Wesley Veenstra

Funeral services for Wesley Veenstra, 92, of Atwood, were held at the Atwood Christian Reformed Church Wednesday. The Rev. James Evenhouse officiated. Interment was in the Atwood Cemetery.

Mr. Veenstra died Sunday, Jan. 4, at his Atwood home.

Born in the Netherlands Jan. 13, 1894, to Paul and Wilma (Terpstra) Veenstra, Mr. Veenstra came to the United States in 1913 and settled in the Atwood area. On Dec. 27, 1917, he married the former Hattie Zylstra at Atwood. They operated a farm in the Atwood area. Mrs. Veenstra preceded him in death in 1975.

He was a member of the Atwood Christain Reformed Church and served as an elder for many years.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. George (Wilma) Wiersema of Jenison and Mrs. Henry (Theola) Elzinga of Atwood; a son, Paul of Jenison; 10 grandchildren; eight great-grandchildren; a brother, Andrew of Atwood and one sister, Gertrude Veenstra of Grand Rapids.

A son, Lambert, preceded him in death.

The family suggests memorials to the Atwood Christian Reformed Church. Envelopes for this purpose are available at the Hastings Funeral Home.

Consumers sells river frontage

Consumers Power Company recently sold more than 13,700 acres of prime river frontage in the Huron-Manistee National Forests to the United States Forest Service for $6 million.

The lands being sold are all located within the Forests' critical management areas of the Au Sable and Manistee Rivers. Both rivers have active nesting areas for the bald eagle, an endangered species.

Through this acquisition, the Huron-Manistee Forests will be able to provide undeveloped habitat and protection for the bald eagle. Also, both rivers are nationally known for their outstanding recreational opportunities, such as fishing and camping.

"This sale is part of Consumers Power's 'self-help' in restoring the company to financial stability," said Bill Reid, manager of land and right of way.

Sheriff wants rescue team

Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater is arranging a small group of Charlevoix County citizens with snowmobiles and trailers who would be willing to volunteer time and equipment to assist the sheriff's office on search and rescue assignments.

"These assignments would vary from searching for downed aircraft and lost citizens to delivering emergency supplies to snowbound citizens during the snow storms," Sheriff Lasater said. "On a yearly basis, we could utilize the services of these volunteers from six to eight times."

The Sheriff's Volunteer Snowmobile Search and Rescue Team would require training, on-call capabilities and an ability to respond to a search and rescue assignment in a timely manner, he added.

Any interested citizen please contact Sheriff Lasater for additional information.

Marine store has new owners

Judy and Jerry Patkewicz of Grand Bay Marine and Brokerage Inc. display some of the runabouts in their new store.

Despite the frosty temperatures outside, the owners of Charlevoix's newest marine store and boat dealer are thinking ahead to the blue water days of summer.

Since they took possession of the Murray Marine store they purchased last fall, Jerry and Judy Petkewicz have been increasing their inventory of big cruisers and powerful runabouts.

Now called Grand Bay Marine and Brokerage Inc., the store on South Bridge Street across from the airport will offer a full range of powerboat service as well as maintain a fully stocked ship's store.

The Petkewiczes are offering Cruisers Incorporated and Chaparral luxury cruiser and runabouts and are a certified MerCruiser service center.

"There is no reason for people to go to Traverse City for big boats. They can get them here in Charlevoix," says Judy. The new business is also dealing in boats brokered for customers, including sailboats.

The Petkewiczes say their boats sell for from $11,000 to $100,000 and go up to 33-foot offshore cruisers.

The couple bought the business and moved to Charlevoix after spending summer vacation here. Although they have only been out on Lake Charlevoix a few times, they fell for the location instantly. "We're glad to be here and we intend to stay," Judy says.

CLASS MEETING INFORMATION

All Classes will begin on Monday, January 19, 1987.

All evening classes meet from 7:00 p.m.-10:00 p.m., except where specifically noted.

Spring Break will be March 29 through April 5, 1987.

The Spring semester will end on May 15, 1987.

SPECIAL NOTE

Because of enrollment restrictions placed on all community colleges by the State Legislature it will be necessary to make the decision concerning whether a class has sufficient enrollment to be taught at the time of registration. Therefore, it is extremely important that students register on the scheduled registration dates.

TUITION AND FEES

Tuition: Emmet County Residents — $28.50 per credit hour.
Residents of counties other than Emmet — $32.50 per credit hour.

Registration Fee: Two Dollars ($2.00) is charged per credit hour or partial credit hour.

FINANCIAL AID

There are several kinds of Financial Aid for which a college student may apply. Pell Grants and Michigan Guaranteed Student Loans provide a majority of the financial aid funds for our students at the present time. More information and applications for these programs are available from the Office of Financial Aid at North Central Michigan College. Application materials for Veteran's benefits are available from the Dean of Students Office on campus. Students must enroll for at least six credit hours in order to be eligible for consideration for Financial Aid.

TCE plume expands

High water levels have caused concentrations of TCE (tricloroethylene) and PCE (perchloroethylene) to spread rapidly in the groundwater beneath Charlevoix.

State geologist T. Eftaxiadis said the water levels have leached the contamination out of the soil, broadening the areas effected.

Eftaxiadis reported that recent tests show the concentration of TCE in a widening plume of groundwater have reached 1,100 parts per billion (ppb), more than 40 times higher than current levels in the city's water supply.

TCE was first discovered in the city drinking water supply in 1981.

A new lake water pumping and treatment plant was constructed to provide contamination-free water to city residents. It is expected to be in operation within the next several weeks.

The source of the TCE contamination is believed to be near the Middle School on Clinton and Grant streets. The broadening plume of TCE is approaching the city municipal well located at the Lake Michigan beach. The new lake water plant is expected to be in operation before the chemical reaches the well in the high concentrations spreading out from the Middle School site.

PCE has also been detected at several monitoring wells in Charlevoix. As yet it has not reached the municipal well.

Eftaxiadis said the high water levels, however, have leached PCE from the soil under the former Art's Dry Cleaners (now Godwin Pottery Studio) on Antrim and Grant streets. Levels at the site have risen from 20 ppb to 96 ppb.

The soil under the building is between 110,000 ppb and 460,000 ppb, he added. "It is my opinion that these levels in the soil above an unprotected aquifer should be dealt with before they get to ground water," Eftaxiadis said.

Downtown post office approved

The U.S. Postal Service has selected a site in downtown Charlevoix as the location for the new post office, a postal official reported recently.

Reversing an earlier decision which would have located the post office outside the downtown area, the Postal Service agreed to put the new building at the northeast corner of Hurlbut and State streets on a parcel owned by Oelson Food Stores.

After the Postal Service made its initial decision to put the new post office outside the central core of the city, various citizens formed an ad hoc committee to convince the Postal Service to locate downtown. They identified and proposed several sites to the government. They also lobbied congressmen representing the area.

Tom Aggen, real estate specialist with the Postal Service in Chicago, said the city and other governmental units had been notified of the site decision. The Postal Service will now obtain a survey, soil borings and other preliminary work on the site, he said.

About the only thing that might halt the downtown project would be a discovery that soils on the site are poor or are contaminated by the suspected carcinogen PCE (perchloroethylene or perc), a dry cleaning solvent. The site once housed a dry cleaners.

Bruce MacArthur, one of the group that sought the downtown site, said he was "ecstatic" about the decision. "The post office should be downtown," he said.

Mayor's trip spans globe

by DOUG TRUAX

Ralph McRae decided to celebrate the election last November, win or lose. He figured in either case there would be cause for rejoicing.

So he booked a little flight – around the world.

Circumnavigating the globe at the time Dick Rutan and Jeana Yeager were making their historic flight aboard Voyager, McRae found the going a little more leisurely ... and only a little less adventuresome.

On Nov. 17 McRae headed west from Detroit aboard an American airlines jet. Seven weeks later he was back in Michigan having traveled in 12 countries, boarded 13 different planes and logged some 50 hours in the air.

Like any self-respecting tourist, McRae also came back with a bag full of photos – 888 to be exact – so if he invites you over for a quick slide show you might want to remember that sick aunt in Peroria.

But in most respects, McRae decided on a course quite different from the average tourist. Rather than joining a group tour or following a prescribed itinerary, McRae charted most of his own path, choosing his hotels only after he had arrived at an airport and seeking out local people and experiences wherever he could.

Which may explain why the new mayor ended up going to six wedding or engagement ceremonies and arriving home with a long list of pen pals.

"When you are traveling alone, you have to meet people," the octagenarian said.

In addition to his many hours in the air, the Charlevoix resident spent considerable time on trains (2,500 miles), boats, subways, buses, taxis and even a rickshaw. His preferred method of transportation, however, was good old shoe leather.

His first foreign country was Tokyo, Japan which he found clean, crime free and incredibly crowded. "You just can't visualize the crowds on those subway platforms," he said. Nearly 2 million people a day used the subway station in front of the hotel where he stayed, McRae was told.

He chose to bunk down Japanese style – bed on the floor, no chairs, no shoes in the bedroom.

Coping with the maze of subways proved his greatest challenge and at one point he became helplessly lost. A young Japanese man offered to help, but he too became lost.

Japan was a little like the United States in that there were Japanese cars everywhere. But McRae was astounded by the care given to them. "You'd think every damn car was a new one," he said.

While in Japan he took the bullet train to Kyoto and then proceeded to Hong Kong – "an amazing forest of tall buildings."

A side trip took him to Canton, China where he found the living conditions very poor and the streets crowded with bicycles.

He also visited the Portugese colony of Macao, noted for its gambling casinos.

Bangkok, Thailand proved to be McRae's favorite city on the trip. The weather was bright and pleasant and the modern hotel he stayed in luxurious.

He also got a good look at how much of the world lives. After striking up a conversation with a headwaiter, McRae was invited to visit the man's home in which his family of five slept in one room. The sanitary conditions were shocking, he said.

The headwaiter's wife pleaded with McRae to take their 17-year-old

SKI AND SHORE SOLD

Dick Georgi (left) welcomes Chris Varlow and Paul Hagstrum of Vacation Properties Network. The Minnesota-based company last week purchased several offices of Ski and Shore Realty owned by Georgi.

Local business joins corporate network

Ski and Shore real estate offices in Charlevoix, Beaver Island and Boyne City were purchased last week by Vacation Properties Network, a Minnesota-based firm.

VPN also bought Petoskey Properties, Harbor Springs Realty Company and two offices of Dick Smith and Co. of Traverse City. The Ski and Shore deal included two realty offices in Avon and Vail, Colorado.

Dick Georgi, head of the Ski and Shore offices and a founder of the company, will remain as corporate director for strategic planning. Rick Lobenherz of Ski and Shore Charlevoix will also take on an expanded role with the new company, working on marketing of projects and developments throughout northern Michigan.

Greg Smith will continue as manager of the Charlevoix and Beaver Island offices.

Vacation Properties Network opened for business in January 1986 in Minnesota where it operated a "resource center" in Minneapolis and 13 branch offices in Minnesota and western Wisconsin. This month the company is opening additional resource centers in Chicago, Detroit and Milwaukee along with its recent branch office purchases.

Paul Hagstrum, president of VPN, said the company is a full-service real estate firm which specializes in second home and recreational property. The metropolitan resource centers link the vacation properties to the major markets in the nearby big cities. "Real estate has been a sales function, but not a marketing function," Hagstrum said. The concept of the resource centers is designed to correct that, he added.

Resource centers include libraries, seminar rooms and a computer station, he explained. They are designed to give the customer all the necessary information on the property for sale as well as the community in which it is located.

Hagstrum said the computer programs designed for his company under the direction of vice president Chris Varlow set the company apart. Varlow said the computer base includes information on everything from fishing to the price of lift tickets to community calendars. "You can buy a second home from us in a way you can't even buy a primary home in metropolitan areas," he said.

Hagstrum and Varlow met while they were both getting master degrees from Harvard in Business Administration. They also own an apartment syndication and brokerage firm in Minneapolis and a company which publishes real estate journals.

They credit Georgi with being the first in the country to develop the recreational real estate market in different but related areas like Vail and Charlevoix. "I think that was totally visionary," Hagstrum said.

Council debates cable study

by DOUG TRUAX

City council members were divided at Monday night's work session on whether Charlevoix should undertake a feasibility study for starting its own cable system.

City Manager Michael Wiesner said city electrical consultant Roger Westenbroek told him the feasibility study would cost $5,000.

Don Smith of Charlevoix Township told council that he had been asked by Township Supervisor Oscar Stroud to explore the township's joining the cable TV study. When council responded favorably to the idea, Smith reported back to the Charlevoix Township Board meeting in progress an obtained a commitment of $500 toward a study.

Council members differed on whether the city should explore its own cable system. Some said city ownership would bring rates down. Others argued against the city being in competition with private enterprise.

The city is currently served by Northern Cable TV. It has also received a proposal from Bayshore Cablevision. Under deregulation legislation in effect at the beginning of 1987, the rates charged by cable companies are no longer subject to control by local governments.

Council reacted angrily in December when Northern Cable TV announced it would raise rates for the basic cable TV package from $12 per month to $14.95 and add six new channels. Several councilmen argued that an increase in rates and services should be an option and not tied to the basic cable package.

"If we do want to get in it ourselves, this would be the way to go," Councilman Robert Timms said of the feasibility study.

Councilman Earl Mumpa agreed. "People are calling me to say go ahead with the study."

Other council members reported less support. Councilman William Bellows said the constituents that had contacted him were 90 percent against the study. "I haven't had anybody say they want the study done," Councilwoman Shirley Roloff reported.

Roloff added that people were expressing opposition to paying for the extra channels and she approved of the study being done by Westenbroek.

Also addressing council were Connie Martin, general manager of Northern Cable TV, and Benjamin Diesbach, vice president of Taft Broadcasting Co. which owns one-half of the cable company.

"We're trying to do what we think is best for our customers," Diesbach said. "People subscribe to cable to have greater choice. We thought the six channels was a pretty good deal."

Diesbach said Northern Cable's customers show their support every time they pay the bill.

"One reason they pay the bill is that it is a monopoly," Timms countered. "It isn't that you are doing such a good job and offering all these extra channels."

IN OTHER ACTION council:

–Discussed an dancing and entertainment permit for a new restaurant to be run by Great Lakes Fish and Chips in the old Villager Candy store site. Council had previously approved extending the

Matthew picked to head county board

by PEG OHLE

Larry Matthew of Walloon Lake last week was elected chairman of the six-man Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners. He succeeds Lee Moerland of Charlevoix, who no longer serves on the Board.

Oral Sutliff of Boyne City was elected vice-chairman. Other members of the County Board are Don Smith of Charlevoix Township, Ralph Harmon of Boyne Valley Township, Tom Breakey of East Jordan, and Bud Heeres of Charlevoix.

This is the 119th session of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners. Members are elected and serve for two years, but each year's activities are recorded as a separate session.

After taking office last week, Matthew, who has served on the County Board since 1977, outlined some of the matters he believes should be given top priority consideration by the Board in this session. They include the communication system for the Sheriff's Department, reduction of child care costs, increased activity by the Growth Alliance, plans for solid waste disposal, rewriting of the personnel handbook, recovering more of the costs for court appointed attorneys, and using other than a certified Sheriff's deputies for bailiff duty.

The 1987 budget for the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners is $3,705,080. Federal Revenue Sharing funds account for $290,000 of this year's county income, but the 18-year Revenue Sharing program has been discontinued, forcing the county to look for other ways to balance its budget, beginning next year.

The county board operates on a committee basis, with three-man committees being responsible for, and recommending action on, matters pertaining to various county departments.

The Board meets twice a month, once during the daytime hours and once in the evening, to conduct county business.

The entire Board meets as a Committe of the Whole twice a month. At these meetings, matters concerning County operations are discussed but no action taken. (Action by resolution can only be taken at scheduled meetings of the Board).

The "top" committee is the Ways & Means Committee, which oversees financial and budgetary accountability matters of the County Board. This committee is made up of Sutliff, Smith and Matthew.

The Ways & Means Committee works closely with the Income subcommittee, composed of Sutliff, Breakey, and Heeres; and the Expenditure sub-committee (audit), composed of Smith, Harmon, and Matthew.

The Personnel Committee handles all personnel matters in county departments, union matters, insurance, advertising, and printing. That committee is made up of Harmon, Sutliff, and Matthew.

The Judicial-Public Safety Committee is responsible for county involvement in child care, the courts, prosecutor's office, friend of the court, youth diversion, youth activities, law enforcement and emergency services. Members of this committee are Smith, Breakey, and Heeres.

The Building & Grounds Committee oversees the county's physical plant and grounds, as well as the construction code department, soil erosion department, conservation, and the drain commission. Harmon, Smith and Heeres are on this committee.

The Internal Government Committee oversees the operation of county departments: equalization, public transit, clerk, treasurer, cooperative extension, register of deeds, veterans affairs, and planning. Member of this committee are Sutliff, Matthew, and Breakey.

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners has the assistance of several outside boards, commissions, and committees which in some way deal with the welfare of county residents or their everyday lives. Members of the County Board are also assigned liasion posts with their boards, commissions and committees and, as such, are responsible for keeping the County Board informed of what is going on.

Tom Black stands outside the Charlavoix Co-Op.

Charlevoix Co-op put up for sale

The Charlevoix Co-op, one of the town's oldest businesses in continuous operation, is up for sale.

The board of directors of the company, known now as the Charlevoix Co-op True Valoe Hardware, recently decided to seek a new owner for the store located on Stover Road near the corner of Ferry Avenue.

Tom Black, current manager of the store, said he has made an offer to buy the business which was first incorporated in the early thirties and began operations in the early part of the century.

The traditional farm supply business has changed in recent years with the addition of a wide range of goods. Black said the farm supplies have dwindled as fewer farmers remain in business in Charlevoix County.

The cooperative joined the True Value chain of hardwares two and one-half years ago. It carries everything from seed, fertilizer and nursery items to tools, housewares and paint. Also included in the inventory are plumbing, electrical, automotive and pet supplies.

Black said the store is currently offering a store-wide 20 percent discount to stimulate sales and reduce inventory.

The cooperative is governed by over 100 voting stockholders. It currently employs five people.

The County Convention of the Charlevoix County Republican Party will be held on Tuesday, Feb. 23 at 7:30 p.m. in the court. of the Charlevoix County Building.

State Sesquicentennial gets send-off

by PEG OHLE

MICHIGAN SESQUICENTENNIAL

Charlevoix County's commemoration of the 150th anniversary of Michigan's entry into statehood will begin on Monday, January 26, in the County Building.

While Charlevoix County residents are gathered for the kick-off of the state's Sesquicentennial year, Michiganians will be also gathered at the other 82 seats of government throughout the State for similar ceremonies.

Scheduled for noon, the ceremonies will feature ringing of bells (hand bells, school bells, church bells, etc.), unfurling of the Sesquicentennial flag, reading of the official Admission Bill, and reading of the Governor's Proclamation. The Office of the Michigan Sesquicentennial will provide the flag and copies of the Admission Bill and the Governor's Proclamation to each County Board of Commissioners.

The January 26 ceremonies will be only the first in a long series of Sesquicentennial celebrations that will be held throughout the year. All local service organizations, churches, schools, Scout groups, fraternal organizations, business clubs, and, in fact, all who gather together for a cause have been invited to be part of the celebration.

About 40 such representatives attended a meeting last week to report on their organizations' plans for the Sesquicentennial, and to provide ideas for others.

Charlevoix County Sesquicentennial committee chairpersons Larry Sullivan and Susan Van Wieren led a roundtable discussion which elicited many diverse plans for the year. For instance, the Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild is giving every baby born at the hospital during 1987 a hand-knitted red, white, and blue cap and a commemorative birth certificate with the Sesquicentennial logo.

The Charlevoix Woman's Club is giving large Sesquicentennial flags to the three Charlevoix schools, the Library, the Charlevoix Area Hospital, and the Charlevoix City Hall.

Next summer, during the Freedom Festival in East Jordan, members of the Senior Center will record oral interviews with "old timers" of the area.

The Horton Bay parade on July 4 will focus on the Sesquicentennial as a 'theme' for floats and other activities.

The 6th Annual East Jordan PowWow will recall northern Michigan in the day before statehood, leading to the Treaty of 1836 which made statehood possible.

The Charlevoix Venetian Festival will take on a Sesquicentennial air.

And on and on.

The Michigan Sesquicentennial office has packets of celebration ideas and "how to" suggestions for all kinds of commemorative affairs. Its address is c-o Secretary of State, Lansing, Michigan 48918.

One Sesquicentennial program of interest to the general public is certification of pioneer Michigan families. All persons who can provide documented proof that they had an ancestor living in Michigan in 1837 or before will be provided with a special Pioneer Certificate.

Resident of the Month

Loretta Londergan

Congratulations to Loretta Londergan, she has been chosen Petoskey Geriatric Village's Resident of the Month for January. Loretta and her identical twin were born in Toledo, Ohio. She was married to Kenneth Londergan and they were blessed with two daughters, one resides in Petoskey the other in Florida.

Her hobbies included floral arranging and animal grooming. She also won many awards for the gardening and yard work she did around her own home. Her professions included millenary work and nursing.

Loretta has been with the PGV family since July 1985. Now she enjoys bingo, rhythm band and our many social parties. Good job Loretta and we are glad to have you as a part of our family.

Letters to the editor:

Lowlife prey on elderly

Dear Editor:

I want to bring to light a situation which costs a blight on the Charlevoix area.

There is a small group of young male punks, thugs, lazy no-goods who prey on older persons in our area. Through threat and coercion they force these people to buy from them junk - questionable items (generally jewelry).

The actual amount collected is usually 100 times the actual value of the items. Their victims are then hard pressed to make ends meet until their next check is available. Which is precisely the time when these misfits will appear again to exhort more tribute.

The local police are well aware of the facts, not only the operating methods but also know the names of the individuals involved. However, until charges are pressed their hands are tied. This situation is very reminiscent of the protection rackets of the 1930's

I am soliciting any and all assistance-information which will help put these "lowlifes" out of business - permanently.

Please call 547-5675 if you have any information which will help me in this endeavor.

Beta Mu raffle winner picked

Dear Editor:

Sincere thanks to all members of the community who purchased raffle tickets for our friendship country basket. It was won by Linda Ditlow.

Thank you, too, to those who helped make our cookie sale such a success during Charlevoix's Christmas celebration on December 6th, and, especially to Jim and Sue Mabee of the Clothing Company who generously donated space and supplies.

Proceeds from both fund-raisers will be used for community projects.

A FAMILY PORTRAIT
A Meditation of the Twelfth Day of Christmas

The woman was pregnant before the wedding. Shortly after the wedding she and her husband were called to a distant city. When they arrived, they could find no housing for rent. Like the city's poor, they made do with a lean-to shelter open equally to wind, stars and foraging animals. Sometime after the birth of the child, born into the circle of their love, a summons in the night sent them fleeing to a strange land with little more than the clothes they wore. Pursued by soldiers whose leader wanted to kill their son, they crossed the border.

They were in a strange land, the husband had no work; they had no home and they didn't speak the strange language. Time passed. Once again back in their native land, the couple grieved. Their son was missing. Kidnapped or run-a-way, they knew not.

A short time after, the young father died. The woman and child were alone - a single-parent family - each the support of the other. Time passed.

Then one day the woman watched her son captured, tortured, put to death by authorities. Her son died, a condemned criminal in his native land.

You who have a troubling pregnancy, who must move and can't find a buyer for your home, take heart. You who can not find a home to rent or buy, who have hungry children and don't know where your next meal is coming from you who are elderly, forgotten, whose social security won't reach until the end of the month, take heart. You who are fleeing unjust authorities, seeking sanctuary, you whose children are missing, you whose heart has been broken, who are a single parent, take heart.

By God's mercy we who have been enriched by the gift-giving and sharing of this Christmas past and many Christmases past will not let the spirit die. The spirit of Christmas, of unconditional love, will not die with the last ring of the cash register, as the last gift is exchanged or as the last needle falls from the tree or the last string of lights is taken down. By God's mercy, we will remember in February, April and July, the poor, the hungry, the lonely - the people we reached out to in love, in the name of Jesus, in early December.

STONES FOR IBARRA
by Harriet Doerr

"Stones For Ibarra" is a novel beginning when Richard and Sara Everton decide to leave their comfortable California home of many years to live in the primitive, isolated and in many ways ancient Mexican copper mining village of Ibarra.

The Evertons move to Ibarra to reopen the copper mining company that was once owned and operated by Richard's grandfather and had been closed following the old man's death 50 years before. While living in Ibarra, Richard and Sara plan to dwell in the mansion that was also owned by the grandfather.

When the Evertons reach Ibarra they quickly discover what toll time, lack of habitation and weather has taken on both the mining company and the mansion which has become a building of ruin. With perseverence and much hard labor Richard and Sara manage to rejuvenate the mining company and their new home.

Communication with the villagers is at best difficult for the Evertons. Richard is able to manage the language well enough to converse with the men he employs. Sara doesn't prosper as well. Her inability to speak the villager's language paves the way for many long and lonely days. Out of desperation she requests the tutorial services of an old nun, Madre Petra, who patiently attempts to teach Sara the parts of speech necessary to carry on a conversation.

A short while after the Evertons arrive in Ibarra, Richard becomes ill and the couple learn that he has leukemia and will only live for six more years. Ibarra, being as primitive and isolated as it is, has no competent medical personnel available to its villagers. For this reason Sara finds it necessary to travel the distance into the town of Loreto, the only town near Ibarra with a telephone. This telephone is Sara's sole link to the doctors back in California who can advise her about what to do when Richard has one of his many relapses.

Though the story's central focus is on the daily lives of Richard and Sara, interspersed throughout its pages also are tales of the villagers of Ibarra. They are a proud and independent people. Most are Catholic. Although their religious faith is strong, many of the villagers are profoundly superstitious and keep various objects about their homes to ward off any evil spirits that might be passing through.

The reason for the unique title of this book becomes apparent at the end of the story. As Sara is returning home alone from a memorial service held in her husband's honor, she happens upon a small pile of stones at the side of the road with a cross in its middle.

When she inquires from a villager the purpose of these stones, she learns they are there as a monument for some victims of a fatal accident that had occurred many years before. As she is leaving Ibarra she recalls these stones and inwardly hopes that someday the inhabitants of this tiny village that has been the Everton's home for over six years will erect a similar monument in memory of Richard.

Not rah-rah

Clockwise BY BOB CLOCK

The post office is a grand old institution and folks are breathing easier now that postal officials have announced that Charlevoix's new post office will be located downtown.

Well almost.

The site picked is the northeast corner of State and Hurlbut streets where the car wash now stands. I guess you could call it the periphery of downtown.

It won't be quite as convenient as the present location on Mason Street, but at least it will not be 'way out in the southern suburbs as was threatened earlier in the post-office site search.

Of course, folks who live on the North Side and in the valley will have to climb the south hill to get there; but a little exercise never hurt anyone. And for South Siders, it will be even more convenient than the old location in the valley.

It will also be only a short hike for boaters docked at the city marina.

FOR A TIME IT appeared the post office would be located on State Street just north of city hall; but city fathers made a wise decision to use that land for the new public safety building, which is just about completed and is a beautiful addition to the government complex at the corner of State and Mason.

Isn't it odd how things always seem to work out for the best — after all the fuss and feathers?

I still don't know how the architect and contractor were able to come up with a yellow brick which matched the sandstone of the city hall so closely. But both buildings appear to be made of the same material — if you stand across the street and squint.

THE WINTER of 1986-87 is turning into a boon for the construction business — and it appears that work on many projects will continue without letup thanks to the mild, spring-like weather.

The stairway on the south side of Pine River Channel appears to be almost completed and giant strides are being made every day on Edgewater Inn on the north shore of the channel at Round Lake. Hopefully the project will be completed by summer.

SPEAKING OF Edgewater Inn, a former resident was in town for the weekend and expressed dismay at all the new construction — particularly the new condominium hotel. She would like the city to remain just as it was when she was a girl.

Of course, we sympathize. Charlevoix was a lovely spot to grow up a generation ago. But let's not lose sight of the fact that Charlevoix is still a jewel in Michigan's crown — and probably always will be considering its natural attributes.

However it is unrealistic to expect the city to remain stagnant. In the 1980s, Charlevoix does not need a lumber yard on the shore of Round Lake. There is lots of room for lumber yards elsewhere in the vicinity.

We are just fortunate that entrepreneurs are on hand with the necessary funds to help make the transition from commercial to resort.

I certainly am not all that rah-rah for change. But I'd hate to be paying the taxes on a piece of property that is not being used to its full potential.

Chamber Chatter

By JACQUIE MERTA
Executive Director

Yes, it does feel good to be back. It's comfortable and yet it's exciting to anticipate a challenging 1987 program of work. It is very rewarding to work in the Chamber of Commerce structure because Chambers are unique. As a matter of fact many people ask, "what is a Chamber of Commerce?"

It must be understood that a Chamber of Commerce is people. There is a place in the Chamber efforts for all who share the desire to improve the community and the conditions under which business is conducted. It directs the energies of people who believe that a community worth living in is a community worth improving.

A Chamber of Commerce unites business and professional leaders and firms. It enables these people to accomplish collectively what no one of them could do individually. Its strength lies in attracting the greatest number of individuals and firms into membership. As a result, a pool of resources is established from which ideas, energy and finances can be drawn.

A Chamber of Commerce exists to give expression to the businessman's natural instincts to improve the marketplace, and to promote the sale of goods.

Chambers have become "community-type" organizations that use their resources to seek out and respond to all the factors that effect the community. Just as a corporation has a major responsibility to its stockholders, the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce differs only in terminology. Our primary responsibility is to the membership ... and the membership is the Chamber!

Danielle Johnson and Thomas White

Johnson-White

Danielle L. Johnson and Thomas C. White will exchange marriage vows on June 20.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Reid of Charlevoix. She graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1986 and is presently studying business management at Northwestern Michigan College in Traverse City.

Her fiance is the son of Nancy A. White of Traverse City and the late Lysle H. White, Jr. He graduated from Traverse City High School in 1982 and from Faith Tech Bible School in 1984. He owns the Great Lakes Submarine Co. in Traverse City and teaches Bible classes throughout Michigan.

Performing Arts group seeks props for musical

"Oklahoma" one broadway's all-time hit musicals is Charlevoix High School's Performing Arts team's entry into state drama competition this year and the students are in full and intense rehearsal.

The cast of 55 high schools students has high hopes of returning the Class C drama championship to Charlevoix for a fourth year.

But they are seeking help with props to attain an authentic prairie atmosphere. They need: an old-fashioned butter churn, a wagon wheel, four pair of cowboy chaps, eight felt cowboy hats, and 25 calf-length crinoline petticoats.

Anyone who has a line on these items may call Ken Gray at the 7-Eleven store, 547-5824. In addition volunteers are sought to help sew 25 prairie gingham dresses; call Pat Sell evenings, 547-4789.

And the team needs financial help. The students and parents have been raising money all year with bottle drives, cake sales and direct solicitation to help defray costs of royalties, music, transportation, set building and the like. Expenses for the drama championship will total over $2,000. Tax deductible donations may be made to Charlevoix High School Performing Arts.

The tentative competition schedule is: Drama Districts, Jan. 31; Drama Regionals, Feb. 14; State Championships, Feb. 21.

Two public performances of "Oklahoma" in Charlevoix are scheduled for Saturday Feb. 28 and March 1.

Obituaries

Audrey A. Mousseau

Funeral services for Audrey Ann Mousseau, 57, were held Saturday, Jan. 10 at St. Mary's Church. The Rev. Casimir J. Zawacki officiated. Interment was in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Mrs. Mousseau died Thursday, Jan. 7, at her Marion Township home.

Charlevoix wrestlers fall to Gaylord, Rogers City

The Charlevoix Rayder wrestlers, back in action following the holidays, dropped matches on Thursday to Gaylord and Rogers City, the first by a 34-32 score and the second by a 45-21 margin.

Toby Young, in the 98-pound class, was named the wrestler of the week, pinning both this opponents in less than 2 minutes despite the fact that this was his first meet after recovering from an injury, Coach Greg Bryan said.

The team was a bit sluggish after returning from the holiday break, unlike their opponents who had participated in tournaments prior to Thursday's meets, Bryan added.

The results of the Gaylord meet follow (Charlevoix wrestlers listed first):

98-pounds: Young pinned M. Lehman in 1:51. 105: T. Rau of Gaylord won by forfeit. 112: Scott Novotny lost a 4-0 decision to M. Lehman. 119: Brian Livingston was pinned in :39 by S. Freeman. 126: D. Walker of Gaylord won by forfeit. 132: Shann Bier pinned T. Dutcher in 3:39. 138: Jason Whitley lost a 13-5 decision to B. Powell. 145: Jamie Montieth lost a 10-2 decision to J. Rau. 155: Steve Hopkins lost by forfeit to W. McHugh. 167: Steve Mellos pinned M. Higgins in 5:50. 185: Jim Tilton won a 4-0 decision over S. Hardin. 198: Derek Dutcher won by a technical pin in 4. over B. Inman. Hvy: Bill Marquardt pinned M. Roundry in 2:36.

In the Rogers City meet the results were as follows: 98: Young pinned M. Hasehhuhn in 1:15. 105: W. Glendein of Rogers City won by forfeit. 112: Novotny won a 7-4 decision over B. Hempel. 119: Livingston won by forfeit. 126: T. Hein of Rogers City won by forfeit. 132: Bier lost a 6-5 decision to M. VanHoesen. 138: Whitley pinned J. Marx in 2:29. 145: Montieth lost a 9-3 decision to S. Repke. 155: Hopkins was pinned in 1:29 by D. Snow. 167: Mellos was pinned in 2:22 by B. LaLonde. 185: Tilton was pinned in 1:23 by J. Saile. 198: Dutcher lost a 4-2 decision to J. Getsinger. Hvy: Marquardt was pinned in 2:23 by J. Schleben.

Charlevoix's next outing will be at Kalkaska with Roscommon Tuesday, Jan. 20.

First State Bank retains league lead

The First State Bank, in first place in the Charlevoix Independent Basketball B league, added another victory to its string with a 65-55 win over Rich's Topside Cafe and Marsh Construction beat Dairy Queen 70-53 as the teams opened the 1987 section of their schedule Wednesday night.

First State Bank took over 11-4 at the quarter and controlled the game, 28-23 at halftime and 46-39 going into the final period.

Bob Sandahl had 19 points, Jack Cross 17 and Ike Boss 12 for the Bankers. Dave Cole scored 17 points and Don Chamberlain 15 points for Topside.

Marsh Construction took a 23-13 lead over the Dairy Queen and increased it to 34-24 at halftime and 48-30 at the end of the third quarter.

Ray LaVoie led the scoring for the victors with 13 points. Kim Markowitz and Jeff Drury had 11 points each. Gene Morrison had 16 points and Steve Leazier 15 for Dairy Queen.

On Wednesday Paul Lindberg, Inc., will meet Marsh Construction and First State Bank will take on Dairy Queen. On Monday it will be Rich's Topside versus Dairy Queen and Paul Lindberg, Inc. versus First State and on Wednesday Marsh Construction versus First State Bank and Topside versus Paul Lindberg.

Frosh down Chiefs

The Charlevoix-Rayder freshmen posted a 71-49 win over Cheboygan in a basketball game played Monday at Cheboygan.

Cheboygan jumped to a 16-14 first period lead before the young Rayders outscored the chiefs 18-7 in the second period to go ahead 32-23 at halftime and retain the lead 51-36 going into the final period.

Scott Miller paced the scoring with 14 points, Pat Elliott and Greg Lewis contributed 12 points each and Jason Corwin added 10 for the victors. John LeClair had 12 for Cheboygan.

Charlevoix will host Harbor Springs on Monday, Jan. 19.

Ski and Shore was initiated in 1969 in Bellaire by Georgi and three partners. The Charlevoix office was the second to open in 1970. Georgi estimates that Ski and Shore has 60 to 70 percent of the market in the Charlevoix area. The Charlevoix office includes eight brokers and 18 salespeople.

"We started the concept of a network of vacation properties," Georgi said. "What they have done is bring a new dimension — the resource center — to the concept.

"This is not just an exchange of dollars. They have hit on something very successful," Georgi said. "I think this may even expand the market."

Depot win streak continues in A league

The Depot of Boyne City continued its winning streak, defeating Dr. Dave's Green Grinders 80-70 in A league action of the Charlevoix independent basketball Thursday night. In other games, Pepsi Cola of Petoskey beat Nanny's 98-79 and Buday NCE posted its second win, 53-51, over Carson Lumber.

Six players were in double figures as the teams returned to the court. The Grinders took a slim 18-15 first period lead but the Depot outscored them 23-19 in the second quarter to take over 38-37 at halftime and increase the advantage to 64-52 going into the final period.

For the Depot, Tony Williams had 16 points, Rob Spencer 15, Tom Beyer 14, Tim Hartwick 11 and Mark Guitar and Jeff Belford 10 points each. Dan McKenzie accounted for 29 of the Grinder's points while Mike Loper and Kraag Lieberman had 12 points each for the losers.

Pepsi Cola of Petoskey led Nanny's 29-7, 50-30, and 70-45 by quarters to win by a wide margin.

Jeff Haas had 25 points, Brian Shorter 22, Mike Schmidt 18 and Mark Long 17 for the victors. Tom Steffen came through with 32 points, Tom Burley 18 and Mike Spencer 13 for Nanny's.

In the Buday victory, the team had to come from behind to post its two-point win after trailing Carson 16-14, 31-29 and 38-27 by quarters.

Randy Holecheck paced the scoring with 19 points and Tex Drenth and Brian Farrell 11 each for Buday. Roger Crain had 12 points and Vince Left 10 for Carson.

On Thursday, Buday will take on Nanny's Dr. Dave's Grinders will clash with Pepsi and Carson Lumber will meet the Depot.

Council considers cable feasibility study liquor license to cover the restaurant.

Attorney David Campbell, representing the restaurant, told council the permit would cover various entertainment and a 15 by 12 foot dance area. "This will not cause any additional traffic," Campbell said.

Several council members disagreed, adding that they were concerned about the demands the restaurant would make on downtown parking. "I just think it's going to cause more congestion," Roloff said.

Action on the matter was deferred to a regular council session.

–Heard a report on the Public Safety Building from architect H. Jack Begrow who said the building was at least 98 percent complete. Council approved the replacement of a ladder to the hose drying area with a staircase. The cost of the replacement will be $1,791, Begrow said, and he agreed to absorb $716 of that cost.

Begrow said the contractors had done a good job on the building and the cost, at $32 a square foot, was a good bargain.

–Reviewed a report presented by John Adams of McNamee, Porter and Seeley concerning an industrial park sewage pretreatment plan. The plan, Adams said, would identify and control chemical discharges produced by area industries. The cost of disposing of the chemicals would be borne by the industries.

Adams also presented a report on the city water lines which concludes that some city lines are not adequate to fight fires. "Your system could not provide flows for 1,000 gallon-a-minute fire protection," Adams said.

Charlevoix should provide 3,500 gallons a minute for three hours, he added. The cost of making all the recommended changes in the water mains would be $1,863,500.

Dale Boss, who operates the petunia watering truck each summer, agreed with Adams' conclusions. Filling the truck at many city fire hydrants was nearly impossible, he said. "There are hydrants there that are for dog purposes only."

Rayders pounded by Cheboygan

by DAVID SALMONSON

The Charlevoix Rayders returned from a nearly three-week Christmas break as cold as a reindeer's nose.

Poor shooting and a lack of rebounds contributed to the Rayder's 72-53 defeat at the hands of Cheboygan Friday.

Coach Dave Smith attributed the sluggish play in part to the long break. But he was quick to point out that the Chiefs were in the same situation.

Charlevoix shot a poor 37 percent (24 of 65) from the field while Cheboygan put in 45 percent (29 of 65).

The Chiefs opened the game with six points before Charlevoix's Scott DeYoung got the Rayders on the board with a free throw. DeYoung added two more and Jim Ciuk followed up a steal for another as the Rayders trailed the Chiefs 12-5 in the early going.

Coach Smith took two timeouts in the first six minutes hoping to settle down the struggling Charlevoix team. At the end of the first quarter the Chiefs were up by 10, 19-9.

Charlevoix fans were cheering loudly and hoping for a comeback early in the second quarter as Dan Drury and Ciuk teamed up for two fast breaks and a quick four points to narrow the margin to 19-13.

Cheboygan coach Craig Taylor quickly called a timeout and the Chiefs regained their composure. By the end of the half the Chiefs were still in control 32-23.

Charlevoix made a run late in the third quarter and drew to within five behind the outside shooting of Owen Phillips.

The Charlevoix assault faded, however, and Cheboygan went on an 18-4 tear that sealed the victory.

Ciuk and Phillips led the Rayder scoring, with 14 points each. DeYoung had nine, Drury eight and Chad DeVries and Joe Miller four each to round out the scoring.

Pete Maybank and Mark McNitt led the Chiefs with 19 points each. Steve Skiera added 15 and center Dan LaHaie had 13.

Coach Smith said be was especially proud of Phillips coming off the bench and playing with such enthusiasm during the second half.

The Rayders are now 2-2 in Michigan-Huron Shores Conference play and 4-2 overall. Gaylord and Cheboygan lead the league with 3-1 records.

Volleyball squad splits openers

The Charlevoix Rayder volleyball team, coached by Brenda Bryan, opened the 1987 season by losing to Cheboygan 3-2 in a series that was decided in the rubber match and defeated Central Lake 3-0 the following night.

On Wednesday the Rayders got off to an excellent start, winning the first two games 15-5 and 15-2 before losing the next two 15-7 and 15-0 to send the match into its fifth game which they lost 16-14.

Coach Bryan said the team let down after winning the first two games, giving Cheboygan a chance to take the lead.

Jennifer Sell was the top setter and server. Sell and Amy Antaya were the top offensive players and Sell and Carla Henry the defensive players.

The JVs lost their games 15-12 and 16-14. Becky Melke was the top server and offensive player with Linda Hoeksema and Melke. Marci Wynkoop led the defensive standouts.

In the non-league game with Central Lake, the Rayders won 15-11, 15-4 and 17-15 with Sell and Jill Taylor the outstanding servers and Taylor the top setter. Amy McKinney lead the offense and Henry and Antaya stood out on defense.

The JVs posted wins of 15-0, 15-6 and 15-6 to take the match with Melke the top server and offensive player and Billie Jean Habel the setter.

Charlevoix will play at Gaylord Wednesday, Jan. 21.

Rayder junior varsity handles Chiefs easily

The Charlevoix Rayder JVs came through with a 59-37 win over the visiting Cheboygan Chiefs Friday night.

Paced by Shawn Putman's 20 points for the game, the young Rayders took a 16-6 first period lead, increased the advantage to 29-16 at halftime and 45-28 going into the final period.

The Rayders had 23 field goals to Cheboygan's 16 and connected on 16 of 28 free throws while collecting 15 personal fouls. The Chiefs scored on five of 11 charity shots and had 22 fouls including three technicals.

Joining Putman in double figures were Dylan Stewart with 13 points and Dave Miller with 12.

Charlevoix will be at Rogers City on Friday and at Traverse City the following Tuesday, Jan. 20.

Wrestlers take 3rd in Invitational

The Charlevoix Rayder wrestling team placed third in the Wyoming Rogers Invitational Tournament held Saturday.

Charlevoix was among eight schools in the tournament. Caledonia placed first with 195 points and Grand Rapids Catholic Central had 143 with Charlevoix in third with 93½ points. Charlevoix was the only Class C team in the meet. The others are in Class B.

"We had an exceptional day. Entering 10 of 13 weight classes, we placed seven wrestlers, four in the finals and three in the consolation finals," Coach Greg Bryan said. "It was especially gratifying to me to take my team back to my old high school and have them wrestle so well," he added. All are big Class B schools and Caledonia is rated among the top teams in the state (Twelve of their wrestlers placed no lower than third in the tournament.). It was a great confidence builder for the team and we now have enough experience to begin to hone our skills and prepare for the height of the season," Bryan said.

The most spectacular match was the finals in the 98-pound class when Toby Young, who was seeded third, beat top seed Scott Lash of Forest Hills Northern in an 8-7 decision at the buzzer. Lash (27-3) and Young (10-1) were tied 7-7 when Young, working from the down position, executed a butterfly set-up escape scoring the winning point. Lash quickly shot for a takedown which Young countered at the buzzer.

"Having Toby back has given the team a great emotional boost," Bryan added. Young has been out since Dec. 7 with an injury.

The tournament results follow:

Young placed first after winning by an 8-7 decision over Lash. He had a 3-win-0 loss record for the tournament.

Jason Whitley (138) placed second with a 2-1 record after losing by an 11-4 decision to Shane Troy of Caledonia.

Jim Tilton (185) second with a 2-1 record after losing to Chris DeBoer of Caledonia by an 11-0 decision.

Derek Dutcher (198), 2nd with a 2-1 record after losing to Scott Grass of Caledonia by an 8-1 decision.

Finishing fourth place with 2-2 records were Shann Bier (132), after losing to Troy Riva by a 9-5 decision; Steve Mellos (167) after losing to Jim McCaggia by an 8-6 decision; and Bill Marquardt (heavyweight), after losing to Stan Zure of Spring Lake by a 5-1 decision.

Others who participated were: Scott Novotny (112) who won one and lost two; Brian Livingston (119) who won one lost two and Jamie Montieth (145) who lost two.

The Rayders will return to competition Tuesday, Jan. 21, when they travel to Kalkaska for a meet with the Blazers and Roscommon. On Thursday, Jan. 23, Charlevoix will host Grayling and Petoskey.

Glee Club to perform at Cheboygan

American's second-oldest college chorus, The University of Michigan Men's Glee Club will take the stage at the Cheboygan Opera House at 8 p.m., Saturday, Jan. 31. for two hours of hymns, humor, classics, nostalgia and college songs.

The Glee Club was invited to northern Michigan by the University of Michigan Alumni Club of Little Traverse. All proceeds from the concert go to the scholarship fund of the Little Traverse U of M Club.

Since its founding in 1859, and particularly in recent years, The University of Michigan Men's Glee Club has traveled extensively in the United States and abroad.

Tickets for the University of Michigan Men's Glee Club concert and further information are available from Chris Liegl at 347-5394 or the Cheboygan Opera House Box Office at 627-5841.

Burns feast planned

Robert Burns, the 18th century Scottish poet who wrote "Auld Lang Syne," is celebrated the world over with ceremonial dinners held in honor of his birthday in January.

A traditional Burns Night feast will be held to benefit the Virginia McCune Community Arts Center on Monday, Jan. 26, at 6:30 p.m. Fiddlers, pipers and poets will perform the works Burns wrote and collected, and an authentic Scottish meal will be served - including a course of The Haggis, Scotland's national dish.

The evening will begin with a complimentary champagne reception in the Art Tree Sales Gallery. Guests will enter the banquet hall as Crooked Tree Arts Council Director Sean Ley plays the Highland Pipes. The Selkirk Grace, written by Robert Burns, will be recited before the first course - smoked salmon mousse Deeside - is served.

Richard and Maggie Kent, who were born and raised near Scotland's capital city of Edinburgh, initiated the Burns Night for northern Michigan when they moved to Charlevoix three years ago. The Kents operate a catering service, powered by Richard's training as a classical chef in culinary schools in Scotland.

In preparing the Burns Night feasts, the Kents combine old world recipes with original creations, all designed to capture the flavor of their Celtic homeland.

Burns Night approximates for Scots what St. Patrick's Day is to the Irish. Born in 1979, Burns immortalized the heart and soul of his countrymen through his original poetry. He is also honored for his work in recording and preserving Scottish folklore and music, much of which had only oral traditions and would have been lost without his efforts.

The passion, humor, earthiness and patriotism of the Scots are revealed in Burns' words and music, which will be performed by northern Michiganians who have their own roots in the Celtic tradition. Bob Clock, storyteller, writer and master of dialect, will read poems selected from the Burns anthology.

Only 70 reservations will be accepted for the Burns Night celebration, and all reservations must be prepaid by Jan. 20. Those attending are invited to wear their plaids and tartans. For information or reservations, contact the arts center at 347-4337. Tickets are $30 per person. Proceeds from the dinner will be used to upgrade lighting in the art gallery.

County construction at new high

by PEG OHLE

The cost of building construction in Charlevoix County reached a new high in 1986, when the Department of Building Inspection issued permits for $15,377,748 worth of work.

The next highest figure was in 1978, when Medusa Cement constructed an addition to its plant at a cost of $6,700,000, bringing that year's county construction costs up to $15,247,635.

The Department of Building Inspection has been in operation since 1975, when county construction costs were $4.8 million. The figures the Department reports cover only what might be called "carpentry work". They do not include electrical work, plumbing, heating, or air conditioning costs, which add greatly to the costs of finished building projects.

Altogether, 548 permits were issued for building projects in 1986. Of these, 173 were for new residences, 151 for additions to or remodeling of residences, 81 for garages, 32 for mobile homes, 16 for new commercial buildings, 36 for additions to or remodeling of commercial buildings, seven for demolitions, 56 for residential storage buildings, seven for commercial storage buildings, and 26 for miscellaneous structures.

In the residence category, permits were issued for 115 new single family residences and apartments and 58 for condominium units. Fifty of the condominium units were built in Charlevoix (30 at the Edgewater Inn and 20 at Foster Boat Works), and eight units were built in Boyne City (The Harborage).

Last year, a total of 55 condominium units were built: 30 at Hemingway Pointe in Eveline Township, 16 at the Harborage, five at the Harbour Club in Charlevoix, and four at Nine Mile Point in Hayes Township.

The City of Charlevoix, with 112 permits for all types of construction work, led political units in the number of building permits issued to residents. The 50 condominium units are partially responsible for this high figure.

McRae returns from world tour

daughter back to the United States.

In Calcutta McRae planned to take the train to Delhi. It turned out to be the most harrowing event of the trip. Through a mixup in tickets, McRae got booked on the slow train which took 31 hours rather than the 18 hours of the faster one. "There were thousands of people milling around the station," McRae said. He managed to keep track of his porter only by the two heavy bags that he carried on his head.

Once on the train things turned worse. A steamy cell-like compartment with an open window was constantly besiged by the crowds which continued to pour on the train looking for space. McRae slept in his clothes in a small berth and partway into the trip started to come down with what he feared might be dysentery.

Nine hundred miles later the train pulled into Agra, home of the Taj Mahal, said by many to be the world's most beautiful building. His health and spirits returned.

Unfortunately he warned against waiting for the planned flight to Delhi and he accepted a ticket on the train instead. This time, however, it was a first-class, three-hour ride. Although he was put up in a fine old British-style hotel, his stay there was clouded somewhat, by the shootings and political battles which were occuring in India.

He did manage to meet a young Russian woman who was leading a tour from Kiev. She reported that as far as she knew 45 people had died in the Chernobyl nuclear accident, although the Russians did not know how many would die eventually.

McRae's tour also included stops in Athens, Istanbul, Cairo and eventually Amsterdam.

In Holland he spent two weeks, including Christmas and New Year's Day, with a former exhange student, Ria Groen-Kroeze, who had stayed with McRae and his late wife Dorothy in Charlevoix. Ria now lives outside Amsterdam and is married to a pilot for KLM Airlines.

McRae was one of only six people invited along when the pilot took a co-pilot up for testing on a 747 jumbo jet. For two hours they flew into and around Schiphol Airport in the Netherlands as the co-pilot guided the huge plane to 12 landings.

McRae and the five other guests, lost in the 232-foot airliner which has a capacity for 447 people and 80 tons of payload, were treated to the upper Royal Class lounge and a pilot's eye view of the take-offs and landings.

For McRae, it was the highlight of the trip.

Now, back in Charlevoix, the mayor is busily occupying himself with city government, sorting through the stacks of pictures and pondering his long list of international correspondents.

After Toyko and Calcutta and Delhi, the summer throngs in Charlevoix may seem just a little less intense this summer for the new mayor.

THE HAPPY APPLE SAYS
"Learn to Earn"

Winter Blues? Come to the Charlevoix Adult Learning Center, VFW Hall, Hwy. 31, Charlevoix, Adults 18 years and older are welcome, free.

Some students may need help with basic reading or math skills while others may need only a government or history class to graduate. In the "adult learning center" setting each student can work on the courses and materials appropriate for them with the help of a teacher.

The program also allows students to progress at their own speed, enabling some to earn their credit in a class even before the semester is over if they are proficient enough in the subject matter.

Free classes offered for high school completion:

Monday	Math	9 -12:30
Tuesday	English	9 -12:30
Wednesday	History	9 -12:30
Thursday	Government	9 -12:30
Friday	Psychology	9 -12:30

Afternoon Fun. Free classes in:

Exercise — Class starts Jan. 19 and meets Mondays and Fridays at 1:00 p.m. Bend — stretch — light aerobics for the beginner and the older person. If you hate to exercise, these are for you!

Crafts — Class meets Wednesday at 1:00 p.m. Projects include: quilting; canvas art; flower arrangements; hoop art and more.

All classes are free — although a small fee will be charged for craft supplies.

Cable company to lower rates, city delays feasibility study

by DOUG TRUAX

Like a pair of poker players squared off in a game of five-card draw, the City of Charlevoix and Northern Cable TV cautiously started playing their cards at Monday's city council meeting.

The city council, upset by Northern Cable TV's plans to raise rates in May, has been threatening to go into the cable TV business itself. They have also entertained a proposal from Bayshore Cablevision to enter the Charlevoix market which is currently controlled solely by Northern Cable TV.

On Monday's agenda a proposal for a $5,000 feasibility study ($5,500 if Charlevoix Township was included) for a city-owned cable system from city electrical consultant Roger Westenbroek.

Before the subject was raised, however, Connie Martin, general manager of Northern Cable TV, told council her company would like to present a revised plan, with reduced rates, to council at its next meeting. She sweetened the pot a little more by noting that the company would also offer further reductions for senior citizens (Northern Cable currently allows seniors a $1 reduction in the basic rate).

Council responded by postponing any action on the feasibility study until the working session next week. They agreed to study it in conjunction with the new proposal from Northern Cable TV and the pending proposal from Bayshore Cablevision.

"The whole idea in the first place was to keep from getting gouged," Councilman Robert Timms said.

Timms was among those who strenously objected to Northern Cable's earlier announcement that it would raise basic rates from $12 to $14.95 per month while adding six new channels to the basic package.

Timms and other council members argued that the basic rate should be left alone and any additional channels offered as an option.

Nortern Cable announced the rates in conjunction with a request to place two additional satellite receiving dishes at the city-owned property at Mt. McSauba.

Although council has no control over rates since deregulation took effect at the beginning of January, it denied the satellite dish site to Northern Cable, sought competitive bids and began to consider installing a city-owned system.

Martin said Tuesday she would not reveal the change in the cost of the basic package until next Monday's council meeting. She noted that it will be more than the current $12 and less than the $14.95 proposed earlier.

North Point future undecided

by DOUG TRUAX

The future of a large, undeveloped section of North Point remains an open question, but a developer and conservationists both predict action will taken on the property before this spring.

The 30-acre North Point site in Charlevoix Township was proposed for a 120-unit condominium development in December 1985 by developer Jeff DeGayner. DeGayner's request to rezone the property from single family to multifamily received stiff opposition from neighbors and environmentalists.

The issue came to a halt after DeGayner and Richard Turner, a business partner who owned the land, were killed in an airplane crash near Boyne Falls at the end of March.

Richard Turner's son, Jack, is handling the sale of the land for his mother. He said Lester Turner (no relation), an attorney from Harbor Springs and East Lansing, has been paying on an option to purchase the North Point property. Renewal of that option was in process, Jack Turner said.

Lester Turner hopes to purchase the land by spring and has begun development plans. He said it was too early to know whether the development would involve condominiums or single family homes, but he expected to firm up the plans by the middle of March.

Turner is also the developer of the 200 Centre project in Petoskey.

At the same time, environmentalists continue to press for the eventual preservation of the property, noting that it is a unique parcel located adjacent to the Mt. McSauba Recreation Area and contains sensitive and valuable sand dunes.

At last! Ski hill opens for season

by DOUG TRUAX

After a reluctant start, winter in Charlevoix got a boost this week.

The ski guns at Mt. McSauba were turned on Thursday at noon and were run around the clock.

By Monday evening, Recreation Director Dwight "Ike" Boss had opened the hill to skiing and over 170 skiers took their first try at the hill this year.

Boss said the four snow makers produced enough of the white stuff to cover the hill with one foot of manmade snow. The back hill will remain closed until there is four to six inches of natural snow to cover the bottom of the run which cannot be reached by the snow-making equipment.

The ski hill operators began making this season's snow before Christmas but the unusal warm spell caused them to stop before the hill could be opened.

Boss said 25 degree or lower temperatures were needed to make snow at Mt. McSauba and the coldest it had been from a week before Christmas until last Thursday was 31. Temperatures at the Lake Michigan ski hill were often warmer than farther inland, he added.

And this is not the latest the hill has opened for skiing, Boss said. In 1983 Mt. McSauba didn't open until Jan. 26, although the operation had no ski guns or groomer at the time.

The snow machines will also be put into operation making a base for an ice rink to the west of the ski lodge, Boss said. The 125 x 75-foot area may be ready for skaters by the weekend, if the weather cooperates.

The new East Park ice rink will also be attempted again now that the temperatures have dropped.

Mt. McSauba is open from 5 to 9 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday; 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday; and noon to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

Rates are 3.50 a day, or $40 a person and $95 a family for the season.

Boss believes the kids will get their money's worth on the season passes this year, even with the late start. "Last year we started on Dec. 1 and the kids quit by the Feb. 1," he said. "Ten weeks is about it for them."

Looking a little like a piece of moon landing equipment, one of tha snow guns at Mt. McSauba makes snow on a weekend night in preparation for the opening of the ski hill on Mondey.

The large snow owl that had been seen around Charlevoix for the last few weeks died suddenly Friday after landing in the sideyard of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Knudtson.

The bird had been spotted at a variety of locations in the last two weeks including the First Baptist Church and Kit Carson Lumber on M-66.

The Knudtson family first noticed the owl on Thursday night when their daughter went next door and saw it perched over the entranceway of the neighbor's home.

The next morning the owl was gone but reappeared about 10:30 a.m. on the front steps. It stayed around the front and side yards, Jerry reported, and he called the Department of Natural Resources office in Petoskey, the animal control office and a veterinarian for help.

He was unable to locate anyone who could assist and around 8 p.m. the owl was lying on its stomach.

Knudston then got in contact with DNR Conservation Officer Roger Bush who came to the house only to find the owl had died.

Bush said the bird was a male and a beautiful specimen of the owls that summer in the Artic and winter as far south as Michigan.

Bush said the bird may be preserved and used in school wildlife studies.

Charlevoix's settlement postdates state's formation 150 years ago

by PEG OHLE

When Michigan became a state 150 years ago next week, on January 26, 1837, there was no Charlevoix County, or Emmet County, or Antrim County.

In fact, all of the northern part of the lower peninsula was lumped together under the name "Township of Michilmackinac". This included all of the region north of Saginaw Bay between Lake Michigan and Lake Huron and north of the present counties of Aranac, Gladwin, Isabella, Montcalm, and Oceana, a total of 14,220 square miles in all.

However, shortly thereafter, in 1840, the State of Michigan "set off", or drew, the boundary lines for counties that had previously been part of the Township of Michilmackinac. Having been "set off", the counties waited for enough settlers to make political organization possible.

Many of the new counties originally bore Indian names. Charlevoix was Keskkauko County until 1843, when it was renamed to honor Pierre Francois-Xavier de Charlevoix, who had travelled the Great Lakes area in the early eighteenth century as a priest and explorer looking for the Pacific Ocean.

While local lore would have it that Father Charlevoix actually set foot in Charlevoix and spent some time here, there is no documented evidence to verify that fact. The only evidence of any kind was written by Father Charlevoix himself in his report, "Journal of a Voyage to North America", in which he wrote of stopping off at an island south of what might have been the present city of Charlevoix.

It was not until 1869, 29 years after being "set off" that Charlevoix was organized as a county. Presumably by then there were enough people in the area to make organization of county government possible. But, there is little record of what was happening here in the days before Michigan became a state, and even before Charlevoix became a county.

In 1983, the Greensky Hill United Methodist Church in Hayes Township celebrated what they called their "150th year of Christian service". This would indicate that the Protestant Mission Congregation founded by Peter Greensky, a young Chippewa, dates back to 1833. However, the Historical Society of Michigan plaque proclaiming the Greensky Hill Mission an Historic Site puts the date "in the 40's". Be that as it may, there is little question that the 27 Indian families Peter Greensky brought with him from the Mission Peninsula near Traverse City were among the earliest settlers in this area.

In the early 1840's, several families of commercial fishermen settled at the mouth of the Pine River in Charlevoix. Fishing was apparently good in the waters of Lake Michigan, especially in the areas surrounding what is now known as the Beaver Islands.

Then, in 1847, James Jesse Strang decided that Big Beaver Island would be a good place to establish a Mormon colony. The colony thrived. It attained a population of about 2,500 and Strang was elected King of the Kingdom of St. James and sent

New owner hopes to revive downtown's Market Mall

Charlevoix's Market Mall, located in the 400 block of Bridge Street, recently got a new owner and will soon be having a new look.

Mike Barnard purchased the building December 15 and has already performed major renovations on some of the office space upstairs.

Barnard also owns Nanny's Old Place restaurant and the Lake Michigan Heights Mobile Home Park and is a sales associate for Vacation Properties Network (formerly Ski and Shore).

He is optimistic about the prospects for the 2,400 square foot mall, which has retail space on the first floor and office space above.

"The building has one of the highest potentials for being improved in the downtown area," Barnard says.

The building has 25 potential retail and office spaces, 18 of which are rented now. Barnard has already lined up two new customers, a candy store franchise and Grand Bay Marine, which will have an outlet for its S. Bridge Street boat sales and brokerage business.

And he recently rented and renovated a 1,000 square foot office space on the second floor to accommodate Petro-Resource Services, Inc. owned by Chris Georgi.

Barnard says his plan is to upgrade the building so that it will attract and hold good tenants. "The biggest thing now is to apply some time and attention to it, to take the units that are not occupied and rebuild them so we have nice facilities that will rent."

He plans to make the ground level areas an open air mall that will attract more of the foot traffic on Bridge Street in the summers. To accomplish that he will take out the front doors and surrounding brickwork.

There will also be auto and boat shows and other attractions. The mall will also be given a brighter, more contemporary look, he says, replacing the current earth tones and redwood trim.

The high turnover of business in the mall was the result of unhealthy businesses and not enought foot traffic, Barnard concludes. "The obligation of the landlord is to do the things to create the foot traffic that in turn creates business for the retail shops."

He believes the potential for the mall is good. "As the traffic increases on the sidewalk, we'll have a sidestreet effect."

Barnard also plans to redo the back end of the building which has an entrance to Mason Street. He has not made a firm decision yet, but believes he may treat that as a separate area for service and office type businesses. The parking lot on Mason would then be dedicated to those businesses.

Barnard says the mall, which at one time housed Brown Motors, "is one of the best built buildings I have ever worked on. Unfortunately, the motif was built in the '70s and doesn't do justice to today."

The shops in the retail space will consist of a mix of year-round and seasonal businesses, with the emphasis placed on the summer months, Barnard says.

Although he is operating the business under the name, "Bridge Street Centre," it will continue to be called the Market Mall for now.

Mika Barnard looks over plans for the Market Mall.

County treasurer retires after 21½ years

by PEG OHLE

Anah H. Potter, who has served as Charlevoix County treasurer for 21½ years, will retire Mareb 1.

Mrs. Potter last week advised the County Board of Commmissioners of her decision, saying that her husband, Eldon, was also retiring from his job as a Charlevoix school bus driver, and they wanted to be able to come and go as they pleased.

Mrs. Potter went to work in the treasurer's office in 1962 and was appointed to fill the unexpired term of then treasurer Lillis M. Flanders in 1965. In 1984, Mrs. Potter was reelected to a four-year term. The remainder of her term will be filled by appointment made by a committee consisting of County Prosecutor Kraag Lieberman, Probate Judge John Murphy, and County Clerk Jane Brannon.

Anah Pottar

As of last Friday, there were two announced candidates for the position: the treasurer's chief deputy, Joan Balch, and County Commissioner Oral Sutliff.

Mrs. Balch, 39, has been employed in the treasurer's office for 19 years and before that worked for Freedman Artcraft. The former Joan Louiselle graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1965. She and Jerry Balch were married in 1966 and they have two children, Kevin, nine, and Karl, 18.

Sutliff, 50, lives in Boyne City and is a 1955 graduate of Boyne City High School. His employment includes clerk for the County Road Commission, teller for the Northwestern State Bank, and bookkeeper for the Carey Oil Company. Presently, he operates his own accounting business, drives a bus for the Boyne City schools, and serves as guardian or conservator for several elderly and-or handicapped persons. Sutliff has been on the Charlevoix County Board for 10 years and is a former member of the Boyne City School Board and the old Twin Valley School Board.

Sutliff and the former Eleanor Myers were married in 1963. They have two college-age children. Sheri Fitzpatrick is a senior at Northern Michigan University and Scott is a sopbomore at Michigan State University.

Others interested in applying for the treasurer's position should contact one of the above-mentioned committee members.

Septic system additives ineffective

Advertising for various types of products often seem too good to be true. And in the case of septic tank additives, they often are, according to the District Health Department No. 3.

"Our Environmental Health Division has reviewed a number of advertisements for septic tank additives and contracted the maufactures to substantiate claims of improved tank operation and function," the Health Department's Dean Mikulski, director of environmental health, said.

"The manufacturers that responded could not provide reliable independent test data supporting advertising statements. In fact, submitted data tends to bear out our concerns."

The common opinion by experts is that septic tanks should be allowed to function naturally without adding compounds. Some compounds have potential for disturbing natural action, upseting the tank and dischanrging solids into the absorption system.

"Your septic system will function naturally with the addition of normal household waste only. Bacteria are already present in the tank and will take care of the more than 50 percent of organic materials placed into the tank without chemical or compound addition," according to Mikulski.

Non-digestible solids will accumulate in the tank and wash out into the drainfield if not removed by periodic pumping of the tank every one to three years. If suspended solids reach the drainfield, they can clog soil pores and prevent water from percolating through.

Additivies claiming to "clean the tank" and "eliminate the need for pumping" can dissolve these solids and suspend them. This causes them to settle in the drainfield thus interfering with drainfield performances.

From an economic viewpoint, septic tank additives can cost more each year than the cost of a periodic septic tank pump out which ranges from $50-$75. "Remember, too, that a properly designed and maintained system will give years of service without use of additives," Mikulski said.

Mikulski recommends the following:

- Don't add anything but normal household wastewater to your septic system;
- Don't add lye or a caustic material that could harm bacteria that break down sewage;
- Avoid disposing of items that cannot readily decompose such as coffee grounds, bones, disposable diapers, plastics.

Remember, too, that you can call your local health department for information if your system is in need of repair or if you have questions concerning septic tank operation and maintenance.

School Board approves new policy for handling communicable diseases

by FRAN MARTIN

Two new policies relating to communicable diseases and to the administration of non-prescription medications to students were approved by the Charlevoix Board of Education at its regular meeting Monday night.

The policy on communicable diseases deals with all possible diseases and outlines the guidelines for dealing with them.

In the cases of non-prescription medications, the policy advises that a written order from the attending physician is necessary and should accompany a written request from the parent-guardian. The school nurse will then administer the medication.

In other action, the board:

- Approved dual enrollment by two seniors, Elena O'Brien and Susan Brannon, as recommended by David Smith, high school principal. They will attend classes at North Central Michigan College in conjunction with their classes at the high school.
- Accepted with regret the resignation of Eldon Potter, a bus driver with the school district or 12 years, and thanked him for a job well done. The resignation is effective Feb. 1.
- Approved a request by Marty Joy on behalf of the junior class to stage the annual Junior Prom at Schuss Mountain.
- Set the time and date of the 1987 commencement exercises for 2 p.m. Sunday, June 7.
- Heard from Smith that he is interviewing candidates for the position of Spanish teacher to asssume the position when the present teacher, Ted Miller, leaves in April to spend a year at a Japanese university. Miller also teaches a class in English.
- Heard Vincent Olach, business manager, advise that OSHA representatives would be inspecting the school to identify all hazardous materials in use including cleaning materials amonia, propane gas and the like. These materials will then be identified with labels.
- Discussed the position of a computer aide for the elementary school and asked that a job description be written for the position.
- Set Feb. 2 as the date of the next meeting of the school board.

Bobby socks and thin ties

'Round Town

EDITH GILBERT

RETIREMENT ROMANCE! The Charlevoix graduation class of 1921 will be pleased to learn that two of their members have found happiness the second time around. L. Eberdean Livingston of Kalamazoo, daughter of George and Laura LaBiance, was married Jan. 3 this year to Devere Bird, whose parents owned the "Bird's Nest" on Antrim Street.

L. Eberdean recently retired from a nursing career and Devere is a retired Lafayette Life Underwriter. The Birds plan to travel, dividing their time between his place in Adrian, her place in Kalamazoo and their place in Brooksville, Florida. Not all bad, that.

SPEAKING OF GRADUATING classes, the class of '36 will be interested to know that Madlyn and Bob Heise visited Australia last fall, where they frolicked with the koala bears and were entertained by the native kangaroos, penguins and emus (a bird that doesn't fly, in case you forgot).

It was the second visit down under for Bob, who had trained there, when he was in the 32nd U.S. Army Division in world War II. History buffs will be interested to know that he later became a member of the fabled Merrill's Marauders. This was the first ground combat force to meet the enemy in "the Good War" on the continent of Asia. (In May 1944, this group seized an airfield at Muitkyina, an objective of great tactical importance in the Burma campaign, and for which they received a Presidential Citation.)

Of course, Madlyn wore her Charlevoix T-shirt on her trip and was asked by some of her traveling companions if she was from Canada. It seems there's an "enchanted land of Charlevoix" located on Highway 138, which begins at the U.S. border, crosses Quebec and terminates at Havre-Saint-Pierre.

The Charlevoix Canadians compared notes with the Charlevoix Americans and found there was much in common. Gorgeous scenery, great restaurants, recreational facilites, scenic accomodations, fine artist's galleries and shops.

The Heises are very tempted to visit this Charlevoix of Canada and so am I. How about our Chamber of Commerce promoting an exchange trip, come fall? It sure beats a 21-hour flight to Australia in my book.

ONE OF MY SUMMER friends on Michigan Avenue, Clare Steinert Thorne, who recently celebrated her 80th birthday, is now taking up tennis. We all know Clare to be an avid golfer, and a fine one at that. "But why tennis?" she was asked. "Because I need a winter sport," she answered blithely. The fact that her new husband is a threat at the net has nothing to do with it?

THOSE OF US who live here year around are often asked, "What do you do in Charlevoix in the winter?" In fact, I'm guilty of having asked that same question way back when I was a summer person myself.

So can you guess what two couples put on a chic, black tie, champagne dinner for 40, with lobster thermidor on the menu, the week after New Year's? The whimsical centerpiece was a real lobster sporting a black tie. You better believe the finest crystal, china and silver was put into service for this lively, post New Year's party. What an elegant way to start 1987.

IF LOBSTER THERMIDOR is too rich for your palate, you might be interested in the fun evening planned by Kappa Sigma sorority. The theme is "Lost in the Fifties" and the committee wishes you'd wear the bobby sock, full skirts and narrow ties of the period. Refreshments will be served and the music starts at 7 p.m. for dancing.

The date is Saturday, Jan. 31. The price per couple is only $12, so there's no reason not to carpool with friends. Limited tickets are only available through sorority members.

Pre-paid college

Clockwise

BY BOB CLOCK

Michigan's new pre-paid college tuition program is off and running, and apparently will be ready for implementation after the Internal Revenue Service decides the tax status of investment income.

Which is all well and good. College and university tuitions have reached the point where higher education is beyond the reach of the average family.

Under the pre-paid tuition plan, a family invests a chunk of capital every time a baby is born and the money is supposed to generate enough income by the time the offspring reaches 18 to send him or her to college for four years.

The initial figure bandied about when the plan was before the state Legislature last year was $2,500 — which is quite a hefty piece of change for most young families. But a few might be able to come up with it, possibly with the help of doting grandparents.

What bothers me is that I cannot see how $2,500 — invested at today's interest rates — is going to grow to anywhere near the cost of a college education 18 yeara hence. And I am afraid that the state is going to have to make up the deficit. After all, the state is guaranteeing four years of higher education, isn't it?

You bet it is.

Of course, the shortfall is going to be made up with tax dollars from all of us, even those who are struggling to put their own kids through college on their own pay-as-you-go plan.

Let's assume that the IRS agrees not to skim off its share of interest generated by the investment. Let's also assume that the money is invested in government secured money markets at a rate of six percent. Some short-term investments are not doing that well today, but they maybounce back.

The first year, 1987, the original $2,500 would draw $200 interest, for an investment of $2,700. The second year, the $2,700 would generate $216, for a capital investment of $2,916. The third year, the $2,916 would draw $233, for a grand total of $3,149.

So so on for 18 years.

By 2004, the year junior is ready to go to college he should have $9,249 in his college account.

Beautiful.

If tuition at two of Michigan's foremost universities — the University of Michigan and Michigan State University — were to remain frozen for the next 18 years, junior would have enough money to pay his way through either university for four years. The latest available figure for the University of Michigan is $2,340 a year ($9,360 for four years) and Michigan State University $2,190 a year ($8,760 for four years).

(These figures, of course, do not included such incidentals as room and board, books, and other living expenses which would have to come out of dad's pocket and junior's savings from lawn cutting and other summer employment.

But if tuition continues to rise — and six percent is not an unreasonable growth rate based on past performance — then junior's college kitty would scarcely cover one year's tuition. The balance would have to come from other state revenue, because junior, after all, has been guaranteed four years of college.

Of course it is possible that the state treasurer will be able to place the money in investments drawing more than six percent interest. It is also possible that tuition will climb at a rate somewhat less than six percent per year.

But the scheme appears fraught with dangers — not for students and parents but for those of us who will be expected to make up what could be a sizeable shortfall a few years down the line unless the initial ante is increased drastically.

Letters to the editor:

Families of Razal crew ask for prosecution of Yugoslavian captain

The families of the three fishermen who died on Lake Michigan when their fishing boat was hit by a Yugoslavian freighter are asking for justice for the crew by distributing buttons to relatives, friends, neighbors, fishermen, etc. to support us in our efforts to get criminal charges against Captain Seaman Franko and the American pilot Kenneth Gumtow.

On Nov. 20, 1986 in 90th District Court in Charlevoix, Judge Harvey C. Varnum dismissed the criminal charges against the captain because be was not read his rights when he gave testimony to the Coast Guard.

The Coast Guard was conducting it's investigation of marine casualites and accidents involving commercial vehicles and not criminal charges. They were not requried to read Captain Franko his miranda rights.

The attorneys for the families (Jacques Admirality Law Firm) in their civil suit took a 2½ hour video deposition from the captain shortly after the accident. He spoke very good English and waived his rights to an interpreter, but when he appeared before Judge Harvey C. Varnum in Charlevoix, he did not speak English.

He utilized court reporters, used an interpreter and acted like a dumb galley boy. He fooled the judge and we feel there was a travesty of justice.

The judge accorded a certain dimension of guarantee he would not have awarded to an American citizen. The Yugoslavian captain spoke over TV right after the hearing regarding the decision. When asked how he felt about the decision that the charges against him had been dismissed his reply was, "I didn't think it was gonna be this easy in America."

We families as American were very sad. Our victims rights were ignored. The deposition the Jacques Admirality Law Firm had was sufficent evidence to convict him.

We are hoping for negligent charges in the upcoming hearing. We ask you as Americans and our friends to support us.

When the final hearings and such are over, we will release all the facts to the public, showing that the freighter ran over the Razal crew without any warning on a clear, calm day Aug. 20, 1986.

We the families cannot put this accident to rest or accept what happened until justice is done. We want them to know its not easy in America to commit murder. We, the victims have rights also.

Community Food Pantry thanks those who shared

Open Letter to the People of the Charlevoix Area:

You did it again! You joined hands and hearts to share your bounty with others less fortunate in our community at Christmas time. One hundred fifty-five households, made up of 413 people, 155 of whom were children, were given the components of a Christmas dinner, as well as extra staples and canned goods and gifts for the children. In addition, 18 people who needed a little TLC but no food were given gifts.

Community cooperation and generosity were overwhelming. Literally thousands of items of food and over 150 gifts, including toys, scarves, caps and mittens, were donated. Karl's Pastry shop donated 150 loaves of bread; the Rainbow Shoppe donated 1,001 pounds of roasting chickens, with other organizations and individuals contributing 18 turkeys.

In addition $2,401.76 was donated by individuals and organizations to purchase food and gifts needed to complete the "baskets" and to pay for operational costs.

One hundred sixty-one people donated many hundreds of hours of time ranging from one or two hours to several full working days.

We want to express our gratitude to the following organizations in addition, Karl's and the Rainbow Shoppe for their generous gifts: Welcome Wagon, Knights of Columbus, Greensky Methodist Women's Group, American Legion Auxiliary, VFW Auxiliary, Barnard Grange, American Legion, Baptist Church, Barnard Women's Club, Elementary School Staff, Noon Lions Club, Evening Lions Club, Ironton Sunday School, Charlevoix Middle School students and staff, Congregational Women's Fellowship, United Methodist Women, Barnard Methodist Women's Group, and all the churches of Charlevoix through their individual members' contribution.

Because hundreds of people, some of whom could not be identified gave time, money and material items, it is impossible to name each of them personally. To all, we just say a heartfelt "thank you."

In every way - the number of people served and serving; material items, money and time contributed; the cheerful and cooperative spirit shown even when "glitches" showed up - this year's effort surpassed every previous year.

Thanks again to everyone who contributed in any way to this very rewarding part of our Charlevoix Christmas celebration.

Weathervane pictures appreciated

Dear Editor:

Sincere thanks to all the wonderful people who responded to our ad in the Courier a few weeks ago asking for any information or pictures on how the Weathervane Restaurant used to be.

As the interesting stories pour in and the bits and pieces are slowly put together, we have found ourselves falling in love, like so many of your readers have, with this grand landmark of Earl Young.

Isn't it great this charming building is right downtown in the middle of our "Charlevoix the Beatuiful" for all to enjoy architecturally. Thanks again everyone, and if we've missed a story or two we'd be happy to listen.

Know your Chamber

By JACQUIE MERTA
Executive Director

IN AN EFFORT to provide a more comprehensive calendar of events, the Chamber is asking that all clubs, organizations, churches, and other groups keep us informed of their activities. A "Community Calendar" is published monthly in the Chamber newsletter and we want to identify meetings and gatherings and other events open to the general public as soon as dates are announced.

Jackie Krutsch, office manager at the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, will keep a current log of all events reported. In addition to a single listing of all events, the calendar will also help avoid scheduling major events at the same time. To be useful, however, the events calendar must have input.

If you are a member of an organization that regularly schedules events of public interest, call the Chamber now at 547-2101 regardless of when the event is planned.

IT IS A GENERAL PRACTICE to meter parking spaces in a downtown central business district to have those spaces available on a short-term basis serving potential customers. It has been Charlevoix's practice to meter Bridge Street during the "in-season" only.

Everyone has customers. They might go into your place of business to buy an article of clothing, eat a meal, pay a bill or seek your professional services. Whatever the circumstances, customers need parking for access to your business. Presently there are many employees parking on Bridge Street and adjoining main streets, leaving very few spaces available for customers.

If you work downtown, please park OFF the main business streets. Practice the Golden Rule and leave parking spaces available for your customers and your neighbors too!

Beacons of Blessing

A devotional column prepared
by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association

by Philip G. Schairbaum
First Congregational Church

In this Super Bowl season, this football story may stir some memories, even as it carries a special message. It's about Bart Starr, renowned quarterback for the Green Bay Packers for many years.

When his oldest son, Bart Jr., was in school his father had a little incentive scheme. For every perfect paper Bart, Jr., brought home from school his dad gave him 10 cents.

After a particularly rough game against St. Louis in which Bart Starr Sr., felt he had performed poorly, he came home weary and battered after a long plane ride. But he couldn't help feeling better when he went to his bedroom. There attached to his pillow, was a note: "Dear Dad," it said, "I thought you played a great game. Love, Bart" And taped to the note was not one but two dimes!

We all need encouragement like that. Maybe 1986 was a rough year. Maybe you're feeling the need for someone to put his hand on your shoulder and make you feel better. Christ seeks to offer that kind of encouragement to you.

As we move ahead in this new year which God has given, seeking release from all those forces that would defeat us, let us first and foremost remember Christ. Let us remember that he comes to all weary souls, to all troubled hearts, to all who need encouragement along life's way.

Let us remember that he comes to bring release, to heal the brokenhearted and to proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord. Let us remember the spirited words of Isaiah, who, in looking forward to the coming of Christ, put forth a challenge appropriate for our age. "Arise and shine, for your light has come!"

Obituaries

Raymond R. Cunningham

Funeral services for Raymond R. Cunningham, 73, of Marion Township were held Saturday, Jan. 17, at the Community Reformed Church. The Rev. Larry Grootera officiated. Interment was in the Barnard Cemetery.

Mr. Cunningham died Wednesday, Jan. 14, at his Marion Township home.

Born in Marion Township April 25, 1914, Mr. Cunningham was married to the former Jennie M. Potter in Detroit Sept. 4, 1943. They lived there briefly before returning to make their home in Charlevoix. He owned and operated the Cunningham Radio & Television Shop from 1944 until retiring in 1984. He was a member of the Community Reformed Church and the Barnard Grange.

Surviving are his wife, Jessie M.; three sons, Bennett R. of Charlevoix, Stuart E. of Petoskey and Bruce A. of Maple City; six grandchildren; two brothers, Alvin D. "Hap" and Clyde, both of Charlevoix, and two sisters, Mrs. Edna Nielsen of East Jordan and Mrs. Luella Bartlett of Charlevoix and Tavares, Fla.

The family suggests memorials to the charity of one's choice. Envelopes for this purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home.

Fred McSawby

Funeral services for Fred McSawby, 70, were held Thursday, Jan. 15 at St. Mary's Church. The Rev. Casimir J. Zawacki officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery.

The Rosary was recited at the Winchester Funeral Home Wednesday evening.

Mr. McSawby died Tuesday, Jan. 13, at Little Traverse Hospital in Petoskey.

Born in Charlevoix Oct. 25, 1914, Mr. McSawby, a laborer, was a lifetime resident of the community. He attended St. Mary's Church.

Surviving are a brother, Louis G. McSawby, and a sister, Mrs. Mary K. Washegesic, both of Charlevoix.

Nina E. Ouderkirk

Funeral services for Mrs. Nina E. Ouderkirk, 80, of Charlevoix were held at the Assembly of God Church Monday, Jan. 19. The Rev. Cecil Drost and the Rev. Lowell Anderson officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery.

Mrs. Ouderkirk died Friday, Jan. 16, at the Grandvue Medical Care Facility.

Born in Phelps in Marion Township, the former Nina E. Drost was married to Howard Ouderkirk at Petoskey in 1924. They made their home in Charlevoix.

She was employed at the Monarch Canning factory in Ellsworth for many years and later as a cook at the summer homes of the L.E. Block, R.E. Olds and Nathan Commings families. She was a member of the Assembly of God church.

Surviving are a son, Robert L. Ouderkirk of Ironton; twin daughters, Donna J. Luft of Traverse City and Doris J. Foster of Orlando, Fla; 11 grandchildren; 17 great-grandchildren and three brothers, Cecil of Charlevoix and Louis and Willard of Charlevoix and Ocala, Fla.

The family suggests memorials to the Assembly of God Church. Envelopes for this purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home which was in charge of arrangements.

"Say No" workshops held for parents of teenage children

Special workshops will be held Feb. 4 and 17 for parents of teenagers enrolled in Ellsworth and Charlevoix public schools, to help them support their children's decision to say "no" to teenage sex and other peer pressures.

The "How To Say No" workshops will be conducted by "say no" coordinator Lora Blank of Northern Michigan Planned Parenthood (NMPP). The purpose of the workshops is to help parents reinforce skills their teens will be learning when the Ellsworth and Charlevoix schools host the "How to Say No" Project later this month.

The series will be presented for seventh, eighth, and ninth-graders in Ellsworth Public School, and the eighth-graders in Charlevoix Public School.

The "saying no" series began two years ago as a pilot project funded by the Michigan Department of Social Services (DSS), and since that time has been adopted by nearly every middle school in northern Michigan. Last year, NMPP, presented the series for nearly 2,600 northern Michigan teens and parents. The series was so successful, in fact, that is was selected by DSS for statewide implementation. With training and technical assistance from NMPP, the series was presented to 17,500 teens in 38 Michigan counties during the 1985-86 school year.

"What makes the series so popular," said Blank, "is that we focus on peer pressure, and what teens can do to stand up to it." She noted that in nationwide surveys, nearly half of all teens say they feel pressured to become sexually involved before they're ready.

"Nobody wants to be pushed into something they're not ready for, but many young people haven't yet developed the skills to say 'no' and make their decision stick," Blank said.

Through the "How to Say No" series, teens learn that the media often distort the meaning of sex and intimate relationships, Blank said, and that much of the talk they hear from their friends about sexual exploits is just that – talk. Participants also learn simple assertiveness techniques designed to help them effectively communicate their decision to say "no".

Two things in particular make the "How to Say No" Project effective where other programs have missed the mark, Blank said.

"First, the series is presented by peer educators, older teens who kids are more willing to trust," she said. "A program like this just wouldn't work if the messages were coming from an adult authority figure."

"Just as important, though, is parent involvement," she added.

To find out more about the series and what you can do to help your teenage son or daughter resist peer pressure, NMPP invites parents to attend the upcoming "How to Say No" parents workshops. In Ellsworth, the workshop will be held Wednesday, Feb. 4 from 7-9 p.m. at the public school library. In Charlevoix, the parent's workshop will be held Tuesday, Feb. 17 from 7-9 p.m. at the Middle School library. Parents with children of all ages are invited to attend both workshops.

of the area, is among the citizens who have formed DUNE (Defenders United for North Point Ecology), a group dedicated to preserving the property.

"From the things I've heard, I feel that the majority of people in Charlevoix would rather they build their condominiums some place else and save it (North Point) as a nature preserve," Ramsey said.

Ramsey said his group has received a great deal of support in opposition to any rezoning of the property for condominiums. DUNE's efforts are somewhat frustrated, Ramsey said, by the uncertain ownership of the property.

Among the options Ramsey and others have discussed is purchasing the property as a public reserve under the direction of Charlevoix Township, possibly in conjunction with the Mt. McSauba Recreation Area.

Tom Bailey, executive director of the Little Traverse Conservancy, is among those who would like to explore the public-ownership question.

The Conservancy recently acquired, for $1.25 million, the stand of virgin red oaks at Burt Lake near Indian River. Since its formation in 1972, the group has acquired more than 2,000 acres of wooded dunes, cedar swamp, meadows and shoreline.

"At this point, we're certainly not closing any doors," Bailey said. "As staff for the conservancy, I'm interested in what could be done."

Bailey pointed out that one condition, of course, would be a willing seller. He hopes to arrange a meeting with some of the principals in the deal in the next two weeks. "We've been contacted by a number of groups about this," he said. "I think it's time for the interested parties to talk."

Bailey said one of the options for purchase of the land, should the owner be willing to sell, would be through the Michigan Natural Resources Land Trust. Applications for next year's Land Trust funds must be applied for in April, he said, and require at least 25 percent matching funds at the local level and a governmental agency to manage the land.

The North Point property would be high on the state's list, Bailey predicted, because it includes Great Lakes shoreline and sand dunes. "They're not making any more lakefront real estate these days," he ndded.

Jack Turner, an attorney, said he was sensitive to the issue of preservation of the land, but had to face the economic realities as well. "I think in the best of all possible worlds, I would love to see it preserved and integrated into the existing parkland," he said. "But ultimately what we'll do will be in the best interests of my mother."

Turner said the only drawback to a state purchase of the land is the amount of time it takes to clear the land transaction. The family is eager to sell the land, he said.

Lester Turner did not rule out public ownership but said his first choice would be to develop the property. "At this juncture I wouldn't discard anything on the use of the property," he said.

"It should be used in some wonderful fashion."

Lester Turner added that he had not heard proposals for the use of the land by any other groups.

Council considers cable options offer the six additional channels, although a site for the satellite dishes has not been selected. Martin said the use of the city land was still a possibility.

The six additional channels will include PASS, American Movie Classics, the Discovery Channel, Lifetime, C-Span and Cable Value Network.

Northern Cable TV currently offers 14 channels in its basic package and three optional movie channels – Cinemax, HBO and Disney.

Martin said that 75-90 percent of the cable companies around the country are raising rates because of the deregulation. She noted that Northern's rate change will be softened for some customers because the cost of the movie channels will go down from between $.35 and $1.45, depending on the package selected.

Northern Cable will begin offering the six new channels at least one month prior to raising the rates on May 1, Martin said. If faced with competition from Bayshore Cablevision, she commented, her company would meet it. "We've been here a long time and will be here for a long time to come," she said.

Courthouse sesquicentennial celebration planned

Big things are planned for the Charlevoix County Courthouse next Monday, Jan. 26, at noon.

Area residents will gather to open Michigan's 150th year of statehood with music, bells, pageantry, and reading of the Governor's Sesquicentennial Proclamation.

Members of the high school band, boy and girl scouts, and veterans will be in the forefront as the sesquicenntenial flag is raised over the seat of county government and a cake is cut in observance of the historic occasion.

Susan VanWieren, assistant superintendent of Char-Em School Distict, and Larry Sullivan, county planner, are chairpersons of county sesquicentennial events. Charlene Gaskin, Register of Deeds, arranged for participants in Monday's celebration.

Everyone is invited to be part of this lunch-hour event.

Coastal management grants available

Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Coastal Management Program (CMP) officials have indicated that approximately $1 million will be available for coastal projects to be conducted during fiscal year 1988. Funding will beocme available beginning Oct. 1, 1987 for approved projects which must be completed by Sept. 30, 1988.

Any coastal unit of government (city, county, village or township), area-wide agency (county or regional planning agency), state agency, university, school district or tribal government may apply for funds. To qualify, the following requirements must be met:

- Projects must be located within Michigan's coastal boundary which generally lies 1,000 feet inland from the ordinary high water mark of the Great Lakes.
- Projects must relate to the shoreline and reflect the following objectives: protection of sensitive resources, including sand dunes and wetlands; control of development in erosion and flood hazard areas; creation or enhancement of public access in coastal areas; urban waterfront redevelopment; and historic preservation or restoration.
- Projects may include site design and planning, engineering, and low cost construction projects. Examples of eligible coastal projects include, but are not limited to, feasibility studies, recreation site designs, economic redevelopment studies, port and harbor studies, boardwalks, stairways, educational-interpretive displays, trails, restoration of coastal historic buildings, and providing barrier free access to coastal recreational facilities.
- All applicants must provide at least 50 percent of total project costs as match.
- All projects must be open to the public and be either located on public land or secured through long term lease.
- Requests for federal funding assistance must be limited to $50,000 or less
- Interested applicants must submit a complete application no later than March 13, 1987.

Application forms are available from DNR Coastal Managment Program, Box 30028, Lansing, MI 48909, 517-373-1950. Recommended projects will then be sent to the Federal Government for funding approval as part of Michigan's grant application.

Charlevoix's settlement lagged behind state's founding to the State Legislature, where he served for three years.

Eventually, tension arose between the fishermen and the Mormons because of differences in philosophy and religion (especially polygamy). The differences became a conflict which resulted in the Battle of Pine River in 1853. Though no one was killed in the battle, the non-Mormons feared retaliation from King Strang's group, and they fled the Pine River area. With them gone, the Mormons established a mainland community, which came to an end in 1856 when King Strang was killed by two disenchanted followers. The Mormons were then forced to flee the area.

> "At the closing in the winter of 1856-57, there were four families in the Pine River region . . ."

Settlement in the Charlevoix area began in earnest in the 1850's. Rosa Nettleton, descendent of a pioneer family, compiled e brief history of Charlevoix several years ago in which she names many of those who came to make Charlevoix their home during that period:

The first man to make e clearing and become a permanent settler was Medad Thompson, grandfather of Mrs. Rose Henderson who (then) lived in Charlevoix. He came in 1854 and made a clearing near Pine Lake (now Lake Charlevoix) some little distance north of where the Belvedere railroad station once stood. This clearing he eventually enlarged and developed into a prosperous farm, where he lived until his death in 1886.

In 1856, John S. Dixon and his family returned to the homestead they had vacated in 1855 after the Mormons have burned Dixon in effigy. John Miller, whom Dixon had met in Northport, returned with him, and the Miller family became the first settlers of Boyne City.

In the fall of 1857, Seth F. Mason and family and Morris J. Stockman arrived, the Mason family taking up an unfinished, abandoned cebin formerly used by a Mormon family. Also about this time came Hugh Miller, Philo Beers (who had the first drug store), William Laister (who kept the first general store), Robert Bedwin, William Holland, Nelson Ainslie, S. S. Wakefield, and T. C. Newman.

In 1856, Samuel Horton, his family, and a passenger stopped in Charlevoix on their way by boat from Toledo to Grand Rapids. Bad weather kept them in town for severel days, so, tired of waiting, they decided to remain in the erea. Horton and his family sailed into Lake Charlevoix and founded that lake's first permanent settlement, in Horton Bay. The passenger, Archibald Buttars, remained in Charlevoix and became a prominent citizen, serving in the legislature end later as lieutenant governor. The Buttars' home was on the present site of the Winchester Funeral Home.

The "Traverse Region", published in 1884, reports, "At the closing in of the winter of 1856-57, there were four families in the Pine River region, those of Medad Thompson, John S. Dixon, Samuel Horton, and John Miller, and the two young men, Newman and Buttars".

Settlement of the East Jordan area came a bit later, with W. F. Empey arriving in 1874. Joseph C. Glenn opened his lumber mill there in 1879, which, with the White Lumber Company in Boyne City and the Charlevoix Lumber Company in Charlevoix, were the backbone of the prospering lumbering industry in the county for many yeers.

Lumbering and commercial fishing co-existed for many years as sources of income for Charlevoix County residents. Then came the resort communities of the Belvedere Club and the Chicago Club, followed by the large resort hotels – the Inn, the Beach, and others smaller in size – which provided additional summer jobs. Today, there is no lumbering, little commercial fishing, and no resort hotel employment, but the Belvedere end Chicago Clubs retain their important places in Charlevoix summer life, and many condominium units house those who spent vacation time in the resort hotels.

The above recitation of the history of Charlevoix County, while it may seem to go 'way back, does not cover the history of th native Americans, the Chippewas and Ottowas who hunted in our lush forestlands and fished in our bountiful lakes and streams for many generations before the first white men arrived. Their story and the story of ell northern Michigan Indian tribes is best old in connection with the fur traders, voyageurs, missionaries, and military men who made Saulte Ste. Marie and Mackinac Island important communities long before Michigan became e state.

> "The first man to make a clearing and become a permanent settler was Medad Thompson . . ."

The Greensky Hill Mission is emong the oldest settlements in the Cherlevoix area. Pictured here is the historic Greensky Hill United Methodist Church.

PUBLIC NOTICE

All interested persons are hereby advised that the Charlevoix County Road Commission is proposing construction of relocated Boyne Mt. Road from US 131, west and north to existing Boyne Mt. Road, Boyne Valley Township. The proposed construction includes a bridge crossing the Boyne River and approximately 0.4 mile of two lane bituminous asphalt pavement.

Under Federal, State and Local Procedures, any citizen who would be affected by the proposed project may request in writing that a formal Public Hearing be held concerning the social, environmental and economic effects of this proposal.

As required by Federal Regulations, an Environmental Assessment (EA) has been prepared evaluating the social, economic and environmental aspects of the project. The Environmental Assessment demonstrates that implementation of the proposed action will not have a significant impact on the quality of the human environment. Copies of the Environmental Assessment are available for public inspection or may be obtained at Charlevoix County Road Commission, P.O. Box 39, 1051 E. Division St., Boyne City, MI. 49712.

Any person that believes that the analysis of the social, economic and environmental impacts presented in the EA is inadequate to assess their significance is invited to submit in writing the substative and factual basis for their belief. Also, any person may request, in writing, a public hearing. These should be sent to Fred Welch, Engineer-Manager, Charlevoix County Road Commission, P.O. Box 39, Boyne City, Michigan 49712 before February 6, 1987.

Rayders nipped by Rogers

ROGERS CITY. -- Charlevoix's hopes for a run at the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference basketball title suffered a blow Friday night when Rogers City toppled the Rayders 53-49.

Charlevoix played without starting guard Jim Ciuk due to a sprained ankle while another starter, Dan Drury, saw very little action because of illness.

The loss dropped Charlevoix to 5-3 overall and 3-3 in league, two full games behind first-place Cheboygan.

"The defense did not play well and the rebounding was not good enough to win," Coach Dave Smith said. "It (rebounding) was inconsistent and we gave up points due to mental errors."

The contest was close all the way. Charlevoix took a 14-12 first-period lead but Rogers City (4-3) moved ahead 28-25 at the half with a 40-39 spread going into the last period.

Owen Phillips led the Rayders with 16 points and Scott DeYoung added 15. For Rogers City, Rob Allum hit 16, Chris Conley 12 and John Sellke 10.

Charlevoix held a 21-20 edge in field goals but Rogers hit 13 of 18 from the foul line with 14 fouls. Charlevoix was just seven of 11 with 16 fouls.

Both teams shot 45 percent from the floor while the Hurons held a 19-16 edge in rebounding. Charlevoix had 11 turnovers to 17 for the winners.

Cagers blow out Grayling

David Salmonson, a sophomore at Charlevoix High School, will be writing the results of home basketball games this winter.

by DAVID SALMONSON

Scott DeYoung wasn't the only one on Charlevoix's team who rebounded on last Tuesday's game against Grayling. And the help of the boards made the difference as the Rayder team bounced back from the Cheboygan loss to tame Grayling 88-64.

"Rebounding was the biggest thing that made the spread," Coach Dave Smith said. The Rayders nabbed 37 rebounds, compared to only 17 for Grayling. DeYoung dominated the boards with 50 percent of the Rayder's rebounds.

Dan Drury also helped the Rayders to seal their win by scoring six out of seven free throws in the fourth quarter on his way to 12 points for the night.

Charlevoix was the first on the scoreboard and kept the lead throughout the game. In the first eight minuteds Drury played tight defense by stealing the ball twice within a minute.

Because of Charlevoix's numerous fouls in the first quarter, Grayling received the bonus ahead of the Rayders. The score at the end of the first quarter was Rayders 13, Vikings 8.

In the second quarter, the Rayders had trouble getting back into the swing after committing the only technical foul of the game. Minutes later, Jim Ciuk got the team rolling by stealing the ball at half court, dashing to the basket for a layup. After a long pass from the sidelines, he put through the hoop for another two.

In the last second of the first half, DeYoung got two more to give the Rayders a seven-point lead over Grayling, making the score 34-27.

Before Joe Miller fouled out, he made a pretty steal to slow the Vikings momentum in the third quarter. After the steal, Miller passed it off to Owen Phillips who shot it in for a pair and then made the free throw.

The fourth quarter was highlighted by two steals by Ciuk, and another by Phillips, who took it from an unsuspecting Viking while in the middle of his shot. Coach Smith called the first two timeouts in the last quarter to help keep his team at a good pace.

The Rayders held on to their lead from beginning to end and came away with the 16 point victory.

DeYoung not only the best rebounder of the game, but also the high point man for Charlevoix with 14 points. He was followed by Ciuk with 13 points, and Roger Smith with 11.

Among the other scorers for Charlevoix were Chad DeVries, Owen Phillips, Joe Miller, Jim Gibbs, Mark LaBlance, and Marty Joy. From the floor, Charlevoix made 35 percent of their shots.

Top scorers for the Vikings were Jason McEvers with 29, Tom Bacon 12, and David Somerville 7.

Skiers 3rd in opener

The Charlevoix Rayder ski teams, making their first appearance on the slopes this season, placed third in both the girls and boys meet at Boyne Highlands Thursday.

"It was good to finally have a race. I think they did very well. We will have to keep working and if we do we will improve," Coach Erik Lundteigen said of his teams. "This meet was a showcase for the regionals."

Harbor Springs girls won the meet with 48 points followed by Traverse City with 61, Charlevoix 91 and Petoskey 139.

In the boys meet Petoskey was the winner with 61 points; Traverse City second with 66, Charlevoix third with 94 and Harbor Springs with 122.

Bright spots in the meet for the Rayders were Lauren Pace's first in the slalom and second in the giant slalom, Wes Cumberland's first in the giant slalom and eighth in the slalom and Karl Erber's third places in both events.

The results of the girls races follow:

Pace: 1st in slalom and 2nd in giant slalom; Allison Hall; 4th in the slalom and 6th in the giant slalom; Wendy Voisin, 30th in the slalom and 7th in the giant slalom; Christy Coolman, 23rd in the slalom and 20th in the giant slalom; Carla Hoffman, 27th in the slalom and 22nd in the giant slalom; and Monica Havens 40th in the slalom and 21st in the giant slalom.

In the boys meet, Cumberland had an 8th in the slalom and 1st in the giant slalom; Erber, third places in both the slalom and giant slalom; Charlie Witthoeft, 25th in the slalom and 15th in the giant slalom; Jason Fettig, 41st in the slalom and 20th in the giant slalom; and Matt Dixon, 30th in the slalom and 198th in the giant slalom.

Charlevoix's next meet will be at Schuss Mountain on Thursday, Jan. 22 with Grayling, East Jordan, Petoskey and Boyne City.

JVs dominate Grayling, crush Rogers City

The Charlevoix Rayder JVs and the young Grayling Vikings played to a 17-17 first-period tie before the young Rayders pulled away for a 79-43 win over the visitors Tuesday night.

The Rayders poured in 27 points in the second period to take over 44-25 at halftime and added another 20 for a 64-34 lead as the game went into the final period.

The Rayders had a total of 32 field goals and 15 of 22 free throws while collecting 16 personal fouls. The Vikings had 17 from the floor and nine of 16 from the line while having 18 personal fouls.

Dave Miller paced the game with 23 points followed by Shawn Putman with 21 and Mike Picha with 11.

The Charlevoix Rayder JV's romped over their Roger City counterparts by a score of 65-26 on the latter's court Friday night.

Outscoring their hosts 29-10 from the floor, the Rayders jumped to a 12-5 first-period score, increased the gap to 31-13 at halftime and 52-20 going into the final period as Coach Dick Swenor emptied the bench.

The Rayders connected on seven of 12 free throws and were called for 18 personal fouls while the Hurons scored on six of 18 from the line and had 18 personal fouls.

Shawn Putman led the scoring attack with 13 points. Dylan Stewart followed with 12 and Dave Miller and Mike Himebauch had 10 each. All 10 Rayders scored. Domkowski had nine points for the Hurons.

The Charlevoix Rayder varsity volleyball team dropped two matches while the Rayder JV's won their first of the season last week.

In a non-league meet at Elk Rapids, which play only abbreviated three-game matches, the Rayders lost by scores of 15-9 and 16-14.

Coach Brenda Bryan said the team played exceptionally well and likely would have made a better showing had the five games been played.

Amy Antaya was the top server as well as the leading offensive and defensive players. Jennifer Sell received serving honors.

The JVs lost their first game 15-12 before winning the next two by scores of 15-9 and 15-10.

Billie Jean Habel was the top setter, server and offensive player and Marci Wynkoop and Ann Sanford the top defensive players.

In the match with Petoskey, Petoskey won 15-8 and 15-11 before the Rayders rallied to take the third 15-7. Petoskey came back to the the next game 15-4.

Antaya took offensive, defensive and server honors. Sell was the top setter.

The JVs won all their games, 15-10, 15-12 and 15-12.

Sanford and Becky Melke took serving honors and Wynkoop offensive and setter honors while Sanford was the top defensive player.

Charlevoix will be at Gaylord Jan. 21 and at East Jordan Jan. 28.

Frosh edge East Jordan

The Charlevoix Rayder freshman basketball team posted a 53-49 win over a stubborn East Jordan five in a game played at East Jordan Monday night.

The game was a close one with the teams trading baskets throughout, Coach Barry Anderson said.

The teams played to a 12-12 first-period tie and remained tied at halftime 22-all before Charlevoix pulled away for a two-point 35-33 lead going into the final period.

Jason Corwin had 17 points and Scott Miller 16 points for Charlevoix. Don Cutler had 21 points and Ted Sherman had 11 for the Red Devils.

Charlevoix will be at Central Lake at 4:30 p.m. Thursday Jan. 22 and at Boyne City the following Monday, Jan. 26.

Middle schoolers post wins

The Charlevoix Middle School boys basketball team split with Boyne City on the home court Monday night to open their 1987 season. The team then posted victories over Harbor Springs on Wednesday.

The seventh-graders, coached by Henry Wagner, dropped their game to Boyne City by a score of 27-16 while the eighth-graders, with Barry Pierce as coach, posted a 43-21 win.

In the seventh-grade game, the halftime score was knotted 8-8 before Boyne City pulled away for the 27-16 win. Luke LaBlance topped the Charlevoix scoring with six points.

The eighth-graders fared better. They held a 20-4 halftime margin before rolling to a 43-21 win. Jason Parrish paced the game with 12 points.

In contests with Harbor Springs, the seventh-graders won by a 32-22 margin and the eighth-grade team by a score of 37-25.

Charlevoix took a 16-12 halftime lead before scoring the 10-point win. Dale Sharp was top scorer with eight points and LaBlance the top defensive player.

In the eighth-grade game, Charlevoix had a 10 point 21-11 advantage at halftime and stretched the victory to 12 points at the final buzzer. Jason Parrish had 17 points and Ryan Smith eight for the victors.

The teams will play at Petoskey Wednesday, Jan. 21, and host Cheboygan at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 28.

League-leading Depot upset

An upset and an overtime game marked the action in the A league of the Charlevoix Independent Basketball League Thursday night.

Kit Carson Lumber defeated the Depot Restaurant of Boyne City 59-57. It was only the second defeat of the current season for Depot.

Pepsi Cola of Petoskey defeated Dr. Dave's Green Grinders 94-87 in an overtime game and Buday NCE defeated Nanny's 101-90 in a scoring battle.

In the Carson-Depot game, the Depot took a 17-15 lead only to have Carson tie the score 36-all at halitime. As the second half got underway, Carson edged to a 63-50 lead and managed to hold the three point margin lead at the final buzzer.

Tim Carey with 24 points and Vince Left with 19 paced the scoring for the game. Rob Spencer and Tom Beyer had 15 points each, Tim Hartwick 14 and Tony Williams 13 for the Depot.

In the overtime game, Dr. Dave's Green Grinders saw a sizable lead disappear in the final period when it was outscored 31-19 as Pepsi tied the score 85-85 at the buzzer. The Grinders led 19-17 at the quarter, Pepsi took a slim 42-40 lead at halftime only to fall behind 66-54 going into the final period when Pepsi fought back to send the game into overtime. In the next three minutes, Petoskey poured in nine points to the Grinders' two for the win.

Mark Long had 26 points, Cliff Haas 22 and Brian Shorter 17 for Pepsi. Dan McKenzie had 30 points, Dick Swenor 21, Dave Storm 15 and Bernie Ward 10 for the Grinders.

Because of a conflict in the use of the gym, the A league will not see action until Thursday, Jan. 29, when Nanny's will meet Dr. Deve's Green Grinders, the Depot will meet Buday's NCE and Carson Lumber will meet Pepsi Cola. The Jan. 22 games were postponed until Feb. 16.

Charter boat workshops planned

Michigan's nearly 1,000 charter captains can learn more about their business prospects during 10 workshops sponsored by Sea Grant Extension of the Michigan Sea Grant College Program.

Meetings are scheduled Jan. 24 in Rogers City; Feb. 7 in Muskegon (Harbor Hilton); Feb. 14 in Mt. Clemens; March 14 in Benton Harbor (Captain's Table); March 21 in Tawas City; April 4 in Bad Axe, and April 11 in Menominee. April meetings are also being planned in Frankfort and Charlevoix.

The eighth annual series will feature discussion of fishery management issues, marketing, business menagement and legislative matters, led by representatives of state agencies, businesspeople and Michigan State University faculty members, Extension specialists and agents.

Anglers and people interested in the charter fishing business, as well as established captains, are invited to attend.

Each district Extension Sea Grant agent is planning one or more of the programs. For more information about program content and specific locations, call Charles Pistis at (616) 846-8250 (Ludington, Muskegon and Benton Harbor); Steve Stewart at (313) 469-5180 (Mt. Clemens and Bad Axe); Jon Peterson at (517) 362-3449 (Rogers City and East Tawas); Ron Kinnunen at (906) 228-4830 (Menominee); or John McKinney at (616) 922-4620 (Frankfort and Charlevoix).

Michigan Sea Grant Extension is an outreach of the Michigan Sea Grant College Program, a cooperative effort of Michigan State University and the University of Michigan in Great Lakes research, education and Extension.

Music demonstration day set

The Virginia McCune Arts Center will offer a free demonstration day and master class for students of the trumpet, trombone, baritone horn, tuba, clarinet, saxophone and percussion on Saturday, Jan. 31 at 10 a.m. at the Arts Center in Petoskey. The demonstration class is open to students of all ages for no charge.

Teachers presenting the workshop are: Peter Brockman, instructor of brass instruments at the Interlochen Center for the Arts; Rebeca Palmiter, instructor of band at Boyne Falls School; and John Wynn, principal woodwind performer for the Epsilon Jass Band. All are teaching currently at the Arts Center.

Students should bring their own instrument if they own an instrument. The workshop is also open to students interested in learning to play a brass, woodwind or percussion instrument. No prior experience is necessary.

The demonstration day is designed to encourage an interest in private instrumental study, according to Arts Center Director Sen Ley. "Individual study augment the ensemble band experience, and provides the student with a great sense of accomplishment. These three teachers are a great resource, and we need more students for them." The Arts Center's winter term, which will offer private music lessons for six weeks, begins on Monday Feb. 2.

Students interested in a specific master class time on Jan. 31 should call the Arts Center by Thursday, Jan. 28 at 347-4337 from Monday through Saturday 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Turkey hunting application deadline approaches

February 1 is the deadline for turkey hunters to submit license application cards for the 1987 spring turkey hunting season. This year 17,640 licenses are available.

The first of 39 hunting periods will begin April 20, the last hunting period will end May 20. More than 12,000 square miles will be opened to hunting.

In the Charlevoix area (area J) there are two bunting periods: April 20-29 and April 30-May 20.

Application cards for resident and senior resident turkey licenses are available at all DNR license issuing offices and most license dealers, and from DNR Information Services in Lansing (517-373-1220).

Non resident applications will be available only at DNR Information Services. Residents of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Wisconsin may obtain an application by calling 1-800-443-2796 with a current Visa or Master Card charge account.

All applicants must pay a fee, $12.85 for residents, to obtain an application card. This fee includes the cost of the turkey license and a $3 nonrefundable processing fee. Hunters may apply individually or with one partner and may select up to three periods to hunt, though only one period will be assigned.

Successful applicants will receive their 1987 wild turkey hunting license in the mail before March 15. Unsuccessful applicants will not be notified, but will receive a refund before March 22.

"We're expecting a very good harvest this season, comparable if not better than the record harvest of 2,361 turkeys taken in 1986," said John Urbain, DNR Wildlife Specialist. "An increase in hunting periods (now 39) and expansion of hunting areas (now 18) this year resulted from a DNR survey of turkey hunters conducted in 1986, coupled by a substantial increase this past year in the turkey population," added Urbain.

Hunting bours for the spring turkey season will run from 5:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Lower Peninsula nd 5 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Upper Peninsula. Bag limit remains one bearded turkey per hunter.

A 1987 wild turkey hunting license and a 1987 small game stamp (unless hunting on one's own land where one resides) are required to hunt wild turkeys.

Conservation essays sought by WATCH for scholarship competition

Applications are now being accepted for the second annual WATCH (Water and Air Team for Charlevoix) scholarship program, according to Michelle Rick-Biddick, executive director of WATCH.

The 1987 scholarship program will award one $1,000 scholarship and two $500 scholarships toward higher education at a college, university or vocational school of the student's choice.

The scholarships will be awarded to the students who submit the best essays on the topic, "Solid Waste Disposal in Northern Michigan – What are the Alternatives?"

Essays must be typewritten and 1,000 words or less, Rick-Biddick explained. Students entering the contest must submit applications by Feb. 6. As soon as they complete the application they will be given guidelines for the competition and must submit the completed essays postmarked no later than March 6.

"Essays should address ideas on definition of the problem and current and future solutions, including topics of recycling, incineration, packaging, and effects on groundwater," Rick-Biddick said.

She stressed that the judges are looking for fresh, imaginative ideas and enthusiasm for the subject. "We are not emphasizing that the applicants have to be "A" English students. What we want is to get kids interested in environmental issues in their community," she said.

"The chances of winning a scholarship are very good," she added, "because it is strictly a local scholarship."

Participation is open to seniors in Charlevoix County including the following school systems: Charlevoix, East Jordan, Boyne City, Boyne Falls and Beaver Island.

Scholarship application forms are available at each school.

Schools which have seniors enter the competion will receive $100 toward the purchase of environmental books or periodicals for the library.

Further information can be obtained from Michelle Rick-Biddick, P.O. Box 615, Charlevoix, MI 49720. Phone, 547-4369.

McCune Arts Center offers varied schedule of winter classes

Winter classes will begin at McCune Community Arts Center Feb. 2 and continue through March 14. The six week program includes instruction in stringed, reed, low brass, keyboard and percussion instruments. Also offered are lessons in voice, dance, Hatha Yoga and visual and literary arts.

Faculty members are Rebecca Palmiter of Boyne City, percussion; Peter Brockman of Interlochen Arts Academy, low brass; John Wynn, clarinet and saxophone; Charlotte Ross-Lee piano; Kathleen Zeister, flute; Maggie Redmon, violin; and Rosemary Malocsay of Interlochen Arts Academy, advanced violin.

The dance department instructor is Dianna Heinzelman, who also teaches Pointe Ballet and Musical Theatre, and is a member of the Chechetti Dance Council of America.

Wendy Timmer, veteran performer and ballet teacher, will conduct evening classes for adults.

Hatha yoga expert, Mary Reilly, will offer instruction for adults in the wholistic approach to the well-being of the entire body through postures, asanas and certain breathing exercies.

The Visual Arts Department offers classes in pottery for children and adults by Suzanne Hoppe of Harbor Springs, adult painting lessons by Stephen Kendall, advanced and also children's watercolor painting classes by instructor Jan Vandenbrink and children's art by Eileen Heck of Charlevoix.

Creative writing classes instructed by Debra Heath are offered from ninth grade through adult. Jerry Westerman, choral director at Petoskey Middle School, will conduct sessions in choral singing.

The music and art departments at McCune Community Arts Center are affiliates of the National Guild of Community Schools of the Arts. The educational project is sponsored by the Crooked Tree Arts Council.

For further information and to register for classes or private lessons visit or call Virginia McCune Comunity Arts Center, 461 E. Mitchell, Petoskey, MI 49770. Phone 347-7870.

City improvements: $4 million

Manager outlines 15-year Charlevoix needs assessment

by DOUG TRUAX

City Manager Michael Wiesner Monday outlined to city council a plan for repair and improvements in city water lines, sewers, sidewalks and streets that will cost $3,925,000 to complete.

Wiesner said all the work needed to be done, but he was not sure where the funds would come from. "These are not needs that are going to go away," he said. "These aren't, as I see them, something that's just nice to do."

Included in the nearly $4 million in system improvements and repairs was $1,625,000 for city water mains, $200,000 for sanitar sewers, $75,000 for new sidewalks, $250,000 for sidewalk repairs, $375,000 for storm sewers and $1,400,000 for street work.

Wiesner told council that some eight miles of the city's 24 miles of streets need repairs ranging from simple overcoating to complete removal and replacement.

Wiesner, who is in the process of preparing next year's budget, said there would be no money left next year to fund the projects. The city would be have a hard time balancing the budget with the loss of revenue sharing, he noted.

The city manager told council one way to fund the projects would be through a 15-year millage. He estimated the cost of the millage on a cash basis at 4 mills for the 15-year period ($4 per $1,000 in State Equalized Valuation for each home per year).

Wiesner said the project could also be paid for by a bond issue which would raise the money all at once. Because of interest costs, he said, bonding would mean 5½ to 6 mills to fund the projects.

"If we are looking at millage, I would not recommend a bond," he said. "I don't see the real urgency of a bond issue to do it now."

Realtor Bob Kern told council he would favor a millage to fund the projects.

Councilman Robert Timms took issue with a suggestion from the audience that the work be funded through special assessments on those fronting the streets which received improvements. "I think it's the responsibility of the entire city to maintain the streets," he said.

Council agreed to send the needs study report to the planning commission for further study. "The more people who are involved, the better," Wiesner said.

County officials hoisted the Michigan Sesquicentennial flag in a ceremony at the Charlevoix County Building at noon Monday. A color guard from the U.S. Coast Guard was on hand, along with Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, and Brownies, and representatives of the Disabled American Vets.

About 60 people attended the event and heard County Board of Commissioners Chairman Larry Matthew read the proclamation of statehood, while Vice Chairman Oral Stuliff presented Gov. James Blanchard's executive declaration.

Public vs. Private: cable debate continues

by DOUG TRUAX

City council continued to review its cable television options at a working session Monday, failing to come up with any clearcut decision.

Council and the public debated the value of letting private companies compete for the cable market versus the city establishing its own cable system.

Connie Martin, general manager of Northern Cable TV, the city's only current cable operator, told council her company would scale back its scheduled May 1 rate increase from $14.95 to $14.45 per month for the basic package of programs. Northern currently charges $12 for the service. The increase for seniors would be reduced from $13.95 to $12.95.

Martin said the new basic package would include the six new channels previously announced including American Movie Classics and PASS. She said there would be additional reductions for the optional movie channels.

Council also heard from John W. Kintz III, owner of Bayshore Cablevision, who has proposed a 12 channel basic package for $10.70. Kintz said the price would be guaranteed for three years from January 1987.

Bayshore would also offer six additional channels similar to those being offered by Northern Cable TV, he said, but they would offered as an option and not included in the basic package costs. Kintz said the six additional channels would cost $5-6 more per month.

He predicted it would take Bayshore two years to set up operations in the city.

Council continued to weigh the value of a proposed $5,000 feasibility study on setting up its own cable system. Several members of the audience pressed for the study.

Michael Greeley, former councilman and owner of Wharf Side Market, told council he was a firm believer in competition and the value of private enterprise. But the number of cable users in town, Greeley said, made it close to a public utility.

Without the feasibility study, Greeley added, council would not have all the information it needed to make a decision. "I say go out and get the system done, figure out what it's going to cost you. If there is a possibility to reduce the rates ... you have a responsibility to do it."

Former mayor Ken Staley also told council that municipal ownership could reduce customer rates. He pointed to several studies which have shown the effects of competition and public ownership.

Martin also asked council again for permission to install two new satellite dishes at Mt. McSauba so her company could receive signals for some of the new channels. She presented council with a site plan.

"We'd like to get the channels out for people to preview," she said.

Council members were split 3-3 on whether to include the site plan request on the next council agenda.

FIRE HALL DEDICATED

Charlevoix officially unwrapped its new $354,500 public safety building Monday with a ribbon cutting using the fire department's "jaws of life." (above).

The new building will house the city's four fire engines and two tank trucks along with two ambulances and two police cars.

After the ceremony, volunteer fireman inspected the city's oldest engine, a 1941 Chevrolet-General (right).

Childorn at the Charlevoix Elementary School participated in an observance of the Michigan Sesquicentennial on Monday. They attended a flag raising at the front of the school, as did students at the high school and middle school.

Lake needs centralized zoning to control overdevelopment, expert says

by PEG OHLE

The townships and cities around Lake Charlevoix which are striving individually to protect their shorelines from overdevelopment and the lake surface from overcrowding may be fighting a losing battle.

That is the opinion of Mark Wyckoff, an expert on land use planning and zoning.

Wyckoff, who is assistant professor of Urban Planning & Development at Michigan State University, recently spoke to a group of about 40 local officials and planners and made the statement, "When dealing with public waters, local units of government should not have different rules and regulations because they probably won't hold up in court".

The answer, he indicated, lies in some kind of uniform, centralized zoning.

Wyckoff's statement seems to bear out the feeling of many local officials that zoning should be a county matter. Although the Charlevoix County Zoning Ordinance which was passed in 1972 was rejected by a County referendum in less than a year, it is believed there is now better understanding of the need for good, compatible zoning.

Earlier this month, the Charlevoix County Planning Commission voted to write a County Zoning Ordinance that would include recommendations from the Lake Charlevoix Management Advisory Committee, whose final report is due within three or four months.

Leah Green, vice chairperson of the Lakes Management Committee, told the Courier last week that the Committee "may recommend" a zoning ordinance covering the shoreline of Lake Charlevoix, or perhaps even the watershed area of the lake. "There are a lot of things to consider other than township or

U of M Glee Club to present family concert

America's second oldest college chorus, The University of Michigan Men's Glee Club, will take the stage at the Cheboygan Opera House for two hours of hymns, humor, classics, nostalgia and college songs at 8 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 31.

The Glee Club was invited to northern Michigan by the University of Michigan Alumni Club of Little Traverse. All proceeds from the concert go to the scholarship fund of the Little Traverse U of M Club.

Since its founding in 1859, and particularly in recent years, the University of Michigan Men's Glee Club has travelled extensively in the United States and abroad. In international competition the Club has taken several first place victories in the Liangollen (Wales) International Music Festival - a feat matched by only one other choral group in the world.

Student members originate from every school of the University and are completely responsible for the Club's management.

The Glee Club will feature a variety of music - major classical and sacred pieces, lighter contemporary tunes, spirituals, folk songs, and of course the ever-popular Michigan Songs. The Friars, an octet within the Glee Club, will perform several nostalgic tunes with their original choreography and distinctive brand of humor.

Tickets for the University of Michigan Men's Glee Club concert and further information are available from Chris Liegl at 347-5394, the Cheboygan Opera House Box Office at 627-5841, or Al Ranger 547-6251. Tickets may also be purchased at the Apple Tree or the Shop of the Gulls in Charlevoix. Tickets are $8 each.

The University of Michigan Club of Little Traverse is also sponsoring a before-concert dinner at the Cheboygan Big Boy restaurant. The cash bar will open at 5:30 p.m. and dinner will be served from 6:15 to 7:30 p.m. The cost of the buffet is $9.25 per person. Anyone attending the concert is invited to attend.

Art classes scheduled

A six-week series of classes in visual art begins Monday, Feb. 2, at the Charlevoix Public Library. Enrollment in the classes is open to the public and the program is sponsored by the Community Schools of the Arts, Crooked Tree Arts Council.

Art for Children in grades K-3 will be offered by Instructor Eileen Heck on Monday afternoons, beginning Feb. 2, from 4 to 5 p.m. Heck will offer the same class for grades 4 through 6 also on Monday afternoon, 5:15-6:15 p.m. Students are required to provide some of their own supplies. Classes will feature an introduction to the basic concepts of drawing, use of different media and craft making. Cost of the children's classes is $23 for six weeks.

Instructor Barb Steele will offer a class in Watercolor for grades 5 through 8 on Thursday afternoons at the library beginning Feb. 5. This class meets 3:30-5 p.m. Students new to watercolor are welcome to register as well as those with some experience in painting. Cost of this class is $35 for six weeks.

To register for classes, please call the Virginia McCune Arts Center in Petoskey at 347-4337, Mondays through Saturdays 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Class size is limited, please register early.

LOOKING? KEEP A RECORD

Buying a home is a big investment and involves major decisions. So, it's understandable why so much time and care is taken when looking for a home that's right for you. No one knows this better than your local Realtor.

Once the Realtor takes on the assignment of finding you a home, he'll probably show you several. Therefore, it's important to take notes on what you have seen or you may forget which home is where, how big it is, what shape it's in, and how much it costs.

Your Realtor can provide you with a checklist to make this important task easier. This way, you can rate each home as you see it and instantly recall the location, price, construction, number of rooms, heat, fuel, taxes, and financial requirements. If you have a Polaroid picture of the house to go with the notes so much the better when describing it to your other half.

LOOKING BACK

Dressed in buckskins and toting a flintock rifle from the early 1800s, Charlevoix's John Gaskin attended the Michigan Sesquicentennial celebration at the Charlevoix County Building Monday. Gaskin, a mmember of the East Jordan Sportsman Club, Muzzleloader Troop, represented the early Michigan settlers and voyageurs.

Marion Township rejects campground

The Marion Township Board last week rejected a proposed 375-unit condominium campground on the shores of Nowland Lake.

By a 3-0 vote, with two abstentions, the board rejected a special use permit for the campground located on a 122-acre site at the end of Wickersham Road. The property, owned by Tom Erber, previously housed a transient campground.

The condominium campground was proposed by developer Rumsey Swallow and was a scaled-down version of a 500-unit plan he submitted earlier to the board.

Voting to oppose the special use permit for the campground were Treasurer Doris Johnson and Trustees Judy Wheat and Bill Dietrich. Supervisor Mike Bonar and Clerk Bud Boss abstained.

Under Swallow's plan, the campsites would be owned by individuals, with certain common areas owned and maintained by an association.

The plan ran into stiff opposition from neighbors and other township residents in previous township meetings. Swallow then revised the numbers downward and dropped a request to waive the requirement that special use permits be renewed over five years.

Scott Beatty, Erber's attorney, told the board Swallow had a good track record in developing other condo-style campgrounds. He said Swallow had reduced the lost numbers and dropped the variance request to show his willingness to work with the township and accommodate the concerns of neighbors.

Rod Robertson, who lives next to the proposed campground, continued to lead opposition to the plan. He said it was completely different from the former transient campground. The zoning ordinance states, Robertson said, that a special use permit must be consistent with the enjoyment of the neighbors and this was not. "I don't see how you can give them a permit," he told the township board.

Johnson expressed concern that the condominium association might change its rules after operating for a few years. Wheat was bothered that lot owners would still hold title to their land even if the special use permit for the campground was not renewed after five years.

"We're going to have a problem because (there could be) 375 people out there that won't want to give up that piece of property," she said.

Blood drive tops mark

Charlevoix went over the top in the recent blood drive, collecting a total of 147 pints or 22 over the quota of 125 pints, Nancy Fowler, coordinator for the program, has announced.

"The fine response couldn't have come at a better time," Fowler said. The need for the blood is emphasized by the fact that 50 percent of the blood donated was collected and transported to the laboratory before the drive was over and turned into much needed platelets for immediate use.

She said the response was unbelievable. A total of 160 donors, including 11 first-time donors, responded to the plea for blood. Only 13 persons were deferred resulting in 147 pints.

The next visit of the Bloodmobile is scheduled for May 28.

Fowler and the committee expressed their appreciation not only to the donors but all the volunteers who worked on the project. "You are all to be commended for your efforts," she said.

Accident claims life

A Charlevoix man, Kevin Phillip Patrie, 27, was fatally injured in an accident Wednesday afternoon when he was struck by his own car in the driveway to Fairport Marine Electronics off Belvedere Avenue, according to Charlevoix Acting Police Chief, Robert Tripp.

There were no witnesses to the accident but police theorize that Patrie turned into the drive to Fairport and left the vehicle while he picked up the mail from a mailbox on Belvedere Avenue.

When the vehicle started to roll down the steep incline, he apparently tried to stop it, was knocked down and dragged by the vehicle which veered into the yard north of the office-residence of Dr. David Strawbridge at 303 Belvedere Avenue.

The accident was reported at 3 p.m. by a United Parcel Service driver who had noticed the car in the yard with the motor running. The driver notified personnel at the Fairport office who went to investigate and found Patrie under the vehicle. The Charlevoix Fire Department was called to lift the vehicle off the body. Patrie, who worked as a sous chef at Duffy's of Charlevoix, was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. Thomas McKeon, Charlevoix County Medical Examiner.

Patrie's father, David H. Patrie, is employed at Fairport Marine Electronics located on the south shore of Round Lake.

Zoning expert stresses lake-wide controls city borders", she said. "There may be topographical reasons for certain zoning regulations, or present development; there could be lots of different reasons".

Wyckoff, in another reference to the importance of good, manageable planning and zoning around the lake, cited the necessity of giving riparian landowners, among themselves, and the public in general, their own equal rights in all areas of the lake.

What might turn out to be a landmark case in the matter of lakeshore zoning has been in area courts for two years. Fox & Associates, owners of 338 acres and 2,800 feet of Lake Charlevoix shoreline in Hayes Township, is suing the Township for alleged civil rights violations because the Township would not permit Fox to proceed with his plan for development of the property.

Specifically being challenged is Section 5.13 of the Hayes Township Zoning Ordinance, which limits development of lakefront property to one living unit and one boat docking space for each 100 feet of shoreline. In 1984, Fox proposed developing his property with 106 lakefront condominium units, 66 boat slips, 122 inland condominium units, and an 18-hole public golf course. The Township rejected this plan and the others proposed by Fox, basing its decision on the Zoning Ordinance.

Fox later sued the Township in Charlevoix Ciruit Court, calling Section 5.13 of the Zoning Ordinance "unreasonable, arbitrary, capricious, discriminatory, and a confiscatory taking of Fox's property and property rights without due process of law and without just compensation". Also, the suit declared Fox was being deprived of his riparian rights.

After being transferred to Cheboygan County Circuit Court, the case was heard there by Judge Robert Livo, who declared the Zoning Ordinance constitutional. Early last summer, this decision was appealed by Fox, and the Michigan Court of Appeals agreed to hear it. A decision in the case was expected by now, but the death last fall of Appeals Court Judge Jerome Bronson has apparently slowed up work in that Court.

Fox's claim is that, as a riparian owner, he should be able to designate the use of his 2,800 feet of shoreline to whoever lives on his 338 acres behind the lake– by use of boat slips, swimming beaches, etc. This type of development is called "keyhole" or "funnel" and is prohibited in several local zoning ordinances other than Hayes'.

Speaking of this type of development, Wyckoff noted that if there were several such developments on the lake, causing excessive use of the water's surface, then there should be concern.

"The only solution is a study of the watershed area to determine reasonable use of the lake", Wyckoff suggested. That is what the Lake Charlevoix Management Advisory Committee is doing.

In the summer of 1985, students from the Au Sable Natural Resources Practicum Class made a study of the 10 zoning districts in the Lake Charlevoix watershed (Bay Township, Boyne City, City of Charlevoix, Charlevoix Township, East Jordan, Evangeline Township, Eveline Township, Hayes Township, Marion Township, and South Arm Township). They, too, found that varying zoning requirements could cause difficulties.

The report reads, in part, "The existence of 10 separate, non-uniform zoning ordinances governing land use around Lake Charlevoix has created a patchwork quilt of regulations, zoning districts, and requirements. There are a total of 108 zoning districts in the 10 municipalities bordering Lake Charlevoix, no two of which are the same, and sometimes leave gaps".

Charts in the report show differences in such basic requirements as greenbelts: Five zoning ordinances have no specific footage, three have 35-foot requirements, one has a 50-foot requirement, and one has a 25-foot requirement.

While most of the zoning ordinances require a minimum lakeshore lot size of 100 feet frontage for residential construction, Hayes Township requires 200 feet on Lake Charlevoix, and Boyne City requires only 66 feet of lake frontage. Required square footage of land area for construction differs even more: Two ordinances require 12,000 square feet, two require 15,000 square feet, two require 20,000 square feet, one requires 14,000 square feet, one requires 40,000 square feet, one requires 6,500 square feet, and one requires 87,120 square feet.

The 1972 Charlevoix County Zoning Ordinance required a minimum of 100 feet of lake frontage and a 12,000 square foot lot size for residential zone construction.

Now, there is a new factor being considered for lakeshore zoning. It is called "vertical setback", meaning a requirement for lakeshore construction to be so many feet beyond the highest known lake level. Present high water levels have shown that much damage to lakeshore dwellings could have been prevented by vertical setback requirements in the past. Obviously, the regulations should be uniform around the lake.

The purpose of zoning is defined as promoting the public safety, health, and welfare of the general public, so supposedly uniform zoning would best accomplish these goals. That is what the Lake Management Advisory Committee and the County Planning Commission is working for.

Opinion

Letters to the editor:

Battlefield corpses different than Hollywood play-dead

Dear Editor:

During his younger years, as we all know, Ronald Reagan was a Hollywood actor. In most of his films he was the good guy who stood for virtue, country and God; he was pitted against the bad guy who was the incarnation of evil, terrorism and godlessness. In the final scene the moviegoers were thrilled to see the hero who was very, very good triumph over the villain who was very, very bad.

In his role as Brass Bancroft, a secret agent, he was told that it might be necessary in certain situations to break the law but never mind, it was all in the national interest. However, if he were caught, he would be on his own and his superiors would deny ever having known him (as indeed was done by the higher-ups when Eugene Hasenfus was caught ferrying weapons to the contras), but Brass was willing to take that chance for love of country.

What many of us did not know was that Ronald Reagan in real life was an FBI informer, Code name T 10 (Newsweek, 12-29-'86) when he was president of the Screen Actors' Guild. His assignment was to report to the FBI fellow members who he thought to be unAmerican—and in those days just about anyone critical of government policies was suspect.

With this background and with his landslide victories at the polls, Ronald Reagan may well feel that it is his prerogative to act outside the law if he considers it to be in the national interest. As president of the United States, he has seen it as his mission to make his countrymen stand tall again after the un-Hollywood-like defeat in Vietnam. By building up our stock of big weapons and by picking on small ill-equipped nations, he has sought to make us first in nuclear firepower and to produce a string of non-risky but glitzy military victories.

The invasion of Grenada and the bombing of Libya were accomplished without consulting Congress and did not result in a great deal of criticism by the media or by the citizenry. But Nicaragua has proved to be a problem: mining her harbors, cutting off trade, providing the contras with field manuals and training, conducting military maneuvers on her borders (4,500 National Guardsmen including some from Michigan are now participating), currying favor in neighboring countries—all these Administration efforts have failed to topple the Nicaraguan Government.

Sending more military supplies to the contras back in 1985 and 1986 seemed to be the only way left to unseat the Sandinistas short of an invasion by U.S troops which the polls showed would be very unpopular with the American people.

But then Ollie North came riding to the rescue. Send much needed parts to the Iranians in exchange for the hostages, Ollie said, and use the profits from the deal to provide weapons for the hard-pressed contras even though this was expressly forbidden by the Congress. After all, it was in the national interest, wasn't it?

However, things didn't work out according to Ollie's script. Apparently, one of the disgruntled Iranians leaked the story to the media, only two hostages were released while several more were taken, and the contras weren't making much headway either. Worst of all, Ronald Reagan is now in big trouble.

Someone should have told the President that the North scenario was addle-brained, that it couldn't be kept secret for long, that it would backfire in the Congress and that all the American people couldn't be fooled all of the time. And although Ronald Reagan has never seen military combat because of poor vision, he should have known that the spare parts sold to Iran would be used to pile up thousand of war dead (to say nothing of scuttling the no-dealing-with-terrorists policy), also that the weapons provided to the contras would be used in sneak-and-run attacks on unarmed civilians. The battlefield corpses are altogether different from the play-dead of Hollywood.

Surely the president of the most powerful nation in the world should be able to distinguish fact from fantasy, Washington from Hollywood and Ronald Reagan from Brass Bancroft.

Robert Burns

Clockwise BY BOB CLOCK

I don't recall when I first crossed paths with Robert Burns, the bard of Scotland, but it seems be always has lurked somewhere in my genetic memory. I do remember my mother reciting Burns' poetry to me when I was a child. I also have vague recollections of always pausing gravely before a statue of Burns in a little park near Masonic Temple in Detroit on my mother's far-ranging shopping expeditions.

I have never visited Scotland, but one of my forebears — Alexander MacMillan — was born in Kirkintilloch, a suburb of Glasgow, in 1802. According to his obituary, he worked in shipyards on the River Clyde until one day in the 1830s he decided to hop aboard one of the sailing ships he had been building and move to Canada. He took his wife, Barbara Lawson — also a native Scot — and several children with him.

Six weeks later the ship docked safely in Quebec City and the family headed west across the Canadian wilderness. Eventually. Alexander staked out a farm in central Ontario, not far from the present city of Orillia, and proceeded to have several more children. He became a pillar in the Congregational Church and was much revered by the entire neighborhood at the time of his death.

Of course I never knew Alexander, he having gone to his reward long before I appeared on the scene. But I did know his daughter, my great-grandmother, slightly. She was Agnes MacMillan who was born in the 1840s and married a fellow named William Winter from Kingston, Ontario, a second generation Englishman. They had a son named Bob, who in turn had a daughter named Agnes, who in turn had a son named Bob, who I happen to be.

I rather suspect the entire family was doty on Burns, because my mother considered him the greatest thing since oatmeal. The way she carried on you'd think we were related.

I also was emersed in Scots lore outside the home. Our church — Scovel Memorial Presbyterian — at the corner of McGraw and Grand River had a membership that was 99 percent Scots, most of them relative newcomers to the United States. The members, even my little friends in Sunday School, spoke with a broad Scots accent, which meant they rolled their R's and mispronounced everything else.

Later on, when I was old enough to drink legally, I discovered another breed of Scots — a fun-loving bar crowd who used to get together on Saturday nights to practice their accents. One of their hangouts was The Happy Hour bar near Fenkell and Livernois where a bagpiper would appear as if by magic about midnight every Saturday and the opaque atomospbere would be rent with the strains of "I Belong to Glasgow" and "I Just Got Doon from the Isle of Skye."

I guess that's why when Robert Burns' birthday [illegible] around every Jan. 25, I always join the celebration.

How about another helping o' haggis — and a wee dram to wash it doon?

Michigan should refuse low-level radioactive waste

Dear Editor:

The biggest scam that is now going on in Michigan, with the blessing of the Governor and the Legislature, is the road show that the Department of Public Health is putting on to give their version of public information on a "low level" radioactive waste disposal site for the Midwest states, which they want to locate in Michigan.

While the principal reason that taxpayers believe they support a public health department is to protect public health, the fact is their public information is almost entirely geared to talking about an incentive package, that is in reality a bribe to some community to take this waste.

The public health considerations are not even discussed. The fact that radioactivity causes cancer, leukemia and genetic damage is not mentioned. The environmental implications of these wastes, some of which will last for centuries and even thousands of years, how they can get into our groundwater, lakes, streams and the Great Lakes and concentrate in the food chain are not mentioned.

The committee agrees that the facility will leak, but says that will not be of much consequence.

Every major environmental group in the country that has addressed the problem of low level radioactive waste disposal has urged that the high level wastes, primarily sludges, resins and contaminated equipment from nuclear plants, which contain the same deadly, long lived isotopes as spent fuel rods, should be separated at the source and handled as high level wastes. This reasonable request has been ignored, both at the Congressional and state level.

As it now stands, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission intends to license a dump for 100 years, but they will allow radioactive wastes to go into it that will be deadly for hundreds even thousands of years. Whose responsibility will that be?

We the people at the grassroots level should not allow our political leaders to keep ignoring requiring the NRC to develop an honest definition of low level wastes that takes into account its toxicity and longevity. We should refuse to have it disposed of anywhere in Michigan until this is done.

Know your Chamber

By JACQUIE MERTA
Executive Director

The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce is 29 years old and for the first time in its existence has elected a woman president. Congratulations to Suzi Reis, 1987 Chamber President.

Suzi has heartily contributed her time and talents in multifarious chamber activities for more than ten years. Suzi is a realtor with Vacation Properties Network.

Other officers were elected at the organizational meeting, the first Board of Directors meeting held on Jan. 21: 1st vice president is John Ochs, pharmacist and owner of Central Drug Store; 2nd vice president is Jeff Porter, D.D.S., family dentistry; and treasurer is LoAnne Brown, senior vice-president-cashier, Charlevoix County State Bank.

Applications to the Waterfront Art Fair to be held on Saturday, August 8, have recently been mailed. The deadline for submitting applications is April 1. The Craft Show, which is not a juried show, will be held on Saturday, July 11. Applications to participate in this show will be in the mail by Feb. 1. If you are interested in participating in either the Art Fair or the Craft Show contact the Chamber office, 547-2101.

Begrow in business 30 years

H. Jack Begrow, A.I.A., announced the 30th anniversary of his architectural firm, last week.

In 1957 Begrow was the grand prize winner in national competition for the design of the national Cowboy Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, a $3,000,000 museum for the preservation of the history of the west.

At that time he organized the firm of Begrow & Brown in Bloomfield Hills and practiced architecture there until moving to Northern Michigan in 1962 to do the Bellaire High School and Shanty Creek Lodge.

Begrow has worked out of his own office in Charlevoix since 1965, and in addition to designing numerous custom residences and commercial projects, he has been involved in the design and development of condominiums and condominium-hotel projects, having completed over 1,100 condominium units in six states and the Virgin Islands. His in-depth multiple housing background started in 1968 with the development of Marina Village in Harbor Springs, one of the first condo projects in Northern Michigan.

Begrow has been a member of the A.I.A. for over twenty-five years, and has been registered with the National Council of Architectural Registration Boards since 1978.

Suzi Reis picked as new Chamber president

by FRAN MARTIN

Suzi Reis, widely known realtor with a local firm and a veteran member of the Chamber of Commerce, was elected president of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce at the organizational meeting held during the annual retreat at Shanty Creek. She succeeds Gary Gleason who has served in the position for the past two years.

Reis is the first woman to head the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce though several including Reis, have served as directors through the years.

"I am excited about it. It is a challenge," she said in accepting the position. "I am acquainted with the various facets of the board through my membership through the years so this will give me an opportunity to really work toward accomplishing the goals we have set for ourselves." In addition to serving on various committees, Reis has been a longtime member of the Waterfront Art Fair Committee which is a splinter group of the chamber.

At the same meeting four members elected earlier by the membership assumed their positions as directors. They are John Campbell of Site Planning Development, Inc; LoAnne Brown, senior vice president and cashier of the Charlevoix County State Bank; Jeffrey Porter, D.D.S. and Ronald Winchester, owner of the Winchester Funeral Home.

The four new members joined other board members Ronald J. Agnello, C.P.A., Scott T. Beatty, attorney, Elbert Kalser, plant manager at the Medusa Cement Co., Barbara Klucynski of Barb's Hallmark Harbor, Pat McKeown of McKeown Ford, John Ochs of Central Drug Store, Douglas Shaw of the Bridge Street Inn and Reis, a realtor with the Vacation Properties network which recently purchased Ski & Shore.

Jacquie Merta is the executive director of the Chamber. She returned to the position Jan. 1 after two years with the marketing division of the Starline Corp., which operates the Star of Charlevoix and three other dinner boats out of other cities on the Great Lakes.

Other new officers are Ochs, who served as chamber treasurer in 1986 and who, with Tom Hawley has chaired the Venetian boat parade committee for five years, first vice president; Porter, former Chamber Ambassador and membership committee, past city councilman and past president of the DDA, second vice president; and Brown, former ambassador and membership committee member who has been closely associated with the Charlevoix County Industrial Fair, treasurer.

"The two-day organizational meeting and planning session were very productive," Merta commented. The retreat, as it is known in Chamber management circles, resulted in establishing goals which will be categorized and honed before they are announced. It was two days of compiling goals that would benefit the entire Charlevoix community.

"Charlevoix has much to offer. We will set priorities among the goals. Chief among them will be to bring the entire area together as an entity in selling the community as a place to live, to establish a business or industry and to play," she continued.

Obituaries

John McCall

Funeral services for a former Charlevoix resident, John McCall, 97, of Traverse City, were held Tuesday, Jan. 27, at the Hibbard Funeral Chapel in Traverse City. Dr. David Crawford of the Central United Methodist Church officiated. Interment was in Oakwood Cemetery at Traverse City.

Mr. McCall died Saturday, Jan. 24, at the Grand Traverse Medical Care Facility.

Born in Charlevoix Dec. 28, 1889, to Andrew and Douglas (Shaw) McCall, Mr. McCall was married to the former Myrtle Richardson on Sept. 31, 1912 at Charlevoix where they lived until moving to Traverse City in 1924. He was employed by the Hannah-Lay Company.

A butcher by trade, he was employed at various meat markets in Traverse City until he retired more than 30 years ago. Mrs. McCall preceded him in death April 26, 1985. He was a member of the Central United Methodist Church and at one time had been a member of the I.O.O.F.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Kenneth (Helen) Fish of Coral, and Mrs. Betty Moyer of Traverse City; three sons, Francis of Lakeland, Fla., Jack of Traverse City and William of Winter Park, Fla.; 22 grandchildren; 20 great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren.

Jay L. Cole

Funeral services for Jay L. Cole, 82, of Ellsworth, were held Tuesday, Jan. 27, at the Hastings Funeral Home in Ellsworth. The Rev. Estel Clark of the Grace Community Church of Central Lake officiated. Interment was in Ellsworth Cemetery.

Mr. Cole died Sunday, Jan. 25, at Meadowbrook Medical Care Facility.

Born in Jackson June 10, 1904, Mr. Cole was a long-distance truck driver for Commercial Carriers of Warren for 30 years prior to retiring in 1965. On June 27, 1958, he was married to the former Marion Guertler in Detroit where they lived until moving to Ellsworth in 1976. He attended Grace Community Church in Central Lake.

Surviving are his wife and a brother-in-law, Charles Guertler of Ellsworth.

Ethel Sands

Funeral services for a former Charlevoix resident, Mrs. Ethel Sands, were held at the Brown Funeral Home in Flint. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery in Charlevoix.

Mrs. Sands died Tuesday, Jan. 20, at the Grand Blanc Convalescent Home.

Mrs. Sands, the former Ethel Shapton, was born in Charlevoix where she was married to George Sands in 1917. They moved to Flint to make their home in 1926. Mr. Sands preceded her in death in 1965. She had been a member of the Central Christian Church in Flint since 1927.

She is survived by nieces, a nephew and cousins.

Memorials to the Central Christian Church are suggested.

Watershed Council hires new communications head

Martha Lancaster has joined the staff of the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council as its new membership and communications coordinator. The Watershed Council is a nonprofit conservation organization serving Emmet, Charlevoix and Cheboygan counties. Its goal is to protect water resources, including lakes, streams and groundwater.

Lancaster will write the Council's newsletters and other publications and will direct the membership program.

"I hope to increase the Watershed Council's visibility in the area and to interest more people in our programs and services," says Lancaster. "If anyone wishes to learn more about the Watershed Council, or if a group wishes a speaker about our programs, I urge them to contact me."

Lancaster has lived in Northern Michigan for the last 4½ years. She previously performed public relations and fundraising duties for Burns Clinic. She resides outside of Harbor Springs with her husband, Doug Fuller. In her spare time, Lancaster enjoys camping, skiing, canoeing, fishing and is active with environmental groups.

"After living in southern Michigan most of my life, I quickly came to love northern Michigan's beautiful lakes and streams," Lancaster explains. "I am looking forward to assisting the Watershed Council in protecting water quality."

"We are pleased to welcome Martha to our staff," states Carol Magee, Executive Director. "Her past experience in public relations and membership development will be a tremendous asset. She will help us communicate the need to protect the beautiful water resources of this area."

Lancaster will be replacing Tom Lagerstrom, who has worked for the Watershed Council since 1984. Lagerstrom will be taking the position of Associate Director of the Little Traverse Conservancy.

Commissioners collect $42,177 in salaries

by PEG OHLE

Members of the six-man Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners last year collected a total of $42,177 in salaries and per diem payments.

The figure includes compensation for attending regular and special meetings of the County Board, meetings of committees which operate as part of the County Board, and meetings of outside Boards, Commissions, and Committees to which County Board members were appointed because of their position on the County Board.

Each County Commissioner received a base salary of $165 a month, or $1,980 a year, for attending two County Board meetings a month, one daytime and one evening, plus per diem for attending others which are held either on a scheduled or as-needed basis. The Board regularly meets a Committee of the Whole twice a month, as do some of the Committees such as audit and personnel.

Commissioners received per diem at the rate of $65 for meetings lasting four hours or more, including traveling time, and $45 for meetings lasting less than four hours, including traveling time. Per diem for some Boards and Commissions was paid at a lower rate.

In addition to per diem, members of the County Board were reimbursed for travel costs for all meetings. This is not included in the above figure of $42,177. Also, County Board members received time credit toward the County pension plan and were eligible for coverage under the County's hospital, medical, and dental insurance plans.

Broken down by County Board members, salaries and per diem were paid as follows:

Oral Sutliff, representing Boyne City, $9,320; Larry Matthew (former vice chairman), representing Hayes, Bay, Evangeline, and Melrose Townships, $7,275; Thomas Breakey, representing East Jordan and South Arm Township, $7,252; Lee Moerland (former chairman), representing the City of Charlevoix, $7,065; Ralph Harmon, representing Boyne Valley, Chandler, Hudson, Wilson, and Western Eveline Townships, $5,915; and Don Smith, representing western Eveline, Marion, Norwood, St. James, Peaine, and Charlevoix Townships, $5,350.

In 1985, Sutliff received $8,252; Matthew received $8,340; Breakey received $6,847; Moerland received $7,525; Harmon received $5,910; and Smith received $5,620.

All of last year's County Commissioners had other employment, with the exception of Breakey, who is retired.

Sutliff is self-employed as an accountant, works as guardian or conservator for several elderly and-or handicapped persons, and drives a Boyne City school bus.

Matthew is a farmer and cottage maintenance provider; Moerland is Warden of the Belvedere Club; and Smith teaches in the Petoskey High School. Bud Heeres, a retired Charlevoix school bus driver, has now replaced Moerland on the County Board.

The total salary and per diem payments to County Board members in 1986 was $317 lower than in 1985. That figure will probably increase this year, however, since the per diem rate has been raised to $70.

The photographic artistry of Dale Fisher is collected in a new book that was released in December. Fisher's unique art captures Michigan scenes, including a view of the freighter Nicolet in Round Lake, from a viewpoint seldom seen by most people. He creates all of his pictures from a low flying helicopter.

Fisher, in fact, is recognized as the only full-time artist in the world who works exclusively from a helicopter.

His newest book "Michigan, From the Eyry of the Eagle," features color photos taken throughout the state to commemorate and celebrate Michigan during the state's 150th birthday next year.

To produce his art, Fisher traveled from Kalamazoo to the Keweenaw Peninsula, Lansing to Lake of the Clouds, Port Huron to Paradise. He spotlights rivers and lakes, farms and orchards, towns and cities, trees and sunflowers, elk and swans. He shows economic activity and people at play.

In short, Fisher records a colorful collection of the many facets of life that make Michigan special and unique.

Born in Ann Arbor, Fisher resides in the Grass Lake area. He attended Michigan schools and began the training that developed into his special artform when he was assigned to aerial reconnaissance photography at the U.S. Naval Training Center in Pensacola, Florida.

His book "Detroit," a collection of photographs of the city, was published in 1985. "Mackinac Island," his portfolio depicting the island was published in 1979.

Fisher's art is in the collections of many U.S. corporations, institutions and individuals. His books and framed limited edition art pieces are available from the Dale Fisher Gallery, 749 Airport Boulevard, Suite 1, Ann Arbor, MI 48104. Telephone (313)662-5708. The book is also available at the Shop of the Gulls in Charlevoix.

Vital statistics of 1986

The number of divorces granted in Charlevoix County last year amounted to more than half the number of marriage licenses issued – 103 to 195.

Those figures are included in the annual report of County Vital Statistics prepared by the office of County Clerk.

Also, births outnumbered deaths by only 46 – 192 to 146.

While annual figures for births, deaths, marriages, and divorces in the County may seem small, total numbers for the last eight years become more significant, although the ratio remains much the same:

Since 1979, there were 1,883 births, 1,030 deaths, 1,749 marriages, and 855 divorces.

Official Notice

All interested persons are hereby notified that resumes for the position of Charlevoix County Treasurer will be accepted in the office of the County Clerk until 4:00 PM, Friday, February 13, 1987. Resumes should be in a sealed envelope plainly marked "County Treasurer Position."

Jane E. Brennan, County Clerk

Official Notice

The regular meeting of the Eveline Township Board was held on January 13, 1987.

The minutes of the previous regular meeting were read and approved as read.

Problem areas in zoning, roads, drains were discussed.

The Coyle property proposed development was presented to the board as modified.

Lee Arnold was appointed to represent Eveline Township in applying for the "Clean Michigan Fund" again this year.

A request by Roger Lisk that the township write a letter to the Health Dept. asking that they consider the Ironton Drain with their denial for a mound system on the Lisk property was approved.

The Greenman P.A. 116 application was reviewed and will be sent back for modification.

The budget was amended in the general fund.

Salaries and wages were reviewed for the coming fiscal year; but none were revised.

Annual meeting for the electors of Eveline Township was set for March 25 at the twp. hall.

A meeting to work on the 1987-88 budget was scheduled for March 18 at Dave Willson's.

A treasurer's report was given and the bills amounting to $0,848.40 were approved for payment.

A letter will be sent to the Soil Conservation District requesting their permission to use their map for township newsletters.

A letter will also be sent to the Ferry Authority requesting the Ironton Ferry be kept open in the future as long as the weather permits.

Adjournment at 11:45 p.m.

Charlevoix tops St. Ignace cagers

The Rayders got back in the win column Friday with an important 74-56 conference victory over St. Ignace.

The win ended a two-game losing streak for Charlevoix and kept them in contention with Cheboygan for the Michigan Huron Shores Conference title. Cheboygan leads the league with a 6-1 conference record. They are followed by Gaylord (5-2) and Charlevoix (4-3). The Rayders are now 6-4 overall.

The win avenged an earlier one-point loss by the Rayders to St. Ignace.

Charlevoix benefited from a strong rebounding game and poor shooting by the Saints at the foul line. Scott DeYoung lead the Rayders in rebounds with 20. Chad DeVries pulled down another 15.

"The rebounding was great," coach Dave Smith concluded.

Also aiding the Rayders was the terrible free throw shooting of their opponents. The Saints hit only four of 22 attempts from the line.

Charlevoix got out to a 15-8 first-period lead and at one point in the second period held a 15-point margin (33-18) before the Saints closed in 34-24 at the half.

Midway through the third quarter St. Ignace cut the lead to three points (41-38), but the Rayders pulled away to take a 55-44 advantage at the end of three periods.

"I was happy with our intensity and enthusiasm," Smith said. "Jim Gibbs had a real good game and played excellent defense. Dan Drury hit some key free throws that put us over the top and Owen Phillips played a good floor game and showed good leadership," he added.

The Rayders again played without starting guard Jim Ciuk who has been sidelined with a sprained ankle.

Gibbs led the Rayders offensively with 18 points. DeYoung added 15, DeVries 13 and Phillips 10. Drury had eight points for the night and Roger Smith 6.

The Saints were paced by Mike Shepard, Brett Law and Pat Gallagher who each had 10 points.

Charlevoix hit 30 field goals and 14 of 28 free throws, with 23 fouls. St. Ignace had 26 baskets and 24 fouls.

Chad DeVries (55) takes the ball to the bucket against St. Ignace Friday.

Wrestlers take 2nd in 10-team test

The Charlevoix Rayder wrestling team captured second place in the 10-team Manistee Invitational Tournament Saturday to win the runner-up trophy.

Reed City won the tournament with 140½ points; Charlevoix had 112 with Ludington taking third with 110 points. Reed City and Ludington filled all 13 weight classes; the Rayders gave up four by forfeit.

In winning, Charlevoix took three first places; one second; one third and three fourth places.

"The team wrestled well and we held our own against Reed City and Ludington," Coach Greg Bryan said. "They competed with poise and an attitude of confidence that comes from mat time and experience."

"At this point, the team has crossed the line of being a young team to one of experienced competitors," he added. "We've demonstrated excellent technique on our feet with near perfect takedown maneuvers."

With our home tournament coming up Saturday, and the Michigan Huron-Shores Conference meet one week later, Bryan said he will begin to turn up the intensity on conditioning and shore up weaknesses.

Toby Young (105), Jamie Montieth (145) and Derek Dutcher (198) placed first in their respective weight classes. Young, wrestling at 105 pounds for the first time in search of competition, dominated each match, pinning each opponent in less than a minute. He was awesome Bryan said.

Montieth has come into his own as a wrestler. As a sophomore he has become a challenge to the better wrestlers in the area. On Saturday he had three pins including one in 1:40 in the final match, Bryan commented. Dutcher also showed great intensity, pinning his way to the finals. "We needed a pin from him against the No. 1 seed from Reed City in order to take second place over Ludington. After a 0-0 first period, Dutcher escaped to score in the second period, executed a double leg takedown into a reverse double grapevine and pinned his opponent," Bryan said.

Shann Bier (132) lost a tough match in overtime 2-0 to finish in second place. After leading in regulation time, he was nailed with a questionable stalling point which tied the match 3-3 to send it into overtime. He had a 2-1 record for the day.

Heavyweight Bill Marquardt, 3-1 for the meet, lost a close 6-4 match in the semi-finals. One of the better heavyweights, he must concentrate on his intensity which was lacking in Saturday's meet.

In fourth place were Scott Novotny (112), 1-2 for the day; Steve Melios (167) and Jim Tilton, both 2-2. The ninth man was freshman Brian Livingston who was 0-2.

"It was an excellent team effort with many close matches that could have gone either way," Bryan said.

On Saturday, Charlevoix will host a round robin team tournament beginning at 10 a.m. at the high school gymnasium. Participating in the event will be Munising, Pinconning, Cheboygan, St. Ignace, and Gaylord with the Rayders making it a six-team tournament. The public is invited to attend.

Traverse City crushes Rayders

TRAVERSE CITY — The Charlevoix Rayders were overpowered 85-47 Tuesday by the Traverse City Trojans, a team currently ranked in the Class A top 10.

The Rayders proved a tough test for the Trojans in the first quarter and came away with a 16-14 lead.

But Traverse City took charge in the second period, outscoring the Rayders 27-10 and taking a commanding 41-26 halftime lead.

"I was real pleased with the way we started," Rayders' coach Dave Smith said. "For the most part I was happy because we had some bright spots which hopefully will come through in the second round."

Charlevoix's Roger Smith paced his team with 16 points on the night. The Rayders again played without starting guard Jim Ciuk who was out with a sprained ankle.

Scott DeYoung had eight points for the Rayders, followed by Jim Gibbs and Owen Phillips with six each.

For Traverse City, 6-foot-8 Jeff Majerle had 18 points while Lance Morgan and Scott Bishop, a pair of 6-foot-5 juniors, had 16 and 12 points respectively.

The win brought the Trojans to 8-1 on the year. The loss gave the Rayders a 5-4 overall record going into weekend play.

Traverse City had 34 field goals and 17 of 20 free throws, with 11 fouls. Charlevoix hit 22 baskets and three of six from the foul line, with 12 fouls.

The Trojans shot 46 percent from the floor and the Rayders were good on 33 percent of their shots. Each team had 17 turnovers and the winners held a 28-19 edge in rebounding with DeYoung getting eight boards for the Rayders.

Traverse City also took the varsity game from Charlevoix (7-2) by a score of 73-32. James Corwin had eight points for the Rayders.

JVs defeat Saints

The Charlevoix Rayder JVs roared to an early lead in their meeting with St. Ignace Friday before posting a 63-45 win over the visiting Saints.

Paced by Mike Picha with 20 points and Shawn Putman with 17, the Rayders took over 19-4 at the end of the first period, added another 18 points in the second period for a 37-19 halftime lead before taking a 50-31 lead going into the final period.

The Rayders scored 23 field goals to the Saints' 17 and hit on 17 of the team's 25 free throw attempts while collecting 20 personal fouls. St. Ignace scored 17 of 25 charity shots and had 23 personal fouls.

Kevin Hahn had 14 points for the Saints.

Freshmen split week's games

The Charlevoix Rayder freshmen last week lost to Harbor Springs 63-60 in an overtime game on Monday but came back to defeat Central Lake 47-26 on Thursday.

In the game at Harbor Springs, the Rayders led 14-8, 24-20 and 43-37 by quarters only to have Harbor knot the score 55-all at the buzzer to put the game into overtime. In the overtime, Harbor Springs outscored the Rayders 8-5.

Jason Corwin had 19 points, Chad DeYoung 15 and Scott Miller 12 for the Rayders. Bob Donnelly had 20 points, Mike Barber 19 and Kevin Lauer 15 for Harbor.

In the game at Central Lake on Thursday, 13 of the 14 Charlevoix players scored as the Rayders led 9-6, 27-12 and 35-16 by quarters.

Brad Zoet had eight points for the Rayders. Eric Sutherland had seven points for Central Lake.

Charlevoix will host Petoskey Thursday and Elk Rapids the following Monday, Feb. 2.

Coast Guard joins B league action

The Charlevoix Independent Basketball B league was the only league in action last week. The games, however, provided plenty of action with the league being expanded to six teams with the addition of a team from the Coast Guard cutter Mesquite.

On Monday, Dairy Queen came to life and defeated Rich's Topside 74-71, First State Bank topped Paul Lindberg, Inc., 68-52 and Marsh Construction defeated the Mesquite 44-39.

On Wednesday, the Mesquite fell victim to First State Bank 51-49. Paul Lindberg beat Topside 86-69 and Marsh Construction downed Dairy Queen 63-59.

Paced by Steve Leazier with 23 points and Mike Herriman with 12, Dairy Queen romped over Topside 24-18, 45-33 and 59-49 by quarters before taking the game by a three point margin. Dave Cole had 20 points, Larry Skippergosh 17 and Ron Chamberlain 16 for Topside.

First State Bank jumped to a 23-11 first-period lead and went on to lead 38-17 and 56-36 by quarters before taking the game by a wide margin over Paul Lindberg.

Dennis Dominic had 23 points, Bob Sandahl 12 and Jack Cross 11 for the Bankers. Mike Crain had 18 points and Stan Martin 11 for Lindberg.

The Mesquite team got off to a fast start, capturing 13-8 and 25-21 advantages going into the third period when Marsh Construction took over 34-21 going into the final period before taking the game.

Jeff Drury with 16 points and Dave Novotny with 10 led the scoring for Marsh. Jerry Martin had 15 and Mark Phillips 10 for the Guardsmen.

On Wednesday, First State and Mesquite fought a seesaw battle before the Bankers took the game by two points. The teams had played to 12-12 first-period and 23-23 halftime ties before the Mesquite took a 37-36 lead only to be outscored 15-12 in the final period to give First State the game. Rol Chavez had 25 points, Jerry Martin 12 and Phillips 10 for the Mesquite. Cross scored 11 for the Bankers.

Paul Lindberg overcame a 19-16 first-period deficit to go ahead 43-31 at halftime and 51-45 over Topside before coasting to an easy victory.

Stan Martin had 38 points, Crain 19 and Gale Sheldon 13 for the victors. Cole scored 28, Rod Robertson 12 and Skippergosh 10 for Topside.

Kim Markarwitz with 24 points and Ray LaVoie with 23 led Marsh Construction in its win over Dairy Queen. After trailing 22-9, 36-24 and 53-38 by quarters, Marsh Construction outscored DQ 25-5 in the final period for the win.

Steve Leazier had 11 points and Tom Morrison and Tom Lally 10 points for DQ.

On Monday, Feb. 2 First State Bank will meet Rich's Topside, Dairy Queen will play the Mesquite and Marsh Construction and Paul Lindberg will meet in the nightcap.

Rayder youth lose pair

Charlevoix Middle School teams dropped games to Petoskey in action Wednesday night.

The seventh-graders lost 29-25 and the eighth-graders 37-27.

In the eighth-grade game, the young Rayders took an early lead of 16-13 and held the advantage until the final minute when Petoskey knotted the score and then won from the free throw line.

Paul Wakulat had nine points for Charlevoix. Jay Miller was high for Petoskey with 11 points.

The seventh-graders played much the same kind of game, leading throughout the game until the final minutes when Petoskey went ahead. Charlevoix lead at halftime 18-16.

Luke LaBlance had 11 points. Sam Bingham was the top defensive player in the game.

Wrestlers split meet

The Charlevoix Rayder grapplers downed Grayling by a score of 36-34 and lost to Petoskey by a 48-24 margin in a meet held here Thursday.

"The team wrested well," Coach Greg Bryan said. "Our intensity and technique were much improved from Tuesday. If a couple of matches had been a little different, we could have beaten Petoskey. They juggled their lineup a bit and we were unable to compensate."

Toby Young in the 98-pound class was again the wrestler of the week. "Pinning Brian Northover of Petoskey, one of the top matmen in his weight class, has established Toby as a premier 98-pounder in the state. There is no doubt now about his ability," Bryan said.

The results of the Grayling meet follow:

98-pound class: Toby Young won by default over J. Harwood.

105: T. Solmson of Grayling won by forfeit.

112: Scott Novotny won by forfeit.

119: Brian Livingston pinned T. Cook.

126: Buck Monforten of Grayling won by forfeit.

132: Shaan Bier outpointed F. Fisher, 5-2.

138: Jason Whitley was outpointed by T. Lolling, 13-5.

145: Jamie Montieth outpointed J. Gay, 9-2.

155: W. Jones of Grayling won by forfeit.

167: Steve Mellos pinned R. Argue in :56.

185: Jim Tilton was pinned by B. Kernstock in 3:27.

198: Derek Dutcher won by forfeit.

Hvy.wt.: Bill Marquardt pinned K. Bickford in :5.

Official Notice

NOTICE OF AIR POLLUTION COMMENT PERIOD AND PUBLIC HEARING

The Michigan Air Pollution Control Commission is holding a public comment period until February 17, 1987 and a public hearing on February 17, 1987 to afford all interested citizens the opportunity to comment on the Commission staff's proposed conditional approval of MANTHEI DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION'S Permit to Install a waste oil fired furnace proposed for location on U.S. 31 South, Charlevoix, Michigan. It has been preliminarily determined that the waste oil fired furnace will not violate any of the Commission's rules nor the National Ambient Air Quality Standards and will not consume any of the federal Prevention of Significant Deterioration Air Quality Increments for Particulate and sulfur dioxide, respectively.

Copies of the Commission staff's analysis and proposed permit conditions are available for inspection at the following locations.

ROSCOMMON: Air Quality Division, Department of Natural Resources Regional Headquarters, P.O. Box 128, 8717 North Roscommon Road (Phone 517-275-5151).

LANSING: Air Quality Division, Department of Natural Resources, Stevens T. Mason Building, 4th floor (Phone 517 373 7023).

All persons are encouraged to present their written views on the proposed permit action. Written comments should be sent to the Department of Natural Resources, Air Quality Division, P.O. Box 30028, Lansing, Michigan, 48909, to the attention of the Permit Section Supervisor. All statements received by February 17, 1987, will be considered by the Commission.

The public hearing will be held during the regular monthly meeting of the Michigan Air Pollution Control Commission on Tuesday, February 17, 1987, starting at 9:00 a.m., in the Roy Manty Conference Room, Baker-Olin Building, Michigan Department of Public Health, located at 3500 North Logan Street, in Lansing, Michigan.

Obituaries

H. Keith Wagner

Memorial services for H. Keith Wagner, 76, will be held at the First Congregational Church at 1 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 31. Rev. Philip G. Schairbaum will officiate.

Mr. Wagner died Friday, Jan. 23, 1987 at Petoskey Geriatric Village.

Born in Charlevoix May 26, 1910, to Henry and Bertha (Hewitt) Wagner, Mr. Wagner was raised in Charlevoix. He graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1927 and attended Ferris Institute, now Ferris State College. In 1938 he married the former Mrs. Thelma Bradley. They always made their home in Charlevoix.

During World War II he served in Europe with the 114th Signal Radio Intelligence Corps as a staff sergeant from 1942-45. He was associated with his wife in the operation of Wag's Restaurant and was employed at Freedman Artcraft Corp., now Harbor Industries, for 17 years prior to his retirement in 1975. He was a member of Charlevoix Lodge No. 282, F. & A.M. He was a member of the Charlevoix Township Board of Review for 14 years.

Surviving are his wife, Thelma of Charlevoix; a son, Henry Keith (Butch) Wagner of Charlevoix; two stepdaughters, Mrs. William (Shirley) Lusk of Charlevoix and Mrs. Gerald (Barbara) Chambers of Lake Havasu City, Ariz.; nine grandchildren; 14 great-grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. Wilma Novotny of Charlevoix and one brother, Ned D. Wagner of Hampton, Va.

The family suggests memorials to the First Congregational Church or the American Cancer Society. Envelopes for this purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home.

Clyde H. Folmsbee

Funeral services for Clyde H. Folmsbee, 93, of Charlevoix, were held at the Winchester Funeral Home at 1 p.m. Monday, Jan. 26. The Rev. Thomas Black of the First Baptist Church officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery.

Mr. Folmsbee died Tuesday, Jan. 20, at Jordan Hospital in Plymouth, Mass.

Mr. Folmsbee was born in Johnstown, N.Y., Dec. 5, 1893. He attended high school in Johnstown, I.C.S. in Scranton, Pa., and the University of Chicago. He also attended the Silver Bay School for director's training for the YMCA at Lake George, N.Y., and served as a YMCA director at Stratford-on-Avon, Ont., and Montreal and in Pennsylvania and New York.

He later was employed as an assistant engineer of American Car and Foundry in New York, N.Y. and Barwick, Pa.; and director of engineering for Union Tank and Car Corp. in Chicago. After retiring in 1960, he became a consulting engineer for the Union Tank and Car Corp., and for Midland Manufacturing Corp., of Skokie, Ill.

He was a member of the American Society of Refrigerator Engineers, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the American Guild of Organists, the BPOE and the First Baptist Church of Charlevoix.

He was a classical organist and a copyrighted composer.

He was also a veteran of World War I.

In 1915 he married the former Pearl V. Brust in New York. She preceded him in death in 1971.

They had been residents of Charlevoix since 1951.

He is survived by two sons, Calvin C. of Enfield, Conn., and Leroy C. of Kingston, Mass.; nine grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials to the First Baptist Church of Charlevoix.

Kevin Patrie

Funeral services for Kevin Phillip Patrie, 27, of Charlevoix were held Friday evening, Jan. 29, at the Winchester Funeral Home. Rev. Philip G. Schairbaum of the First Congregational Church officiated. Cremation followed.

Mr. Patrie died Wednesday, Jan. 21.

Born in Milwaukee May 8, 1959, Mr. Patrie came to Charlevoix with his parents in 1961. He attended the Charlevoix schools and in 1977, graduated from the Allendale High School. He served in the U.S. Air Force for four years and was stationed in South Dakota, England and Spain with the food service.

Mr. Patrie returned to Charlevoix and was employed as a sous chef at the Grey Gables Inn and more recently Duffy's of Charlevoix. He planned to study to become an X-ray technician. He was a vocalist here and while in the Air Force and was interested in photography and cross country skiing. He was a member of the Michigan Interland Grotto of the National Speleological Society.

Surviving are his mother, Ms. Audrey Page of Grand Rapids; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David H. Patrie of Charlevoix; seven brothers, Heath D. Patrie of Marquette, Clay A. Patrie of Charlevoix, Mark G. and Brian S. Patrie of Grand Rapids; Phillip G. Hoffman of Charlevoix, Wayne A. Hoffman of Atlanta, Ga., and Eric S. Hoffman of Palatka, Ga., his paternal Grandmother, Muriel W. Patrie of Shwano, Wisc., and his maternal grandfather, Manley A. Page of Sand Lake, Wisc.

The family suggests memorials to the Michigan Karst Conservancy. Envelopes for this purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home or they may be mailed to the family home at 119 Hampton in Charlevoix.

Merle V. Shanks

Funeral services for a former Charlevoix resident, Mrs. Merle V. Shanks, 88, of Belmont, were held Wednesday, Jan. 21, at the Pederson Funeral Home in Rockford. Interment was in Woodlawn Cemetery in Grand Rapids.

Mrs. Shanks died Sunday Jan. 18 at Munson Medical Center in Traverse City.

Born in Charlevoix Aug. 22, 1899 to John D. and Mary Ann (Barnard) Walker, the former Merle V. Walker was married to Howard L. Shanks on June 17, 1918 at Charlevoix. They had lived in Grand Rapids until 1926, when they moved to Belmont to make their home. Mr. Shanks preceded her in death Feb. 15, 1951. She had attended the Fellowship Bible Church in Comstock Park.

She is survived by one granddaughter; one great-granddaughter and three sisters, Mrs. Lena M. VanOrman of Oxnard, Calif., Mrs. Ada Seegmiller and Mrs. Irene Alberts, both of Kingsley.

You flip a switch and the lights go on.

Start your car and go your way.

Day in and day out, so long as things work like they should, you never give them a second thought.

It's the same with banking.

You, along with the rest of us, fully expect your bank to work right. The first time. And every time.

From our point of view, that isn't an unfair expectation.

In fact, living up to that is the best explanation of how and why we run First of America Bank the way we run it.

So in nearly 200 communities across the Midwest, our bankers are reminded that, even though they're part of a major bank company, they should play a major role in the community.

They're encouraged to make loan decisions locally. Which has made us one of the region's biggest lenders.

They're given all the resources of a big bank company to draw on, so they can offer customers a more resourceful bank.

And, since our bankers are asked to handle customer matters on a local level, they're as accountable to you as they are to their bank.

It's made us not only one of the Midwest's biggest bank companies.

It's made us one of its most dependable companies. Something that's as good for you as it is for us.

FIRST OF AMERICA.

We're Community Banks First.

Members FDIC.

Charlevoix student heads 'down under'

by FRAN MARTIN

Lisa Abfalter, a 16-year-old junior at Charlevoix High School, is beginning a six month stay in Australia under the sponsorhip of the Youth for Understanding student exchange program.

She will take up residence in Mt. Evelyn, a suburb of Melbourne, a city of 2.8 milllion, where she will be the guest of Graham Ryall, a Melbourne businessman, his wife and their three children. One of the Ryalls' sons will be spending the school year in Indiana under the same exchange program.

The daughter of Ronald Abfalter who moved here from Ann Arbor in July, Lisa is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Abfalter of Charlevoix and the great-granddaughter of Mrs. Jack (Jeannette) Rogers and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Totten of Charlevoix. She had attended Ann Arbor Huron High School until coming north. Her mother, Kathy Abfalter, lives in Reno, Nev.

"My great-grandmother, Mrs. Rogers, offered me the chance to participate in the Youth for Understanding program. She is a former teacher, you know, and thought it would be a good experience for me," Lisa said.

"She said I could go any place I wanted to but I think she was hoping I would pick Australia. She had visited there and had many slides which I saw. She also told me a lot about the country. Added to that, we had neighbors in Ann Arbor who had come to this country from Australia.

"I guess those two things helped me decide. I thought that it would be less expensive to visit Europe on my own later on. That was another reason I chose Australia," Lisa explained.

Lisa was in San Francisco on Jan. 23 and joined more than 200 other students who flew to various parts of Australia to attend school until mid-July.

"Our winter started here, in December and their summer started at the same time, so I will be arriving there during summer, remaining through the fall and return when it's winter there. I've been told to bring summer clothes and to send my winter clothes by surface mail for use later on.

Lisa Abfalter

"The students wear uniforms. School will begin Feb. 5. I expect to be taking much the same classes as I have here," she continued.

Is she excited about the trip? "Oh yes, I think I am very lucky to have this opportunity. I am really grateful to my grandmother for making it possible for me to go. I'm really looking forward to meeting the people, learning about how they live though I don't expect it to be much different than what it is here. I've been busy learning about Australia since I've known I would be going there," she said enthusiastically.

Lisa said she'd learned a lot about the country during her "cram course." For instance, that all the major cities and settlements are along the coastline of the country which is the world's sixth largest and the only one which covers an entire continent; that Melbourne is the southern-most large city and the second largest in the country; that its located in the state of Victoria, one of the country's six states. She has also learned that the interior or, as the Aussies say, the "outback," is where the large sheep and cattle ranches are located and also the site of the large desert area.

"I know I'm going to enjoy every minute of the visit. I know I am going to like my 'family,' they sound so nice from their letters. There will be so much to see. It will be so different with its kangaroos and koala bears and all the other new and different things. I feel so lucky," she added, with a look that gave one the idea that it all still seemed like a dream.

Michigan Bell Service Bulletin

Important: Action you must take if your phone number begins with 547.

Now you have a choice of long distance companies for Dial 1 Plus service. Don't leave that choice to chance.

Watch the mail and make your choice soon.

If you have not already received it, you soon will be getting complete information from Michigan Bell by mail, along with a ballot listing your choices of Dial 1 Plus long distance companies. Your Dial 1 Plus options and the steps you should take are described in detail. And you will be given the date by which you must make your selection to avoid having a long distance company randomly selected for you.

If your phone number does not begin with the number above, don't worry. You will be notified when your area is ready for Dial 1 Plus service.

What is Dial 1 Plus?

Dial 1 Plus is simply dialing "1," plus the area code (when necessary), plus the telephone number to complete a long distance call outside of your LATA. Companies offering long distance service can now offer you the same Dial 1 Plus service previously available only to customers of AT&T.

Don't give up your right to choose.

As part of the restructuring of the telephone industry, you must choose a company for Dial 1 Plus service or such a company will be chosen for you. Should this happen, it will be a random selection by computer. We urge you to make your own choice—because a company selected at random will not necessarily be one that best serves your specific needs. The information you receive will include telephone numbers for the various long distance companies, so you can easily look into their services and charges before you make your choice.

Need more help? Let's Talk!

Michigan Bell cannot recommend a long distance company, but if you have any questions about Dial 1 Plus service, or if you have misplaced the ballot we mailed, just call the Michigan Bell Let's Talk Center at this toll-free number:

Planners save scenic zoning

by DOUG TRUAX

The Charlevoix Planning Commission unanimously rejected a proposed change in the city's scenic reserve zoning that would have opened Park Island and the Lake Charlevoix shoreline in front of the Belvedere and Chicago clubs to single family residences.

The areas currently zoned scenic reserve – two long strips on Lake Charlevoix and the Chicago Club's historic Park Island in Round Lake, also sometimes referred to as Old River Island – allow only "private boat docks, beaches, boat houses, cabanas and similar noncommercial lakefront uses."

The new zoning was proposed to bolster the city's tax case against the Chicago Club which has each year since 1981 contested the city's assessment of the club property, in part because the scenic reserve zoning limits the property's uses.

The Michigan Tax Tribunal and the Michigan Court of Appeals both ruled in favor of the Chicago Club's challenge to the city assessments for 1981 and 1982. The Tax Tribunal is expected to consider the more recent assessments sometime this summer.

One of those advocating the change in zoning is Kenneth Flaska, an attorney for Van Til, Kasiborski & Ronayne of Detroit, the firm arguing the city's case before the Tax Tribunal.

Flaska called the scenic reserve zoning on private property "clearly unconstitutional" and recommend-

Realtors settle on Ski & Shore name

by DOUG TRUAX

What's in a name?

In the high stakes game of real estate, plenty. And several parties were in court last week to prove just that.

At issue in Charlevoix's 33rd Circuit Court was the use of the well-known Ski and Shore name. On the one side was Dick Georgi, founder of Ski and Shore and, until recently, the owner of Ski and Shore offices in Charlevoix, Beaver Island, Boyne City and Vail and Avon, Colo.

On the other side was Ski and Shore, Michigan, a company Georgi had founded in 1969 but no longer owned, and David Campbell, attorney and real estate-businessman.

Soon after Georgi sold his Ski and Shore offices to the Minnesota-based Vacation Properties Network in early January, Campbell signed a deal with Ski and Shore, Michigan to start a new franchise in Charlevoix.

Georgi cried foul and sued in Circuit Court claiming that while he had sold the business assets to Vacation Properties Network he had not given up rights to the Ski and Shore name in Charlevoix.

"What we are concerned about is that the public is going to say that group we thought was Ski and Shore has gone up the street," Georgi said last week as he waited for the matter to be resolved in court.

"In addition to that, my position is I own the goodwill of Ski and Shore," he said.

Campbell planned to open the new Ski and Shore operation at his law office at 701 Bridge Street. Georgi had operated his Ski and Shore business, now Vacation Properties Network, at the corner of Bridge and Park Avenue.

Campbell, who moved to Charlevoix two years ago when he bought the law practice of Michael Gibbons, has been a real estate broker for 11 years and his law firm in Charlevoix has specialized in real estate and administrative law.

He is a former administrative law judge for the State Liquor Control Commission and was in the state legislature for four years.

KUDOS FOR PERFORMERS

The cast of "Oklahoma" sings a rousing finale.

"Oklahoma" cast takes top district honors

The Charlevoix High School Performing Arts team with its rendition of Rodgers and Hammerstein's musical "Oklahoma" won a I rating in Class C-D district competition at Saginaw Community College Saturday to advance to the regionals in two weeks.

The team of 64 members was one of three to receive the top rating. The others were St. Johns and Standish-Sterling. Seven teams competed in Class C-D.

The Charlevoix team has advanced to the state finals for the past four years and won top honors three of those four years.

Connie Ford, faculty director, said the team scored very high, winning high points as a cast and coming away with individual honors.

Out of a possible 15 points in the acting and vocal categories, the Charlevoix cast received 14 and 13 points, respectively. The cast also received special recognition for costumes.

Individual recognition was awarded two members of the cast. Kristen McLelland received and "Excellence" for her interpretation as Ado Annie and Rusty Coolman a "Superior" for his Will Parker.

Ford gave special credit to Valerie Barnes, who, in her role as Aunt Eller, was given the role of narrator throughout the production. Ford explained that in high school competition, time limits are established on any production. In this category, the limit is 45 minutes for a play that would normally run at least two hours.

In order to keep the thread of the story intact, Barnes, in her comic role as Aunt Eller, was delegated the difficult role of relating the story through her narration.

"We did not decide to use this method until two weeks ago. When Valerie has more time to work on it,

Charlevoix student picked for Air Force Academy

by SARA GAY DAMMANN

The United States Air Force Academy announced, through Congressman Robert Davis' office last Wednesday, that Charlevoix High School senior Russell ("Rusty") Coolman has been awarded an appointment to the academy for the 1987 freshman class. Rusty is the son of John and Diane Coolman of Charlevoix.

Coolman, who also has been nominated to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, is the third Charlevoix High School senior to win an appointment to the Air Force Academy. Chris Henkel, a 1979 Charlevoix High School graduate won appointments to both academies and graduated from the Naval Academy. Thomas Mort in 1974 was appointed to and attended the Air Force Academy.

Coolman is awaiting word of his acceptance to the Naval Academy before making his selection.

The Process of applying to the military academies has been arduous, according to Coolman and his parents. The goal driving the dream has been the ambition to fly, to study aeronautical engineering and eventually to get into space exploration.

According to Congressman Davis' spokesman, some 14,000 students seek nominations to the academy. About 6,000 receive the nominations, an honor in itself. Only 1,400 actually receive appointments.

Rusty Coolman

Charlevoix High School Principal Dave Smith reacted with enthusiasm to Coolman's appointment.

"I think it's great. Rusty's just the kind of guy who will represent our school well. And it's got to be a favorable reflection on our school. Our teachers can really be proud."

"We have lots of opportunities here and anything is possible if you take advantage of them," Smith observed.

Last Wednesday, Coolman was deep into his physics class when a note from the principal's office summoned him to the telephone.

"All I could imagine was that something was wrong at home," he recalled. Coolman was interviewed during a break in his Performing Arts team's rehearsals of "Oklahoma," in which he plays the role of Will.

"The office staff went nuts when they heard it was Davis' representative Don Wickersham offering me the appointment," Coolman recalled, amazement still evident on his own face.

According to his parents, Coolman began to think of the military academies early in his freshman year. He had been inspired by Henkel's appointment and his own dream of flying.

It's meant a lot of pressure, a lot of attention to grades and test scores," his mother remembered. "This was not something that happened overnight. At times he has been a driven kid. He has set goals and gone for them.

The actual process of seeking a nomination to the academies began in April 1986. The student and his parents faced mountains of paperwork and extensive interviews. Coolman wrote and rewrote essays about himself, his goals and his values. He went to Washington, D.C., for interviews, Air Force officers came to Charlevoix. His high school achievements and activities were scrutinized.

Coolman is a member of the National Honor Society, vice president of the student council, president of the local chapter of SADD, a member of the Keep Charlevoix Beautiful Board of Directors, and active with the Community Reformed Youth Group. He has won a varsity letter in skiing, won the regional doubles for the tennis team in 1986, won sixth place in "Story Telling" in Performing Arts, has held major roles in drama presentations, and two years ago traveled to Europe with the U.S. sailboard team.

Charlevoix Schools' Superintendent Gordon VanWieren observed, "Rusty is the kind of kid that should be considered. He is well rounded academically and extra curricularly and, most important, a hard worker."

She thinks the boy standing between her and Virginia Taylor could be Lee Scott).

Solid waste committee begins work

by PEG OHLE

The Charlevoix County Solid Waste Committee held its first meeting last week to begin revising and updating the present County Solid Waste Management Plan.

The 13-member committee was appointed by the County Board of Commissioners to bring the present plan up-to-date as required by law.

Personnel of the committee is also mandated by law to include four persons representing the solid waste industry, three representing the general public, two representing the environment, one representing the county board, one representing the townships, one representing the cities, and one representing the Regional Planning Commission.

In order of areas of interests as noted above, the committee members are: Tad Malpass of East Jordan, C. H. Smith of Charlevoix, Alfred J. Hass of Walloon Lake, and Dawson Way of Charlevoix; Ralph Richardson of Charlevoix, Tom Wieland of Charlevoix, and Nancy Ferguson of Charlevoix; Phil Johnson of Boyne City and Larry Levengood of Charlevoix; Don Smith of Charlevoix; Junior Hunt of Boyne Falls; Randy Frykberg of Boyne City; and Dennis Jason of East Jordan.

Wieland was elected temporary chairman of the committee, pending organization at a later meeting. The next two meeting dates have been established as February 26 at 8 p.m. and March 26 at 7:30 p.m.

County Planner Larry Sullivan, who will work with the committee, said it will probably take about two years to write and receive all necessary approvals of the new Solid Waste Plan.

"After they finish writing the plan, the committee must hold 90 days of public hearings to receive comments from the public", Sullivan explained.

"After they consider these comments and act upon them, the committee will then approve the plan and send it to the County Planning Commission for consideration and approval. Then it will be sent to the County Board for consideration and approval, and after that it will go to the 15 townships, three cities, and one village in the county for their consideration and approval.

"Fifty-seven percent, or 13 of these units of government, must approve the plan before it can go to the State Department of Natural Resources for its consideration and approval. When we get the DNR approval, we will finally have a new legal Solid Waste Management Plan".

The present plan has been in effect since 1983, and since that time there have been several changes in possible methods of waste disposal, according to Sullivan.

Two disposal sites outside the county that served as "back up" sites for use as necessary have been closed, leaving only the Charlevoix Garbage Service Landfill in Eveline Township as a nearby operating disposal site.

Also, since the last plan was written, more has been learned about recycling and incineration of solid waste. Both of these methods of disposal will be studied by the committee, Sullivan said.

Council approves cable TV feasibility study

Mayor's vote breaks deadlock

by DOUG TRUAX

City Council Monday authorized a $5,5000 study to explore the feasibility of a city-owned cable TV system.

Mayor Ralph McRae cast the deciding vote after council deadlocked 3-3 on the issue. "We are a long way from getting into a cable system. It will be up to the feasibility study to tell us what to do," McRae said.

The council action does not specify who will conduct the study, but city electrical consultant Roger Westenbroek has submitted the $5,500 proposal at the request of the city. Councilman Robert Timms, however, suggested the city explore other options.

"I feel $5,500 is a fair amount of money and if we can get it (the study) for less, we should," Timms said.

Voting for the feasibility study were council members Timms, Earl Muma and Shirley Roloff. Voting against it were William Haggard, William Bellows and Norm Probert.

The council began to investigate a city-owned cable system after Northern Cable TV, the company currently operating in the city, announced it would raise prices effective May 1 from $12 to $14.95 for the basic package of programs. Northern also said it would include six new channels in the basic package.

Since then Northern has announced the rate increases will be scaled back to $14.45.

The city has also entertained a proposal from John Kintz III of Bayshore Cablevision to install cable in the city and offer a basic 12-program package for $10.70.

Under deregulation legislation effective Jan. 1, 1987 governmental agencies can no longer control the rates charged by cable companies.

Among those at Monday's meeting urging the study be done was former mayor Ken Staley. "I would like to go on record in favor of making a study to make an intelligent decision on what we should do," Staley said.

He noted the city spent $100,000 to study the water system. The cost of the cable study, he said, was "a rather small amount for the business volume being done in Charlevoix today."

Also advocating the study was Michael Greeley, former councilman and owner of the Wharf Side Market. "You have a responsibility to seek the cheapest way to do this," he said. Of the municipally owned systems operating in Michigan, Greeley said, all have been shown to be cheaper than the private systems.

Fishermen rescued after chilly wait

After drifting on Little Traverse Bay in a 14-foot aluminum boat for approximately 24 hours during a severe snow storm and in temperatures as low as 10 degrees, two Brimley commercial fishermen were lifted from their craft at 8:06 a.m. Friday and flown to safety by the U.S. Coast Guard helicopter out of Traverse City.

The pair, Mark LeBlanc, 26, and Mervin Teeple, 31, were taken to the Harbor Springs airport and transported via ambulance to Little Traverse Hospital where they were treated for exposure and released, according to hospital authorities.

The men were reported overdue early Friday by friends who called Coast Guard Group Soo which alerted the Charlevoix Coast Guard station at 5:10 a.m. Friday. At the same time, the air station was called and took to the air at daybreak.

The storm had subsided by the time the rescue was begun and the men were sighted in their small craft approximately a half mile off Big Rock Point. In the interim, the Charlevoix lifeboat station and the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department had initiated a search of the Lake Michigan shoreline on Little Traverse Bay.

The fishermen said they launched their small boat at the Nine Mile Point launching site at approximately 7 a.m. Thursday and were out on the bay when their outboard motor "conked out" about 9 a.m. During the day there had been snow flurries and a heavy snowfall dropped six inches of snow on the area during the late afternoon and through the night.

The men's pickup truck and trailer were located at Nine Mile Point by the searchers.

School Board backs special millage vote

by FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix Board of Education, at its regular meeting Monday night, gave its approval to an election resolution that will ask voters for the renewal and increase of millage for the education of handicapped students in the Char-Em Intermediate School District.

The resolution was proposed by the Char-Em Intermediate School District and will be on the ballot in a special election scheduled for Monday, April 7.

The school board also approved a hazard communication policy that requires all hazardous materials used for any purpose in the school and related buildings to be inventoried and labeled as hazardous.

Ardeth Wieland, treasurer of the board of education, was named to represent the board at the Char-Em budget hearing.

David J. Smith, high school principal, advised the board that Sally Sikavitsas had been engaged as a substitute for the second semester to teach a one-hour English class previously taught by Spanish teacher, Ted Miller, to release him to teach a Spanish class at the middle school.

Miller will be leaving April 1 to teach at a Japanese University. Smith announced that Theresa Dean, an Alma College graduate, has been hired as a substitute to take over the Spanish program at both the high school and middle school at that time.

Vane Smith, elementary school principal, advised the board that the K-5 school on Division Ave. was open Monday through Thursday from 4 to 9 p.m. to allow senior citizens to walk through the halls thus allowing them a safe place to exercise. As of Monday more than 30 area residents were taking advantage of the new exercise area.

Seniors swim in E. Jordan

Senior citizens in Charlevoix County will soon be able to go swimming twice a week.

According to Sue Brill, director of the Charlevoix County Senior Citizens Center in East Jordan, the new swimming pool at the East Jordan High School will be open to all senior citizens in the county, free of charge, from 9:30 a.m. to 11:00 a.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Mrs. Brill also reports that the Senior Center is trying to coordinate bus transportation for the swimming periods.

Those interested in the swimming program should call Mrs. Brill at the Senior Center, 536-7831.

Recently elected to the board of directors of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, Inc. were Darrell Linder, left, and Pat McKeown. Linder also serves as first vice president and was recently elected supervisor of Norwood Township. KCB plans to have its new petunia truck in use for Operation Petunia 1987 on May 21.

The Charlevoix County Youth Activities Department has arranged to have a dance instructor from the McCune Arts Center offer lessons in Charlevoix. The classes are held on Tuesdays at 2:30 in the lower level of the Charlevoix Public Library. Shown above learning the fun of dancing are Sarah Schofield (center) and Janelle Malewitz.

Gathering ordinance set

Charlevoix County may soon have an ordinance to govern outdoor mass gatherings.

At the request of the Charlevoix County Chapter of the Michigan Townships Association, Prosecutor Kraag Lieberman has prepared a proposed ordinance which he presented to the County Board of Commissioners last week for their study and approval.

The ordinance would cover gatherings of more than 2,000 people for purposes of exhibition, show, display, entertainment, amusement, or others, including, but not limited to, music festivals, rock concerts, peace festivals, or other similar gatherings.

Not covered by the ordinance are events sponsored by a governmental unit on publicly owned land or events held inside permanently enclosed or covered structures.

The ordinance would require producers of events under its jurisdiction to meet specific regulations and obtain licenses for each event.

Before it becomes law, the proposed ordinance must be adopted by the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners, approved by the Governor, and published in a newspaper of general circulation in the county.

Picture yourself in your own home.

The Michigan State Housing Development Authority (MSHDA) and local lending institutions have two programs to help low- and moderate-income Michigan people buy or build a home.

1) The MSHDA Single Family Home Loan Program currently offers 20- or 30-year fixed-rate mortgage loans at 8.5%, which require low minimum down payments.

2) The Michigan Mortgage Credit Certificate Program (MCCs) provides a federal income tax credit (up to 20% of the interest paid on the loan) that gives you more income to qualify for a mortgage and to make monthly payments. Lenders use their own interest rates, and the MCC effectively lowers your monthly house payment.

Both programs have income and purchase price limits which vary for new and existing homes.

Only a limited number of homebuyers can be assisted by the programs. You've got nothing to gain by waiting, and a lot to gain by acting now.

Call the toll-free hotline 1-800-327-9158 for pamphlets and lists of participating lenders.

Or you may call (517) 373-6840 (Single Family Loans) or (517) 335-2039 (Michigan Mortgage) for more information.

What ever happened to service

'Round Town

EDITH GILBERT

Two weeks ago Edith Gilbert first proposed the subject of this week's column — the deplorable state of service in several area restaurants. It was with some surprise, and a little satisfaction, that we noted this week's "Time" magazine cover story on the same subject. Seems we are not alone.

Editor

RESTAURANT RUMBLINGS: Going out to a nice restaurant for dinner has become, according to the National Restaurant Association, a favorite form of entertainment. People celebrate their birthdays, anniversaries and holidays by going out to dinner.

Important clients are taken out to dine. Special friends from out of town are wined and dined in the best restaurant in the area. High school seniors carefully choose where they will go before the prom. Men and women celebrate a raise or promotion by eating out!

Restaurant owners know what an important role they play in our lives, and that's why they have paid more attention to the atmosphere and decor – to such things as sunset views, pastel tablecloths, crystal chandeliers, as well as to the tantalizing presentation of novel, gourmet menus with blackened fish, delicate pastas, fresh vegetables, spicy salads, and tempting desserts.

and that was the Colonial Club. Here there was music and dancing among the potted palms, in addition to roulette tables.

Only summer people, who were properly introduced, were admitted to the private gambling casino. Italian tuxedoed waiters tip-toed among the tables where women wore long gowns and men wore black ties at weekend dinner parties. It was all very posh.

Today the "come as you are" style of dress prevails. One can go to the finest restaurant in any resort and see the diners dressed in casual outfits. Short sleeved shirts on men often outnumber the sport jackets two to one! This relaxed atmosphere is admittedly fun for skiers, golfers and other vacationers, but what happens to SERVICE?

HA! The service is just as relaxed as the vacationers. And this can cause problems. In fact, lately it's the topic of discussion wherever I go.

Recently, four of us went out to dinner. We ordered dessert. The waitress brought the dessert without clearing the bread and butter, the little foil papers the butter comes wrapped in, the torn wrappers of sugar packets, the cocktail glasses, etc. When she brought the check, the bottles of catsup and salad dressing were still on the table!

Then there was the time someone gave a delightful birthday party for 12 at a good restaurant. Time for the birthday cake to arrive and the table looked like East Park after Venetian Festival! I whispered to the waitress would she please have the busboy clear the table. A sweet little boy walked around the table–and didn't know what to do! No one had told him to empty ashtrays, clear the cocktail glasses and so forth.

Another time a new waitress approached our table and said, "What would you GUYS like to order?" She kept addressing us as, "You Guys" all evening! But that's nothing to the ninny, who asked a group of diners in one of our better restaurants, "Everybody who wants fish, raise your hand!"

SEVERAL TIMES the so-called "hostess" in a restaurant has made me feel like a pitiful waif, when she said to me, "Are you all by yourself?" instead of, "Table for one?"

Being kept waiting is also a major problem. Without proper waitress training, guests are ignored. They often walk out, or if they stay, they never return.

Fortunately, we were amused when our waitress came to our table and said very pleasantly, "Is everything all right?" and she was told, "No, the steak is too well done," or some such thing. Completely bewildered, she disappeared, and we never saw HER again.

YEARS AGO, I've been told, there was a training course in Charlevoix given to waiters, waitresses and busboys before they were allowed to serve a meal in a good restaurant. What a pity that's gone by the boards.

The National Restaurant Association's education department offers a variety of training books available to restaurant owners that are very helpful. I have found young people eager and willing to learn. It's too bad the owners don't take the time to teach their staff how to handle us with more grace. There's a world of difference between working as a skilled waitress in a coffee shop or knowing how to treat guests, who are out for an evening of pleasure, in a fine restaurant.

Wouldn't it be nice if someone would address this issue of training once more? It could be done through our adult education system or perhaps the Chamber of Commerce could sponsor such a program in behalf of all the restaurants.

If the city of Charlevoix expects to compete with the surrounding area, it behooves us to pay attention to how we treat our visitors. It certainly would boost business in our town.

Gung Ho

Clockwise BY BOB CLOCK

When the new TV sitcom "Gung Ho" comes on the air Friday nights, I cringe.

The program, in case you have missed it, is about a Japanese manufacturing company that sets up shop in the United States. The main characters are the Japanese managers and their American hirelings and there is a lot of good-natured dialogue based on cultural differences.

And I wish I could enjoy the program as much as other members of my family. But I can't, even though I spent quite a bit of time in Japan during the Korean War and developed a real fine rapport with just about every Japanese with whom I came in contact. Real nice people. Friendly. Courteous. Obliging. Helpful. Smart as the dickens.

And the Japanese have a great sense of humor.

But what are Japanese nationals doing in the United States running factories?

Of course it is no secret that manufacturing plants are springing up all around us built with Japanese capital and run by Japanese managers, but employing America labor, paid union scale wages, to provide merchandise for the American market — with the profits going back to Japan.

You figure it out. It's beyond me.

What has happened to turn the United States — the world's foremost industrialized nation up until a few years ago — into some kind of Third World workshop for foreign entrepreneurs?

Of course, our trade imbalance with Japanese in recent years has been frightful. When Americans discovered both the quality and economy of buying Japanese, there was no stopping them. And there still isn't. The Japanese have responded by moving in and building the same products closer to their best customers.

In some cases, American businesses have joined forces with their Japanese competitors to effect the turnaround. Strange. Very strange.

How is it all going to end? I have no idea. But I do know that the United States is going to have to meet the competition head on insofar as quality and price are concerned if it intends to control its own economic future.

In recent months the value of the American dollar on foreign markets has dropped steadily, a situation hailed by some economists as one means of getting the country back into the production ballgame. The rationale is that a devalued dollar should make imports more expensive — and less attractive — to American buyers.

But I still believe allowing the dollar to sag is a poor substitute for old fashioned Yankee ingenuity and industrial know-how.

Judy, who enjoys "Gung Ho" immensely and objects to my continual groaning when it is on the air, claims the difference between Japan and the United States is that Japan — a relative newcomer to mass production and mass markets — is still product-oriented, whereas the United States has lost the old belly-fire of Henry Ford and others who were more interested in products than profits — and made a ton of money because of it.

And she is probably right. She usually is.

Letters to the editor:

Nuclear arms testing should be delayed pending Geneva talks

Dear Editor:

Are we reaching the point of no return?

This week another nuclear test is scheduled by the United States thereby ending a great opportunity to slow the arms race. The Russians say they will end their year-and-a-half moratorium on testing if the U.S. goes ahead with this test Thursday.

The tests, which cost from $30 to $70 million each, are for designing a third generation of nuclear weapons, e.g., a nuclear trigger for lasers on space vehicles. These experiments on behalf of the Strategic Defense Initiative (Star - Wars) continue despite warnings by scientists that the lasers could produce vast firestorms on cities below.

In addition to losing this opportunity for arms control, a key argument against SDI is that the Soviets could counter Star Wars for much less money than the trillion dollars or more it would cost the U.S. to build it.

Legislation that will cut funds for nuclear testing was introduced in the House by Reps. Schroeder and Gephardt. Ask Congressman Bob Davis to co-sponsor their bill, HR 12, and to urge the Pentagon to delay any further tests while the Geneva talks continue.

WATCH scholarship applications encouraged from area students

Dear Editor:

To the parents and senior-high school students of the Charlevoix County area: Applications are now available for the 1987 WATCH Scholarship program. Remember this essay contest is a local-only available opportunity.

To encourage involvement and understanding of our natural resources, this year's topic is "Solid Waste in Northern Michigan: What are the Alternatives?"

One $1,000 scholarship and two $500 scholarships are available for award winning essays.

These scholarships are for seniors who are going to a college, vocational or technical school. This is a good chance to help reduce college expenses and show interest in an important environmental issue.

For more detailed information, please contact your counselor or myself at WATCH, Inc., P.O. Box 615, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

Beacons of Blessing

A devotional column prepared
by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association

by Pastor David W. Yingling
Charlevoix and Greensky Hill
United Methodist Churches

In the name of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ, I bring you greetings!

"Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who has blessed us in Christ with every Spiritual blessing–even as he chose us in him before the foundation of the world, that we should be holy and blameless before him. He destined us in love to be his children through Jesus Christ, according to the purpose of his will, to the praise of his glorious grace (love) which he freely bestowed on us in the Beloved. In him we have redemption." (Ephesians 1:1-7)

The Lord is my (our) light and, (our) salvation (Psalm 27) with His light, what then, "Look! Listen! Care!" Look at the neighbor beside us, listen to the neighbors needs, and care for that neighbor.

1) Knowing Christ as Savior means to look: —at the people, racing, chasing after–what?

2) Having Christ as Savior means to listen: —to voices that stir us to work for peace.

3) Proclaiming Christ as Savior means to care: —by giving a child a hand to hold.

Lord let our light shine for the glory of God. Amen.

Know your Chamber

By JACQUIE MERTA
Executive Director

What is a Chamber membership worth? What should it cost? More than the cost of a gallon of milk a week or a tank of gas for an LTD a month. Is the Chamber worth "one cup of coffee a day?"

In fact the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce doesn't get the cost of "one cup of coffee a day" through our minimum membership investment. Frankly, I don't believe anyone can do anything cheaper than join the Chamber. Maybe it's because we conscientiously invest your money and operate on less money than the Chamber needs.

It takes two, the Chamber and you: The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce needs you! Your participation and membership investment play an essential part in the strength, status and improvement of the Charlevoix area. During the past year, the Chamber has made substantial progress in its continuing efforts to make Charlevoix a better, more profitable place to carry on business.

We thank those firms that have renewed their membership in the Chamber. With such allies, we will continue to do our best to build a good environment for business. Cooperation is also essential with other organizations, government officials and responsible groups in our common efforts to improve the private enterprise system. A prosperous business system is absolutely necessary for the well being of all.

Cooperation and better communication among responsible groups also are essential if we are to attain higher levels of economic well being and opportunity.

We welcome your comments and your inquiries.

Hospice receives support for Silent Doll Auction

Dear Editor:

On behalf of the Charlevoix County Hospice Board of Directors, volunteers and members, I want to thank the Northwestern State Bank for again having the wonderful Silent Doll Auction for Hospice. This project is a success because of the dedication of such terrific employees. They not only put in time, but they put in their caring hearts! Thanks to Donna Drenth, Joan Lemerand, Annella Nachazel, Vicky Olson, Jeannette Avery, Ruth Handy and Harriett Urman.

Special thanks to Northwestern State Bank for supporting such a wonderful project for Hospice. This is the fourth year that they hae done this for us, and it is truly a project people wait to have start so they can get involved.

Without the people dressing the dolls, and the ones making the silent bids, this would not be a successful fundraiser. Thanks to these wonderful people too.

We certainly cannot forget to thank the merchants who are always so generous in giving gifts for prizes. There are so many people who help make this such a success.

The Charlevoix County Hospice appreciates all the caring and sharing people who make the Silent Doll Auction such a success!

Obituaries

Robert W. Taylor

Funeral services for Robert W. Taylor, 76, of rural Ellsworth, were held at the Hastings Funeral Home Wednesday, Feb. 4. The Rev. Estel Clark of the Grace Community Church in Central Lake officiated. Interment was in the Ellsworth Cemetery.

Mr. Taylor died Thursday, Jan. 29, at his Banks Township home.

Born in Charlevoix County to Harry and Elizabeth (Carson) Taylor on Oct. 5, 1910, Mr. Taylor was engaged in farming in Banks Township most of his life. He never married.

He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Rhoda Evans, and a brother, Ernest Taylor, both of Ellsworth and several nieces and nephews.

The family suggests memorials to the Meadowbrook Medical Care Facility in Bellaire. Envelopes for this purpose are available at the Hastings Funeral Home.

Herbert Kipke

Herbert Kipke, 80, of Lansing, brother of Ray L. Kipke of Charlevoix, died Friday, Jan. 23, at Sparrow Hospital in Lansing.

Funeral services were held Monday, Jan. 26, at the Estes Funeral Home in Lansing. Interment was at Evergreen Cemetery in Sheridan.

A lifelong resident of Lansing, Mr. Kipke headed the city parks department for 33 years before retiring in 1970. He was a former professor of recreation administration at Central Michigan University and was past president of the Michigan Recreation Parks Association.

Surviving are his wife, Mary Ann; a daughter, Camilla Horowitz; four sons, Charles, Herbert II, John and Curtis; 18 grandchildren, six great-grandchildren and one brother, Ray L. Kipke of Charlevoix.

Charlevoix to celebrate first Band Day

by FRAN MARTIN

Friday, March 6, has been designated as the first annual Band Day in Charlevoix.

The day will climax a month-long fund raising campaign on behalf of the band program at the Charlevoix Public Schools and in recognition of the bands many services to the community, Don Voisin, president of the Band Boosters said.

"The band is an organization that offers a great deal to the community but receives little recognition for its efforts," Voisin said. "Their list of services is impressive, and the community has come to expect them. We, as members of the Band Boosters, feel that the band, in turn, should receive some recognition for their efforts which are never ending."

The Charlevoix band program is directed by Terry Isenbarger and assisted by Evelyn Wujcik.

The special Band Day will feature a series of events, Voisin said, beginning this week with the raffle of a grand prize of $500 donated by the Medusa Cement Company. Tickets will go on sale this week at $1 each for six for $5 and continue until March 6.

Numerous lesser prizes will also be given at the drawing to be held during the Charlevoix-Gaylord basketball game on March 6. Special sales will be featured at all home basketball games during the month of February.

> "If the campaign is a success, we plan to establish a sinking fund for the purchase of new uniforms ..."
> Don Voisin
> President, Band Boosters

On Band Day the Band Boosters will sponsor their now-famous spaghetti supper at the high school cafeteria so fans may enjoy dinner before attending the game. At the same game the Band Boosters will share in the 50-50 prize.

Following the Charlevoix-Gaylord game, the band students will sponsor the after-game dance to which all students in the area are invited.

Voisin said that the Band Boosters have contributed in excess of $8,000 to the program in the past four years. "This is money that has been raised the hard way...by spaghetti suppers, by special sales by band members and other events sponsored by the support group."

Major items financed by the group include a band shell, sweatered for the middle school band, a marimba, four new uniforms at $400 each, the annual cleaning of the uniforms at a minimum of $700, scholarships for music students to Blue Lake Music Camp and underwriting the cost of the band to attend the Michigan High School Band and Orchestra Association finals in Lansing in 1986 at a cost of $1,200.

"If the campaign is a success, we plan to establish a sinking fund for the purchase of new uniforms to replace the ones presently in use. Uniforms cost $400 each the cost is likely to increase. We propose to establish the sinking fund so the financial burden will not be so great when that time comes," Voisin explained.

The band program in the Charlevoix schools involves some 200 students. It begins in the sixth grade where 60 students are presently involved. The program develops into seventh and eighth grade bands whose members eventually join the high school marching and symphonic bands.

The marching band of approximately 70 members begin work on its routines in mid-August in preparation for the opening football game in early September and continues practice during school hours and one night a week during the football season in preparation for its halftime show at all home games.

After the season, the marching band presents its annual fall concert, students audition for the Honors Band and later play with the band of some 80 plus students in a massed band concert, present a Christmas concert, prepare for the annual District II Solo and Ensemble Festival and the District II Band Festival. The middle school bands prepare for their respective festivals and participation in the State Festivals later in the spring.

Each week during the basketball season, the Pep Band plays at all Friday night home games and pep rallies, all bands join in presenting the annual spring concert, the marching band participates in the Memorial Day parade, the symphonic band plays at commencement and the marching band leads the Venetian Festival parade in July.

"As a way of saying 'thank you' to all the music students who have contributed their time and talent for seven years, we would like to send the seniors of the band on a special trip to a music-related event in a metropolitan area so they could enjoy a performance instead of performing themselves," Voisin said.

Members of the Band Boosters also assist with the alterations of band uniforms to fit an ever-changing group of students.

Members of the committee for the Band Day chaired by Voisin are Steve and Nancy Agnew, Anne Kelly, Jeannie Lignell and Vicki Voisin.

Sandbags available to stop spring flooding

by PEG OHLE

Spring isn't far away, and when it comes, with its melting snow and ice, the levels of lakes and streams will rise.

Winter started with record high lake levels, and spring run-off will bring new records. Flooding will be common-place in many areas along Lake Michigan, Lake Charlevoix, and the tributaries leading to them.

In anticipation of these problems, the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers has set up a "Self Help" program for protection of property in danger of flood damage.

The program includes distribution, free of charge, of sandbags and plastic sheeting to enable communities and individuals to construct sandbag barriers.

Locally, distribution of the sandbags and plastic sheeting has been turned over to the Charlevoix County Emergency Services Department.

Earl Muma, Emergency Services Director, has ordered 700,000 sandbags for use in the cities in the county and another 70,000 for individual homeowners in danger areas.

Muma has application forms and will assist applicants in figuring the number of sandbags and amount of plastic sheeting necessary for a given number of feet of floodproofing. Muma can also supply the name of companies selling sand.

While sandbags and plastic sheeting will protect most shoreline areas from flood damage, other, heavier materials may be needed for spots with more serious problems. One such device is a wire gabion basket, which is filled with stone and placed in permanent position along the shoreline. Muma also has the names of suppliers of these baskets.

In addition to shoreline flooding help from the Army Corps of Engineers, Charlevoix County is receiving shoreline erosion help from the Emergency Management Division of the Michigan State Police.

A grant in the amount of $10,000 has gone to Charlevoix Township to repair damage and provide protection along Lake Shore Drive; $10,000 has also gone to Peaine Township for shoreline protection; and another $5,100 has gone to St. James Township for similar work.

Further information about both programs may be obtained from Earl Muma, Charlevoix County Emergency Services Director, 1000 Grant Street, Charlevoix, phone 547-6087 or 547-4461.

Masons stage comeback

The Masons won by 326 points Thursday night to trim the Oddfellows lead to 129 points in the annual Mason-Oddfellow cribbage tournament now in play Ted Pennell Jr., tournament secretary, has announced. Going into play on the fourth night of the tournament, the Oddfellows held a 455 point lead.

With 7½ tables in action the Masons won by 326 points, scoring 413 to the Oddfellows 87.

Thurmond McKinney was high for the winners with a score of 956. Jeff Dean had 944 for the Oddfellows.

The tournament will be staged at the Masonic Temple Thursday.

Income Tax Preparation

ITEMIZING DEDUCTIONS

QUESTION: My wife and I had a joint income of $17,000 last year. Our deductions, including contributions, interest, taxes and medical expenses, totaled $3,420. Would it benefit us to itemize?

ANSWER: Your zero bracket amount is $3,540; therefore, it would be to your advantage to itemize your deductions only if they exceed that amount. Since you already have $3,420 in deductions, it may benefit you to have your expenses reviewed by a competent tax preparer to see if you might have any additional items such as education expenses, union dues, tax return preparation fee, or income production expenses. Then if your total deductions exceed $3,540, it is to your advantage to itemize.

Skiers place 2nd at Nub's Nob

The Charlevoix Rayders had firsts in both the slalom and the giant slalom from Lauren Pace and Wes Cumberland in the five-team meet at Nub's Nob Thursday. The Rayders placed second in both the boys and girls events.

Petoskey took first in the boys meet with 34 points; Charlevoix had 79, Harbor Springs 94, Grayling 139 and Sault Ste. Marie 185.

Harbor Springs took the girls meet with 35 followed by Charlevoix with 86, Petoskey 92, Grayling 104 and the Soo 185.

Coach Erik Lundtelgen said he was very pleased with the performances of Cumberland and Pace. "They were very competitive. They skied very well. Erber also had a great day. However, the teams still have to improve their consistency before the conference and the regional meets. We're not where we want to be yet."

In the boys' meet Cumberland had firsts in both the giant slalom and the slalom; Erber, 8th in the giant slalom and 3rd in the slalom; Charlie Witthoeft 23rd in giant slalom and 1tth in slalom; Heath Moore, 15th in giant slalom and 14th in slalom; Curt McCandless, 20th in both events; Dan Bickersteth, 21st in giant slalom and 17th in slalom.

In the girls competition, Pace was first in both the giant slalom and the slalom; Allison Hall, 3rd in the giant slalom and 31st in the slalom; Wendy Voison 11th in giant slalom and 12th in slalom; Christy Coolman, 17th in giant slalom and 17th in slalom; Carla Hoffman, 18th in giant slalom and 22nd in slalom; Monica Havens, 28th in giant slalom and 21st in slalom.

Competing on the B teams were Matt Dixon, Jake Smith, Jason Fettig, Chris Seymour, Ryan Holmes and Matt Miller for the boys and Cynthia Boydston, Susi Healey and Jennifer Kelly.

The team will be at the Michigan-Huron Shores conference meet at Nub's Nob on Thursday, Feb. 12 and at the regional meet at Schuss Mountain the following Thursday.

Wrestlers 4th in Charlevoix tourney

Pinconning, with a 4-0 record, won the annual Charlevoix round robin wrestling tournament held Saturday at Charlevoix High School.

Gaylord (3-0) placed second followed by St. Ignace (2-2), Charlevoix (1-3) and Cheboygan (0-4). The sixth team, Munising, failed to make it to the tournament because of severe weather conditions in the U.P.

Pinconning had six undefeated medal winners, Charlevoix four, St. Ignace two and Gaylord one.

Coach Greg Bryan said that the Rayders were short three weight classes and against strong teams like St. Ignace, Gaylord and Pinconning the Rayders could not keep up.

Bryan said Pinconning was the best balanced team he had seen this year.

"Charlevoix had the second highest number of medal winners and that was satisfying," Bryan said. "As a coach, it is rewarding to see our wrestlers participating, executing their moves and demonstrating a high level of skill and knowledge even though they may not win. Every time a Rayder wrestler steps on the mat he's in the match and that is a pleasant feeling for a change."

The medal winners for Charlevoix were:

- Toby Young (98) 4-0, who breezed through his matches.
- Shaan Bier (132), 4-0, wrestling in a tough weight class who had three pins and a 2-2 tie score against St. Ignace's Steve Frazier.
- Derek Dutcher (198) 4-0, who had three pins and a come-from-behind 10-7 decision over a Pinconning wrestler.
- Bill Marquardt (heavy weight), 4-0 who had three pins and an 8-5 decision over Jim Petosh of St Ignace. "Marquardt utilized more moves than I've seen any big man use in one day," Bryan said.
- Jason Whitley (138), 3-1 whose only loss was to Chad Wieland of Pinconning, a class B quality wrestler to whom he lost by a 14-11 decision.
- Jim Tilton (185), 3-1, whose only loss was to a Pinconning champion by a pin in 1:27.

Other Rayder wrestlers included Scott Novotny (112), 1-3, who lost tough matches by close decisions; Brian Livingston (119), 1-3; Steve Hopkins (145), 0-4, who wrestled up a weight class; Jamie Montieth (155), 1-3, who also wrestled up a weight class to help the team out and ran into some tough competition.

Grapplers take two

The Charlevoix Rayder grapplers returned from Mancelona Tuesday with a pair of victories, a 47-17 win over Mancelona and a 59-14 victory over Kalkaska's junior varsity.

"It was a good warmup match for our tournament on Saturday," Coach Greg Bryan said. "We looked sharp and our technique was what did it for us. Mancelona was a strong physical team but our execution was much better."

Steve Hopkins (145) was named the wrestler of the week by Coach Bryan "Steve wrestled well, winning both matches on pins. He is our utility man and this is the first time he has wrestled in his own weight class," Bryan said.

Shaan Bier (132) had the fastest takedown, :10, and the quickest pin, :35.

The results of the meet with Mancelona follow:

98: Toby Young won by forfeit.

105: R. Hudson of Mancelona won by forfeit.

112: Scott Novotny pinned Dan Sweet in 1:40.

119: Brian Livingston was outpointed 9-3 by D. Wayne.

126: W. Barton of Mancelona won by forfeit.

132: Bier pinned C. Williams in :35.

138: Jason Whitley outpointed T. Spink 14-4.

145: Hopkins pinned D. Thornburg in 1:30.

155: Jamie Montieth pinned J. Dupie in 3:36.

167: Steve Melios outpointed M. Helfevich, 13-0.

185: Jim Tilton outpointed S. Crother, 8-5.

198: Derek Dutcher was outpointed by C. Campbell, 8-2.

Hvy.wt.: Bill Marquardt won by forfeit.

The Rayders will compete in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference meet at Rogers City at 10 a.m. Saturday, Feb. 7 and at Traverse City St. Francis with Roscommon on Wednesday, Feb. 11 at 5:30 p.m.

Marsh, Mesquite and Lindberg win

Marsh Construction upset First State Bank 55-52; the Mesquite posted its first win 55-52 over Rich's Topside and Paul Lindberg, Inc. defeated Dairy Queen 63-52 in action in the Charlevoix Independent B league Monday night.

After trailing 11-7, 22-18 and 37-36 for three quarters of the game with First State Bank, Marsh Construction outscored the Bankers 19-15 in the final period for the win.

Jeff Drury had 13 points, Mark Markawitz 12 and Clay Jones 11 points for the game. Jack Cross had 16 points; Bob Jones and Bob Sandahl added 12 points each for First State.

After trailing 13-5 in their game with Rich's Topside, the Mesquite edged to a 27-24 lead a halftime only to fall behind 41-39 going into the final period when they poured in 16 points to the Topside's 11 for their first victory since joining the league.

Roll Chavez paced the game for the Sailors with 29 points with Jerry Martin contributing 12. Dave Cole had 33 points for Topside.

Mike Crain poured in 28 points, Stan Martin 19 and Don Smith 11 as Paul Lindberg, Inc., beat Dairy Queen by a nine-point margin after leading 15-12, 32-27 and 42-35 at the quarters.

Tom Morrison had 17 points and Mike Herriman 12 for Dairy Queen.

On Wednesday, Feb. 4, Paul Lindberg, Inc., will meet the Mesquite. First State Bank will take on the Dairy Queen and Marsh Construction will play Rich's Topside.

Volleyball team loses

The Charlevoix Rayder varsity volleyball team came through with a 3-0 victory over East Jordan Wednesday night while the JVs dropped their game 2-1.

The varsity won by scores of 15-6, 15-10 and 15-7.

Jennifer Sell was the top setter. Others whose play stood out were Jill Taylor, server; Carla Henry, defensive and Amy Antaya, offensive.

In the JV game, Charlevoix trailed 15-6 and 15-10 before winning the third game 15-7.

Billie Jo Habel was named the top setter; Becky Melke and Habel, the servers; Melke, the defensive player and Marci Wynkoop, the offensive player.

Charlevoix will host Grayling Wednesday, Feb. 4, compete in the Elk Rapids invitational on Saturday, Feb. 7 and travel to Rogers City on Wednesday, Feb. 11.

A league pours in points

High scoring games marked the action in the A league of the Charlevoix Independent Basketball League Thursday night.

Pepsi-Cola of Petoskey defeated Carson Lumber 85-75, the Depot of Boyne City beat Buday's NCE 75-70 and Dr. Dave's Green Grinders rolled over Nanny's 92-76.

Cliff Haas poured in 33 points as Pepsi headed Carson 24-12, 42-31 and 63-53 by quarters before claiming the win.

Mark Long contributed 18 points, Brian Shorter 12 and Mike Schmidt 10 for Pepsi. Vince Left had 21, Butch Klooster 16, Tim Carey and Bo Boss, 11 each, and Roger Crain 10 for Carson.

The Depot jumped to a 19-11 first-quarter advantage and were never headed though Buday's fought back to trim the lead to 34-30 at halftime and 50-46 going into the final period.

Rob Spencer had 20 points, Dean Hicks 19 and Jeff Belford 10 for the victors. Randy Holecheck had 33, Dave Swanson 17 and Doug Buday 15 for Buday's.

Dick Swenor scored 31 points, Dave Storm 16 and Dan McKenzie 15 as Dr. Dave's Green Grinders roared past Nanny's 29-17, 45-36 and 69-55 at the quarters.

Scoring for Nanny's were Tom Steffen with 35, Tom Burley with 14 and Mike Coon with 11 points.

On Thursday, Feb. 5, Nanny's will meet the Depot, Carson Lumber and Dr. Dave's Green Grinders will clash and Pespi-Cola of Petoskey will play Buday's NCE.

JVs lose to Northmen

An early deficit in the game at Petoskey Friday cost the Charlevoix Rayder JV quintet a 58-50 loss.

The Rayders, after a slow start, trailed 11-7 at the first quarter and never managed to overcome the deficit as Petoskey led 27-26 at halftime and 41-40 going into the final period. The young Northmen then took off, outscoring the visitors 17-10 as they handed Charlevoix the eight-point loss.

Petoskey outscored the Rayders 22-16 from the floor and had 14 of 16 free throws. Charlevoix hit on 18 of 29 from the line. Petoskey had 23 personal fouls to the Rayders' 13.

Petoskey's Frank Brenner paced the game with 18 points; Jeff Mann added 10. For Charlevoix Shawn Putman had 16 points and Mike Picha 15.

JVs roll past Boyne City

Eleven of the 12 players on the Charlevoix JV team scored Tuesday as the Rayders rolled over the visiting Boyne City quintet 59-29.

Outscoring the visitors 26-9 from the floor, the Rayders led the young Ramblers 12-4 at the quarter, 29-9 at halftime and 47-18 going into the final period before taking the game by a 30-point margin as Coach Dick Swenor emptied the bench.

The Rayders connected on seven of 16 free throws and collected 14 personal fouls. The Ramblers scored on 12 of 20 from the line and had 12 personal fouls.

Shawn Putman had 12 points for Charlevoix. Keith Harvey had 10 for the visitors.

Middle Schoolers defeated

The Charlevoix Middle School basketball teams fell victim to the visiting Cheboygan quintets Wednesday with the eighth-graders dropping their game by a 50-30 margin and the seventh-graders by a score of 33-26.

In the eighth-grade game, Charlevoix trailed 19-17 at halftime before losing by a 20-point margin.

Erie McElroy had 12 points and Jason Parrish 11 for the local five.

The seventh-graders trailed 15-10 at halftime before losing to the visitors 33-26.

Luke LaBlance had 12 points for Charlevoix.

Charlevoix teams will travel to Boyne City for games at 4:30 p.m. Thursday and will host Petoskey in games scheduled for 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 11.

Rayders pick up impressive conference victories

Boyne City defeated

by DAVID SALMONSON

A tenacious defense and team depth were the difference for the Charlevoix Rayders Tuesday, Jan. 27 as they turned back the Boyne City Ramblers 73-59.

Boyne stayed close to the Rayders through three quarters, but in the final period Rayder coach Dave Smith decided to double-team Boyne's leading scorer, Mike Deschryver.

The gamble paid off as Deschryver, who scored 28 points in the first three quarters, was held to only one basket in the fourth.

Smith also credited Charlevoix's rebounding and its bench for the win. Leading the rebounders was Scott DeYoung with 16, followed by Chad DeVries with 12 and Roger Smith with 11.

Boyne City took a 14-12 first-period lead before Charlevoix pulled ahead 29-28 at the half.

Roger Smith made a number of impressive plays in the first quarter. It took Jim Ciuk only 45 seconds into the second quarter to add four points to Charlevoix's tally. Ciuk hit his first from the top of the key, followed by a steal which led to a quick layup.

Midway through the second quarter both Charlevoix and Boyne played what appeared to be a game of hot potato, as each team made repeated steals.

In the third quarter DeVries helped Charlevoix keep things under control by controling the boards. DeYoung, Drury and Ciuk kept the Rayder offense rolling by teaming up on steals and easy layups to keep Charlevoix in the lead.

The Ramblers closed to within a point in the third quarter, but Charlevoix managed to keep the lead, and at the end of the quarter the score was 53-50.

The Rayders and Boyne exchanged baskets for close to two minutes at the start of the final stanza. Charlevoix pulled ahead, however, on steals by Ciuk and Gibbs and the defensive pressure that slowed down the Ramblers.

With three minutes to go, Charlevoix had built a 10-point lead and Boyne failed to close the spread by the final buzzer.

DeYoung led the Rayder scoring with 17 points. He was followed closely by Smith with 16 and Chad DeVries with 15. Ciuk, in his first game since an ankle injury, added 12.

Owen Phillips had eight assists and Jim Gibbs six.

"I was pleased with everyone," Rayder coach Smith said. "I was happy with the intensity and we had good support from the bench. Our depth paid off as they seemed to tire in the second half."

Joe Miller (00) weaves his way through the Petoskey defense.

Northmen subdued

by DAVID SALMONSON

A fired-up Rayder team took on the Northmen of Petoskey Friday and came away with an impressive 75-66 victory.

The win, the third straight for the Rayders, keeps Charlevoix in thick of the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference race.

The Rayders once again used strong rebounding and a fast-paced floor game to down their rivals, bringing their season record to 8-4.

Coach Dave Smith said his team was pushing the ball up the court well and playing with great confidence at this point in the season.

Scott DeYoung led the Rayder scoring attack with 15 points. Also in double figures were Joe Miller with 13, Chad DeVries with 11 and Jim Gibbs with 10.

Getting in on the scoring were Roger Smith, Mark LaBlance, Owen Phillips, Jim Ciuk and Marty Joy, as Coach Smith emptied the bench in the third quarter after his team's lead grew to over 20 points.

Charlevoix started agressively behind the steals of Ciuk and the long bombs of Roger Smith. The Rayders were leading by four at the end of the first eight minutes, 17-13.

Ciuk continued his relentless defense into the second quarter. He and Phillips gave the Northmen a difficult one-two punch with Ciuk making the steals and Owen going in for six layups in the second quarter.

Eight Rayders saw playing time in the first half and all eight scored. The Rayders led at the break 41-27.

The tempo was brisk in the third quarter as DeVries paced the offense with eight points within four minutes.

The Rayders took a 62-42 lead into the final eight minutes and held a 70-48 advantage before the Northmen ran off 12 straight points. DeYoung and Phillips returned to the lineup and the Rayders regained control for the remainder of the game.

Charlevoix had a 39-30 edge in rebounds with DeYoung pulling down 14; DeVries eight and Miller seven. Charlevoix hit 22 of 63 shots and Petoskey 26 of 65.

Petoskey was led by Tracy Piehl and John Waldvogel who had 14 points each. Dave Hansen added 13 and Ted Festerling 10.

"Smith, Ciuk and Gibbs pushed the ball up the floor well," coach Smith said. "Miller, DeVries and DeYoung did a good job o the boards, Phillips came in with some key second quarter buckets and LaBlance gave us seven points," he said.

"The kids are getting a little more mentally tough. The harder you work the more fun it is and with better attitudes you have more fun playing," he added.

Performing Arts students receive top district rating

I am certain she also will receive recognition," Ford explained.

"We're over the first hurdle," Ford said of the district competition. The next two weeks will be spent polishing and honing the performance.

"It is imperative that we maintain the high level we have reached in order to advance to state. The competition gets tougher as you go along. We must also work at keeping the length of the performance to 44½ minutes. You lose precious points if it runs over by a second," she said.

Ford credits the parent support group with providing special assistance such as that given by Sheila McLelland to the vocalists. She said parents also helped by bringing in hot food so the cast could rehearse for long hours without losing time for meals and assisted with costumes, scenery and all the many other "behind the scene" jobs. "Without them we couldn't make it," she commented.

The support group is also raising funds not only for the musical but for the state debate finals being held in Ann Arbor this weekend and the individual events competition which will overlap the last weeks of the play.

This weekend the team of Barnes, Lori Gleason and Jennifer Sell, all seniors, and F.L. Dammann, a sophomore, alternate, will be in Ann Arbor to debate the topic: Should the federal government implement a comprehensive farm policy?"

Charlevoix is now number eight in the state in this category.

Ford is also the coach for the debate team which must be prepared to present both sides of the topic.

Realtors settle on use of Ski and Shore name

A year ago Campbell prepared to go into the real estate business and formed fCR Northern Properties. When Georgi sold his company, Campbell obtained the Ski and Shore name through the statewide franchise and formed Ski and Shore, Northern Properties.

He has made plans to open offices in Charlevoix, Elk Rapids, Boyne City and Petoskey. The Petoskey office, he said, will open Feb. 15.

Several court appearances to resolve the issue of who owns the Ski and Shore name reached a climax last Thursday as attorneys for both sides spent a day in furious negotiation.

The attorneys – Thomas Pointner of Charlevoix representing Georgi and Richard Gaffin of Grand Rapids representing Ski and Shore, Michigan – were in constant motion as they huddled alternatively with their clients and consulted with Judge Richard Pajtas and then carried proposed settlements to the opposing camp.

As the day wore on the distance between the two camps narrowed, the exchanges became more frequent.

Then suddenly a bargin was struck. Georgi had until May 1 to use the Ski and Shore name to inform the public that he would no longer be operating under that title. From May 1 on the Ski and Shore name in Charlevoix would belong to Campbell and his partners.

Details of the deal were ironed out and the parties appeared in court to finalize their consent agreement.

It was, observed a realtor close to the proceedings, a little like a divorce case, an emotional and difficult parting for Georgi. "I feel a lot of kinship to Ski and Shore," Georgi said almost wistfully.

Campbell was pleased with the settlement. "Ski and Shore is alive and well and we'll be a viable force in the real estate brokerage business," he concluded.

Worship service planned

There will be a community-wide worship service at the United Methodist Church Sunday Feb. 8 at 7 p.m.

The service will be held in honor of the week of prayer for Christian unity. There will also be a special offering to benefit the Sunshine Club, a latchkey progam sponsored by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.

City planners vote to retain scenic reserve zoning ed in a letter to the city that the use of the property be expanded.

The attorney said he had never heard of scenic reserve zoning on private property before. He called the Park Island property "one of the choicest pieces of property in Charlevoix."

In a letter to City Attorney Jeffery VanTreese, Flaska advised that the scenic reserve zoning, which was instituted in 1978, was confiscatory, represented spot zoning and was based illegally on aesthetic considerations.

"The zoning category 'scenic reserve' created by the city was clearly an erroneous exercise of the city's zoning powers," Flaska wrote in the Oct. 17, 1986 letter.

Planning Commissioner Al Ranger disagreed with Flaska's opinion. "I am totally opposed to any change in th zoning ordinance which would expand and-or change the presently accepted uses in the scenic reserve district," Ranger read in a prepared statement to the commission.

He refuted each of Flaska's contentions. "There are practical and natural difficulties in the use of the lands in the scenic reserve district," Ranger said, "It is neither prime nor is it residential. It is sensitive land, subject to many developmental limitations."

He also denied that the zoning was confiscatory. "It is my opinion that construction of boathouses, docks and the like are truly beneficial uses," he said.

He also denied the spot zoning charge. "These small scenic reserve zones were created differently from the larger surrounding areas because of the fact that they have unique physical and practical limitations for development," he concluded.

Among those favoring the inclusion of residential housing in the scenic reserve was Mayor Ralph McRae, who campaigned in 1986 on platform that called for higher taxes for the Chicago and Belvedere clubs.

"You're not changing the zoning, but the use," McRae told the commission. "The majority of our taxpayers would like to see the higher assessments."

Several members of the audience told the planning commission the lost scenic values were not worth the additional taxes.

Gary Probert said the scenic reserve areas were unique and the additional tax money would not be great enough to justify endangering it. Changing the zoning would lead to overdevelopment, he said.

Despite their objection to the tax assessments on the property, the Chicago and Belvedere clubs spoke in favor of retaining the existing zoning.

Commissioner Barb Feis opposed the change in zoning. "I think it is really silly to change now because an attorney tells us that someplace down the road it might be illegal."

Commissioner June Cross agreed, noting that she was on the planning commission when the scenic reserve zoning was created. "I don't think it should be anything but scenic reserve," she said.

Flaska told the Courier that although he felt the zoning was illegal it would not be changed by any action of the Tax Tribunal, which has no jurisdiction over zoning. A challenge to the zoning would have to come from property owners who object to the restriction, and the Chicago and Belvedere clubs don't object, he said.

Flaska, whose firm was not involved in the original case with the Chicago Club, predicted the city would be better prepared to substantiate its assessments this time, with or without the change in zoning. "This time around I think we'll be able to do a better job," he said. "I think the cottages in the Chicago Club are worth more than $60,000 to $70,000 apiece."

Watershed Council director resigns

Carol Magee, executive director of the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council, has announced her resignation effective May 1. Magee has been the director of the Watershed Council since February, 1983.

"I am sad to be leaving the Watershed Council at a time of significant expansion in our programs and services," Magee said. "However, I am excited about the new opportunities which await me."

Magee will be joining her husband, John, in business. The Magees own Earthcare Paper Company, a company which sells recycled paper goods.

Gail Gruenwald has been named to succeed Magee. She has been employed by the Watershed Council since May 1984 as staff attorney and wetland project coordinator.

Banking Is One Of Life's Necessities. The Experience Should Be A Good One.

You flip a switch and the lights go on.

Start your car and go your way.

Day in and day out, so long as things work like they should, you never give them a second thought.

It's the same with banking.

You, along with the rest of us, fully expect your bank to work right. The first time. And every time.

From our point of view, that isn't an unfair expectation.

In fact, living up to that is the best explanation of how and why we run First of America Bank the way we run it.

So in nearly 200 communities across the Midwest, our bankers are reminded that, even though they're part of a major bank company, they should play a major role in the community.

They're encouraged to make loan decisions locally. Which has made us one of the region's biggest lenders.

They're given all the resources of a big bank company to draw on, so they can offer customers a more resourceful bank.

And, since our bankers are asked to handle customer matters on a local level, they're as accountable to you as they are to their bank.

It's made us not only one of the Midwest's biggest bank companies.

It's made us one of its most dependable companies. Something that's as good for you as it is for us.

FIRST OF AMERICA.
We're Community Banks First.

Charlevoix couple faces deportation

A couple living in Charlevoix for the last three years received a rude shock last Friday. Officers from the U.S. Bureau of Immigration showed up and told them they had until the end of the month to leave the country.

Richard and Margaret (Maggie) Kent, who came to the United States from Edinburgh, Scotland four years ago, have become well known to many Charlevoixans during their stay in town. The news, which was presented to city council Monday, came as a shock to many.

Richard has worked as a chef in several area restaurants including 218 Bridge Street, Nutta's Place and on the Star of Charlevoix dinner-cruise ship. Maggie was a waitress at Karl's Pastry Shop and managed the Su Casa jewelry store.

Richard recently accepted a job as chef at the University of Michigan's Lawyers Club and cooked for Attorney General Edwin Meese and former President Gerald Ford.

Maggie said the deportation order came as a surprise to both of them. Technically the order was for Richard to leave, she said, but the immigration officials informed her she should leave as well. The couple has two children attending Charlevoix schools and is in the process of adopting a 19-year-old girl.

Maggie said the deportation order apparently stems from problems the couple had after moving to Florida to work for a restaurant owned by foreign nationals. Richard's visa to this country were good only as long as he worked for a company owned by foreign nationals, she explained.

Things grew complex when the owners of the St. Petersburg restaurant offered Richard $20,000 to destroy the restaurant by starting a fire. He refused, she said, but the restaurant later burned and Richard helped the police by carrying a concealed tape recorder that implicated the owners in the arson.

She said the owners tried to get

Westenbroek picked for cable TV study

by DOUG TRUAX

City council and City Manager Michael Wiesner agreed Monday to have Roger Westenbroek of Charlevoix conduct the feasibility study for a city-owned cable TV operation.

Westenbroek said the study, which has been debated for several weeks by council, will cost $5,000. He argued against including Charlevoix Township in the study for an additional $500, noting that it would be easy to extend the study beyond the city later.

Westenbroek, who has served as a city electrical consultant, said the study would be done by the company he is affiliated with, Power System Engineering of Madison, Wisconsin.

The feasibility study would look at capital costs, customer projections, operational expenses and rate projections, among other things, Westenbroek said. It would also provide a 10-year estimate of income and cash flow.

The cable system looked at would be state of the art, he said.

Wiesner said the city would have to look at the figures honestly. Some cities with cable systems have either borrowed municipal funds and not paid interest or not paid back the loan. Westenbroek agreed. "It would be foolish not to look at any

BUILDING BOON

Unusually pleasent weather has been a boon to the construction industry in Charlevoix this winter. Projects that might have waited until spring have been going full tilt with the mild temperatures and lack of snow.

Among the projects underway is the removal of the old Fochtman Oil Co. (above) to make way for the 35-unit Rysberg Inn on Michigan Avenue directly north of the Weathervane Restaurant.

Also taking shape is the new apartment complex on Petoskey Avenue next to Chaz Charlevoix. The controversial development is being built by the Techlin Corp.

Fishermen push for more trout

by DOUG TRUAX

A contingent of Charlevoix and Boyne City fishermen and charter boat captains traveled to Gaylord last Wednesday in an attempt to convince the Department of Natural Resources to plant more brown trout in Lake Charlevoix.

The group hopes the increased fish plants will change Lake Charlevoix from a marginal brown trout fishery at present to one of the state's major fishing attractions.

"I'm a firm believer that if you take a wait and see attitude, nothing happens," said charter captain Jim Withers, organizer of the trip.

It was the second meeting between the Lake Charlevoix fishermen and the DNR. Present at Wednesday's meeting were District Fish Biologist Steve Swan and Assistant Fisheries Chief Dave Borgeson. Myrl Keller, head of Charlevoix's Great lakes Fisheries Station, also attended.

The group came away from the meeting satisfied that their concerns had been heard. They also left with a commitment by the DNR to add 50,000 fall fingerling brown trout to the proposed 1987 fish plants in Charlevoix.

Withers and others expressed interest in making the informal lobbying group into a permanent organization representing Lake Charlevoix interests.

Borgeson and Swan told the Charlevoix fishermen that the 1987 proposed plants would more than double the brown trout which have been planted in Lake Charlevoix in recent years. According to DNR figures, the state planted 35,000 yearling browns in Lake Charlevoix in 1984; 11,300 yearling browns and 40,000 fall fingerlings (in Pine River Channel) in 1985; and 36,623 yearlings, 50,000 fall fingerlings and 22,201 Atlantic salmon in 1986.

The proposed 1987 plants would be 50,000 yearlings, 50,000 fall fingerl-

School celebrates Homecoming Week, royalty to be crowned

The Charlevoix High School is observing Winter Homecoming Week. On Friday, the event will be climaxed with the crowning of the Winter Homecoming royalty presently being selected from among candidates nominated by the senior class.

Candidates for the honor of Winter Homecoming Queen are Valerie Barnes, Lori Gleason, Amy McKinney, Jessica Moreno and Kim Swan.

The Homecoming King will be named from among the following candidates: Paul Anderson, Doug Bergmann, Jim Ciuk, Karl Erber and Jamie Spencley.

The student body will cast its votes this week with the 1987 royalty being announced at the pep rally Friday afternoon.

Returning for the coronation ceremony at the halftime of the Charlevoix-Rogers City game will be the 1986 royalty, Stacey Way and Tim Plagge.

The Homecoming Dance, organized by the senior class will take place at the elementary gymnasium following the game.

Activities during the week are not limited to the selection of the winter Homecoming King and Queen. The entire week is known as Spirit Week with each class at the high school competing for the prizes for hall decoration and for points earned by following the dress code for each day.

Monday called for pajamas; Tuesday, hats and glasses; Wednesday, styles of the 1950s and '60s; Thursday, college sweats and Friday, maroon and white, the school colors. Combined points earned by each class during the week will determine the prize winners. Skits and spirit yells will be featured at the pep rally.

The Student Council, which is sponsoring the week's events is offering a first prize of $50; a second prize of $25; a third prize of $10 and fourth prize of $5.

The Student Council, headed by Val Barnes, with Ken Plude as faculty advisor, is being assisted by the cheerleaders and the senior class in sponsoring the annual event.

Mayor seeks faster appeal on nursing home decision

by PEG OHLE

Ralph McRae of Charlevoix went to Lansing last week to talk with Senator Mitch Irwin and Representative Ralph Ostling about the Charlevoix Care Center, a 107-bed nursing home he has proposed for Charlevoix.

McRae, elected mayor of Charlevoix in November, has worked on the nursing home project for some two years. McRae said he is an unpaid consultant to Liberatore and has no financial interest in the project.

To be built by Liberatore Health Care, Inc. of Columbus, Ohio, the Charlevoix Care Center project received approval from the Board of Directors of Northern Michigan Health Systems Agency, which conducted a review for the State. In making the review, Northern Michigan Health Systems compared the Charlevoix Care Center proposal with that of one presented by Dehmel Ltd. of Flint, evaluating them on 14 criteria, and finally giving Liberatore 31 points to Dehmel's 19 points.

However, when the proposals got to Lansing, the Michigan Department of Health gave its approval to the Dehmel project, ignoring the local recommendation. Liberatore then appealed the decision, only to be told that an appeals hearing could not be held before March, 1988, because of a backlong of appeals.

It was about this long delay in setting up an appeals hearing that McRae talked to Irwin and Ostling. He told them that although he was not a health care expert, he did qualify as a competent observer. He explained to them that, "Hospitals, nursing homes, and those in related fields that are planning to spend over $100,000 must first receive State approval for their project. Too many of (the State's) project approvals are questionable, hence all the appeal hearings. Obviously, the system is faulty. What should take six months could take six years. By that time all the critical data becomes useless".

Cribbage teams nearly even

The annual Mason-Oddfellow cribbage tournament is almost back where it started as the Masons trimmed the Oddfellows lead back to five points after five weeks of play, Ted Pennell Jr., tournament secretary, has announced.

With seven tables in play, the Masons scored 446 points to the Oddfellows' 322 to wipe out all but five points from the Oddfellows' 129-point lead going into Thursday's games.

Thurmond McKinney had 963 points for the Masons and Bruce Reinhart had 967 for the Oddfellows, one point short of a perfect score.

The tournament will be played at the American Legion at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Charlevoix math and reading tests above state averages

by FRAN MARTIN

Michigan Assessment Test results received recently show that Charlevoix students were well above the state averages in reading and math on the three levels at which the tests are given, according to Condit Drury, Middle School counselor who coordinates the tests in all three schools.

The tests are administered to fourth-, seventh- and tenth-grade students in late September each year. State averages, according to the report, have improved over 1985. Achievement scores of Charlevoix students in most cases are well above the state averages.

The accompanying graph shows the scores of Charlevoix students in black and state averages to the left in white with the actual scores included in each case.

Reading scores in the local schools in the fourth grade are 83.3 percentile as compared to the state average of 80.3. In the seventh grade reading scores were 90.1 compared to a state average of 81.8 and in the tenth grade 87.6 compared to 81.1.

In the math division, the fourth grade tested 92.9 compared to the state's 85.0. In the seventh grade Charlevoix scored 93.2 to the statewide 69.6 and in the tenth grade 72.6 to the 68.4 compared average.

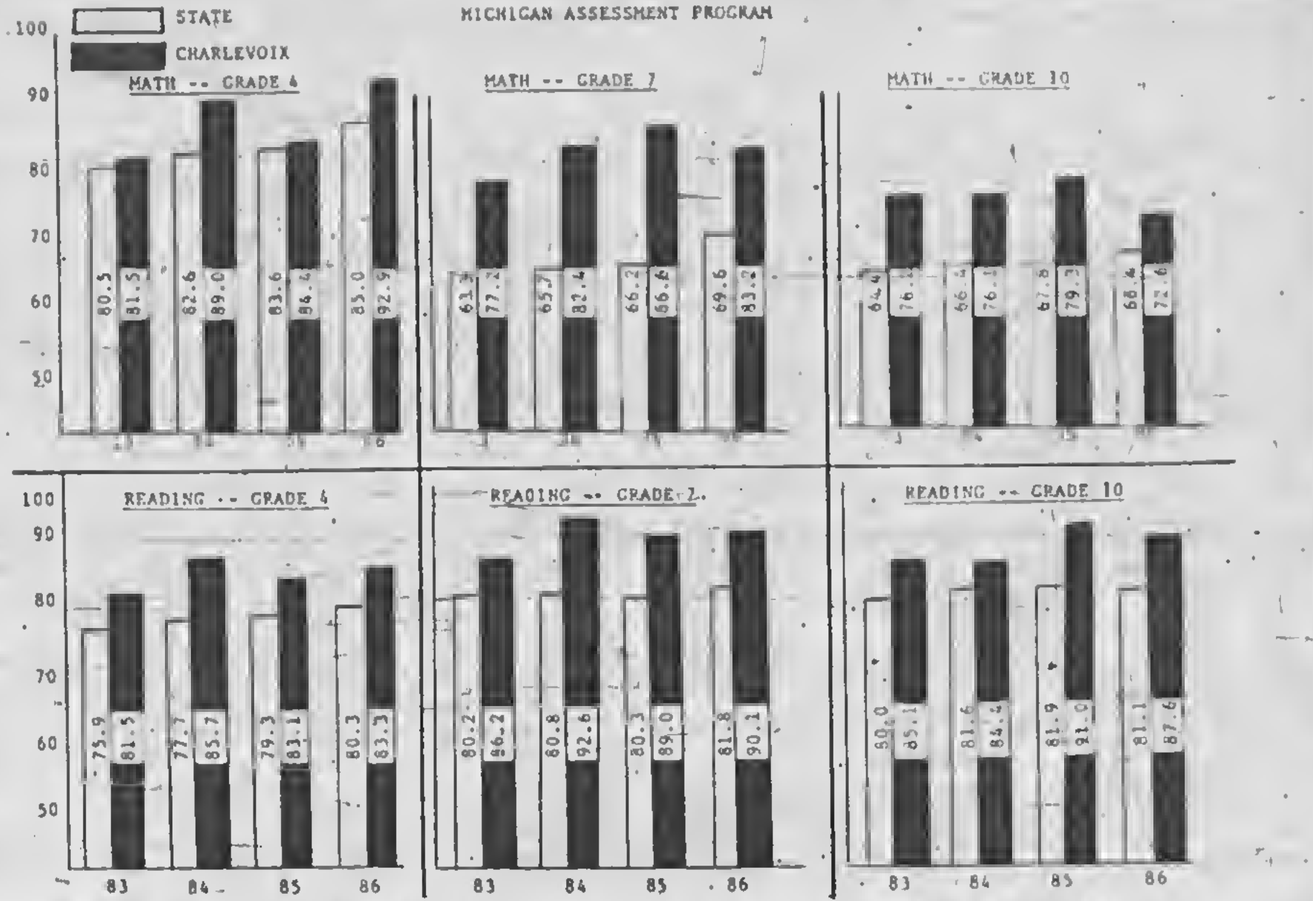
In reading the graphs, Drury warned against comparing this year's averages with those of 1985 because a different group of students wrote the tests in 1985. The only comparisons that can be made are the 1983 fourth-graders who were the seventh-grade students of 1986 and 1982 seventh-graders who were tenth-graders in 1986.

Even this would not be too accurate, Drury said, because of the changing student population.

Eighty-four fourth graders, 101 seventh, and 113 tenth grade students took the tests.

The tests are given, Drury explained, to measure mastery of the state's objectives in math and reading. The results are used to alert teachers and administrators to the areas that need additional emphasis.

"Receiving excellent marks on the assessment tests, as the Charlevoix students have done, must be considered a team effort. Not only the students and their respective teachers but the parents, administration and the board of education should be very proud (of the results) for they represent the combined effort of all those involved," Drury said.



Cherlevoix school students scored consistently ebove the state avereges in raading end meth.

Problem solvers take top place

A Charlevoix Middle School team of Michigan Future Problem Solvers was among the 267 in the state to receive first place ratings in the annual event sponsored by the University of Michigan.

The team members are John Hess, Nancy Dammann, Megan Friedly and Matt Smith. Their coach and instructor is Thomas Sothard, Middle School teacher.

The team was entered in the open class of the junior division, Sothard said. The team's first two solutions to the problem "The Changing American Family" placed them in the top division of their class, Sothard said.

The Charlevoix Middle and Elementary schools had a total of five teams entered in the competition which will be climaxed in April when the top teams compete in the final competition at Ann Arbor.

Parents of the students of the team are Mr. and Mrs. John Hess, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dammann, Mr. and Mrs. John Friedly and Mr. and Mrs. David J. Smith.

Republicans elect convention delegates

by PEG OHLE

Eight Republican Precinct Delegates from Charlevoix County last week were elected to represent the county at the Republican State Convention in Lansing February 20 and 21.

Elected delegates were John Haggard and Ron Geer of Charlevoix Township, William Huber of Hayes Township, and Donald Voisin of Charlevoix. Elected alternates were Art Rouse and Oral Sutliff of Boyne City, Don Hufford of Hayes Township, and Bruce Lanphar of Charlevoix.

All those elected State Delegates represent what is known as "regular Republicans" as opposed to "Freedom Council Republicans" who became Precinct Delegates last August to support Pat Robertson as a candidate for President of the United States. There were nine Freedom Council members at last week's Republican meeting. They nominated Randy Witten of East Jordan for State Delegate but he did not receive enough votes to be elected.

Consumers' customers asked to help with emergency needs

For the fifth year in a row, Consumers Power Company and the Salvation Army are trying to help Michigan's elderly, those with low incomes, and unemployed families.

Boneta Baugh, consumers affairs director for consumers Power's northern region, said the company will seek contributions from its residential customers through a check-the-box pledge on their February bills. Major Thomas C. Lewis, divisional commander for the Salvation Army in grand Rapids, said his organization will be entirely responsible for administration of the program, including determining eligibility for assistance.

February bills. The pledge will be added to customers' next bill. More than $2 can be given by writing a check to "The Salvation Army-People Care".

PeopleCare funds are designated for any emergency need as determined by the Salvation Army. The funds are not restricted to Consumers Power customers. Bill credits, however, will be available only to the Company'a customers. and must be applied to their energy bills.

Consumers Power is contributing $71,000 in bill credits which will be distributed throughout much of the company's service area. They are targeted to the company's residential gas and electric customers and will be available on a last-resort basis when no other form of energy assistance can be obtained.

Since the PeopleCare program began in 1983, more than $1 million has been raised. In 1986 alone, more than 2,300 Michigan families (16,000 individuals) received assistance. The program is an offshoot of informal food and clothing drives for the needy that company employees had been organizing in various areas around the state.

"PeopleCare demonstrates, in a very real manner, the caring of so many individuals and has made an important difference in the lives of thousands of people". Major Lewis said.

A Mass Of Details

So it won't come as a complete surprise to you, as it does to a lot of homeowners who try to sell their own homes, here's something you should know about. Selling a home involves a mass of petty details. There's paper work to do, attorneys to be dealt with, a title search to be made, and vital arrangements to be made concerning down payment, escrow accounts and mortgage financing. Unless you're an expert on these subjects, you'll be working at a disadvantage. Erring on any one of these details could ruin your sleeping habits and your financial position.

Honestly, it pays to sell your home through a local Realtor. It's his full-time business to keep on top of these details. He's alert to every step of the transaction, knows how to make the necessary arrangements, and follow through on details. He knows how important it is to protect all parties against misunderstandings and the importance of all agreements being in writing.

Hostages 1923 style

by DOUG TRUAX

People find the darnest things when they start tearing up old houses. Lately I've come into possession of some interesting old newspapers given to me by people who found them under floor boards in their houses.

Bill Parton, a maintenance man at the Charlevoix Area Hospital, uncovered a yellowing copy of the Grand Rapids Press dated May 25, 1923. He brought the paper in for me to send to my father who was a newspaperman at the Press for most of his career. My father met Bill after spending a few days enjoying the good company at the hospital.

Under the yellow and waterstained print of this ancient paper it is surprising to discover how little things have changed. The headline proclaims the troops were marching on Chinese bandits who were holding Americans as hostages. "A crack division of Shantung troops is marching toward the mountain stronghold of the Chinese bandits who are holding Americans and other foreigners as hostages," the lead sentence explains. The bandits had threatened to execute two prisoners early in the week but had failed to carry out the threat. In a story datelined from Washington "the state department expressed the belief that the task of obtaining the release of American and other foreign captives held by Chinese bandits was 'now complicated by Chinese politics.'

As the French say, the more things change, the more they stay the same.

On the same front page is news that the Petoskey charter commission has submitted a new charter to the Gov. Groesbeck. Among the changes offered was "going back to the old aldermanic form of government, going back to the old two-justice and fee system, and back to the old system of electing mayor, city clerk, treasurer and other officers."

Oh yes, other news of the day notes that they were using clubs to catch carp in Ludington.

SCOTT RICHARDS was doing a little remodeling as well and he came up with a vintage copy of the Charlevoix Dourier, Dec. 26, 1945.

Among the news of the week in Charlevoix was a notice that Ralph McRae, now mayor, had been recently discharged from the army and planned to spend some time in Chicago with his wife, Dorothy.

Irons & Left, proprietors of the Chatterbox Cafe and Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Merica, owners of the Sugar Bowl Cafe, announced a new plan for Sunday opening.

And members of the 1945 championship football team received letters from Coach Ray Kipke. Among those getting the awards were Vincent Olach, Bernie Ward, Bob and Bill Carey and John Mol.

Memories

Clockwise BY BOB CLOCK

Mike Hamlin, 94, and Police Chief Jack Mol, 58, both of whom died Friday, shared a bad habit.

They both enjoyed a cigarette now and then — although they knew they shouldn't.

Mike was an inveterate cigar smoker, but he sometimes showed up for meetings of the Christ Episcopal Church vestry without any stogies in his pocket.

"You know, Bob," he told me one evening, "if I had known years ago how long I was going to live, I would have taken better care of myself. But it's too late now. Do you have an extra cigarette?"

Mike was in his early 80's at the time

Every once in a while when I was working late at the Charlevoix Courier office on Bridge Street, Jack Mol would stop while making his rounds.

"Got a cigarette?"

He'd shake one from the pack on my desk, light up, sit down, relax, inhale, exhale.

"Ah, that's better."

Several friends have commented upon Jack's sense of humor. Once when he was still in the plumbing business I stopped at his shop on Antrim Street and told him one of our toilets acting up.

"Do you want to fix it or do you want me to do it?" I asked.

"Well, I'm sort of busy today," Jack answered thoughtfully. "Why don't you fix it yourself and then I'll come up and repair the damage."

Mike Hamlin and Jack Mol left pleasant memories. I am going to miss them both.

THAT PRUNING wind that raked Charlevoix over the weekend saved the city hundreds of dollars in tree-trimming expenses.

By Sunday morning, 50 mph gusts had left streets and lawns littered with dead branches — some big enough around to KO an elephant.

Fortunately, few folks were about during the height of the storm and I haven't heard of anyone getting conked by a falling limb.

Of course, if our trees had been properly maintained, the deadwood would have been removed long ago under less exciting — and less dangerous — circumstances.

I know, I know. The city budget is tight. But care and upkeep of shade trees should be high on our list of "things to do today."

WILL WE OR won't we have an ice rink this winter?

I'm not betting money either way.

Work started a couple of weeks ago on the East Park rink and then warm weather set in.

Sunday certainly was cold enough to make ice — but Monday we would have lost it.

Perhaps we should just write off a rink this winter and start fresh next December.

I still like the idea of a downtown rink, with long-scarved skaters keeping time to waltz music under subdued lights.

I also suspect we might find a lot of senior citizens visiting a downtown rink.

When I was about 30, I shoveled a small rink on a frozen creek behind my parents' home in Southfield. I was more than a little surprised when my aging mother strapped on a pair of blades and skated circles around me.

Letters to the editor:

Patriots should boil with rage

Dear Editor:

The Bible tells us "Ye shall know the Truth–And the Truth shall make you Free." Aldous Huxley, British writer has paraphrased it to read: "and the Truth shall make you MAD"!

As we get the news from Washington, Huxley's version seems most applicable in our times as we learn that professors in some 70 universities across the USA are refusing to work on the SDI (Star Wars) American defense program, although their research departments are financed by taxpayer's monies from the federal government.

That should cause American patriots to boil over with rage. However, it probably will not as too many have become indoctrinated with too much communist propaganda and American patriotism has been lost in confusion.

For our encouragement we learn there are a few patriots left who are sponsoring an all-out effort to advise taxpayers and voters that this issue can be thwarted by popular demand that funding be removed from educational institutions which persist in pursuing such a course of rebellion. Many Americans still believe that no effort should be overlooked that can insure our safety from a communist takeover.

Those among us who have no grandchildren can afford to ignore the threats if we so choose. But those who possess a growing family tree may be alarmed enough to demand that Michigan universities reverse this trend of non-cooperation on defense. Throughout Bible history God has rescued His people from disaster beginning with the Isrealites at the Red Sea crossing. For all we know the SDI may be God's plan to insure the safety of the USA and all lands established on Christian values by our founding fathers.

At this time, the principle objective is to retain our Christian heritage of freedom under God against further encroachment of anti-Christian forces such as communism in the West. In spite of venomous attacks by a few non-patriots we need to examine our obligation to liberty on the national as well as individual levels for God and country.

Edith is right — service is lousy

Dear Mrs. Gilbert,

Cheers! It's about time someone woke up Charlevoix restaurant owners. I read your column "What Ever Happened to Service." Wednesday, Feb. 4, 1987.

Bad service - who is it really hurting? The waitress? A waitress makes a whopping $2.51 an hour, plus whatever tips she makes. Without proper training, she is unable to maintain any clients or tips. From your article, I gather some local waitress must be starving by now and would really appreciate some good old-fashioned training.

Customers aren't the only ones sick of unpolished waitresses. If you think being served by one untrained waitress is bad, how would you like to work with one? Or better yet try working with an inexperienced, unmannerly host?

I'm glad you wrote this column. Thank you! I was beginning to wonder if I was the only one who noticed "the deplorable state of service in restaurants."

I am a waitress and have been looking for a decent job in the area. I really haven't found one yet that I would enjoy working at. Every restaurant I walk into, I sense a kind of wornout neglected feeling.

I see warped floors, old worn carpet, rickety old tables, chairs, cheap silver and there is always a stale greasy odor in the air. It doesn't appeal to me.

What really ticks my clock is when I do apply for a job and a manager mishandles my application.

Very few managers really take the time to see that I have applied for a job. One manager actually threw my application on a pile of about 30 others, leaving it wide open for anyone to look through. This is an invasion of my privacy. The whole day I was wondering if all establishments I apply to treat my application in this fashion.

From a very disgusted local

Beacons of Blessing

A devotional column prepared
by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association

BY Rev. Richmond F. Thweatt, III
Christ Episcopal Church

"Instead, be concerned above everything else with the Kingdom of God and with what he requires of you, and he will provide you with all these other things." Matt. 6:33

As I write this, several congregations are planning to gather together in prayer and song to mark our echo of the Lord's call that His people be one. It is a difficult call because it requires of us to will His Will and to concentrate our attention on Him, not on ourselves. When you read this, we will have had the service itself, and we will not have succeeded in perfectly willing His Will.

From our work with organizations within the various communities we live in, we know that His statement quoted above is only sensible groundwork for what he has in mind for His people, and a restatement of the faithfulness of the Father in His dealings with the Hebrews over many centuries and in which there would be no change.

Our community work tells us that once we define a common goal or purpose and every member of the committee concentrates attention on that goal, the work will progress more quickly and will be accomplished. It is when committee members focus on side issues, on other concerns, fail to show up for meetings, etc., that the main goal suffers and may not be accomplished.

In the late chapters of John's Gospel, Jesus praya that his band of disciples may be one, as He and the Father are one. In early Matthew, he has already laid the foundation for his later work: we are to concentrate on seeking the kingdom of God and what He requires of us, the rest will be given us. We have, then, a solid foundation on which to build, our joint study and prayer together, our joint actions that will promote seeking the kingdom of God and living His will among all our people.

It is impossible to imagine how He would bring unity with out incredible diversity of ways of worship, study and beliefs. However, as we who have been called to follow him know, with God nothing is impossible. Were it impossible, we would not have been called to follow Him because we stand with Paul, the Apostle, in knowing we are among the worst of sinners. Somehow, if we can be redeemed by the power of God, He certainly has the power to accomplish His will with the unity of His people. It seems in the last part of that verse, Jesus is saying just that.

All those other things we so often use to cloud the search for unity among His people, those things more shall be ours as His gift while He is accomplishing His will.

We know that in the Hebrew Scriptures, the Lord said that His word does not go out from Him and return to Him empty, but accomplishes that for which He sent (purposed) it.

Jesus, the Word of God, did not come from the Father without accomplishing that for which He had been sent, to call and redeem sinners into righteousness with God through the forgiveness of sin. Surely, His words are not empty of promise of the true call to "Come, follow me!"

As we worship week by week in our communities, let us never forget it is toward unity that He calls us: first to unity with Himself, and in that Unity, in unity with each other. We need not fear the loss of anything we treasure as from Him, for that will be ours always in Him.

Come, let us go to the House of the Lord and rejoice!

Out of the Blue

To break it would end it —
So if he can't cheat, he Hopes simply to bend it.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Remillet III

Carey-Remillet

The Jefferson Avenue Presbyterian Church in Detroit was the setting for the Dec. 20 wedding of Jean Marie Carey and John J. Remillet III.

The Rev. Peter C. Smith, assisted by Dennis Carter, brother-in-law of the bride, performed the double ring ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carey of Charlevoix are parents of the bride. The groom is the son of Mrs. Mary Remillet of Grosse Pointe Farms and the late John J. Remillet.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a handmade white satin gown with a fitted alencon lace bodice and high neckline. Her veil of illusion was attached to a wreath of satin rosebuds and she carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, stephanotis, baby's breath and Christmas greens.

A program of classical wedding music was performed during the ceremony.

Ellen L. Carey, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Christine Carter, sister of the bride, Jenny Laethem and Denise Grunewald. They wore stewart plaid taffeta skirts with white blouses and each carried a brass huricane candle arrangement.

Rob Hoernschemeyer was best man and groomsmen were Ross Carey, Larry Hutchinson and Thomas Combs.

A reception, given by the parents of the bride, followed the ceremony at Grosse Pointe War Memorial in Grosse Pointe Farms. The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's mother at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club.

The newlyweds honeymooned at a ski resort in northern Ontario and are now residing in Grosse Pointe Woods. The bride is supervisor in the occupational therapy department at the Rehabilitation Institute in Detroit. The groom is employed by the Michigan State Department of Corrections and is a resident unit manager at the Scott Prison in Plymouth.

Long ponders House race

by PEG OHLE

G. T. Long of Horton Bay is thinking about running for the area's seat in the State House of Representatives.

Long, a Democrat, told the Courier he is now "up in the air" but will make up his mind "within the next six months" about seeking the post now being held by Republican Ralph Ostling for his eighth term.

Last November, Ellen Addington of Charlevoix opposed Ostling in the General Election and garnered 44 percent of the vote, considered good for a first time political challenge.

Long is no newcomer to politics. He served as State Senator Mitch Irwin's field representative in Charlevoix and surrounding counties for five years, and for the last three years he has worked for the Speaker of the Michigan House of Representatives, helping Democrat candidates get elected and teaching new legislators about their jobs.

"Right now, I spend three weeks a month in Lansing", Long said. "I'm in charge of three freshman legislators".

Long explained he approaches political office differently from the way many people do. "I've been around long enough so I don't have to satisfy my ego", he said, referring to his years of answering questions, making speeches, and being an alter ego for Irwin while working for him.

Long said he met with Miss Addington "a couple of times" during her campaign, to give advice. "She's a great lady, and if she is a candidate again and wins the primary, I'll support her wholeheartedly", he added.

Obituaries

Jack R. Mol

Jack R. Mol, 56, chief of police at Charlevoix since 1971, died Friday, Feb. 6, at Provincial House in Gaylord.

Funeral services were held at the First Congregational Church Tuesday, Feb. 10. The Rev. Philip G. Schairbaum officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery.

Born in Grand Rapids Feb. 15, 1928, to John and Emma (Feutz) Mol, Jack Roger Mol came to Charlevoix with his parents at the age of eight. He graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1946. He served two years with the U.S. Army during the police action in Korea following World War II. He attended the Soo branch of Michigan Technological University and latter attended North Central Michigan College.

On Sept. 17, 1950 he was married to the former Nomis J. Ringler at Reed City. They returned here to make their home. He was associated with his father in the family business, Mol Plumbing and Heating, and later owned and operated the business following his father's retirement. He served as first ward councilman.

In 1971 he was appointed Chief of Police, a position he held until his death. In 1974 he attended and graduated from the FBI Training Academy at Quantico, Va., He also taught a law enforcement class at North Central Michigan College.

He was a member of the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police and was on the advisory board for Criminal Justice at Lake Superior State College. He also was a member of the First Congregational Church and the Charlevoix Area Buffs.

He is survived by his wife, Nomis; a daughter, Shari L. of Farmington Hills; three sons, Michael W. of Prudenville, Terry L. of Midland and Donald G. of Charlevoix and two brothers, J. Gordon of Spring Lake and Robert L. of Manlius, N.Y.

The family suggests memorials to the Charlevoix Area Hospital or the First Congregational Church. Envelopes for this purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home which was in charge of arrangements.

Louis C. Hamlin

Funeral services for Louis C. "Mike" Hamlin, 94, lifelong resident of Charlevoix, were held Monday at Christ Episcopal Church. The Rev. Richmond F. Thweatt officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery.

Mr. Hamlin died Friday, Feb. 6, at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Born in Charlevoix Feb. 6, 1892, Mr. Hamlin had always resided in Charlevoix where he had owned and operated grocery stores and had been employed as a meat cutter in local markets. He had also owned and operated the Model Home Laundry. On Oct. 14, 1942, he married the former Ellen E, Koskela who preceded him in death on April 1, 1978. He was a member of Christ Episcopal Church.

Surviving are a son, Alcedo Hamlin of Scotts, Mich.; three daughters, Mrs. Ted (Naomi D.) Plank of Elkhart, Ind., Mrs. Dick (Janice) Stamp of Cassopolis, and Mrs. Herbert (Virginia A.) Cummings of Charlevoix; eight grandchildrean and eight great-grandchildren.

The Winchester Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Paul D. Kenwabikise

Paul D. Kenwabikise, 69, hereditary chief of the Beaver Island band of Chippewa Indians, died Saturday Feb. 6 at the Little Traverse Division of Northern Michigan Hospital.

The funeral service was held at St. Mary's Church on Tuesday, Feb. 10. The Rev. Mathias Klemen, O.F.M., of Harbor Springs was the celebrant. Interment will be in Holy Cross Cemetery on Beaver Island.

The Rosary was recited at the Winchester Funeral Home Monday evening.

Born on High Island Sept. 25, 1917, Mr. Kenwabikise was a resident of the island in the Beaver Group until moving to Charlevoix in 1965. He was a commercial fisherman. His fish tug was the "Sunny Don." On Jan. 8, 1938, he married the former Isabelle A. Wabanimke at St. James, Beaver Island. She preceded him in death on Aug. 27, 1983. He was a member of Holy Cross Church at St. James and the Michigan Fish Producers Association.

Surviving are six sons, John P. of Oden, Joseph K. of Pellston, Leonard M. of South Haven, Stephen D. of Detroit, Robert A. and James D., both of Charlevoix; eight daughters, Mrs. Orville (Caroline S.) Ramey of Benzonia, Mrs. Albert (Margaret L.) Bolton of Kewadin, Mrs. George (Pauline M.) Anthony of Traverse City, Mrs. Michael (Mary A.) Haplin of Cedar, Mrs. Dennis (Nancy A.) Harris and Mrs. Leonard (Sara M.) Young both of South Haven, A. Doris Kenwabikise of St. James and Diane S. Kenwabikise of Bay Shore; 41 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Grief program planned

Personal recovery from grief will be the topic of a five-week program to be held at Charlevoix Area Hospital starting Monday, Feb. 23 at 7 p.m. The program, co-sponsored by the Hospital and Charlevoix County Hospice, will continue on Monday evenings through March 23.

This program was first offered in Charlevoix County by the hospice and hospital in 1985. Rev. Michael Conklin, pastor of the United Methodist Church in Boyne City, was the moderator of the successful program at that time and will repeat in that capacity for the upcoming sessions.

According to Rev. Conklin, loss of a loved one can have a serious impact on a person's life. The hardship can be particularly severe, he said, for someone without family or friends close at hand to share their grief in a meaningful way.

The upcome program is aimed at anyone who has suffered a loss through death, divorce, separation or otherwise. It is a highly structured program developed in California using small group interaction and step-by-step methods to recover from loss both physically and emotionally.

There is no cost to participants and people may attend the first session to find out more about the program without committing themselves to attending the next four weeks.

For more information call Margaret Lasater in East Jordan at 536-2842, Michael Conklin in Boyne City at 582-9776 or Dave Knight in Charlevoix at 547-4024.

Volunteers help Juvenile Court deal with youth offenders

by PEG OHLE

You're a young teenager from an alcohol- and the dope ridden home. Most of your life you have been neglected and abused. Recently you got into trouble with the law because you were caught breaking into a cabin. Everything seems more hopeless than usual. What's left for you?

A lot, when Juvenile Court turns you over to the Volunteers in Probation (VIP) program.

VIP has been operating lo Charlevoix County for over four years. Its volunteers have helped many problem children like the prototype mentioned above, and now with a part-time staff coordinator under the jurisdiction of Juvenile Court, It is able to do even more.

William Shumaker took over the job of Coordinator last October and is enthusiastic about what VIP can do. He referred us to two cases in which volunteers were making the lives of some local children happier. We present the VIP assessmentof what these volunteers are doing:

"D. and L. K. (who have children of their own) came into the lives of a 13-year-old boy and his 9-year-old sister after their lives had been turned upside down. These young people came from a home that had been abusive and neglectful. In addition, the 13-year-old boy had also come through Juvenile Court on a delinquency charge.

"Following court intervention, there were many changes in this family, and D. and L. were there to provide the constant support and listening ears that this brother and sister needed to help them make sense of what was going on in their lives, and most of all, to affirm to them that they were good kids, neat kids, kids that D. and L. want to spend time with.

"For the last ten months, the K.'s have given their time and talents in showing compassion and sympathy to this family. Because of this, there are two more children in Charlevoix County who feel better about themselves, and the world around them".

And another case:

"V. D. has volunteered her time to help two young sisters who have a very traumatic background and have had Involvement in the Juvenile Court. These young girls, ages 9 and 11, have lived through a suicide in their lives, alcoholic parents, sexual abuse, and violence. These girls have desperately wanted a big sister-type person. V. came into their lives and has provided the most appropriate adult modeling that these girls have ever had.

"V. has volunteered her time to take these girls skating, perhaps a new recent experience for V., and has been able to provide new experiences for these girls. V. has gone into their home and helped them with homework and is really helping these girls turn their lives around. V. has even, to a certain extent, befriended the girls' mother and is helping her also".

VIP is badly in need of men and women like the K's and V. D. They need not spend as much time with the children as these volunteers do —"just someone who can spend a couple of hours a week with them", Shumaker stresses. "Mostly we want to give these young people guidance and a sense of security, and try to turn their lives around".

Five new volunteers have joined VIP since last October, some of them coming from the now-defunct Big Brothers-Big Sisters program. In matching volunteers with children, VIP looks for common interests and special needs of the child. "Many children, especially boys, need a father figure in their lives. We would like to fill that need in all cases, but we have a shortage of men volunteers", Shumaker said.

Volunteers enter a short training period before being assigned to a young person. Part of the training is an introduction to the court system, for which a session will next be held on Monday, February 16, at 6:30 p.m. in the County Building in Charlevoix, according to Shumaker. This meeting could serve as an introduction to the VIP program for possible volunteers.

Persons in charge of programs for social, fraternal, service, and educational organizations are advised that Shumaker is available for programs telling about the work of VIP. He can be reached on Thursdays at the Juvenile Court office, phone 547-7215, or at home other times, phone 347-2961.

Winter Cup activities set

All signals are "Go" for the annual Winter Cup festivities to be held at Mt. McSauba Saturday, Feb. 14, Dwight Boss, Recreation Department director, sponsor of the event, has announced.

At this time there is lots of snow and the hill is in good shape, Boss said.

The events will feature slalom races for both boys and girls ranging from the bunny class (five years and under) through 14 years and older during the morning hours and the World Thunder Tube Championship beginning at 2 p.m.

Registration for the ski races will be held between 9 and 10 a.m. with the races scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. sharp. There will be a $2 entry fee for the ski races for which medals will be given for the top three winners in each age class.

Registration for the World Thunder Tube races will be held from 1 until 2 p.m. with the races scheduled to get underway at 2 p.m. sharp. There will be a $5 entry fee for each five-member team. Thunder tubes for the race will be furnished by the Recreation Department. This race is open to everyone in the seventh grade and older. Cash prizes will be awarded to the top three winners.

The day's activities will be under the direction of Dwight Boss and Bo Boss, manager of the winter sports facilities at Mt. McSauba, assisted by Erik Lundteigen and the Charlevoix High School ski teams.

A thunder tube team roars down the Mt. McSauba slope during last year's Winter Cup.

Health Dept. offers new vaccine for serious childhood disease

For years District Health Department No. 3 has offered vaccines to prevent diseases that have caused problems, especially in children. These diseases are whooping cough, polio, measles, German measles, diphtheria and mumps.

Parents can help to prevent another serious type of childhood illness - bacteria ("Germ") called Haemophilus influenzae type B (or Hib). Hib attacks one of every 200 children in the United States before age 5.

Hib can be responsible for over half of all cases of meningitis in children, the Health Department reports. It may also be responsible for more than 90 percent of all cases of epiglottitus (medical emergency that may cause choking) in children. Many infections that can cause joint problems and crippling forms of arthritis have also been linked to Hib infections.

One infected child may make many other children sick. That is why immunization against Hib is the best way to prevent children from catching and spreading this type of serious childhood illness, the health officials say. The new vaccine has been tested and is up to 90 percent effective in the 2 to 6 year old group.

The United States Public Health Service recommends this new vaccine for all children once they have reached 24 months of age. Because of their increased risk, children 18-23 months old who attend day care should also be considered for the vaccination, although the vaccine is less likely to be as effective in this age group.

District Health Department No. 3 will be offering the Hib vaccine at all of its clinic locations for a fee of $10. The vaccination is also available through many private physicians.

More Information about the Hib vaccine may be obtained from any office of the District Health Department (547-6523 in Charlevoix) or by calling a private physician.

Parents warned about measles danger

District Health Department No. 3 is warning parents of the continuing danger of childhood diseases and urging them to make sure that all of their children are fully immunized.

Brian Youngs, M.D., medical directors, is especially concerned at this time because of the suspected measles (rubeola) cases reported in the area.

Measles is an acute, highly communicable disease characterized by fever, cough, runny nose, red eyes, red spots in the mouth and a rash. Measles can be a very serious illness complicated by middle ear infections, pneumonia and inflammation of the brain. Measles may be prevented by properly immunizing children.

Due to the reported cases of measles in the state, it is important children age 15 months and older are protected against measles.

A vaccine can prevent measles in 95 out of 100 immunized individuals. Dr. Youngs feels that four groups of people have the greatest risk of developing measles: Individuals who have not been immunized and were born after 1956; Individuals who received an immunization prior to 12 months of age; Individuals who received an immunization along with immune globulin; Individuals who were immunized with a killed vaccine, or a vaccine of unknown type, between 1963 and 1967.

The Health Department recommends a series of immunizations that should be started at two months of age. The schedule for active immunizations by 4-6 years of age Includes a basic series of five doses of diphtheria and tetanus toxoid and pertussis (DTP), and four doses of trivalent oral polio vaccine (TOPV), and one dose each of measles, rubella and mumps (MMR), and the Haemophilus Influenza Type B vaccine.

Parents-guardians should check each child's immunization record to insure they are properly immunized against all preventable childhood illnesses, especially measles.

Immunizations are offered in each county by the health department.

For more information about immunizations, contact your physician or any office of District Health Department No. 3 (547-6523 in Charlevoix.)

A group of Charlevoix charter boat captains and fishermen went to Gaylord last week to lobby for more brown trout plants in Lake Charlevoix. Shown discussing the issue are, from left, Bill Tache, Pat Mitchell, DNR biologist Steve Swan, assistant fisheries chief Dave Borgeson, Bernie Ward and Dave Juilleret.

Fishermen ask for more fish

ings, and another 25,000 yearlings if hatchery production allows.

The Charlevoix fishermen argued, however, that the increase in brown trout plantings was offset by the DNR's proposed elimination of rainbow trout plantings in 1987. In recent years, the DNR has planted 35,000 to 45,000 rainbows in Lake Charlevoix.

The state will continue to plant, the DNR officials said, 20,000 steelhead trout annually in the Boyne and Jordan rivers.

Charlevoix is also expected to receive 100,000 yearling lake trout in 1987 as well as some 250,000 chinook salmon at Medusa Creek.

Borgeson was surprised by the fishermen's complaints about poor fishing. "Up until this time, I've thought we had a substantial program on Lake Charlevoix," he said.

The Lake Charlevoix fishermen and the DNR were in full agreement on one thing – the brown trout should provide better sport fishing than the rainbows which have been planted in the past. "We're trying to put a fish in the lake that will stay there," Withers said. He said browns may be more territorial and they show up in the fishermen's nets more often. The movement of the rainbows is still something of a mystery to the DNR and the fishermen.

"The reason I deleted the rainbow plants is that I've been very disappointed with that fishery in Lake Charlevoix," Swan said.

The Charlevoix group also offered to provide money and personnel to help the DNR fin clip the browns planted this year so that further studies can be done on their survival and growth rates.

Bill Tache, a Charlevoix area charter captain, presented the DNR with statistics from the annual Lake Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament. They showed that in 1986 449 tournament fishermen landed only 460 fish during the 51 hours of the tournament in May.

Tache said that if each fisherman put in 24 hours fishing, it would have taken 23.4 hours to catch each fish. If each fisherman fished for 8 hours it would take 7.8 hours to boat a fish.

Girls take first at Schuss

The Charlevoix Rayder girls took first place honors and the boys team placed second behind Petoskey in a ski meet held Wednesday Feb. 4 at Schuss Mountain.

The Rayder girls won the meet with 27 points. Petoskey had 47. East Jordan was third with 130 points and Kalkaska came in fourth with 137 points.

In the boys meet Petoskey had 43 points, Charlevoix 63, East Jordan 99 and Kalkaska 132.

"It was a great day for the Rayder skiers. We had races other than the varsity events and 32 of our skiers were on the slopes. They all did well. I was happy to have them all participate. It is the only way to give potential team members experience," Coach Erik Lundteigen said.

Lauren Pace swept both the slalom and the giant slalom, taking first in both events and teammate Allison Hall took seconds while Karl Erber took seconds in both events and Charlie Witthoeft a second in the slalom for the boys.

The results of the girls meet follow:

Pace, firsts in both slalom and giant slalom; Hall, seconds in both events; Wendy Voisin, third in slalom and fourth in giant slalom; Christy Coolman, seventh in slalom and ninth in giant slalom; Monica Havens, ninth in slalom and 12th in giant slalom and Carla Hoffman, eighth in slalom and seventh in giant slalom.

In the boys meet, Erber took seconds in both the slalom and giant slalom; Charlie Witthoeft, second in the slalom; Heath Moore, eighth in slalom and 15th in giant slalom; Jason Fettig, 10th in slalom and 16th in giant slalom; Dan Bickersteth 10th and Curt McCandless 14th in slalom; Jake Smith seventh, Matt Miller 12th and Matt Dixon 18th in giant slalom.

Lauren Pace continued to turn in top performances in last week's ski races.

Skiers burn up Crystal slopes

It was a great day for the Charlevoix Rayder Ski teams as they won the Manistee Invitational meet held Monday Feb. 2 at Crystal Mountain.

"It was a good day for us. We're improving. Wes (Cumberland) and Lauren (Pace) tore everything up taking first in both the giant slalom and slalom, Karl (Erber) took second in both events," Coach Erik Lundteigen said. "Wendy (Voisin) was really consistent, taking fifth in both events. Now we have to keep on improving in preparation for the conference and regional meets. I'm happy with the kids. They did well."

He added that skiing conditions were not ideal. The snow was soft because of the high temperature, resulting in ruts on the hill.

The Charlevoix girls took the meet with 36 points followed by Traverse City St. Francis with 122; Clare 125; Manistee 155; Harrison 171; Roscommon 173; Benzie Central 174 and Farwell 200.

In the boys meet, Charlevoix had 50 points with the Manistee A team taking second place with 85, followed by Benzie Central with 129; Harrison 136; Traverse City St. Francis 172; Clare 189; Farwell 190; Roscommon 230 and Manistee B team 254.

Pace took firsts in both the giant slalom and slalom followed by Allison Hall with a second in giant slalom and a third in slalom; Wendy Voisin, fifth in both events; Christy Coolman, 12th in giant slalom and seventh in slalom; Carla Hoffman, 13th in both events and Monica Havens 36th in giant slalom and 12th in slalom.

In the boys meet, Cumberland placed first in both events; Erber second in both events; Charlie Witthoeft, 45th in giant slalom and third in slalom; Heath Moore, 22nd in giant slalom and 6th in slalom; Jason Fettig, 13th in giant slalom and seventh in slalom; Matt Dixon 26th in giant slalom and Dan Bickersteth, [illegible] in slalom.

Charlevoix teams will participate in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference meet at Nub's Nob Thursday, Feb. 12, and the regional meet at Schuss Mountain the following Thursday.

Allison Hall charges downhill.

Rayders trounced by Gaylord

Despite a valiant effort, the Charlevoix Rayders were no match for the height and strength of the Gaylord Blue Devils Friday.

Gaylord, currently second in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference and 12-2 overall, pulled away from the Rayders in the third period and went on to an easy 75-50 win.

The loss dropped Charlevoix to 6-4 in the league, three full games behind first-place Cheboygan with just four games to go. Charlevoix is 8-5 overall.

Gaylord took a 14-9 first-period lead and held a 31-28 advantage at the half before opening a 56-39 margin after three periods.

"We played hard," Charlevoix coach Dave Smith said. "It was tough for us to rebound because of the height advantage. We didn't get a lot of good shots and when we did they didn't go in."

Gaylord hit 30 field goals and 15 of 27 free throws, with 15 fouls. Charlevoix had 20 baskets and 10 of 17 from the foul line, with 18 fouls.

Jim Ciuk led the Rayder scoring with 15 points while the team's big men, 6-foot-3 Scott DeYoung and 6-foot-4 Chad DeVries, scored four and six points respectively. DeYoung fouled out three minutes into the final quarter and DeVries was also troubled by foul problems.

Jim Gibbs added eight points to the Rayder attack and Roger Smith pumped in seven.

"We stayed with them for the first half but that was it." Smith said.

Gaylord's Rick Gray had a game high 25 points, putting him over the 1,000 point mark. Chris Markovich added 15 and Mark Johnston 10.

The Rayders face Rogers City at home on Friday, February 13.

JVs pull out overtime thriller

The Charlevoix Rayder JVs won a thriller at Gaylord Friday night by a score of 63-57 in overtime after Dylan Stewart knotted the score 51-all with the second of two free throws as time ran out.

In the overtime, Shawn Putman and Daver Miller scored field goals to match those scored by Gaylord before Matt Cunningham scored on a field goal to give the Rayders a two-point lead. James Corwin and Miller contributed two points each on free throws to give the Rayders the game, their first overtime win of the season.

The entire game was a seesaw battle with the Rayders taking a slim 9-7 first-period lead only to have the Blue Devils knot the score 25-all at halftime in a defensive battle.

As the second half got underway, the Rayders pulled ahead to a 37-32 advantage going into the final period when the Blue Devils came back strong and pulled ahead late in the period. Trailing by one point, Stewart missed the first and then canned the second free throw to tie the game.

Stewart was lost via the foul route in overtime and was joined on the bench by Mike Picha before the team rallied to win by the six-point margin.

The Rayders outscored the Blue Devils 25-22 from the floor and had 13 of 23 free throws while collecting 20 personal fouls. Gaylord hit on 23 of 27 charity shots and had 17 personal fouls.

Putman had 15 points, Miller 14 and Picha 12 points for the game.

Wrestlers take 6th in conference

The Charlevoix Rayder matmen placed sixth among nine teams entered in the annual Michigan-Huron Shores Conference wrestling tournament held at Rogers City Saturday.

Petoskey won the meet with a total of 154½ points followed by Gaylord with 149½, Rogers City 143, St. Ignace 115, Grayling 107, Charlevoix 105, Sault Ste. Marie 51½, Onaway 33 and Cheboygan 21.

Charlevoix came away with one first-place medal winner, Toby Young in the 98-pound class; one second-place winner, Jason Whitley (138); three third-place winners, Scott Novotny (112), Shaan Bier (132) and Derek Dutcher (198); and one fourth-place, Steve Mellios (176).

Bill Marquardt (heavy weight) won two and lost two; Jamie Montieth (145) and Jim Tilton (185) had 1-2 records and Brian Livingston (119) a 0-2 record for the day.

"It was a very even day for the entire conference," coach Greg Bryan said. "There were upsets and close matches decided by one point making the difference in the outcome. The team wrestled extremely well. Our intensity and our execution was satisfying.

Toby Young totally outclassed his opponents, walking through his first two matches with pins in :35 and :59 seconds. His record is now 27-9 and he will be No. 1 seed in district competition.

Whitley, Bryan said, had been wrestling extremely well over the past three weeks.

Novotny is finally putting his techniques in action Bryan said, and after losing a tight 8-7 match in the semifinals to Jerry Kondradt of Petoskey, defeated a wrestler from Rogers City to avenge an early season loss on a pin in 3:15.

Bier lost the heartbreaker of the day to Dave Hoffman of Petoskey in overtime, 4-2, in a very tough weight class, failing to make the finals. He came back strong, defeating two more class wrestlers before defeating Jason Frazier of St. Ignace 5-0.

Dutcher wrestled as well as expected, losing to Eric Pulfrey of the Soo 4-0 in the semifinals. He pinned, Phil Inman of Gaylord in 1:45.

Mellios, unseeded, defeated the fourth seed and finished the day with two wins and two losses, losing to the second seeded Al LaLonde of Rogers City to win fourth place.

Marquardt had a tough day, wrestling well but losing on the big moves.

Freshmen split week's games

The Charlevoix Rayder freshmen split last week's games beating Elk Rapids 57-50 and losing a close one to Gaylord 42-40.

On Monday the young Rayders took a 14-8 first-period lead, increased it to 26-16 at halftime and 52-30 going into the final period before coach Barry Anderson emptied the bench and the Elks were able to trim the advantage to seven points at the buzzer.

Webb Friedly contributed 16 points, Chad DeYoung 12 and Jason Corwin 10. Bill Edwardson had 21 for Elk Rapids.

In the game with Gaylord, the Rayders jumped to a 14-4 first-period lead and held on 18-16 at halftime and 26-21 at the three-quarter mark before Gaylord doubled the number of points, outscoring Charlevoix 21-14 for the two-point win.

Jason Corwin and Friedly shared scoring honors with 11 points each. Rance Charboneau had 10 for Gaylord.

On Thursday, Charlevoix will host Sault Ste. Marie and on Monday will entertain East Jordan.

Depot, Pepsi maintain league lead

The Depot of Boyne City and Pepsi-Cola of Petoskey continue to lead the A league of the Charlevoix Independent Basketball League, posting wins over Nanny's and Buday's NCE last week.

The Depot defeated Nanny's 82-72 and Pepsi downed Buday's 86-79. In the third game, Dr. Dave's Green Grinders defeated Kit Carson Lumber 92-83.

The Depot trailed 22-15 at the quarter, and 45-33 at halftime before outscoring Nanny's 28-11 to go ahead 61-56 at the end of the third quarter and by 10 points at the buzzer.

Dean Hicks with 32 points, Rob Spencer with 23, Tony Williams with 11 and Mike Guitar with 10 paced the scoring for the Depot. Tom Steffan had 21 points, Mike Bostick 19, and Darren VanLoo and Ken Kruzel 10 each for Nanny's.

Dr. Dave's Green Grinders had five players in double figures as the team outscored Carson Lumber 29-23, 53-45 and 68-60 by quarters.

Dick Swenor led the way with 27 points followed by Dan McKenzie with 16, Jim Parrish and Mike Loper with 13 each and Dave Storm with 11. Tim Carey had 17, Bob Boss 16, Roger Crain 14 and Scott Kelly 13.

In the third game of the night Cliff Haas scored a red hot 47 points, the largest number scored on any game this year, as Pepsi Cola led by margins of 19-17, 41-37 and 61-55 by quarters before winning by a seven point margin.

Elk Rapids falls victim to grapplers

The Charlevoix Rayder wrestlers defeated Frankfort 72-12 and Elk Rapids 62-8 at the latter's gym Monday.

The Rayders were never threatened, Coach Greg Bryan said. Elk Rapids is just introducing the wrestling program and had only four participants.

In the Frankfort meet:

105: Toby won by forfeit.

112: double forfeit

119 Scott Novotny pinned Scott Nigh in 2:50.

126: Brian Livingston pinned Don Sneed in 1:44.

138: Steve Hopkins pinned Mike Page in 3:00.

145: Jason Whitley pinned Mike Kacymarek in :33.

155: Jamie Montieth won by a technical pin over Edwin Farnsorth. 17-2.

167: Steve Melios outpointed Pete Peterson, 13-9.

185: Jim Tilton outpointed Chris McClellan, 7-3.

198: Derek Dutcher pinned Butch Garber in :22.

Hvy.wt.: Bill Marquardt pinned Zak Lapp in 1:24.

In the meet with Elk Rapids:

119: Novotny pinned Jason Lake in 3:30.

126: Livingston pinned Brian McLain in 3:30.

145: Whitley pinned Kyle Millen in 1:10.

Hvy.wt.: Marquardt pinned Bill Zak in 1:15.

Tody Young defeated Chris Buller in an exhibition match.

All others won by forfeit.

Middle School gets revenge

Charlevoix Middle School basketball teams evened the score with Boyne City Thursday night after losing to the young Ramblers earlier in the season.

The seventh-grade team won 52-34 and the eighth-graders by an equally impressive score, 45-19.

In the seventh-grade game, Charlevoix had a 22-19 lead at halftime and held the Ramblers to four points in the second half as they outscored them 30-4.

Corey Crain had 10 points and Wayne Joy and Luke LaBlance eight each for Charlevoix.

In the eighth-grade game, Charlevoix increased their 28-11 halftime lead to 45-19 at the final buzzer.

Eric McElroy had 10 points for Charlevoix.

Charlevoix will host Petoskey teams Wednesday before going into the junior high tournaments to be held here and Petoskey beginning Monday, Feb. 18.

First State Bank builds league lead

The First State Bank continues to increase its lead in the Charlevoix Independent Basketball B league.

Last week, the Bankers added two wins to the string, edging Rich's Topside 57-56 and Dairy Queen 59-49.

In other games played during the week Paul Lindberg, Inc., lost to Marsh Construction 57-54 and to the Mesquite 64-43. The Mesquite trimmed Dairy Queen 77-51 and Topside beat Marsh Construction 65-44.

In their meeting with Topside Monday, First State Bank trailed 16-12 at the quarter, mustered a 25-24 lead at halftime only to lose it 44-42 going into the final period when the Bankers rallied to outscore Topside 15-12 for the one-point win.

Dennis Dominic and Jack Cross teamed up for 14 points each, Bob Jones added 12 and Bob Sandahl 11 for the victors. Dave Cole had 18 points and Larry Skippergosh 15 for Topside.

Paul Lindberg, Inc. paced the game with Marsh Construction 20-9, 30-22 and 44-38 by quarters before taking the game by a three-point margin after Marsh outscored Lindberg 19-10 in the final period.

Jeff Drury contributed 17 points, Ray LaVoie 13 and Kim Markowitz 10 for the winning cause. Mike Crain had 18, Larry Brock 11 and Stan Martin 10 for Lindberg.

In the third game on Monday, the Mesquite led Dairy Queen 14-6, 25-18 and 43-32 by quarters for an easy win.

Rol Chavez scored 25 points, Jerry Martin 14 and Marc Phillips 10 for the Sailors. Steve Leazier had 19 and Bill Brodin 10 for Dairy Queen.

On Wednesday, Topside rolled over Marsh Construction 17-4, 29-22 and 47-29 by quarter before winning 65-44.

Dave Cole with 24 points and Gordie Block with 12 led the Topside to victory. Kim Markowitz had 13 for the Builders.

Dairy Queen jumped to a 17-12 first-period lead and stayed ahead 29-24 at halftime only to fall behind 46-39 going into the final period to lose by 10 points.

Dominic with 18 points, Sandahl with 13 and Cross with 10 points led the attack. Steve Leazier had 17 points and Mike Herriman 13 for Dairy Queen.

The Mesquite coasted past Lindberg 15-10, 27-22 and 45-36 before taking the lopsided win.

Chavez had 18 points, Mark Husak had 15, Martin 14 and Phillips 11 for the Mesquite. Gale Sheldon had 16 and Crain 10 for Lindberg.

On Feb. 25, league teams will return to the court with the Mesquite playing Topside, Marsh Construction taking on First State Bank and Dairy Queen meeting Paul Lindberg, Inc.

Volleyball team loses close match to Grayling

The Charlevoix Rayder volleyball team dropped a close one to Grayling Wednesday by a 3-2 score.

"With four team members benched with injuries, we were short-handed and I had to bring up a player from the JVs," Coach Brenda Bryan said. "This breaks up the familiar rhythm though the girls played a good game as the scores indicate."

The varsity scores were 15-7, 7-15, 15-7, 13-15 and 16-14.

Jennifer Sell was the top setter and server, Jill Taylor and Amy Antaya, defensive players, and Antaya, offensive player.

The JVs also dropped their match 15-7, 15-8, 14-16:

Laura Wilmot took serving honors; Becky Melke was top offensive player and Melke and Linda Hoeksema, defensive players.

Charlevoix will be at Rogers City Wednesday and the Petoskey Invitational Saturday and will host St. Ignace the following Wednesday.

Michigan Bell Service Bulletin

Important: Action you must take if your phone number begins with 547.

Now you have a choice of long distance companies for Dial 1 Plus service. Don't leave that choice to chance.

Watch the mail and make your choice soon.

If you have not already received it, you soon will be getting complete information from Michigan Bell by mail, along with a ballot listing your choices of Dial 1 Plus long distance companies. Your Dial 1 Plus options and the steps you should take are described in detail. And you will be given the date by which you must make your selection to avoid having a long distance company randomly selected for you.

If your phone number does not begin with the number above, don't worry. You will be notified when your area is ready for Dial 1 Plus service.

What is Dial 1 Plus?

Dial 1 Plus is simply dialing "1," plus the area code (when necessary), plus the telephone number to complete a long distance call outside of your LATA. Companies offering long distance service can now offer you the same Dial 1 Plus service previously available only to customers of AT&T.

Don't give up your right to choose.

As part of the restructuring of the telephone industry, you must choose a company for Dial 1 Plus service or such a company will be chosen for you. Should this happen, it will be a random selection by computer. We urge you to make your own choice—because a company selected at random will not necessarily be one that best serves your specific needs. The information you receive will include telephone numbers for the various long distance companies, so you can easily look into their services and charges before you make your choice.

Need more help? Let's Talk!

Michigan Bell cannot recommend a long distance company, but if you have any questions about Dial 1 Plus service, or if you have misplaced the ballot we mailed, just call the Michigan Bell Let's Talk Center at this toll-free number.

LEGAL NOTICES 207

NOTICE TO SHAREHOLDERS OF FAIRNESS HEARING

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that a public hearing will be held and conducted by the Financial Institutions Bureau of the Department of Commerce, State of Michigan, at Charlevoix County State Bank's main office, 227 Bridge Street, Charlevoix, Michigan 49720, on February 25, 1987, at 11:00 a.m., local time, to consider the fairness of a proposed exchange of shares of capital stock of CCSB Corporation, a newly formed Michigan corporation which has applied to become a bank holding company, for shares of capital stock of Charlevoix County State Bank.

CCSB Corporation and Charlevoix County State Bank have filed an application with the Financial Institutions Bureau for approval of the terms and conditions of the proposed exchange of shares. Under the terms of a proposed consolidation agreement (the "Consolidation Agreement"), Charlevoix County State Bank would become a wholly owned subsidiary of CCSB Corporation. The Consolidation Agreement provides that each outstanding share of common stock, $10.00 par value, of Charlevoix County State Bank shall, upon consummation of the proposed transaction, be converted into and exchanged for one share of common stock, $10.00 par value, of CCSB Corporation. Upon consummation of the proposed transaction, shareholders of Charlevoix County State Bank will become the sole shareholders of CCSB Corporation which, in turn, will become the sole shareholder of Charlevoix County State Bank. No other shares of capital stock of CCSB Corporation are to be issued in connection with the proposed transaction.

The hearing is being held pursuant to Section 130(a) of the Michigan Banking Code of 1969, as amended by Act. No. 177 of the Public Acts of 1965, which requires the Commissioner of the Financial Institutions Bureau, upon application, to hold and conduct a hearing to consider the fairness of the terms and conditions of the issuance, conversion or exchange of shares of capital stock of a new bank holding company for shares of capital stock of an existing bank. Anyone who wishes to comment on this proposed transaction has a right to do so by appearing in person at the hearing.

Even if the Commissioner of the Financial Institutions Bureau grants the requested approval, the proposed transaction will remain subject to various other regulatory approvals and to approval by the holders of two-thirds of the outstanding common stock of the Charlevoix County State Bank at a meeting of shareholders to be formally called and held at a later date. Shareholders of Charlevoix County State Bank will be notified of the meeting by publication and by certified mail. At the meeting of shareholders, shareholders will have an opportunity to discuss and vote on the proposed transaction.

Mayor urges action

McRae reports he had "successful conversations in separate appointments" with Irwin and Ostling. "They were each very much interested and concerned about the lack of progress, and, at Senator Irwin's suggestion, both he and Representative Ostling will be working together to bring some action of the problem", he said.

Also at the meeting in Lansing was Jeannie Van Zoeran, health planner consultant for Liberstore, who also presented reasons for asking the legislators' intervention in the hearing delay. Van Zoeran is preparing a formal written protest specifically pleading that the March, 1988 appeal date be advanced to some time in April, 1987.

"I am confident that the legislators will bring about some corrective action that not only may help us but could also result in some departmental changes", McRae added about his Lansing visit.

At McRae's urging, city council last week passed a resolution authorizing letters be sent to Senator Irwin and Representative Ostling to "urge the Department of Public Health to speed up their decision making procedures."

BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS
SYNOPSIS
January, 1987

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners held their annual organizational session on January 8, 1987. The oath of office was administered to Commissioners Matthew, Harmon, Sutliff, Breakey, Smith and Heeres by County Clerk, Jane E. Brannon.

The Board elected Commissioner Larry Matthew as Board chairman and Commissioner Oral Sutliff as vice-chairman. Other committee assignments were also made.

The bid for county maps was awarded to Prestige Press of Boyne City. Delivery is to be made within four weeks.

Regular Board meetings were held on January 14 and 28, with all members in attendance.

The Board discussed Beaver Island concerns with St. James Township supervisor, Ron Wojan and heard from residents of Marshall Road in Wilson Township of their on-going concern with enforcement of the Sanitary Code.

In other action, the Board adopted resolutions of intent to purchase the transit building, pending grant of matching funds and intent to continue funding the transit program; authorizing sale of an automobile under a Circuit Court Order of Forfeiture; endorsing two grant applications for the Sheriff's Department and sponsoring police academy attendance for a county resident.

At its January 14 meeting, the Board received the resignation of County Treasurer, Anah Potter, which was accepted with regret.

Complete minutes of the Board proceedings are on file in the office of the County Clerk and are available for public inspection during regular business hours.

Jane E. Brannon, Clerk

William T. McCormick Jr., chairman of Consumers Power Company, addresses Big Rock Point personnel last week.

Big Rock staff gets congratulations from boss

William T. McCormick, Jr., Consumers Power Company board chairman Thursday congratulated employees of the Big Rock Point Nuclear Plant for their top performance during 1986. The utility's chief executive officer visited the plant to personally compliment plant workers for their success in setting records for power generation and radiation safety performance during the past year.

Big Rock Point set a plant record for calendar-year power generation during 1986 and succeeded in reducing occupational exposure to the lowest level ever since the plant began commercial operation.

"Keep doing what you're doing, continue to earn high marks from the regulators and maintain your level of excellence," McCormick said.

He noted that customer demand for electricity continues to surge and has greatly reduced the company's reserve margin -- the extra generating capacity necessary to meet customer needs. "We're not bubbling over with capacity now," he said.

As for Big Rock Point's role in meeting future supply, he said, "It's important that we keep this operation well-run and efficient."

Big Rock Point is owned and operated by Consumers Power Company which serves nearly six million of Michigan's nine million residents in 67 of the 68 counties in the Lower Peninsula.

Hearing impaired get special help from MichCon program

Of its more than one million customers, MichCon estimates that approximately 30,000 customers are hearing-impaired. To better serve these customers, the company is making available qualified sign language and-or oral interpreters. The service is available with five-day advance notice at the MichCon business office nearest the customer and at no charge.

"For the past six years, MichCon has communicated with some of our hearing-impaired customers through Telecommunication Devices for the Deaf (TDDs), a telephone connection between company and customers' printers," said William L. Johnson, MichCon Vice President District Operations. "This new company service allows customers with special needs who do not have telecommunications equipment or who prefer direct contact, to visit a MichCon office to discuss their account or heating service."

If a personal appointment is desired, a customer may call the MichCon TDD number or the individual's representative can call the billing information number listed on the monthly gas bill to make meeting arrangements. The appointment should be made at least five days in advance.

The Company will then arrange for a qualified interpreter to be present at the meeting. "The interpreters are professional facilitators of communication between hearing and deaf persons. They are bound by a Code of Ethics to client-case confidentiality," Johnson said.

The MichCon TDD number in the Grand Rapids, Muskegon and Northern areas is (616)451-4404. The number is listed in the MichCon "Helping Handbook 1986-87," which was mailed to all customers with their November gas bill. Beginning this month, the TDD number also is being printed on the monthly gas bill.

"As a service company, MichCon believes that we have a responsibility to work with and to meet the needs of all our customers. Sign language and oral interpreters and TDDs are just two of the resources we have available to help our customers," Johnson said.

MichCon is a natural gas distribution serving more than one million customers on 430 communities throughout Michigan including the Charlevoix area.

Whiting Park proves popular with campers

by PEG OHLE

Charlevoix County's Whiting Park continued its popularity in 1986, when 484 camps were set up along Lake Charlevoix and in the wooded area upland, according to the annual report of the Parks & Recreation Commission.

Since being established as a campsite in 1971, Whiting Park has averaged 420 campsites annually.

Last year, 204 of the campers had county addresses, 259 came from other parts of Michigan (including the Upper Peninsula), and 21 came from other states.

The old-fashioned tent was used by 239 of the campers, tent trailers were used by 45, pick-up campers were used by 49, travel trailers were used by 99, automobiles were used by two, motor homes and fifth wheelers were used by 47, and a boat was used by one.

Whiting Park is owned and operated by Charlevoix County and has always been considered by local people as "our" park and campground. This is further borne out by the fact that last year almost half of the campers were county residents.

Whiting Park dates back to 1923, when its 160 acres were deeded to the county by Perry Whiting of Los Angeles, who stipulated that the land be used for a public park and that it be called "Whiting Memorial Park" in memory of his father, Ryerson Whiting, who homesteaded the land in 1870.

Today, besides the campsites, the property provides a swimming beach, ball park, and other recreational facilities, as well as a large all-purpose building which is used for meetings and activities of many organizations.

Fees for use of campsites and the building are just about enough to cover the costs of management and maintenance of the park. The Charlevoix County Parks & Recreation Commission is responsible for the management of Whiting Park.

Present members of the Commission are Herbert Griffin of East Jordan, chairman; Steve Wilson of Charlevoix, vice-chairman; Michael B. Davis of Boyne City, secretary; Tom Wieland of Charlevoix; Wayne Saunders of East Jordan; Clayton Healey of East Jordan; Oral Sutliff of Boyne City; Barbara Timms of Charlevoix; Don Smith of Charlevoix; and Robert Stowe of Charlevoix. Philo Sumner serves as Park Manager.

Berry Pfister

Local truck driver up for state award

Barry Pfister of Charlevoix, a driver for Central Transport, Inc., Sterling Heights, is one of 12 nominees for the Michigan Trucking Association's annual "Driver of the Year" award.

The winner will be announced by Secretary of State Richard Austin during the association's 39th annual banquet Feb. 17 at the Lansing Civic Center, 505 W. Allegan St.

The nominees will be introduced by MTA President F. Phillip McKinley.

Thomas Bowman, AAA Michigan vice president-Insurance, will present Steering Wheel Awards to each nominee in recognition of their safe driving records and contributions to the trucking industry.

Other Nominees are: Kenneth Miedema of Wyoming, Glen Smoes of Allendale, William Buckley of Coldwater, James Phenicie of Adrian, Jack Dillon of Lincoln Park, Charles Langeland of Grand Rapids, Robert Howe of Big Rapids, Willard Warners of Jenison, Fred Houser of Holt, Patrick Doyle of Grand Rapids and Alden Brinningstaull of Lake Odessa.

Michigan water plan topic of workshop series

The first comprehensive plan for the management of Michigan's water resources is the focus of a series of five regional workshops in March being sponsored by the Michigan Sea Grant Extension (MSU Cooperative Extension Service), and the Great Lakes and Water Resources Planning Commission.

The one-day workshops will feature group discussions and presentations by local resource people. Participants will have opportunities to learn about critical water planning issues, such as watershed management and state-local partnership, to review and comment on the recommendations of the draft action plan, to obtain background information to prepare their comments about the draft plan, and to discuss water planning concerns with colleagues and commission staff members.

Anyone interested in the future of Michigan's water resources is welcome to attend.

The meetings are scheduled from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. March 3 in Southfield (Ramada Inn); March 9, Gaylord (Chalet Center); March 10, Marquette (Ramada Inn); March 12, Bay City (Linden Hof); March 19, Kalamazoo (Sheraton Inn). A $5 registration fee includes luncheon and workshop materials. Preregistration is required at least one week in advance. To register, call (616) 922-4620.

Since September 1985, the Great Lakes and Water Resources Planning Commission has been working with citizens, public officials, resource experts and state agency staff members to develop the draft action plan for managing the Great Lakes, surface and groundwater resources of Michigan. It consists of an extensive analysis and recommendations that will be presented to the governor and the legislature in September 1987.

The draft plan will be released in late February for public comment. The final plan will be shaped by comments from organizations and individuals during the 60-day public comment period in March and April. The regional workshops are one of several opportunities the public has to learn about the plan. Others include the commission's monthly newsletter, a slide-tape program on Michigan's water resources planning needs (copies will be available on a loan basis from the commission in March), fact sheets and the public hearings.

Funding for the workshops has been provided by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

Income Tax Preparation

ITEMIZING DEDUCTIONS

QUESTION: My wife and I had a joint income of $17,000 last year. Our deductions, including contributions, interest, taxes and medical expenses, totaled $3,420. Would it benefit us to itemize?

ANSWER: Your zero bracket amount is $3,540; therefore, it would be to your advantage to itemize your deductions only if they exceed that amount. Since you already have $3,420 in deductions, it may benefit you to have your expenses reviewed by a competent tax preparer to see if you might have any additional items such as education expenses, union dues, tax return preparation fee, or income production expenses. Then if your total deductions exceed $3,540, it is to your advantage to itemize.

Band Day tickets moving fast

The hottest item on the market these days are the tickets for the $500 cash prize donated by the Medusa Cement Co. on behalf of the first annual Band Day scheduled for Friday, March 6.

"I couldn't believe that these tickets would be such a hot item. They're going like hot cakes in zero weather which tells me something very special about the people of Charlevoix: They appreciate their band program and what it does for the community and are prepared to support it all the way," said Don Voisin, president of the Band Boosters. The awarding of the $500 first prize and the host of lesser prizes will climax a series of special events leading up to Band Day.

The tickets now on sale will be available right up until halftime of the final scheduled game of the '86-'87 basketball season between Charlevoix and Gaylord on March 6.

Band day will also share in the 50-50 prize being given at that time.

Prior to the Charlevoix-Gaylord game, the Band Boosters will sponsor its popular spaghetti dinner at the high school cafeteria featuring home-cooked spaghetti, hot garlic bread, salad, dessert and a choice of beverage.

A dance will follow the game. Invitations are being extended to students of area schools to attend.

The funds raised by this and succeeding Band Days will be used to support the band program in the Charlevoix schools and to establish a sinking fund to underwrite the cost of band uniforms at some future date when they are needed. "If we start now, it won't be such a financial burden when the day for new uniforms arrives in the future," Voisin said.

If you're interested in purchasing tickets, contact a Band Booster. With 200 students involved in the band program, they're not hard to find. Or mail your check to Voisin or the Band Boosters at the Charlevoix High School.

Soloists turn in top performances

Eight of the 11 Charlevoix High School's entries in the District II Solo and Ensemble Festival held at Gaylord Saturday received the coveted I rating and are eligible to participate in the state festival to be held at Ferris State College on March 28.

"The students did very well. I was pleased," Terry Isenbarger, director, said of the results.

Soloists receiving I ratings on their respective instruments were: flute: Heather Dietrich, Amy Kelly and Kristen Joy; alto sax: Mike Stargardt; clarinet: Jackie Paul; marimba: Dan Staublin; and piano: Kathy Pease.

Instrumentalists who received a II rating were: Michelle North, flute; John Wilden, trumpet; Scott Kelly, snare drum; and Jackie Paul and Michelle Seibert, clarinet duet.

The District II Solo and Ensemble Festival is sponsored by the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association.

Charlevoix residents face deportation them deported in retribution helping the police solve the crime. Richard was awarded a commendation by the City of St. Petersburg, Maggie said, and received a $1,000 reward.

She said they last heard from immigration officials on Nov. 5, 1984 during a deportation hearing. They assumed things were taken care of and that they would have until the end of this year before their five-year visa expired.

Kent said they were considering applying for citizenship.

Council reacted to the news of the deportation hearing by requesting Mayor Ralph McRae to contact Rep. Bob Davis on the issue.

Council authorizes study of cable legitimate cost," he said.

Despite the feasibility study, which was approved one week ago after the mayor broke a 3-3 tie on council, council members continued to debate the value of public versus private investment in a cable system.

The issue was renewed when Connie Martin, general manager of Northern Cable TV, again asked for council approval of an expansion of the company's facilities at Mt. McSauba to install two new satellite dishes and enlarge an front-end building.

Several council members argued against the request until the cable feasibility study was completed. The eight weeks it would take to complete the study was a small price to pay, Councilwoman Shirley Roloff said. She said giving Northern Cable TV space would be condoning the rate increases scheduled for May.

Councilman Earl Muma said he was for the cable study but did not believe it should stop competition. The city should rent the space, he argued, to allow free enterprise to operate.

"I have a feeling that we are denying private enterprise the right of doing business," Councilman Norm Probert added.

One of the staunchest opponents of the rate increases proposed by Northern Cable TV, Councilman Robert Timms objected to the rental of additional space.

"I'm fighting rate increases," Timms said. "If we don't give it (the rental space) to you, it will delay the rate increase. This is the only hammer we have."

IN OTHER ACTION, council:

–Reviewed an audit presented by Rick Peterson of Hill, Woodcock & Schroderus of Petoskey for the city's fiscal year ending March 31, 1986. The audit was delayed because of problems with the city's accounting software. The report showed revenue of $6,084,128 for the fiscal year, nearly a million more than the previous year. Expenditures were $5,609,121.

–Discussed constructing a city-owned dock at the end of Burns Street to replace one which has deteriorated beyond use. Council debated whether the dock should be used for dingy storage to get to moorings in Round Lake or for rental to larger boats. It was also suggested the city explore the legality of using docks at the end of Prospect Street.

–Decided to seal water meters throughout the city and then begin enforcing a law which would fine anyone breaking the seals from $25 to $500.

You flip a switch and the lights go on.
Start your car and go your way.
Day in and day out, so long as things work like they should, you never give them a second thought.
It's the same with banking.
You, along with the rest of us, fully expect your bank to work right. The first time. And every time.
From our point of view, that isn't an unfair expectation.
In fact, living up to that is the best explanation of how and why we run First of America Bank the way we run it.
So in nearly 200 communities across the Midwest, our bankers are reminded that, even though they're part of a major bank company, they should play a major role in the community.
They're encouraged to make loan decisions locally. Which has made us one of the region's biggest lenders.
They're given all the resources of a big bank company to draw on, so they can offer customers a more resourceful bank.
And, since our bankers are asked to handle customer matters on a local level, they're as accountable to you as they are to their bank.
It's made us not only one of the Midwest's biggest bank companies.
It's made us one of its most dependable companies. Something that's as good for you as it is for us.

City unveils '87 budget, electric rates to rise

by DOUG TRUAX

City Manager Michael Wiesner unveiled a $5,896,600 city budget for fiscal year 1987-88 for city council Monday night.

The proposed budget is down 7.1 percent from last year, Wiesner said, largely because work has been completed on two costly city projects – the public safety building and the industrial park.

Gone, too, is some $50,000 in federal revenue sharing money due to the elimination of this governmental program. As a result, Wiesner said, money will be tight and there will be few reserves to meet growing city needs for water, sewer and streets.

The city received nearly $80,000 in federal revenue sharing in fiscal year 1985-86 and some $53,000 this year. The city may get a share of some $70 million in undistributed revenue sharing funds, but after that there will be no more.

Wiesner recently outlined for council a $3.9 million "needs list" for the city's infrastructure, including repair of streets and improvements in water and sewer lines.

He said that other than existing available fund balances – $150,000 in the street fund, $240,000 in the general fund — there would be little money in the future to meet these needs.

"If the community desires to repair its infrastructure, additional funding sources will have to be found," he added. Wiesner has suggested a millage increase to raise the money for these needs.

City residents will be facing higher water and electric rates to pay for improvements in the city's water plant and electrical system.

This year's budget shows a positive balance in the water fund, Wiesner said, because the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and the State of Michigan provided money for construction of the new Lake Michigan water treatment plant. The EPA is also paying 90 percent of the first year operational costs.

Court to hear Hayes lawsuit

by PEG OHLE

Arguments concerning the constitutionality of the Hayes Township zoning ordinance are scheduled to be heard Tuesday morning, March 10, by the Michigan Court of Appeals.

The zoning ordinance is the basis of a lawsuit filed by Fox & Associates against Hayes Township in January, 1985. Fox owns 338 acres of property with 2,800 feet of Lake Charlevoix shoreline in Hayes Township, and proposed to build 106 lakefront condominium units, 66 boat slips, and 122 inland condominium units. The Township rejected the proposal because, under its zoning ordinance, lakefront development is limited to one living unit and one boat docking space for each 100 feet of shoreline, which would limit Fox to 28 living units and 28 boat docking spaces on the lake.

Fox claims that, as a riparian owner, he should be able to designate the use of his 2,800 feet of shoreline to whoever lives on his 338 acres behind the lake, by use of boat slips, swimming beaches, etc. This type of development is called "keyhole" or "funnel" development and is prohibited in several local zoning ordinance.

In January, 1986, Judge Robert Livo of the Cheboygan County Circuit Court ruled that the Hayes Township zoning ordinance is constitutional, is rooted in state law, and is a matter of public interest. Fox appealed this decision in May of last year, and the hearing date has now just been set.

Seberon Litzenburger of Petoskey is the local attorney representing Fox & Associates. He will be in Lansing for the appeals hearing and told the Courier he is optimistic about the decision in the case. "After all, the lake belongs to all of us, to use and protect", he said. "If the need arises to ration its use, everybody will have to share in the rationing, not only lakefront property owners".

William McTaggart of Boyne City is the local attorney representing Hayes Township. He is considered an authority on zoning and has written a booklet on the subject as well as some anti-funnel ordinances.

The Appeals Court decision will probably not be made known until early summer. Paul Hoadley, Hayes Township supervisor, is quoted as saying that if the decision goes against the Township, it may be appealed to the State Supreme Court.

Skiers, thunder tubes compete

Clear weather and bright sunshine Saturday brought out more than 60 young skiers and 15 five-member teams of thunder tube racers to participate in the annual Winter Cup Festival at Mt. McSauba sponsored by the Charlevoix Recreation Department.

Medals were presented to the top three winners in each age class for both boys and girls and cash prizes to the winners in the thunder tube competition by Dwight Boss, recreation director, and Bo Boss, manager of the Mt. McSauba recreation facility.

Water plant begins operation

Late Monday night the city's new water treatment plant began pumping Lake Michigan water in preparation for providing the city with a new source of contamination-free water.

Mike Reinhart, plant superintendent, said the lake water was being run through the plant to bring down levels of chlorine so bacterial tests could be performed. The chlorine was used to disinfect the plant.

Once the chlorine is at suitable levels, Reinhart said, the water supply must pass two bacterial samples 24 hours apart before water can be pumped into city homes.

The Lake Michigan water treatment plant completion caps some five and one-half years of effort to replace the city's contaminated well. On Sept. 17, 1981 TCE (tricloroethylene), a suspected carcinogen, was discovered in the city well.

The Environmental Protection Agency eventually agreed to pay for 90 percent of the costs of a Lake Michigan water supply replacement; the State of Michigan paid the additional 10 percent. EPA will also pay 90 percent of the first year operational costs.

Reinhart could not say when the new water supply would be flowing to city homes, but the earliest date the test could be completed would be Friday.

Once the water enters the system, he said, it will begin diluting the contaminated water in the city's water tower. The dilution should take place rather rapidly, he said, since the tower is drawn down to one-half full and then refilled three to four times a day.

Recent tests of the city well showed TCE in concentrations of from 24 to 27 parts per billion.

On Tuesday, the water department began testing of each system at the plant, making sure that they met specifications.

Kents fight deportation

Richard and Maggie Kent of Charlevoix continued to fight their recent deportation order from U.S. Immigration officials.

The Kent's received word just over one week ago that Richard would have to leave the country by the end of the month. The couple has lived in Charlevoix for three years, although Richard is currently a chef in Ann Arbor.

They have three children: Jill, 12; Richard 15, and a recently adopted senior at the high school; Ruth, 19.

Maggie Kent has been circulating petitions throughout Charlevoix for people to sign who support them in their effort to remain in the United States. She said Tuesday that over 500 signatures had been collected. The petitions will be sent to Rep. Bob Davis' office in Washington.

"We certainly are getting an overwhelming amount of support from the community," she said.

Friends of the Kent family have organized a benefit to assist them with legal fees. Entertainer Sean Ryan will perform at the Holiday Inn in Petoskey Sunday March 8 from 5 to 9 p.m.

Charlevoix Yesterday

County gets transit funds for new mini van

The Charlevoix County Public Transit System will be the recipient of $32,695 in state funds for the purchase of one mini van and $240,000 in federal money from the Urban Mass Transportation Administration (UMTA), matched by $60,000 from the state, to fund construction of a maintenance-operation facility, Rep. Ralph Ostling (R-Roscommon) said recently.

The vehicle will be arriving in Charlevoix County about mid-summer, said Carol Norris, Michigan Department of Transportation's deputy director for urban and public transportation. "The new vehicle will make riding safer and the new equipment will improve efficiency of services for more than 100 million passengers who ride Michigan buses statewide," she said.

MDOT will distribute a total of $4,105,665 to non-urban transit agencies throughout the state for the purchase of new buses and equipment.

"1986 figures show ridership on the Charlevoix County Public Transit System was 73,644," said Rep. Ostling. "This new equipment will help keep our transit system up-to-date and assure safe, dependable service for all of our citizens."

The Department has granted $9 million to match $21 million in federal funds to purchase new buses and related equipment for 58 transit systems throughout the state.

4-H workshop planned

Leaders of 4-H Clubs, potential leaders, teachers, and other youth group organizers are invited to a Natural Resources Leader Workshop on Saturday, March 28, in Grand Rapids.

Organizers of the event say it will be a "hands-on" experience in environmental education, covering such natural resources as fisheries, wildlife, and the Great Lakes.

More information is available from the 4-H office, phone 582-6232.

Township reviews rezoning

The Marion Township Zoning Board will hold a meeting this evening (February 18) at 7 p.m. in the Marion Township Hall to hear a rezoning request.

The request is being made by W-M Building Company to rezone a parcel of land on M-66 two miles south of Charlevoix for the purpose of constructing a mobile home park. The property is now zoned Residential I.

Marion Township residents are urged to attend the meeting.

School ok's move to new league

by FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix Board of Education, at its regular meeting Monday, voted to give up membership in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference and join the Michigan Huron Shores League which will include most of the schools in the present conference.

The action was taken on the recommendation of David J. Smith, high school principal, and Dale Burge, athletic director. Petoskey, St. Ignace, Cheboygan, Rogers City, Gaylord, Sault Ste. Marie, Grayling and Gaylord will become members of the new league. Boyne City and Onaway have opted to drop out. The action will become effective at the beginning of the 1988-89 school year.

In other action the board accepted with regret the retirement of John Golovich as a school bus driver, effective Feb. 27 and thanked him for a job well done. He has been employed as a driver for 10½ years.

- Approved an overnight trip for the advanced biology class to Wilderness Park on March 8-10. Thirty students will make the trip. The instructor, Peter Spieles, and one chaperone for each eight students will accompany the students.
- Approved the student handbooks for middle and high school students.
- Heard a video program relating to the quest program sponsored by the Charlevoix Lions Club. The program is geared toward students in the middle school age group. Subtitled Skills for Adolescense, it is designed to help students in this age group develop the skills and self-confidence they will need as they grow through the teen years. The presentation was made by Dennis VanGuilder, middle school principal.

The board adjourned to executive session to discuss negotiations.

City budget reviewed

But the city will have to pay all the costs of running the plant sometime in 1988. That may mean higher rates, Wiesner said, to pay for the additional personnel needed to run the plant. The '87-88 budget calls for two additional employees at the water plant. "After the plant opens and we get some experience, we will be better able to make the decision (on hiring)," he said.

City residents will also face further increases in electrical rates as the city institutes its new rate structure designed to make the price structure more fair to industrial and commercial customers.

Residential customers will see a 4.25 percent increase in their rates this year after fuel savings resulting from the purchase of surplus power are figured in. Rural residential rates will also rise, by 3.61 percent over last year.

Overall, electrical rates for all customers will rise 3.63 percent, raising $74,761 in additional revenues.

Wiesner has also budgeted $746,000 for capital improvements to the electrical system, most of the expense coming from reserve funds. This is part of a $1.6 million five-year program of improvements that will increase the system's voltage, update the equipment and purchase substations.

"Within five years we will have a modern, up-to-date and debt-free system. Not too many systems can make the same statement," Wiesner said.

Other major expenditures for the coming fiscal year include $125,000 to trim trees along the streets, $25,000 as a reserve in the Chicago Club tax case, $25,000 for a personal computer in the electrical department, $21,000 to remove the old water tower, $19,600 to reappraise all property in the city.

Also proposed for purchase are a $14,000 police car, $13,000 to reroof City Hall, $12,500 for a new van for the water department and $10,000 for the fire truck reserve.

Wiesner and City Assessor Robert Potter are proposing to reappraise all properties in the city to reduce inequities. Under the plan, the city would hire two additional appraisers for six months to evaluate all property in the city, taking into account increases in valuation from remodeling or other improvements.

The new budget also proposes to have Charlevoix Garbage do the spring cleanup on a contract basis, rather than using city crews, at an estimated cost of $11,200.

Fees for the golf course and the Mt. McSauba Summer Camp are also scheduled for increases. Season passes for the golf course would increase from $75 to $90 for an individual and from $85 to $100 for a couple. Senior citizen rates could go up from $45 to $55 (single) and $55 to $65 (couple).

Nonresident rates for season passes would increase as well.

Daily rates would increase from $6 to $7 for nine holes and $8.50 to $10 for 18 holes (for both residents and nonresidents).

Water levels still high

The water level of Lakes Michigan and Huron at the end of January was about 1 inch above what it was one year ago, putting it at a new record level for the month, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers said in its latest report.

The January level, 580.44 feet, is down 3 inches from one month ago.

The January monthly mean level was about 33 inches above the long-term average and 1 inch above the previous all-time monthly high set in January 1986.

The January level was 62 inches above the all-time low for January set in 1965.

For mariners, the end of January level was 44 inches above chart datum.

The Corps' forecast calls for the lakes to be above their long-term average during the next six months. The Corps predicts that at the end of February the lakes will be about 1 inch below the January level, completing their seasonal decline. At the end of July 1987, the lakes are expected to be 1 inch below what they were at the same time in 1986, according to the Corps.

Valentine's vows taken

The Rev. Bruce Hamilton, pastor at the Community Church of God, celebrated Valentine's Day weekend in an unusual way with his congregation. On Sunday Rev. Hamilton staged a reaffirmation of wedding vows for 16 members of the congretation who had been married 20 years or more.

The ceremony included special wedding music, the recitation of vows and the traditional wedding march. Afterward, the couples joined in cutting a wedding cake (right) during a reception in the church lounge.

Participating in the event were, above, left to right: Joan and Jock Gigg, Verna and Larry Swanson, Gordon and Nancy Russell, Jim and Mary Ehrcke, Rev. Hamilton, Andrea and Vernon Mathews, Marian and Millard Hand, Kay and Chuck Themm, and Harvey and Mary Ann Hamilton.

Missing from the ceremony were Jim and Jean Jensen and Howard and Ruth Ann Campbell. Jim and Howard were busy Sunday cleaning up the runway after a plane crash at the Charlevoix Airport. Noone was hurt.

Beaver Island students post high scores

Students at the Beaver Island Community School received unprecedented 100 ratings in five of six categories of the Michigan Education Assessment Program.

Test results made available by Kathleen McNamara, school principal, show that the students in the fourth, seventh and tenth grades who wrote the tests in reading and math received ratings of 100 in all but seventh-grade math where the group of five students who took the test received an 80 percentile rating compared to the state average of 69.6.

State averages for the areas in which the Beaver Island Community School students received scores of 100 were: fourth-grade reading 80.3 and math 85.0, seventh-grade reading 61.8 and math 69.6, and tenth-grade reading 81.1 and math 68.4.

Seven fourth-grade students, five seventh-grade and two tenth-grade students wrote the tests.

Mystery party planned

'Round Town

EDITH GILBERT

AFTER WRITING ABOUT THE lack of training the local restaurant staffs receive, I must tell you about my most recent and most pleasant experience. Four of us went to dinner at the Wolverine Dilworth in Boyne City. It was delightful (tho' be prepared to bring a full wallet!) The food was marvelous, it was peaceful and the service excellent.

There were two knives and forks on the table–none of this taking off the flatware from your plate to be used again for the next course. Before dessert, the waitress crumbed the table, much to our surprise, and we commented on that. "I was trained in Ireland," said this black-eyed lass with the milky complexion. Glory be! Let's hope she likes living in Boyne Country. We sure like having her around.

STOPPED BY ONE of our local shops the other day and yoo-hoo'd, but nobody came. I picked up the item I desperately needed that minute, and when I went to write a note for the owner, seven customers had already been and gone! There were personal checks and notes from each one on the counter. Seems the owner had forgotten to lock up that night. Where else but in Charlevoix?

THE BIG SURPRISE came in the mail the other day. Someone in California has been sharing this column with a friend, who has never been to Charlevoix. Now the friend wants a subscription to the Courier! Isn't that unreal?

PARTY CHATTER: Caroline Christianson (Sally Berlage's mama) not only is a gourmet cook, but a Perle Mesta in her own right. She's given two wedding breakfasts at 5 a.m. in honor of Princess Di, and Fergie and Andy, which were hilarious, I've been told. Edith Close spent days making royal souveniers, which she hawked to the arriving guests from her cart.

But most recently, Caroline gave a dinner for which the brown bag invitation read, "Please come to my 'Bag Lady' Party." Brown bags filled with sand and candles guided us to the front door. Caroline greeted us wearing a dust cap. Beer was served in the can.

The tablecloth was made of brown paper bags and the table was set with plastic and tin odds and ends... nothing that matched. The menu was White Trash food, depending upon her weekly "take." (It turned out to be a delicious stew.)

Of course the invited bag ladies were dressed to the hilt having raided the Rainbow Shoppe for second band furs, Most had on long underwear with silk stockings bunched around the ankles. They looked darling! Especially Wilma Stabnick, who won the prize by majority vote.

NOW HEAR THIS! Dennis and Eileen Heck are planning their second Mystery Party this summer. How to Host a Murder comes in a neat packet, which includes a host guide, a tape, sealed clues and invitations. The group is limited to eight people. The title of this party game is "Grapes of Frath" and takes place in June 1925 aboard a yacht in the Mediterranean. (It's not hard to pretend that aboard the Heck Boat in Lake Michigan.) The guests are each given a role to play and told what to wear to this "deadly" affair. Now doesn't that sound like fun?

DR. HAROLD WILLENS, who moved north last July with his attractive wife, Gail, tells me he has made a surprising observation since he started his cardiology practice at the Burns Clinic. Most of his cardiac patients come in for a check-up before they leave the area.

"I thought that all the 'summer people' left for home in September. Then I found out there was a group that doesn't leave until October. Another group leaves in November, and some stay until the week before Christmas. There are some who stay here until January, and some don't go away until February! In spring, the ones who left in the fall start coming back again. So, much to my surprise, there's a steady flow of 'summer people' up here all year long."

I called Dr. Willens' office to check on some facts only to learn that he was out of town. Now, what are the doctors vacation patterns in Northern Michigan? Anyone know that?

Cooked Chihuahua

Clockwise

BY BOB CLOCK

On Christmas morning, the Clocks joined the microwave generation.

We were a little late, as usual, because most of the folks we know already had microwaves.

But Judy decided it was time to surprise the rest of the family with a junior-sized microwave oven.

Knowing that I would be fiddling with it, she picked one of the simplest models on the market. It has only one power setting along with the timer. You just have to decide how long you want to zap whatever needs zapping. There are no "high" or "low" controls and no "defrost" feature. In short, nothing to confuse the inept.

And I love it.

My biggest objection to microwaves was that most people seemed to use them chiefly to heat water for instant coffee.

To be sure, our microwave will heat a cup of water in three minutes. But it also makes fantastic peanut brittle in about 15 minutes — the best I have ever tasted — and is wonderful for warming leftovers and cooking such things as bratwurst, hot dogs and smoky links to perfection in almost nothing flat.

I don't have figures to back me up yet, but I know we are saving energy by not having to turn on the gas range — or the oven — a thousand times a day.

The only disappointment I have had so far is poached eggs. Since microwaves cook from the center out, the yokes solidify before the whites are done. Which is not the way I like poached eggs. But Judy has tried scrambled eggs and they come out beautifully.

And Dan likes bacon in the microwave because it cooks thoroughly without burning. When I do bacon in the frying pan, I invariably burn it. According to the old school, pork has to be cooked all the way through.

Microwave ovens already have enriched the language. You see the word "microwaveable" on all sorts of frozen food packages.

And "zap" has taken on a new meaning some distance removed from comic book lingo. It simply means putting something in the microwave until it heats up.

When a waitress asks, "Would you like me to zap that pie for you?" there is no question what she means.

That definition is not in the dictionary yet, but it will be.

Of course, I have no idea how a microwave works. It's pure magic. How can you heat a cup of water until it's dancing — and still have the cup cool enough to handle with the bare hands? Even the glass casserole I use to make peanut brittle remains fairly cool, even with molten sugar and syrup bubbling inside.

But I am willing to live with the mystery. I have no intention of pulling it apart to see how it works.

Nor am I going to use it in the care and grooming of household pets. I am haunted by the story of the society matron who put her chihuahua in the microwave to dry off after it was caught in a cloudburst. Chihuahuas — like eggs — cook from the inside out and the poor wee beast met its maker with a wet coat and a well done liver.

Letters to the editor:

North Point should be set aside as nature preserve

Dear Editor:

Gaylene and I have discussed the preservation of North Point with you in the past, expressing the determination of DUNE group to do all that we can to prevent the rezoning (from R1 to R4) of the 26 plus acres of the North Point wilderness. The prevention of rezoning to R4 is the primary short-term goal of DUNE. However, the more positive long-term goal is to expedite the purchase of the North Point property, if it is offered for sale on the open market by Jack Turner.

The property could then be set aside as a Nature Preserve (zoned SR2) to be left in its natural state for the use and enjoyment of the people and their children.

Although the property comprises a bit more than 26 acres, approximately 6 to 10 acres of the property which borders Lake Michigan is being severely threatened by lake erosion, especially during fall and spring storms, and is therefore unsuitable for development. Should we be successful in preventing rezoning from R1 to R4, while the lake levels continue to rise and endanger the North Point fore-dunes, the preceived value of the property may diminish.

Mr. Lester Turner, who has an option to buy the North Point property from the Richard Turner estate (no relation), has stated that he expects to "firm up his plans by the middle of March for the property." This statement together with a most complimentary article about Lester Turner, which appeared in the Jan. 23, 1987 edition of the Petoskey News Review, strongly suggests that those of us who hope to save North Point from development had better take preventative action now.

Therefore we are asking that WATCH consider issuing statements to the effect that they join DUNE in opposing the rezoning of North Point from R1 to R4 (or PUD), and that they would strongly support either the township or the City of Charlevoix in an effort to acquire the property. We have also written Tom Bailey, Little Traverse Conservancy, commending him on his idea of arranging a meeting with some of the principals. The recent decision by the DNR and Corps of Engineers in regards to Waters Edge should add more weight and momentum to our cause.

Speaking for DUNE and for ourselves, we deeply appreciate whatever you can do to help save and preserve this last remaining jewel in Charlevoix's crown.

Shakespeare wrote in Julius Caesar, "There is a tide in the affairs of men, which taken at the flood, leads on to fortune." We truly believe that... "Upon such a tide are we now afloat, and we must take the current as it serves, or lose our venture".....

Appreciate Sheriff's work

Dear Editor:

I am writing to express my sincere appreciation for the fine job that the Charlevoix Sheriff's Department does in protecting our community. It is a great comfort to know that such fine officers are looking out for the welfare of not only my family, but all of us. Too often we fail to let our public servants know how much we appreciate their dedication, so this letter is to thank them most sincerely.

Know your Chamber

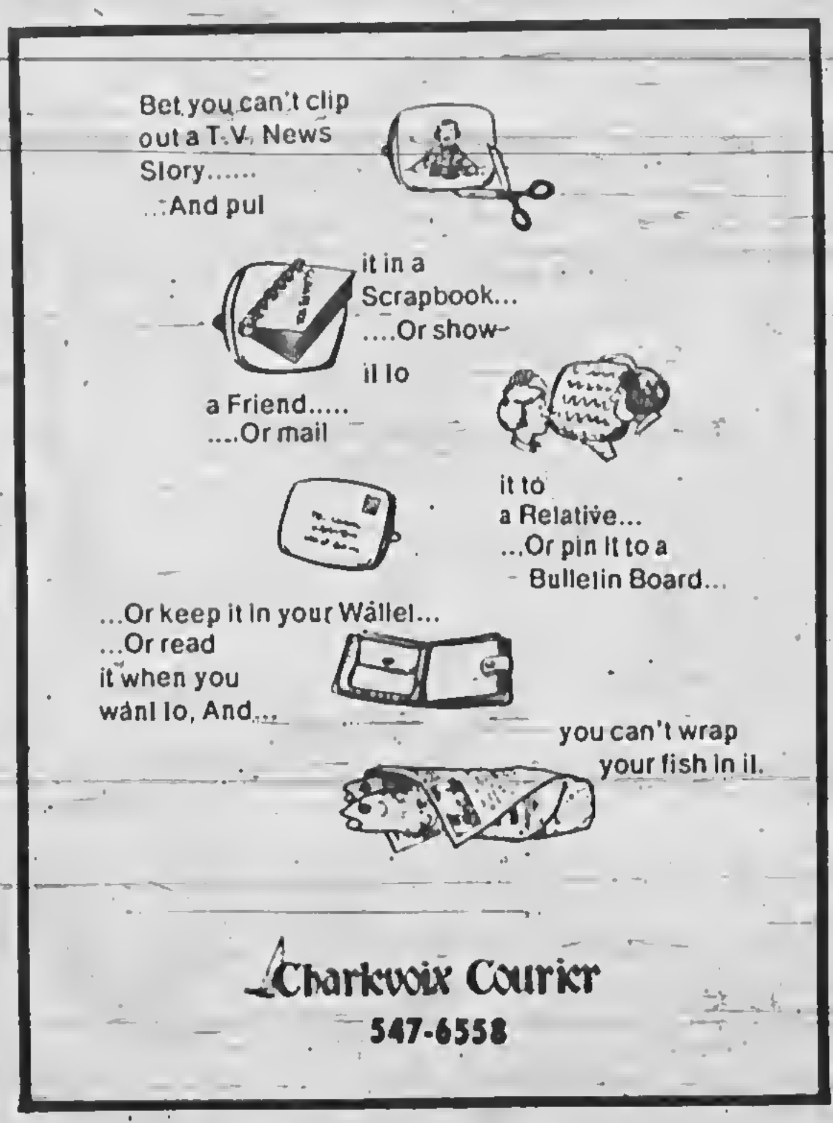
By JACQUIE MERTA
Executive Director

Doug Ross, director of the Michigan Department of Commerce, has announced that travel in Michigan has set new records for the second consecutive year. Travel had an impact of $13.3 billion in spending during 1986. As a result, $611.7 million in tax revenues were generated and 295,000 jobs were created. These statistics point out the fact that this industry is one of our state's most important industries.

At the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce office we had over 10,000 requests for travel information this past year. Almost all Charlevoix tourist-related businesses had a good 1986.

The majority of visitors to our area come from the Great Lakes states, Michigan and Ontario, Canada. Being a repeat visitor and using interpersonal sources of information such as friends and relatives, are the most important factors in planning where to go on a trip. A travel directory is the most common factor in deciding where to stay overnight.

Presently, the Charlevoix Visitors and Convention Bureau is in the process of publishing an "Accommodations Guide." It's in the rough stage, but even so it's exciting to view and know that this brochure and it's distribution will have a dramatic impact on Charlevoix's economy.



Bet you can't clip out a T.V. News Story......
...And put it in a Scrapbook...
....Or show it to a Friend.....
....Or mail it to a Relative...
...Or pin it to a Bulletin Board...
...Or keep it in your Wallet...
...Or read it when you want to, And... you can't wrap your fish in it.

JUST LIKE DAD

Have you ever heard someone say the first time they met you, "I was sure I recognized you. You look just like your father!" At one time or another it's happened to all of us.

For better or worse we bear the image of our parents. When it's for the worse we're humiliated. But when we bear the resemblance of our parents for the better it makes us proud.

Christians proudly bear the image of their Heavenly Father. Through the life transforming miracle the Bible refers to as New Birth, we are born (born-again) in the image of God. New Birth is more than a cliche. The term born again is more than a figure of speech. It is a reality. Those who are genuinely born of the Spirit of God do resemble their Father. They resemble Him both in their "looks" and their actions.

The Bible is full of descriptions about both the appearance and the conduct of the children of God. Jesus gives one description in Luke 6:32-36.

If you love those who love you, what credit is that to you? Even 'sinners' love those who love them. And if you do good to those who are good to you, what credit is that to you? Even 'sinners' do that. And if you lend to those from whom you expect repayment, that credit is that to you? Even 'sinners' lend to 'sinners', expecting to be repaid in full. But love your enemies, do good to them, and lend to them without expecting to get anything back. Then your reward will be great, and you will be sons of the most high, because he is kind to the ungrateful and wicked. Be merciful, just as your Father is merciful.

Next time you see someone who acts like that you'll immediately recognize who their Father is!

Engagements

Sara Mae Goldberg

Goldberg-Smith

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Goldberg of East Grand Rapids and Charlevoix announce the engagement of their daughter, Sara Mae, to Ronald Steven Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon S. Smith of Beverly Hills.

Miss Goldberg earned a bachelor of arts degree in radio, television, and film communication at the University of Michigan. She is currently holding a marketing position with American Delivery System in Keego Harbor.

Her fiance graduated from Wayne State University with a bachelor of arts degree in English and a juris doctor degree. He is currently practicing law in Birmingham.

A May wedding is being planned.

Anniversaries

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Seger

Segers celebrate 50th

Albert and Evelyn Seger of Charlevoix will celebrate 50 years of marriage at an open house for friends and neighbors on Saturday afternoon, February 28, at the American Legion Hall.

Albert Seger and the former Evelyn Morgan were married February 27, 1937 at the home of the bride's parents in Midland. They have lived in Charlevoix since 1965.

Mr. Seger is retired after 30 years with the Dow Power Department in Midland, and Mrs. Seger worked for 10 years in the Sears Service and Catalog Department.

The Segers have three sons, Albert, Jr., Lyle, and Arthur, all of Midland, a daughter, Annabelle Brady of Lansing; and a foster daughter, Pat Lupcke of Munger.

They also have 14 grand children and two great-grandchildren.

Fidelity explored

"Focus on Fidelity," sponsored by Groundwork for a Just World and the Sisters of Gaylord Diocese, will be held at Augustine Center at Conway on Saturday, Feb. 21.

Preregistration is required and may be made by contacting Sister Karen Suhr at 513 Howard St. in Petoskey. The registration fee is $10 and will include the cost of lunch.

For more information contact St. Mary's Church.

Obituaries

Margueritte A. Marshall

Funeral services for a former Charlevoix resident, Mrs. Margueritte A. Marshall, 76, of Mt. Pleasant, were held at the Winchester Funeral Home Monday, Feb. 16. The Rev. Richard Duffy of the Maple Hill United Methodist Church, Howard City, officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery at Charlevoix.

Mrs. Marshall died Feb. 12 at Mt. Pleasant.

Born in Strongs, Mi., Nov. 13, 1910, the former Margueritte Sutton lived in numerous Michigan communities before coming to Charlevoix in 1926. She graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1929 and from the Charlevoix County Normal School.

She taught at the Phelps rural school in 1930 and 1931. On Nov. 26, 1930, she married J.C. Marshall at Elk Rapids. They made their home here until moving to Mt. Pleasant in 1969. Mr. Marshall preceded her in death Nov. 7, 1985.

She was a member of the Charlevoix Chapter No. 72, Order of the Eastern Star and a former member of the First Baptist Church of Charlevoix. While in Charlevoix she was closely affiliated with the Michigan Cancer Society and the Girl Scouts.

She is survived by one son, Robert W. Marshall of Mt. Pleasant; a brother, Stanley Baker of Gladwin and a sister, Mrs. Marshall (Florence) Church of Evart.

The family suggests memorials to the American Lung Association of Michigan.

Nellie G. Smith

Private funeral services for Mrs. Nellie G. Smith, 78, were held at the Winchester Funeral Home Tuesday. The Rev. David W. Yingling of the United Methodist Church officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery.

Mrs. Smith died Saturday, Feb. 14 at the Petoskey Geriatric Center.

Born in Avenue City, Mo., July 15, 1908, the former Nellie G. Hall came to Clare with her parents in 1909. She came to Charlevoix in 1937. On Aug. 17, 1937, she was married to Ernest G. Smith Sr., at Silver Springs, Md. They returned to Charlevoix to make their home. Mr. Smith died Feb. 25, 1962.

She is survived by a son, Ernest G. Smith Jr., of Davie, Fla; one daughter, Mrs. Albert (Fern M.) Clark of Charlevoix; four grandchildren; a great-grandchild; a brother, Fenton S. Hall of Beulah and a sister, Mrs. Vern (Joyce) Potter of Ruskin, Fla.

Skiers capture 2nd in conference

The Charlevoix Rayder boys and girls ski team finished second among nine teams in the annual Northern Michigan Ski Conference meet held Thursday at Nub's Nob.

Harbor Springs took the girls meet with a score of 34 points followed by Charlevoix with 73. Finishing behind the Rayders were Petoskey 107, Grayling 160, Gaylord 171, Bellaire 215, East Jordan 270, Boyne City 278 and Sault Ste. Marie 280.

Petoskey swept the boys meet with 35 points. Charlevoix had 102 followed by Gaylord 111, Harbor Springs 116, Grayling 179, Bellaire 246, Boyne City 247, East Jordan 276 and Sault Ste. Marie 300.

"It was a cold, windy day but the kids did real well. I was pleased with the outcome. It went pretty much the way I thought it would" Coach Eric Lundteigen said. "We must now prepare for the regional meet at Schuss Mountain Thursday. It's going to mean a lot of hard work if we are to qualify for state."

Lauren Pace again placed first in both the slalom and the giant slalom while Wes Cumberland came in first and second in the events.

The team results for the girls follow:

Pace, first both slalom and giant slalom; Allison Hall, seventh in slalom and sixth in giant slalom; Wendy Voisin, 10th in slalom and 11th in giant slalom; Carla Hoffman, 15th in slalom and 22nd in the giant slalom; Christy Coolman, 16th in the slalom and 27th in giant slalom; Cynthia Boydston, 47th in slalom and 32nd in giant slalom.

In the boys meet Cumberland came in first in slalom and second in giant slalom; Karl Erber, second in slalom and disqualified in giant slalom; Charlie Witthoeft, 16th in slalom and 19th in giant slalom; Heath Moore, 14th in slalom and 27th in giant slalom; Jason Fettig, 21st in slalom and 22nd in giant slalom; Jake Smith, 31st in slalom and 45th in giant slalom.

Wrestlers complete 19-9 dual season

The Charlevoix Rayder wrestling team closed out its season Thursday with a 19-9 dual meet record, its best in the past six years.

"We also placed well in our tournaments," Coach Greg Bryan added. "The 19 wins this season totaled more than we'd won since I'd become coach. The wins Thursday capped an impressive season. With the loss of only three seniors we should be even stronger next year."

The seniors are Bill Marquardt (heavy weight) with a 33-10 record; Steve Mellios (167) with a 17-10 record and Shaan Bier (132) 28-6-2 record.

"We will now concentrate on the district tournament at Kalkaska on Saturday, honing our conditioning and going over our strategy for the tournaments," Bryan said.

In the final dual meet, the Rayders beat Cheboygan 54-18; Glen Lake 53-21 and Elk Rapids 64-9.

In the Cheboygan dual, the results were as follows:

98 lbs: M. Racheleau of Cheboygan won by forfeit.

105: Toby Young pinned B. Tennent in 1:09.

112: Scott Novotny won by forfeit.

119: Brian Livingston pinned J. James in 3:09.

126: B. Sigler of Cheboygan won by forfeit.

132: Shaan Bier pinned T. Williams in 1:51.

138: Jason Whitley outpointed B. Jarvis, 16-9.

145: Jamie Montieth ootpointed J. Bannytine, 9-2.

155: Steve Hopkins pinned B. Wixson in 1:55.

167: Steve Mellios pinned M. Gouine in 1:53.

185: Jim Tilton pinned M. Grodin in 3:33.

198: Derek Dutcher pinned T. Mace in 2:54.

Hvy.wt.: Marquardt pinned Bill Evans in 4:10.

Jim Ciuk stratches for a rebound against Rogers City.

JVs dominate Hurons

The Charlevoix Rayder JVs dominated the game with the Rogers City contingent Friday night, winning by a score of 49-38 as Coach Dick Swenor emptied the bench.

The Rayders jumped to a 16-8 first-period lead, held the visitors to one field goal in the second period to go ahead 25-10 before Coach Swenor started shuffling the lineup. All 12 players saw action as the score climbed to 37-20 at the end of three periods.

The Hurons outscored Charlevoix 18-10 in the final period to cut the Rayder lead to 11 points at the buzzer.

The Rayders had 20 field goals and connected on nine of 14 charity shots and had a total of 12 personal fouls. The Hurons had 17 field goals, four of six free throws and 13 personal fouls.

Shawn Putman and Mike Picha teamed up to score the lion's share of the Rayder points. Putman had 16 and Picha 10 as 10 of the 12 Rayders scored. P. Zielinski had 10 points for Rogers City.

slip by Rams

The Charlevoix Rayder JVs edged the visiting Harbor Springs JVs 58-51 in a game that saw the Rayders trailing at the end of the first period.

The visiting Rams jumped to a 14-10 first-period advantage before the young Rayders hit their stride to take a slim 27-24 lead at halftime and increase it by two points, 39-34, going into the final period.

The Rayders outscored the visitors 28-21 from the floor and had two of five from the line while collecting nine personal fouls. Harbor had nine of 12 free throws and eight personal fouls.

Mike Picha had 20 points on 10 field goals and Dave Miller 13 points for the Rayders.

Rayders are too much for Rogers City

by DAVID SALMONSON

A 10-point effort by Jim Ciuk in the second quarter of Charlevoix's homecoming game against Rogers City Friday turned around a sluggish first-quarter performance and sent the Rayders on to a comfortable 64-44 win.

But what Coach Dave Smith was really proud about in Friday's game was his team's defensive action. "We started flat," Smith said, "but really came back and played. I was pleased with the pressure defense, particularly in the second quarter."

The Rayders' tight defense allowed the Hurons only one second quarter basket from the floor.

"Defense dictated the game for us and allowed us to pull away," Smith commented.

Charlevoix also did well with rebounding, bringing down a total of 36 for the game. Joe Miller had 12, Scott DeYoung had 11 and Chad DeVries nabbed 9. Rogers City had 24 rebounds for the night.

Two minutes into the first quarter, Miller put Charlevoix on the boards and Ciuk and Gibbs then made a few pretty baskets from the free-throw line and got the team fired up. Ciuk and DeYoung did their best on defense by blocking jumpers by the Hurons and slowing Rogers City's aggressiveness. At the end of the quarter, the Rayders were down by one.

Charlevoix shined with their defensive maneuvers in the second quarter. Ciuk seemed to weave in and out through Rogers City's defense with ease. At the end of the half, the Rayders had pulled ahead and the score was 23-16.

Charlevoix's offensive took charge in the third quarter when DeYoung got into the double digits, adding 10 points to widen the gap. Ciuk and Gibbs had a couple baskets each. When the buzzer rang at the close of the third quarter, the Rayder fans seemed pretty confident that their team's 14-point lead, 43-29, would secure the win.

With assists by Owen Phillips and Ciuk, Miller had a chance to strut his stuff in the last quarter, pouring in nine points. Ciuk had a total of eight assists for the night and seemed to keep the offense moving along nicely in the fourth quarter.

The leading scorers for Charlevoix were DeYoung and Ciuk with 15 points each. Close behind was Miller who made 13.

Robb Allum led the scoring for the Hurons with 15 points. Jim Myers added 11.

Charlevoix made 30 out of 67 shots from the floor and Rogers City had 15 for 51 attempts.

Harbor downed easily

Tuesday night the two top contenders for the class C-District crown went head-to-head and when it was over the Rayders owned a 83-57 victory over Harbor Springs, helped along by a 30-point effort from junior center Scott DeYoung.

The loss snapped an 11-game winning streak for the Rams and was only their second defeat in 14 starts, the other also at the hands of Charlevoix (9-5).

THE RAYDERS started slow, but by halftime were beginning to take command. In the third period they started to dominate.

"I think the thing that turned the game around for us as our half-court trap defense," Rayder coach Dave Smith said, "and I was pleased with our shot selection all night."

Harbor Springs took a 14-11 first period lead but in the second stanza Charlevoix quickly caught up and went ahead for good, holding a 37-31 spread at the half. The Rayders then used a 22-12 margin to open a 59-43 advantage going into the final quarter.

"Charlevoix played a heck of a game," Rayders' Coach Mike Davies said. "We couldn't control their big guys inside. It was a learning experience for us, but we can do without many of those (types of games.)"

DEYOUNG, 6-foot-3, collected his 30 points on 14 baskets and two of four from the foul line. He also had a team-high 16 rebounds. Three other Rayders also scored in double figures as Jim Ciuk hit 16 points and Jim Gibbs and Owen Phillips added 10 each. Ciuk had eight assists and Gibbs seven.

"DeYoung had an outstanding game; Ciuk was steady but everyone contributed," said Smith who was again without Dan Drury due shoulder problems.

For Harbor Springs, Rich Shepherd collected 14 points, all on field goals, while Greg Garver added 10.

Volleyball team takes sixth in tournament

The Charlevoix Rayder volleyball team finished sixth among 10 teams participating in the annual Petoskey tournament Saturday.

Brimley won the tournament.

The Charlevoix team, playing without two regulars who were in southern Michigan as members of the Performing Arts team and a third who was ill, advanced to the playoffs before being eliminated.

"I brought up Billie Jean Habel (from the JVs) who was our only setter and Becky Melke," said Coach Brenda Bryan. "Changing a lineup like that is not good but the kids all played exceptionally well despite that. They played hard. They did a great job, much better than I expected. I was proud of them."

The Rayder played four preliminary games before going into the playoffs. "Scores determine your place in the playoffs, even though you might have lost," Bryan explained.

In the early games of the tournament, Charlevoix lost to Brimley 15-2, 15-1; split with Inland Lakes and Gaylord St. Mary's 15-12 and 11-15, and 15-13 and 7-15, respectively and lost to Cedarville 15-8, 15-6.

In the playoff, the Rayders lost in the first round to Grayling 15-7, 16-14.

Coach Bryan named Amy Antaya the team's best server; Billie Jean Habel, best setter; Antaya and Habel, the best offensive players and Antaya and Shelly Crain, defensive players.

Antaya received honorable mention on the all-tournament team.

The team played without Jennifer Sell and Jill Taylor of the Performing Arts team and Carla Henry who was ill.

Charlevoix will host St. Ignace Wednesday and Central Lake on Thursday and travel to Kalkaska the following Monday.

Middle schoolers victorious against area teams

The Charlevoix Middle School basketball teams added two victories to their lists last week as the seventh-graders beat Petoskey 35-23 and Harbor Springs 38-7 and the eighth-graders defeated Petoskey 38-23 and Harbor 46-14.

In the Charlevoix-Petoskey game, the locals increased a 23-5 halftime lead to 35-23 at the buzzer.

Corey Crain scored 15 points for Charlevoix while Jack DeGroot had eight for Petoskey. Dale Sharp and Luke LaBlance were the top defensive players.

In the Harbor game, Charlevoix had a 14-7 halftime lead and held the visitors scoreless in the second half while increasing their lead to 38 points.

Mike Dubolis had six points as everyone scored. Travis Blissett was the top rebounder. Jim Heinz had five points for Harbor.

Jason Parrish with 19 points paced the Charlevoix-Petoskey victory which stood at 23-5 at the half before the locals more than doubled their score to 38-23.

Scott Harris had eight points for Petoskey.

Everyone scored in the Harbor game in which Charlevoix led 29-11 at halftime and won by a 46-14 margin.

Parrish had 18 points, most of them scored in the first half. Justin Racine and John Schalappi had four each for the visitors.

The teams entered tournaments early this week. The seventh-graders were in the four-team event hosted by Charlevoix and the eight-graders in the eight-team meet at Indian River.

Mesquite wins again

First State Bank defeated Paul Lindberg, Inc., 70-63, the Mesquite downed Marsh Construction 63-52 and Rich's Topside dumped Dairy Queen 43-37 in the last games being played in Charlevoix Independent Basketball B league until Feb. 25.

First State Bank got in front early in their game with Lindberg leading 17-9, 40-28 and 59-47 at the quarters.

Jack Cross with 23 points, Dennis Dominic with 20 and Bob Sandahl with 12 paced the win. Stan Martin headed Marsh 24-14, 38-27 and 46-33 by quarters before winning by 11 points.

Marc Phillips and Jerry Martin had 10 points each for the Mesquite. Jeff Drury and Clay Jones had 16 had 19 points, Larry Brock 18 and Mike Crain 16 for Lindberg.

Their victory over Marsh Construction was the fourth for the crew of the Mesquite since joining the league in January. Led by Roll Chavez with 21 points, the Coasties points each for Marsh.

In a low scoring game, Rich's Topside had an easy win over Dairy Queen by margins of 10-4, 22-16 and 32-24 by quarters.

Dave Cole with 18 points was the only player in double figures with either team.

When they return to the court on Feb. 25, the Mesquite will meet Topside, Marsh Construction will clash with First State Bank and Dairy Queen will take on Paul Lindberg, Inc.

Freshmen chalk up win

Two wins were posted last week by the Charlevoix Rayder freshmen who defeated Harbor Springs 56-43 and edged Sault Ste. Marie 50-49.

In the game with Harbor, the young Rayders held leads of four points at each of the intermissions before increasing the spread to 13 points at the buzzer. The quarter leads were 16-12, 28-24 and 41-37 behind the scoring of Jason Corwin with 17 points and Scott Miller with 16 points.

Bob Donnely had 15 points and Jon Tippett 10 for Harbor.

In the game with the Soo, the young Rayders had to overcome a 41-35 third-quarter deficit to win by outscoring the visitors 15-8 in the final period. The Rayders had led 13-10 at the quarter and 25-23 at halftime before falling into the red.

Chad DeYoung had 12 points for the Rayders. John Peyton had 23 for the Soo.

The freshmen will be at Elk Rapids Wednesday and will host Cheboygan on Feb. 25.

Grand Hotel events planned

Among the many Michigan Sesquicentennial projects will be the Centennnial Business Art Show, which will open on Labor Day weekend at the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island.

The show will feature art and related text relating to the history and development of several of Michigan's longstanding businesses.

The art and history of each company will also be combined in an exhibition catalog that will be distributed throughout the state.

Following the Grand Hotel opening, the Centennial Business Art Show will be held in Escanaba, at the Amway Plaza Hotel in Grand Rapids, at several Jacobson Stores, and at Zehnder's of Frankenmuth.

Sponsors of the show, all well-known Michigan business names, are:

Stroh Brewery of Detroit, established in 1850.

City Bank & Trust Company, N. A. of Jackson, Michigan's oldest bank, started in 1848.

Zehnder's of Frankenmuth, which dates back to 1856 as a hotel and restaurant.

Stow & Davis Furniture, organized in 1880, a division of Steelcase, Inc. of Grand Rapids.

Fred Sanders of Highland Park, a confectioners business founded in 1875.

Miller, Canfield, Paddock, and Stone, founded in 1852 in Detroit, the state's oldest law firm.

The Vernors Company of Southfield and formerly of Detroit, founded in 1866, Michigan's oldest soft drink company.

National Children's Dental Health Month

Special toothpaste was invented for astronauts to use during space travel. It's almost impossible to rinse out your mouth in zero gravity, so scientists developed a toothpaste for astronauts that they can swallow.

George Washington's wooden teeth weren't made of wood at all. The first president's dentures were made from hippopotamus, walrus and cow's teeth and elephant tusk.

Can you find the dentist in this picture? The farmer holding the pitchfork is Dr. Byron McKeeby. His patient, American artist Grant Wood, painted this famous picture.

Animals get toothaches, too. Mike, a polar bear in Chicago, had a bad toothache from eating too many marshmallows tossed to him by visitors to the zoo. He had to have his tooth pulled.

The first toothbrush was invented in China in the 15th century. Before that, people cleaned their teeth—but not very well—by chewing on small twigs.

Fun Facts to Know and Tell

Although February is National Children's Dental Health Month, Charlevoix dentists have been busy for several months taking the story of good dental habits to area school children.

In August, Charelevoix High School athletes were fitted for and given mouth guards by Dr. Robert Tollas, Dr. Jeffrey Porter, Dr. David Strawbridge.

In January, children in the Co-Op Nursery School heard programs on dental care and took field trips to the offices of Dr. Porter and Dr. Tollas. Those in the Kids Corner Nursery School heard the program and took a field trip to the office of Dr. Merrill; and those in the Charlevoix House Montessori School heard the program and took a field trip to the office of Dr. Strawbridge.

This month, all four dentists have given programs and detail screenings for children in the Charlevoix Elementary School, St. Mary's School, and the Beaver Island School.

In East Jordan, Drs. John Kempton and Kevin Steely will conduct dental screenings at the East Jordan Elementary School on Friday, February 27.

On March 4, dental hygenists from the Kempton/Steely office will conduct a lecture for the parents of students in the Prep Program.

On Marcy 5, the nursery school students will take a field trip to the dentists' office.

Finally, the dentists are holding a poster contest for East Jordan's kindergarten class. All participants will receive a 'prize', although the dentists will award a grand prize for first place.

Dr. Arnold Bauer, Dr. Bruce E. Strawbridge, Dr. Richard Fish and Dr. Robert Polleys will conduct dental screenings for students at the Boyne City Elementary School on February 20.

VFW Auxiliary plans Buddy Poppy Days

Initial plans for the annual Buddy Poppy Days May 14-16 were made at a recent meeting of the Auxiliary of Charlevoix Post No. 1153, Veterans of Foreign Wars held at the post home.

Marilyn Finck and Rosalyn Goldstick will be co-chairpersons of the 1987 Poppy Days. Sales of the Buddy Poppies help local relief programs of the Auxiliary. The funds also underwrite the local group's contributions to the VFW National Home at Eaton Rapids.

The Auxiliary continues to collect Glen's green slips for cancer research. Members are also offering for sale attractive pins depicting an eagle in flight with the world "Michigan" under it. Pins may be purchased for $1 with the proceeds being contributed to cancer research.

At the business meeting, the Auxiliary voted to underwrite the cost of sponsoring one girl to Girls' State. The Auxiliary also forwarded funds for a scholarship for a girl at the National VFW Home at Eaton Rapids.

Two candidates for membership, Charles (Marion) Bagwell and Mrs. Frank (Emma) Zednicek, were accepted. They will be initiated at the March 5 meeting. Mrs. Merle Kleiber was accepted as a life member, the Auxiliary's first.

The local Auxiliary received a 100 percent rating for participating in specified Auxiliary activities. It also lacked one short of a 100 percent membership. Mrs. Betty White also presented an audit report.

The monthly potluck dinner for post and auxiliary members and social meeting of the Auxiliary for February have been canceled. Mrs. Elinor Curtis was awarded the "Come and Get Me" prize. Mrs. white served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

The next meeting will be held at the post home at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 5.

Oddfellows edge Masons

The Mason-Oddfellow cribbage tournament is becoming more competitive every time it is played, Ted Pennell Jr., tournament secretary, said in reporting the results of last week's play when the Oddfellows picked up only two points to bring their lead to seven points.

With six tables in play, the Oddfellows won 376 to 374 over the Masons. This increased the Oddfellows lead to seven points.

Ron Geer with 957 points was high for the Masons. Hap Cunningham had 934 for the Oddfellows.

The tournament will be played at the Masonic Temple Thursday.

Income Tax Preparation

ORGANIZATION IS KEY

Whether you use a preparer, a CPA or complete your own tax return, organizing your information is the key. Have all of your records and receipts - such as those for investment income, bank statements, medical costs and child care - in some kind of filing system. This will cut down on preparation time and will help you in case your preparer or CPA has questions.

The decision to prepare your own tax return or to let a professional do it may depend on the complexity of your financial situation. If this is the year you got the big raise, got married, had a child, bought a house or made any other changes affecting your financial situation, you might want to seriously consider using a professional. Remember, it's never too early to get started on your taxes to make that April 15 deadline.

It's on to state for Performing Arts troupe

The Charlevoix High School Performing Arts team, coached by Connie Ford, returned home from St. Johns Sunday, with a place in the state finals and a host of commendations.

"They did a marvelous job. They had to win because they were up against a lot of stiff competition," Ford said of the top rating that will permit them to participate in the state competition at Oakland Community College Friday and Saturday.

This year the cast of 48 is doing the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical, "Oklahoma!" This is the fifth year a Charlevoix Performing Art team has gone to state. In three of those years they returned home with a state Class C-D title.

"They'll be working hard this week you can bet as they try for their fourth straight title," Ford said.

Commenting on Saturday's performance Ford said "They really did a marvelous job. This week we'll be honing our performance even more because the competition will be that much tougher," she added.

"We received straight I's in all divisions. In fact, our scores were comparable to those we received at districts," Ford explained. She also said that there were seven schools in regional competition. Among them were St. Johns and Stevensville, both Class A schools, that always rate high. Charlevoix placed second overall behind St. Johns.

Three members of the cast received superior awards for acting, the highest given. They are Kristen McLellan as Ado Annie, Valerie Barnes as Aunt Ellie and Marvin Witthoeft as Curley.

Rusty Coolman and Bob Sell received excellence awards, Coolman as Will although he lost his voice and had to depend on his acting ability to carry him through the role, and Sell as Ali Hakem, the Persian rug dealer.

Also receiving excellence awards were Sell and John Gray for set construction, Jill Taylor as the pianist for the show, and Barbara McClanaghan, Ember Spencer and Lori Gleason for choreography.

Local audiences will have an opportunity to see the musical in its entirety on Saturday, Feb. 28 and on Sunday, March 1.

Mrs. Ford said, "We were treated royally in St. Johns. Their performing arts team and their coach arranged to house us so we did not have to stay overnight in a motel. That included 48 members of the cast plus the chaperones and myself. Following the competition, St. Johns students and parents hosted a party for both groups at a private home. They couldn't have treated us nicer. We certainly appreciated their hospitality."

Tarry Blissett of Medusa Cament Co. presants a check for $500 to Bend Boosters President Don Volsin, left, and Band Director Terry Isenbarger. The money will be used as first prize in the Band Day drawing.

Tickets still available for Band Day prizes

"There's still time to get in on the prizes to be given away Friday, March 6 to climax Band Day in Charlevoix," Don Voisin said this week.

Voisin, president of the Band Boosters, and his committees are completing the plans for the finale of the week honoring the Charlevoix bands. There will be a spaghetti dinner at the high school cafeteria prior to the Charlevoix-Gaylord game on March 6, a dance to which area students are invited and the Big Give-away.

Included in the give-away will be a $500 cash prize donated by the Medusa Cement Company and a host of lesser prizes contributed by local businesses and industries.

Tickets for the prizes will be available until the time of the drawing. Tickets for the spaghetti dinner will be available before the month is out, Voisin said.

Banking Is One Of Life's Necessities.
The Experience Should Be A Good One.

You flip a switch and the lights go on.
Start your car and go your way.
Day in and day out, so long as things work like they should, you never give them a second thought.
It's the same with banking.
You, along with the rest of us, fully expect your bank to work right. The first time. And every time.
From our point of view, that isn't an unfair expectation.
In fact, living up to that is the best explanation of how and why we run First of America Bank the way we run it.
So in nearly 200 communities across the Midwest, our bankers are reminded that, even though they're part of a major bank company, they should play a major role in the community.
They're encouraged to make loan decisions locally. Which has made us one of the region's biggest lenders.
They're given all the resources of a big bank company to draw on, so they can offer customers a more resourceful bank.
And since our bankers are asked to handle customer matters on a local level, they're as accountable to you as they are to their bank.
It's made us not only one of the Midwest's biggest bank companies.

State champs: Performing Arts team does it again

With horns blaring and sirens screaming the Charlevoix High School Performing Arts team was rushed into town Sunday in a triumphant motorcade headed by fire engines and police cars.

Charlevoix captured it's fourth straight C-D Performing Arts title Saturday at Oakland University and finished third among all schools in the state. It was the fifth time Charlevoix has gone to the state finals.

The accomplishment was even more special since the team received straight I's in all divisions through district, regional and state competition.

"Those are the highest marks we've ever had. You can't ask for more," Director Connie Ford said.

This year the Charlevoix team presented "Oklahoma!" as its entry in the Performing Arts competition. The rules call for each team to present a 45 minute show which includes setting up and taking down the set. The performances must be done on all types of stages and a variety of conditions.

"Probably the greatest part of all was an 'excellent' ensemble award given to the entire 'Oklahoma!' cast," Ford said. "All 47 members of the cast, even the kid holding up a tree, were included in that award which cited them for their acting." Ford added that only three such awards were given.

Charlevoix, with straight I's, placed first in the C-D division and third overall in the state topped only by two Class A schools, St. Johns with 290 points and Plymouth Centennial Education Park with 287 points. Charlevoix had 277 points. Twelve schools were in the state finals.

The team received numerous other awards including excellent awards for acting won by Rusty Coolman as Will and Valerie Barnes as Aunt Eller. Superior awards, the highest given, were presented to Kristen McLelland in the role of Ado Annie; for choreography by Ember Spencer, Barb McClanaghan and Lori Gleason; the set by John Gray and Bob Sell; and a special ensemble superior award to the entire cast for the quality of the staging and movement.

"We went into this knowing that we had to do our very best. The kids knew it and they came through," Ford commented. "They did a good job," she added numerous times.

One parent observed, "What nobody can believe about Charlevoix is these kids do this rehearsing in the cafeteria."

Local residents will have an opportunity this weekend to see the musical in its entirety at two performances, the first at 7:30 p.m. Saturday and the second, a matinee at 3 p.m. Sunday. Tickets are $3.50 for adults and $2.50 for kids and senior citizens.

Kents deportation delayed 60 days

The deportation of Richard Kent of Charlevoix has been delayed 60 days while federal officials review his case, Rep. Bob Davis, R-Gaylord, announced this week.

Kent was told two weeks ago that he would have to leave the country by Saturday, Feb. 28. A native of Scotland, Kent and his family came to the United States four years ago when he took a job as a chef in Florida. He moved to Charlevoix three years ago and has worked as a chef in several area restaurants.

"Friends in Charlevoix rallied the community around Kent and his wife, contacting Congressman Davis and gathering 700 signatures on a petition," a spokesman for Davis' office said. Davis said he has requested a hearing by immigration authorities for Kent due to "extraordinary circumstances surrounding Kent's stay in the United States."

Davis said he sought the postponement because Kent's visa problems may have arisen out of his assistance to Florida law enforcement authorities in a case against a former employer.

While working in St. Petersburg, Fla., Kent was approached by an employer to set fire to a restaurant. Kent refused and later became a chief witness against the restaurant owner in an arson trial.

Because of telephone threats, the Kents moved to Charlevoix three years ago. Kent has worked for 218 Bridge Street, Nutta's Place and the Star of Charlevoix cruise ship. Three weeks ago he took a job as cook at the Lawyer's Club at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

Friends have planned a benefit for the Kents' legal expenses to be held Sunday, March 8 at the Holiday Inn in Petoskey. Singer Sean Ryan will entertain.

NEWS BRIEFS

Mobile home park discussed

The Marion Township planning and zoning board will consider two requests to rezone land for mobile home parks at a meeting Tuesday, March 3.

The Marion planners were scheduled to meet Tuesday, Feb. 24 for a workshop on mobile home parks.

The first request for rezoning for a mobile home park was presented to the board Wed. Feb. 18 and involved a 55-acre parcel on M-66. The developers requested to change the agricultural and R-1 zoning to R-3 to allow for 40 mobile home sites. The proposed park is designed by Boss Engineering Co. of Charlevoix for W-M Building Co. Inc. of Southfield.

Also pending is a request from D.B.G. Development Co. of Charlevoix to locate a mobile home park north of Clark Road on land currently zoned industrial.

Congress studies lake levels

Rep. Bob Davis, R-Gaylord, announced last week formation of a Lake Levels Congressional Network composed of 17 congressmen who will work on solutions to the problems caused by high water on the Great Lakes.

"There is probably not a single member ... who has not heard from many constituents about the damage that has been done by rising waters – damages to homes, roads, harbors and other facilities along the shoreline– and that something must be done and soon," Davis said in announcing the group.

"I know of no single answer to this serious problem," he continued. "However, I am convinced that we in Congress, who represent this area, must do whatever is in our power to help and we must do it together to be effective."

Brinker leaves city

Jim Brinker, city treasurer, has announced he will leave his post Friday, March 6 to take on new duties as chief financial officer and assistant city manager in Iron Mountain.

Brinker came to Charlevoix as treasurer in January 1979. He became interim city manager in March 1979 and full-time manager in June. He resigned in 1982 to go into the real estate business, then went to Harbor Springs in 1983 as clerk-financial officer.

In August 1984 he returned to Charlevoix to take the treasurer's job again.

Brinker will be going to a city with a population of 9,000. "I'm not leaving a job, I'm going to a job," Brinker said. "It's a new challenge. It's a very progressive town, a growing city."

Victims often left out of criminal justice system

by PEG OHLE

"We start out by getting the victim and offender together and let them deal with their feelings."

"Victims of crime are the most left out people in the criminal justice system," with this statement, William Shumaker, coordinator of volunteers in the Victim Offender Reconciliation Program (VORP) explains that program and the part volunteers can play in it.

The VORP concept was conceived in Kitchener, Ontario to take offenders back to the scene of their crime and be confronted with the crime and the victim of the crime. The concept has now spread throughout the United States and is fast becoming part of the criminal justice system in Charlevoix County, according to Shumaker.

Many parents remember marching their small child back to a store to return a piece of candy or gum, or a toy that the young one had casually slipped into a pocket. "It isn't easy to confront someone, return a stolen item, and apologize," Shumaker observes. "In a way, that's what the VORP is all about."

A typical case might involve an offender charged with breaking and entering. The court refers him to the VORP program, thus giving the victim an opportunity to have a direct part in the settlement with a chance to offer forgiveness when appropriate, and providing relief from frustrations through communication. (An opportunity to find out "Why my house? What do they have against me?") It also gives the victim a chance to have a part in deciding on restitution in the form of cash or labor for damage or losses.

"When we ask a victim if he will be part of the VORP program, he is usually reluctant at first but finally agrees. We start out by getting the victim and offender together and let them deal with their feelings. That is the most important part. Then we start working on a restitution program.

Restitution can take many forms, Shumaker says, pointing out that money and working off the damage or loss are the most common. One restitution agreement he remembers best, however, was where the victim told the offender, "You finish school and send me an invitation to your graduation."

This asking for and receiving forgiveness can mean a lot to a young offender, Shumaker believes.

The community benefits from the VORP program by offering it an opportunity to solve some of its own problems, reducing taxes through less institutionalism, and reducing repeat criminal offenses.

The criminal justice system benefits by having a mechanism for establishing fair restitution amounts and agreements and working with neighborhood disputes. VORP also offers judges and probation officers an alternative to incarceration and other sanctions and opens the door to an increased understanding and positive attitude toward the criminal justice system by both victims and offenders. Last but not least the VORP program costs less than many other alternatives.

As with the Volunteers in Probation program reported in the Courier a couple of weeks ago, VORP is badly in need of volunteers to help bring victims and offenders together. Training sessions prepare volunteers to handle one case a month. More information is available from the office of the Charlevoix Juvenile Court, phone 547-7215.

Parents to review sex ed materials

Parents of seventh- and eighth-grade students in the Charlevoix Middle School are invited to the school library at 7 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 26, to review instructional material to be offered to the students in this age group relating to sexuality education, Dennis VanGuilder, middle school principal, in cooperation with the instructors, Tori Fisher and Norman Probert, have announced.

The Board of Education has established the program which contains a component involving reproductive health in identified courses.

According to law (P.A. 226 of 1977), parents have the right to review the material to be used in the courses. The local Board of Education, in compliance with the statute, has made the materials available for review by parents.

Every student is eligible to participate in the course. By law, parents have the right to excuse their student from participation in the classes which include reproductive health and and-or family planning instruction if they choose.

If parents have any questions relating to the course they may call 547-3206. If they choose to excuse their student from the class, they are asked to send a written request to the Charlevoix Middle School.

Parents have been advised of the review through letters mailed to every parent-guardian.

Romancing the Locomotive

Charlevoix artist Jim Annis continues love affair with lumbering era

by ANNE KELLY

Celebrating the romance of the locomotive and the part it played in northern Michigan lumbering is the theme of a new print series by Charlevoix artist Jim Annis.

Michigan played a vital role in the lumbering history in the United States. Along with the other Great Lakes States, it was a leader in the industry for obvious reasons: the land around the lakes abounded with trees and there was ready transportation for the cut timber.

Before the locomotives featured in Annis' work, logs were skidded down roadways by primitive hauling devises pulled by man, horse or oxen.

Successful seasons were measured in terms of the weather; logs could be transported more easily when roadways stayed frozen in the winter and dry in the spring and summer. More often than not, Mother Nature threw a wrench in the procedure with the mild winters and muddy springs. In the summer, heat and mosquitoes tormented the lumbermen.

We can only imagine with what relief and exhilaration the steam engine must have been greeted by the weary laborers. Now timber could be felled and hauled from deep within the forests and transported easily to transfer points or mills. In the prime of the lumbering era, Michigan alone boasted 49 logging railroads and had more miles of track than any other state.

The East Jordan & Southern Railroad Engine No. 6, which can be seen on display in the city of East Jordan today, is the subject of the first print in Annis' lumbering series. During the prime of that short-line railroad, it served sawmills, shingle mills, lumber camps in the Jordan River Valley, two wood working operations, a lathe mill, a brass and iron foundry, a creamery and hauled regional produce. Its lifespan of use as a lumber hauling line between East Jordan and Bellaire probably ended in 1930, but it took its last run to Bellaire in 1961. Annis remembers riding on this run and watching the rails being torn up.

"Heavy Load, First Snow" portrays the "Nicholas" of the Crawford & Manistee River R.R. Logging in the days of the "Nicholas" was a hazardous occupation. This engine is said to have been named after the son of a lumber baron who was killed in a logging accident. Engines like the "Nicholas" were originally used on the New York City elevated lines until those lines became electrified. The logging and short-line railroads were then able to purchase the engines for their purposes – daily runs with lumber, freight and sometimes passengers.

The third rail print in Annis'

Jim Annis' print, "East Jordan Bound," of the old Detroit & Charlevoix line is among the prints in his railroad series.

Print market is strong

Jim Annis

Jim Annis is finding the print market a profitable one. "It's nice to know that a local painter can capitalize on the subject matter of his surroundings while bringing pleasure to the collector of nature and nostalgia scenes," admits Annis of his success.

The lumbering series is going strong with the first, the "East Jordan & Southern" already sold out. In all, Annis has a total of 22 paintings in print and four are sold out. Editions vary, but prints are limited to 100-1,000 copies which retail from $30 to $100 for artists proofs.

"I continue to distribute my prints locally at Koucky Gallery, Voorheis Fine Arts, the Art Tree at McCune Arts Center, and Made In Michigan, but I also have sales representatives who handle sales on a broader scale in Chicago, Detroit, Jackson, Bay City, Lansing, Saginaw, Grand Rapids, six states in the Southwest, the San Francisco Bay area and British Columbia," Annis says. "Dealing in prints gives me additional time to paint as I don't feel pressured to produce in quantity. I have purposely held back originals with the print market in mind over the years and now that's paying off. Since last summer I've gotten two paintings in print that I had held back for that purpose: the Elgin, Illinois area steam and electric rail scene and the famed luxury train of its time, the 20th Century Ltd, leaving the LaSalle St. Station in

Pizza Hut's help for Hospice appreciated

Dear Editor:

On behalf of the Charlevoix County Hospice, I want to again thank Pizza Hut for holding a weekend fundraiser for us during November, National Hospice Month. This has been the third year that the Charlevoix Pizza Hut has done this. And each year it gets better and more successful.

When Linda Empey, former manager of the Charlevoix Pizza Hut, initiated this project, she also got the Petoskey Pizza Hut included as they also have a hospice. The in 1985, Bob Phillips, area manager, included Gaylord where there is another hospice. This year, Bob included all the cities in his area that have hospices - Alpena, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Gaylord and Petoskey. What a surprise and delight for Alpena and Cheboygan to be included. Plus, it was a most successful weekend fundraiser for all of us.

To date, Pizza Hut has raised $647.25 for the Charlevoix County Hospice. We appreciate all the effort and cooperation of the Pizza Hut organization. Pizza Hut is truly a "small town pizza place" that cares about their customers and community. The managers are always good about working with organizations. Monty Bidwell, Charlevoix Manager, has been most helpful. Bob Phillips has been great. They are a real asset to your fine organization.

The Charlevoix County Hospice thinks Pizza Hut is terrific!

Congratulations to Charlevoix Performing Arts team

Dear Editor:

On the February 17 the Charlevoix Kiwanis held their ladies night dinner. The evening was especially delightful because our program featured the Performing Arts students. Kiwanis is about youth and everyone in attendance was thrilled and very proud of these hard working and enthusiastic students and their coach, Connie Ford.

Kiwanis thanks these students for making our evening such a success and we encourage all who have the opportunity to see this group perform, to take the opportunity and enjoy.

Usually entertaining column missed mark on bag ladies

Dear Ms. Gilbert:

I found your Party Chatter portion of 'Round Town to be offensive.

Your seeming delight in the Bag Lady Party was unfortunate, particularly in light of the current frightening focus that the homeless have received.

That the tableware did not match is not an unusual circumstance in many homes, even those above the so-called poverty line.

To describe the Rainbow Shoppe's second-hand furs as "dressing to the hilt" was insensitive to those who must, by necessity, purchase from that much-needed organization.

Finally, I doubt that anyone would feel themselves "darling" if long underwear and bunched stockings were all they owned or all that kept them from freezing.

In short, your usually entertaining column really missed the mark. There but for the grace of God go you...

Sincerely
Sulane Hamilton

Know your Chamber

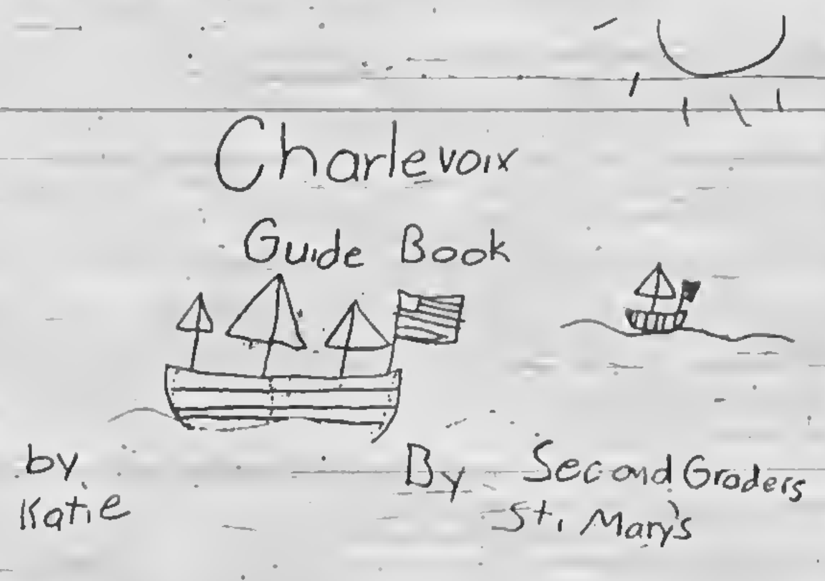
By JACQUIE MERTA
Executive Director

We just received a wonderful gift from the second-grade class at St. Mary's School. It's the students' version of Charlevoix's Guest Guide.

The book includes stories about these establishments: The Country Blossom, Charlevoix Area Hospital, Kentucky Fried Chicken, 7-Eleven, Argonne Supper Club, Rite Aid Drug Store, V.I.P., Charlevoix Wear, Venture Video, Nanny's Restaurant, First State Bank, Pizza Hut, McDonald's, Schools and Ferry Beach. Every good guide book has illustrations and this one is no exception. The drawings are delightful.

We know that you'll thoroughly enjoy reading this Guide Book because you can see that a lot of love went into this project. If you'd like to see it stop by the Chamber Office where it's proudly on display.

We thank the students, their teacher, Linda Moore, and St. Mary's School for their gift and their awareness of the Charlevoix business community.



Changing Breeze

Clockwise BY BOB CLOCK

Eras have a way of coming to an end.

And one ended recently at Grey Gables.

Al "Breezy" Breeze, who first began playing the piano and organ at the Belvedere Avenue landmark in 1961, reports that he has left GG and is looking for new employment, preferably in the area.

During the first decade, Breezy was really a part-timer, playing chiefly during the summer. However in 1971, he started playing full-time and over the years became a fixture at the GG piano bar — entertaining not only throngs of so-called "summer people" but also skiers, trout fishermen, deer hunters and year-round residents.

He was on a first-name basis with most of the customers and sometimes he would interrupt his routine to announce newcomers over the microphone as they arrived.

"Clam up, everybody," he might announce. "Here comes Bob Clock and he'll put everything you say in the newspaper."

Although Breezy has rolled up what is probably the longest continuous engagement of any entertainer in Northern Michigan — perhaps the entire state — he still has a long list credentials from other night spots around the United States and Canada. They range from several tropical spas in Florida, the Town Club in Corpus Christi, Texas., two Holiday Inns in Chicago, the Broadmoor Hotel in Colorado Springs, Colo., the Flame Restaurant in Duluth, Minn., Fox and Hounds and Northwood Inn in Detroit and the Gildwood Inn in Sarnia, Ontario. He also has played aboard cruise ships sailing the Great Lakes and the Seven Seas, including the S.S. Argentina on a trip to South America.

Breezy's repertoire is drawn largely from that vast amorphous musical pool known today as "oldies but goodies" — tunes from the heyday of Tin Pay Alley and the big bands when songs had to be either singable or danceable in order to be considered music. Sheer racket was not enough — and never will be in Breezy's book.

He is a great booster of singalong piano; and nothing pleases him more than to have the crowd join in. Furthermore, he never fails to encourage amateur singers to take the mike if they care to go it alone. Some mighty fine music results, leaving many frustrated artists a little less frustrated when the applause dies.

Breezy, whose trademark is his flowing white mane, also loves a party and has organized countless theme events at GG — and throughout town — over the years. Much of the planning for the reenactment of the Battle of Pine River a few years back took place at the GG bar.

He also has become a fixture in the Venetian Festival Street Parade, playing the calliope from the back of a flat-bed truck.

Breezy says when he is relocated he is going to send out a press release to let his friends throughout the midwest know where they can find him.

If we're lucky, it will be somewhere in Northern Michigan.

Beacons of Blessing

A devotional column prepared
by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association

by Rev. Bruce E. Hamilton
Community Church of God

Have you ever stopped to think about the number of choices you have each week? There are easy choices like gazing upon your vast wardrobe and deciding between the blues or browns. Don't forget the ever popular, "shall I get up now or can I sneak in five more minutes under the covers and still get there on time?"

There are hard ones like, "They never sent me a bill... It's their problem not mine... Who will know if I take some short cuts on my taxes... or What's a little white lie going to hurt?"

One thing the choices we make should remind us of right away is how much God loves us. Think about it. As our Creator, he could have programmed us to never like, cheat, worry, fear or make the wrong choice of any kind. He didn't because he saw in us something many have yet to discover. He saw greatness that could only rise to the occasion by our learning to make our own choices.

He alwsys wanted our love. But he realizes better than we do that we cannot be forced into loving someone. We must choose to love someone. Even if that someone is God.

In Joshua 24, the challenge is to choose God. I urge you to choose him too. Realize who God is. Sometimes I wish we had a Mt. Sinai today where people could look and say they've heard the rumble, seen the smoke. We don't have a Mt. Sinai but we do have the Bible. It is a graphic record of the lives who have chosen faith and those who have not. You can meet God in the pages of your Bible.

Remember what God has done. Some denominations have statements of faith called creeds that they repeat periodically during worship to do just that. If you will take the time to really look at some of the events that have happened in your life, you will be surprised at just how much God has done for you.

Recommit your life to him. Choose God. Joshua told Israel their problem was sin and rebellion. Sound familiar? Go against God even today and you can expect problems. But problems are not God's will. They are your choice. God sent us a precious gift and example in His Son Jesus. He lived as you and I. He taught us how to choose. If you are struggling today, choose God. He will lead you out of your darkness into the light of his love.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Todd Edger

Lenhart-Edger

In a double ring Valentine's Day wedding ceremony, Mary Lenhart and Todd Edger exchanged vows at the Charlevoix Yacht Club. The Rev. David Yingling performed the ceremony before 115 wedding guests.

Robert and Bonnie Lenhart and Terry and Judy Edger, all of Charlevoix, are parents of the couple.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a sleeveless gown of satin with a princess style bodice trimmed with lace. She wore a matching floral headpiece and carried a bouquet of silk flowers.

Mrs. Fran Tollas, organist and Dane Tollas, vocalist, offered traditional wedding music.

Lisa Mosher attended the bride as maid of honor and bridesmaids were Kim Snizik and Lisa Heekendorn. They wore off-white dresses with red sashes and each carried a bouquet of red roses with azaleas and carnations. All of the silk flowers for the bridal party, guests and hall were made by the bride.

Melissa McDonough, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore an off-white dress trimmed in lace with red satin ribbons at the waist. Jimmy Marsh, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.

Jeff Fassett traveled from California to attend the groom as best man. Groomsmen were David Herboldsheimer and Jim Fowler.

A reception, hosted by the bride and groom and their parents was held at the Charlevoix Yacht Club.

Following a honeymoon to Jamaica, the newlyweds are residing in Charlevoix. The bride spent two years in the nursing program at University of Michigan. In September she will continue her studies at North Central Michigan College. The groom is a graduate of Chapman School of Seamanship. (Photo courtesy Aartvark Studio)

Scouts, leaders honored

February is Boy Scout month and Charlevoix's eight Cub Scout den and one Webelo troop, den parents, pack officials and parents gathered at the Charlevoix Elementary School cafeteria Wednesday to celebrate the event.

A total of 340 people enjoyed the potluck dinner and the brief program that followed. Jim Manson, Cub Master, introduced Brian Granger, Northern District Scout Executive, and area members of the Order of the Arrow who related details of the order. They were garbed in the Order of the Arrow dress.

Awards were presented. Den parents and Webelo leaders introduced. They are: Den 1, Kristine Ras; Den 2, Daniel and Lynn Crowley; Den 3, Susan Firman; Den 4, Vicki Moses; Den 5, Kathy Liotta; Den 6, Cathy McGovern; Den 7, Valerie Kimble; Den 8, Mr. and Mrs. David Parsons; and Webelo leader Dave Phillips assisted by Larry Levengood.

The next major event on the Cub Scout calendar will be the Pinewood Derby on March 17.

The Cubs would like to thank those who assisted with the dinner and Pat McKeown of McKeown Ford for the loan of a truck to transport tables and chairs.

The next scouting event will be the Boy Scout Blue and Gold banquet to be held at the high school cafeteria Wednesday, Feb. 25, courtesy of the sponsoring organization, the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club, and Oleson Food Store.

Band Boosters plan spaghetti dinner

by ANNE KELLY

Mama mia! The sauce is great and it's not Ragu! It's Kelly Murphy's secret recipe for the Band Booster's annual spaghetti dinner, March 6. Murphy, food service director for all three Charlevoix schools, enjoys the extra-curricular aspects of his job in his spare time. He has been involved with food service for four years during which time he has done catering for private parties, receptions and school functions.

"That's why I volunteered to help Band Boosters out at their spaghetti dinner," Murphy explained. "I really enjoy doing this kind of work." Murphy is generous with his suggestions which might add flair to the occasion. This year, the spaghetti dinner will feature the Italian theme with red and white checkered table coverings.

Held before the last home game of the year on Friday, March 6, the spaghetti dinner will be served between 4:30 and 7 p.m. prior to the Charlevoix-Gaylord match in the high school cafeteria.

Chairwoman Nancy Agnew reports that ticket sales are in full swing. The dinner will include meat or meatless sauce for the spaghetti, salad, garlic bread, dessert bars and beverage. Tickets are $3.50 for adults, students $2.50 and $12 for a family.

Proceeds from the dinner are earmarked for band expenses: uniforms, instruments, instrument-repair, tuition for summer music camps and future band trips. Band members will be performing for your listening pleasure during dinner and at halftime of the game.

Chairperson Nancy Agnew and Kelly Murphy demonstrate their expertise in dishing out dinners for a gang.

Charlevoix band to perform

The Charlevoix High School Band will participate in the District II Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association Festival at Petoskey Saturday, Director Terry Isenbarger has announced.

The Charlevoix band, which will be among the 14 bands participating in the festival, will play at 2:40 p.m. at the Petoskey High School.

The band will play three concert selections, "Diamond Jim March" by Everett Maxwells, "Prelude" from the Third Act of Verdi's "La Traviata" and "Imperatrix" by Alfred Reed, Isenbarger said. The bands will be reviewed by three judges. In addition, each band will be required to sight read two selections which will be judged by a fourth judge. Bands will be given ratings of I through V with I being the highest level of performance and V the lowest he explained.

The festival will open at 8 a.m. and continue until 4 p.m.

Interested persons may attend the performance of any one band or the entire festival. Those attending are asked to enter prior to the beginning of the band's performance.

Oddfellows surge ahead

It took the Oddfellows only one night of play to reach a 599 point lead in the annual Mason-Oddfellow Cribbage tournament after having it cut to five points, Ted Pennell Jr., tournament secretary has announced.

With 6½ tables in play, the Oddfellows outscored the Masons 733 to 141 to regain a worthwhile lead.

John LaRuse had 963 points for the night. Hugh Mayne had 922 for the Masons.

At 7:30 p.m. Thursday, the tournament will be played at the American Legion post home.

Wrestlers 3rd in district

The Charlevoix Rayder grapplers placed third in the Class C district meet at Kalkaska Saturday and qualified eight of their 10 entries for regional competition at Ithaca Saturday.

The Rayders 138 points put them behind Rogers City with 167½ and Kalkaska with 147. Grayling had 126 and Roscommon 88 to finish fourth and fifth among the 14 teams in the meet.

"Our team did a tremendous job," Coach Greg Bryan said. "Although we had no champions, we took three seconds, four thirds and one fourth place."

He went on to say that just before the final round, Charlevoix was in first as a team. Rogers City, however had six in the finals and Kalkaska four opposed to the Rayders three. "Had one match gone our way, we may have scratched out a second but Rogers City was just too strong to catch," Bryan added.

Taking second place were Toby Young (98), Shaan Bier (132) and Jason Whitley (138). Placing third were Scott Novotny (112) Jamie Montieth (145) Derek Dutcher (198) and Bill Marquardt (hvy.wt.) In fourth place was Steve Mellios (167).

Others who wrestled were Jim Tilton (185) and Brian Livingston (119).

Young had a 3-1 record for the meet, losing to Dean Amos of Kalkaska in overtime 7-2. Young had defeated Amos during the regular season. Bryan said they are equal wrestlers, among the best in the state and could meet again in the regionals.

Bier (3-1) had a good day, defeating Fred Fischer, conference champion, of Grayling in the semifinals 1-0 in overtime. Bier then lost to Shawn Luca of Kalkaska 7-2 in a tough physical contest. Luca is rated fifth in the state in all classes.

Whitley (3-1) lost to Tim Colling of Grayling 7-2 in another tough match.

Novotny, Montieth, Dutcher and Marquardt had 3-1 records and Mellios a 1-4 record. Bryan said that Dutcher lost by a 4-2 margin to Jay Getsinger of Rogers City in an extremely close match.

"It was a tremendous team effort," Bryan concluded. "A couple of the boys fell short of possible goals but as a group we performed better than anticipated. This week, with the district behind us, the team will know better what is expected of them."

The regional meet at Ithaca will oepn at 9:30 a.m. with the finals to be held at 5:30 p.m.

Rayders rebound for win

GRAYLING — The Charlevoix Rayders, rated 22nd in the state in Class C, rallied behind 6-foot-4 Chad DeVries' 24 points and 20 rebounds to defeat Grayling 76-66 Friday.

Charlevoix (11-6 overall, 8-4 in league) went to the third place in the league, two games better than fourth place Grayling (6-6 and 9-8 overall).

But it took a strong performance in the second half and the best game of the season by DeVries to get the job done.

Charlevoix trailed 19-16 and 39-30 after the first two periods and was still down 53-52 at the end of three before taking charge.

"The difference for us was the second half where we shot much better," Coach Dave Smith said. "The defense also helped turn things around."

"DeVries had an outstanding game. The whole team played together well," Smith said.

Also for the Rayders, Scott DeYoung had 15 points and 14 rebounds, Jim Ciuk 13 points Roger Smith 10, while Owen Phillips added eight assists and Ciuk seven. For Grayling, John Kinnee hit 26 points, Todd Klingler 12, Jason McEvers 1 and Tom Bacon 10.

Charlevoix hit 28 field goals and 20 of 36 foul shots with 20 fouls. Grayling had 25 baskets and 16 of 23 from the line, with 29 fouls.

The Rayders are idle until a Friday, Feb. 27, visit to play league-leading Cheboygan.

Red Devils get revenge

EAST JORDAN – The East Jordan Red Devils outhustled and outrebounded the Rayders Tuesday to take an 83-75 victory over their arch rivals.

The Red Devil victory avenged an early season loss to the Rayders and was their eighth in the last nine starts.

The Rayders, employing a full-court press much of the evening, forced East Jordan into 17 turnovers but were unable to capitalize on the misques.

"East Jordan came to play and it took us a while to wake up to that," Coach Dave Smith said. "We played poor defense in the first half and we were outrebounded 24 to 10."

The Red Devils took a slim 17-16 lead at the first quarter. Switching to a zone defense, they forced Charlevoix to use its outside game and took control under the boards. By the half, the Red Devils were in command 40-34.

The Rayders fell behind by as much as 18 points in the third quarter as Mat Bishop and Greg Kitson connected consistently. Bishop led all scorers for the night with 24, Kitson added 21.

Charlevoix rallied in the fourth quarter as its press caused the Red Devils more problems. But after pulling as close as four points, 78-74, the Rayders fell behind for good.

Jim Ciuk and Joe Miller led the Rayder scorers with 17 points each. Scott DeYoung and Chad DeVries each scored 12.

East Jordan finished the game with a 40-29 edge in rebounding and hit 31 of 87 shots. Charlevoix was 31 of 74 from the field and committed 12 turnovers.

Volleyball team drops 2

The Charlevoix volleyball team dropped two games last week by scores of 3-0 to St. Ignace and 3-1 to nonleague Central Lake Coach Brenda Bryan reports.

In the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference game, the Saints took all three sets 15-4, 15-9 and 15-11.

Top setters were Jennifer Sell and Jill Taylor; servers, Billie Jean Habel, Amy Antaya, Sell and Taylor; offensive players, Antaya and Taylor; and defensive players, Antaya and Carrie Williams.

The Rayder JVs also lost their game 3-0 by scores of 15-5, 15-3, 15-3.

The top setter and server was Marci Wynkoop; offensive players, Wynkoop and Linda Hoeksema and defensive players, Becky Melke and Laura Wilmot.

In the game with Central Lake, the scores were 15-7, 15-8, 13-15 and 15-11 with the visitors winning three of the four sets.

Top setters were Sell, Taylor and Habel; the servers, Sell and Taylor; the offensive players Antaya and Carla Henry and the defensive player, Antaya.

The JV squad won all three of their sets 15-1, 15-13, 15-6.

Wilmot and Patti Brannon were the top servers; Wynkoop the setter; Melke and Wynkoop, the offensive players and Judy Kluczynski and Melke, the defensive players.

Charlevoix will host East Jordan Thursday, go into predistrict play the week of March 2 and the district tournament at Kalkaska Saturday, March 7.

Skiers finish disappointing 5th

The Charlevoix Rayder ski teams finished in a disappointing fifth place among 17 teams entering in the regional meet at Schuss Mountain Thursday after finishing second in the conference competition the week before.

"We had a bad day," Coach Erik Lundteigen said. "It is a shame it had to come when we had so much at stake. We should have done better. In fact, we've done better all season. We made a lot of mistakes."

Two team members, however, did qualify for the state meet at Crystal Mountain March 3. They are Lauren Pace who placed third in both the slalom and the giant slalom and Karl Erber who finished sixth in giant slalom and 34th in the slalom. They are among the six individual skiers from the area who qualified as the result of a criteria change spearheaded by Lundteigen. The top four skiers in each event, excluding members of qualifying teams, advance under the new ruling.

Petoskey boys finished first with 51 points followed by Traverse City with 64, Gaylord with 143, Harbor Springs with 154 and Charlevoix with 194.

Harbor Springs captured first place in the girls meet with 65 points with Traverse City finishing in second with 76 followed by Petoskey with 139, Grayling 171 and Charlevoix 252.

"This was especially frustrating when we'd beaten Petoskey all season," Lundteigen said of the girls division.

The results of the boys meeting for Charlevoix are as follows:

Karl Erber, 34th in the slalom and 6th in the giant slalom; Charlie Witthoeft, 12th in the slalom and 23rd in the giant slalom; Dan Bickersteth, 29th in the slalom and 41st in the giant slalom; Wes Cumberland, 36th in the slalom and DQ in the giant slalom; Heath Moore, 52nd in the slalom and 30th in the giant slalom and Jason Fettig, DQ in the slalom and 24th in the giant slalom.

Lauren Pace took third place in both the slalom and the giant slalom in the girls meet; Cynthia Boydston, 41st in the slalom and 53rd in the giant slalom; Wendy Voisin, 69th in the slalom and 17th in the giant slalom; Allison Hall, 78th in the slalom and 19th in the giant slalom; Christy Coolman, DQ in the slalom and 30th in the giant slalom; and Carla Hofman, DQ in the slalom and 37th in the giant slalom.

Karl Erber will be one of the Charlevoix team members needed for the state tournament.

Seventh-graders are runners-up

The Charlevoix Middle School seventh-graders were runners-up in the four team basketball tournament hosted by the local team last week.

Kalkaska captured the title, winning by a score of 47-32 after trailing 14-10 at the half in the title game.

JVs pick up pair of victories

Three members of the Charlevoix Rayder JV basketball team were in double figures Tuesday as the Rayders defeated the East Jordan JVs 73-56.

The Rayders jumped to a 21-16 first-period lead but found themselves trailing 33-27 as the Red Devils outscored them 17-6 in the second period. As the second half got underway, Charlevoix got back in the game for a 24-11 quarter and a 51-44 lead going into the final period.

The Rayders outscored their hosts 31-23 from the floor and had 13 of 20 from the free-throw line while committing 15 personal fouls. East Jordan hit on 10 of 16 from the line and had 15 personal fouls.

Mike Picha had a scorching 30 points including 13 field goals for the Rayders. Shawn Putman added 18 and Dylan Stewart 12. Dan Pepin had 16 points, J. Burks 15 and Tim Brennan 10 for the Red Devils.

The Charlevoix Rayder junior varsity team posted a 55-38 win over the Grayling Vikings Friday after getting off to a slow start according to Coach Dick Swenor.

The Rayders scored only 10 points to Grayling's three in the first quarter before outscoring their hosts 19-13 in the second quarter for a 29-16 margin at halftime. As the second half got underway the Rayders increased their lead to 42-30 before taking the game by 17 points.

The young Rayders had 23 field goals and nine of 16 free throws and 12 personal fouls while the Vikings had 18 from the floor and only two of 10 from the line and 15 personal fouls.

Dave Miller with 12 points paced the scoring followed by Shawn Putman with 11 and Mike Picha with 10.

Freshmen defeat East Jordan, Elk Rapids

The Charlevoix Rayder freshmen basketball team ran its record to 9-6 last week as they posted wins of 61-54 over East Jordan and 50-44 over Elk Rapids.

After leading 19-11 at the end of the first period against East Jordan, the Rayders found themselves trailing 32-29 at halftime. An early spurt as the second half got underway gave the Rayders a 49-44 margin which they increased to 61-54 as time ran out.

In double figures for the Rayders were Scott Miller with 14 points, Chad DeYoung with 12, Jason Corwin with 11 and Webb Friedly with 10. Bill Gotts had 18, Don Cutler 17 and Ted Sherman 11 of East Jordan.

In the game at Elk Rapids the Rayders were in control all the way 16-5, 22-19 and 38-22 by quarters.

Miller had 10 for the Rayders. Bob Avery had 13 for Elk Rapids.

The Rayders will host Cheboygan Wednesday and will close out their season at Gaylord on March 2.

Recreation league pours in the points

The Charlevoix Independent Basketball League returned to action last week with three high-scoring games that included an overtime win by the Depot of Boyne City by a 94-90 score over Kit Carson Lumber. In other games, Dr. Daves Green Grinders upset Pepsi-Cola of Petoskey 96-86 and Buday NCE defeated Nanny's 85-72.

In the overtime game, the Depot held slim margins at the quarters 19-18, 40-33 and 58-54, before Carson Lumber tied the score at 83 at the buzzer. In overtime, the Depot outscored Carson's 11-7 to take the game.

Dean Hicks had 28 points, Tim Hartwick 25 and Rob Spencer 18 for the Depot while Roger Crain had 25 points, Scott Kelly 18, Bo Boss 17 and Paul Hoffman 12 for Carson.

In their upset of Pepsi, Dr. Dave's Grinders went ahead 20-17 only to have Pepsi edge to a 41-38 halftime lead. Pepsi was outscored 30-17 in the third period as the Grinders went ahead 68-58 going into the final period. Both teams scored 28 points in the last quarter as the Grinders took the game.

Dick Swenor with 30 points, Dave Storm with 26, Mike Loper with 16 and Bernie Ward with 10 set the pace for the game. Cliff Haas had 31 points, Kim Thomson 22 and Woody Pearson 16 for Pepsi.

In a third game Buday NCE managed to head Nanny's 14-13, 33-27 and 56-52 by quarters before outscoring Nanny's 28-20 for the win.

Randy Holecheck had 22 points, Doug Buday and Jim Marsh 17 each and Rob Hilton 13. Tom Steffen had 25 and Tom Burley 17 for Nanny's.

On Thursday, Feb. 26, Buday NCE will meet Dr. Dave's Green Grinders, Kit Carson Lumber will meet Nanny's and the Depot and Pepsi Cola of Petoskey will clash.

Beaver Island completes first volleyball season

The Beaver Island Community School's girls volleyball team recently completed its first season, traveling via plane to various site on the mainland to compete, their coach Connie Boyle reports.

Highlight of the season was a third place trophy won at the Newberry Junior Varsity Invitational Tournament.

"We had a great season. It was our first one and I think the girls did a great job. They worked hard. The school and the community has been very proud to have the girls represent them," Boyle said.

At the Newberry tournament, the Islanders lost to Engadine 15-11, 15-11 and split with Grand Marais 13-15, 15-5 and then met Engadine a second time in the battle for first place. The Islanders won the first game 15-9, lost the second 15-9 and then took the rubber game 18-16.

In their other games they won one of seven games from both Mancelona and East Jordan and lost to Engadine 7-1 before defeating the Charlevoix Junior Varsity 18-16; 16-3 and 15-12.

Members of the team are Carrie Wojan, Kerry Speck, Trina Martin, Mary Jane Martin, Mimi Lewis, Becky LaFreniere, Connie Higdon and Heather Gillespie.

Coach Boyle expressed their appreciation to parents and the community for their support and to the fans who went to Engadine and Charlevoix. "Speaking for the team and myself, I can only say it was very supportive of you all," she added.

Eighth-graders reach finals

The Charlevoix Middle School eighth-grade basketball team advanced to the finals in the junior high tournament at Indian River before losing to Inland Lakes 40-39 Saturday night.

Charlevoix headed Inland Lakes 18-18 at halftime but lost the game on the free throw line, Pierce said.

Coach Barry Pierce said Charlevoix outscored Inland Lakes from the floor with 18 field goals to their opponents's 15. At the free-throw line, Inland Lakes took advantage of Charlevoix's 23 personal fouls to make up the difference by scoring on 10 of 23 attempts. Charlevoix had three of five free throws. Inland Lakes had 10 personal fouls.

Jason Parrish had 23 points and Dan Terryberry came off the bench to add eight for Charlevoix.

Love affair with lumbering era lumbering series pictures Engine No. 34 of the Manistee & Luther R.R., owned by the R.G. Peters Salt and Lumber Co., which operated a large mill at Eastlake, Michigan. "Fall Splendor and Steam" combines the reminiscence of the steam engine used on lumbering rail lines with a 1903 White Steamer automobile, which might have been owned by a prosperous banker or lumber baron of the affluent lumber rush days.

"East Jordan Bound" pictures the Detroit & Charlevoix line which, ironically, reached neither Detroit nor Charlevoix. The line began operation in 1901 and ran for 42 miles across timberland from a connection with the Michigan Central R.R. at Frederic to the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix at East Jordan. A branch to Blue Lake and other logging spurs gave it a total of 55 miles of trackage.

The line was originally intended to reach Charlevoix via Ironton where trackage was built from the Ironton Pig Iron Smelting plant standing on the bank just west of the Ironton Ferry. Traces of railroad history can still be found from the Green River into the Jordan River and from Ironton past the Loeb Estates (Castle Farms) into the recently removed Pere Marquette, C&O tracks at the M-66 crossing.

In 1905 the line earned more that $76,000 hauling cut timber, passengers and freight. In 1929 it passenger from who was collected 10 cents. In 1930, the Detroit & cents. In 1930, the Detroit & Charlevoix put in 13 days of service to handle 88 cars of logs as its grand finale. In 1931, the line ceased operations altogether and tracks were pulled up in 1933.

Annis plans to round out his series with a three-foot gauge Shay locomotive of the Mancelona Handle Co. Jennings & Northeastern R.R.

As for his fascination with the old trains and rail scenes, Annis explains, "I often fish in the Jordan River Valley and in other places were evidence of old road beds is all that remains of days when there was "steam and thunder" in the northwoods. All the towns around here, and all the old homes exist because there was a lumber boom."

Annis' print series brings to mind the days when lumberjacks risked their lives for $1.50 a day and didn't change their underwear for three or four weeks at a crack. It recalls a northern Michigan industry which brought life to the area while on the other hand, nearly devastating our forests.

But more importantly for Annis, it chooses to focus on the romance of the "iron horse" and its contribution to a piece of history that has faded into the distance like the wail of the old locomotives.

Print market good

Chicago," Annis explained.

Annis is still working on expanding his historic old theater series with the Uptown, once the second largest theater in the United States next to Radio City Music Hall in New York City. This theater is now being refurbished for a fall of 1987 opening after a $9,000,000 restoration job. Another project in the offering is a painting of the beautiful Great Lakes cruise ship the S.S. North American, leaving the Chicago skyline. "The North American, South American and Alabama have all made Charlevoix, Harbor Springs and Petoskey areas their port of call," Annis points out.

What's new in fish? "I have an 8x10 of a winter steelhead painting which was a third place finalist in the 1987 California wild trout stamp competition," offered Annis. "And I just received word that I have been included in the Natural Wildlife Federation's 1987 Stamp collection along with many respected artists, among which is Maynard Reece, who helped me so much during my experimental years." Annis' stamp portrays the American smelt, so familiar to northern Michiganders.

85th birthday planned

Oliver Garver, 85, former Charlevoix resident, will be guest of honor at a birthday party and open house to be held 2-5 p.m. Sunday, March 1 at the Bay Shore Presbyterian Church. Friends and neighbors are welcome to attend.

Mr. Garver was born and raised in Good Hart. He married the former Pauline White and the couple lived on a small farm in Hayes Township until five years ago when they moved to Petoskey.

Mr. Garver worked at Emmet County Road Commission and Penn Dixie Cement Co., retiring 21 years ago. After retirement, Mr. Garver worked part-time at Greenwood Cemetery in Petoskey.

Sleigh Ride

It was "over the meadow and through the woods" recently as members of the Barnard Grange enjoyed an old-fashioned sleigh ride.

More than 35 members riding in horse-drawn sleighs furnished by Archie Potter and Jerry Himebauch spent more than an hour enjoying the ride through back roads in the Barnard area under clear sunny weather. They returned to the Grange Hall for hot homemade soup and crackers, hot chocolate and cookies.

Area artists become subjects for Jean Michael's paintings

A new exhibit, "An Artist's Dozen - Jean Micheal and Company," is being shown at the Art Tree Sales Gallery.

The exhibit hinges on eleven portraits of Northern Michigan artists at work executed in oil on canvas by Petoskey painter Jean Micheal. Shown with the portraits will be the work of the artists depicted by Micheal in his series.

Micheal has been an art instructor, French language teacher, and free-lance artist for more than 30 years, concentrating on painting full time since 1981. His work has hung in a number of Michigan galleries, and was featured in the Commission on Art in Public Places show in Detroit in 1985. In 1986, he won first place award at the Chimerical Gregg Art Gallery in La Puente, California.

Two years in the making, Micheal's artist portrait series was painted from slides he took while watching the artists at work in their studios. Exhibiting the artists' work with Micheal's paintings gives the viewer a greater understanding and appreciation of the skill required to create a work of art, according to Audrey Collins, sales gallery manager.

"An Artist's Dozen" will highlight the work of:

-Karen Andrews, Petoskey, with her husband, Steve, owns Sturgeon River Pottery, and creates functional country-flavored stoneware that is also favored for its decorativeness.

-Linda Beers-Aydlott, East Jordan, creates fanciful, mystical, and environmental themes that have made her jewelry popular nationwide and won such honors as the Elm Pointe Purchase Prize.

-Harry Boyer, Harbor Springs, who with his wife, Kathy, owns Boyer Glassworks. Using a centuries-old method called "off-hand" glassblowing Boyer creates traditional and contemporary vases and paperweights that sparkle with delicate transparency.

-Sari King, Petoskey, is a weaver and garment maker whose use of color and texture have given her work an instantly recognizable distinction.

-Kathleen Kosc, Boyne Falls, will be hanging her first show in the Art Tree Sales Gallery. Owner of the former Gaslight Gallery, Kosc uses brightly colored acrylics in a style reminiscent of mosiac work.

-Penny Kristo, Petoskey, was one of the early practitioners of the stained glass revival. Also an accomplished watercolorist, Kristo translates her fine art designs into stained glass panels, windows, lamps and other items. Her work has won top prizes in juried competition sponsored by Crooked Tree Arts Council.

-Glen McCune, Mancelona, is a reknowned nature and wildlife painter. McCune looks at the world with an unusual perspective that has attracted judges' attention and helped him win major competitions sponsored by Elm Pointe Art and Historical Society, and Crooked Tree Arts Council.

-Walter Midener, East Jordan, is a much-decorated sculptor. He was winner of the Detroit Institute of Arts purchase prize in 1950 and the founder's prize in 1952; in 1951 he was among 86 American sculptors chosen from a field of 5,000 to have work exhibited in the Metropolitan Museum of Modern Art in New York City. Midener also won the 1984 Arts Award sponsored by the Michigan Arts Foundation.

-Scott Nelles, Rapid City, works in bronze, creating small figures primarily of animals. Nelles first sculpts in wax, then creates a mold from which he casts his limited edition, hand-finished pieces.

-Michael Szmandt of Boyne City is a self-taught woodcarver, who last year captured first place in world championship competitions at Ocean City, Md., for his miniature songbird, a white-throated sparrow. Szmandt, whose work is exclusively represented in this area by Chandler's Wildlife Gallery, is exhibiting at the Arts Center by special arrangement with Chandler's.

-Bettina Tysklind, Elk Rapids, is a sculptor who works in terra cotta, bronze, and hydrostone - a medium similar to plaster, but more durable. Tysklind was first place winner in the Crooked Tree Arts Council juried fine arts show in 1986.

The Art Tree Sales Gallery is located in the McCune Arts Center, corner of Mitchell and Division Streets, downtown Petoskey.

"An Artist's Dozen - Jean Micheal and Company" will offer work for exhibition and sale through Friday, March 20. Gallery hours are Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. year around.

Building

The Charlevoix County Department of Building Inspection recently issued permits to:

Danny W. Brown (for Fairport Marine Electronics), to construct new marina and dwelling unit at 217 Belvedere Avenue, Charlevoix.

Leona M. Dabbs, to construct residential garage at 06885-B Zenith Heights Road, Bay Township.

Names In The News

ANNIE WAGNER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wagner of Charlevoix has a leading role in Kalamazoo College's winter theatre production, Hot l Baltimore, to be staged March 5-7 in Balch Playhouse.

Lanson Wilson's Hot l Baltimore is a poignant look at the residents of a decaying, condemned hotel, so badly deteriorated that its marquee has lost its "e."

Annie appears as The Girl, a call girl who is 19 and maddeningly curious. According to director Menta, The Girl is the closest to a protagonist in this play-mature beyond her years, but at the same time a youthful dreamer.

After extensive training in travel and tourism, BETHANY A. JONES, of Charlevoix has graduated from Southeastern Academy, in Kissimmee, Florida. To complete the program of study, Bethany met the requirements for specialized occupational training plus work in business professionalism and career development. She is now qualified for a career in the travel and tourism industry.

DANIEL JENSEN, a junior from Charlevoix has been named to the Dean's list at Anderson College, Anderson, India, for the first semester of the 1986-87 school year.

Obituaries

John Burns

A memorial service for a former Charlevoix resident, John Davidson Burns, 81, Deering, N.H., were held Saturday, Feb. 21, at the Deering Center Church. The Rev. Stanley Keach officiated. Interment followed.

Mr. Burns died Wednesday, Feb. 18, at Pheasant Wood Nursing Home in Peterborough, N.H.

The son of George and Ida (Whitmoyer), Mr. Burns was born in Manistique May 29, 1905. He attended Charlevoix schools. He had lived in Romeo for 30 years and was in the insurance business in Detroit until his retirement. He had lived in Deering, N.H. for the past 10 years.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Evelyn F. (Brady) Burns of Deering, N.H.; two sons, Stephen K. of Durham, N.H. and James K. of Thunder Bay, Ont.; one grandchild and neices and nephews.

The family suggests memorials to the church.

DeWitt B. Peters

DeWitt B. Peters, 83, retired Charlevoix restaurateur, died Friday Feb. 20 at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Born in Eaton Rapids Aug. 7, 1902, Mr. Peters moved to Charlotte with his parents at the age of three years. He graduated from Charlotte High School in 1922 and the University of Michigan in 1926. On June 22, 1926, he married the former June M. Moyer at Charlotte. They lived in the Charlotte area.

From 1943 to 1945 he was an inspector in charge of the Bell Aircraft plant at Burlington, Vt. Following World War II, the couple came to Charlevoix where they operated the Turkey Wing restaurant for 20 years until retiring in 1966. He was a life member of F.&A.M.

Surviving are his wife, June M. of Charlevoix; a son, Armand of Wyoming; two grandsons and four great-grandchildren.

The Winchester Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Marion E. Martin

Funeral services for Mrs. Marion E. Martin, 71, of St. James, Beaver Island, were held at Holy Cross Church at St. James Friday Feb. 20. The Rev. James Hoffman, O.F.M., of St. Francis Xavier Church in Petoskey, was the celebrant. Interment was in Holy Cross Cemetery.

Mrs. Martin died Tuesday, Feb. 17, at Grandvue Medical Care Facility.

Born at St. James Aug. 30, 1915, to Joseph Leo and Sara (Burns) McGinnis, the former Marion E. McGinnis married Charles Martin July 31, 1935 at St. James where they always made their home. Mr. Martin preceded her in death July 22, 1984. For many years Mrs. Martin was the correspondent for the Charlevoix Courier at Beaver Island. She was a member of Holy Cross Church.

Surviving are six sons, James L. of Port Huron, Erwin C. of Grand Rapids, Joseph B., Michael R. and the twins, Ernie F. and Emmet D., all of St. James; three daughters, Mrs. Robert (Marjorie) Armstrong of Kalamazoo, Mrs. Mike (Sally) Delia of Hesperia and Mary Jane Martin of Gaylord; 36 grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren.

James Graham

James Graham, 62, a former Charlevoix resident, died Sunday, Feb. 15, at Boynton Beach, Fla., following a long illness.

Memorial services will be held at Grand Rapids in June.

Born in Saginaw Feb. 17, 1924, Mr. Graham came here with his parents as a child. He graduated from Charlevoix High School and during World War II served in the U.S. Army. He had lived in various places where he was in the insurance business. He has lived in Boynton Beach, Fla., for the past four years.

Surviving are his wife, Patricia of Boynton Beach; two daughters, Penny VanDenhout of Cedar Springs and Patricia Engels of Jenison; two sons, Jerry Graham of Kentwood and David Graham of Atlanta, Ga; several grandchildren and his mother, Mrs. Ethel Ryder of Charlevoix.

Dental screenings a success

Dr. David Strawbridge celebrated his 14th year as a dentist in Charlevoix on Saturday Feb. 14 by conducting a free dental care day as a "thank you" to the community.

Assisted by his staff of nine who contributed their time and services to the project, Dr. Strawbridge saw 30 people who ranged in age from three years to approximately 40 years.

"It was a gratifying experience. We appreciated the response for it told us there were people who cared enough about their health to take advantage of our offer for free dental care," a spokesperson at the office said.

During the day the doctor and-or his staff cleaned teeth, did oral exams and consultations, x-rays, fillings and extractions. "We did whatever needed to be done," the spokesperson added.

A free dental care day is not new. The first such day was held in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, early in 1986 when Dr. Dwayne Schmidt conducted a free dental care day to which 175 people responded. It was so successful that he decided to do something about it nationwide by publicizing the project. Later in the year Dr. Roy Martin and his associates of Arvada, Colo., with the assistance of their staffs saw 250 people to show their appreciation to the people of that community.

Realtors receive awards

Coldwell Banker-Schmidt Realtors staff from Charlevoix received recognition in the Coldwell Banker National Awards Program at the real estate company's "America, Coldwell Banker Country" conference in Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 8-12.

Two thousand real estate brokers, sales associates and guests from 48 states gathered at the Opryland Hotel for the fourth annual sales conference of Coldwell Banker Residential Affiliates, Inc. The Residential Affiliates represent more than 900 offices of the over 1,750 Coldwell Banker residential real estate sales offices nationwide.

David Smith, of the Gaylord office received the 1986 Coldwell Banker Solid Service Award for relocation referral achievement.

William R. Carey, Charlevoix office manager and William L. Dietrich of the Charlevoix office received the 1986 Coldwell Banker Circle of Honor Listings Award for listing achievements in 1986. Circle of Honor Associates earned their awards by taking at least one listing every month of the year.

Coldwell Banker Real Estate Group, the country's largest full-service real estate company, celebrated its 80th anniversary in 1986. Coldwell Banker-Schmidt Realtors is celebrating their 50th anniversary in 1987. It is a member of the Sears Financial Network.

Coldwell Banker-Schmidt Realtors has offices in Traverse City, Acme, Glen Arbor, Suttons Bay, Beulah, Gaylord, Petoskey, Charlevoix and Boyne City.

OM competitions to begin; creative solutions will be tested

by ANNE KELLY

Ready? Set? Go! It's the biggest brainstorming show of the season winding up for regional competition on Saturday, Feb. 28 in East Jordan. The competition is the culmination of participating teams' efforts over the past several months to come up with creative solutions for this year's OM problems.

OM, formerly known as Olympics of the Mind, is just that: an amazing display of creative and mental process. One thousand students from 135 participating teams in our region (Houghton to Lewiston) will compete for honors in a tournament of wits, pizzazz and creative showmanship.

This year's problems are a smorgasbord of delights for eager young participants. On the kindergarten through second-grade level, a primary problem called "The Tea Party," will familiarize first-time OMers with the spirit and procedures of tackling a group problem, and prime them for future participation on a competition level.

Competition is staged at three levels: Division 1 (grades K-5), Division II (6-8), and Division III (9-12). Competition problems for this year are: "Omer to the Rescue," "Chain Reaction," "Poetic License," "Decision Structure," and "Cro-Magnon."

Charlevoix will be competing with teams on the elementary and middle school levels, thirteen teams coached by 23 volunteer parents. All together 82 students from our school will be matching brains and creativity with other participants around the north.

In the noncompetitive "Tea Party," little ones will pretend to be grown-ups at a tea party. The problem is to create the following: five characters which must include a host or hostess and an elderly lady (over 35!), chit-chat at the party, dress for the characters, the elderly lady's hat, a play, background props and a surprise for the audience.

Older students, deal with problems which usually involve a mechancial, musical or artistic twist. In "Omer to the Rescue," students are to create a play in which Omer, a side-kick, and a distressed person do a good deed. This problem includes designing and constructing a vehicle which can fit into one or two suitcases, assembling the vehicle, driving it, turning it, stopping it, performing specific tasks and disassembling the vehicle. All these problems are performed within strict parameters and are timed at approximately 10 minutes.

We have all heard of the domino theory. Students solving the "Chain Reaction" problem must release the energy stored in a standard mousetrap spring to set off other mousetraps which will in turn accomplish certain specific tasks.

There's room for poets in this year's competition, as well as for mechanical engineers. "Poetic License," presents this problem to teams: Choose a poet selected from a list of classic poets, read his poem, having one team member be the poet, then create a parody, satire or allegory of the poem and present the creation in a live performance.

Problem four, called "Decision Structure," requires the design and construction of a balsa wood structure which will balance and hold as much weight as possible. Teams present their solution to the problem in the creative setting of a pantomine skit which may include costuming, music and special effects.

Harbor Springs school has been a serious contender in this problem for the past two years. Their team traveled to Arizona for the 1986 World OM competition with a structure which held between 250-300 pounds.

The "Cro-Magnon" problem is to create and perform a presentation which takes place in our prehistoric past in a cave. The team must make paintings, drawings, tools, instruments, prehistoric animals and musical instruments from Cro-Magnon times. The presentation may be accomplished seriously or humorously. Charlevoix's presentation is all in good fun.

The contagious, rambunctious and highly charged atmosphere of competition on Feb. 28 will find the 13 teams from Charlevoix pitted against some of the most creative and ingenious of their division counterparts. The prizes, awarded at an awards ceremony at the end of the day, include I, II or III ratings and gold, silver or bronze team medals. All teams receiving a rating will progress to state competition on April 4 at Central Michigan University in Mt. Pleasant which will also host the world finals in May.

Last year two teams from Charlevoix traveled to CMU for the state competition. One team, Great Art Lives," missed proceeding to the World Competition in Arizona by a few points.

Midwest gets contract

Chessie Systems, which recently merged with Seaboard Coastal Railroad and is now known as CSX Transportation, has awarded a contract to Midwest International in excess of a quarter of a million dollars, reported Ron Pair, president and CEO of the Charlevoix manufacturing firm.

Midwest designs and builds high technology deep water vessel loading equipment for port facilities worldwide.

The equipment to be constructed is reported to allow Florida-based CSX to load 4500 tons per hour of dry phosphate rock into open vessel compartments without the use of high energy dust collection. "With our new technology, extensive tooling and sophisticated computer programming, we can assure the port facility of EPA compliance with local and federal regulations," said Pair.

The equipment provided to CSX will represent the largest single ship loader in the history of the company, founded in 1967. Midwest moved its offices and manufacturing facility to Charlevoix in 1974 and is located on Stover Road.

Tax Tips When You Buy Real Estate

When you buy real estate, your tax benefits start immediately. For example, property taxes paid at the settlement are deductible. Usually, these taxes are pro-rated between the buyer and seller so that each pays his respective share. In some localities where the property taxes are paid during the following calendar year, the buyer's deduction is taken during the year the taxes are actually paid.

The other settlement expenses generally are not deductible, however, most of them can be added to the cost of the real estate when you sell it. The effect will be to reduce the profit subject to income tax. Among these are: lawyer's fees, property surveys, title search and title insurance, transfer taxes and "points".

It should be noted that, what the IRS calls "basis" is quite important to establish. It is the purchase price of the real estate which includes your down payment, mortgages, and those non-deductible settlement costs. The basis determines what your profit or loss will be when you sell.

Income Tax Preparation

Get the most from your IRA.

- You can contribute to an IRA until April 15, 1987 and lower your 1986 tax bill while saving for retirement. Many people will find that, because their income exceeds set limits, they will not be able to make tax deduction contribution to an IRA for 1987.
- You can contribute up to $2,000 of your 1986 earnings to an IRA and twice as much if you are married and both you and your spouse work. Married persons – when only one spouse works – can contribute up to $2,250. This will remain true, but will also be restricted.
- Even if you apply for an extension to file your return, there are no extensions to the IRA contribution deadline.
- You can contribute to an IRA even after you begin making withdrawals, as long as you have earned income or receive alimony and are under age 70½.
- Custodial fees for IRA or Keogh accouants are deductible if they were paid with funds outside the account. Next year, this will be part of your miscellaneous deductions.

Charlevoix grieves loss of Lisa Dixon

by DOUG TRUAX

Charlevoix reacted Tuesday to the death of young Lisa Dixon, an eighth-grade student at Charlevoix Middle School, with an outpouring of sadness and regret. Everywhere there was praise for the young student who was admired by nearly everyone who knew her.

Dixon died suddenly at Charlevoix Area Hospital at approximately 8 p.m. Monday after contracting meningococeal meningitis, a rare bacterial infection of the lining of the brain. She first showed signs of illness Monday morning and was admitted to the emergency room at approximately 4 p.m. Monday.

"She was a gem," said Dennis Van Guilder, Middle School principal. Van Guilder said the Middle School students were deeply affected by Lisa's death. "She was a girl who was mature beyond her age," he added. "She seemed to have a vision of what she wanted and went at it."

She was the only eighth-grade student to get all A's during the second marking period, Van Guilder said, and she led by example in many areas including her activities in the band, in the Program for the Academically Talented and on the girls basketball team. She was picked as queen at the recent Middle School Valentine's Day dance.

"What I see in her is a model for all the kids – her commitment to excel and do the best she would. That's what I see as a lasting tribute to her."

Mary Ann Chew, who taught Lisa as a fourth-grade student, remembered her as the "bright and shining light of the day." Lisa was, Chew said, "the kind of student that keeps teachers teaching."

Chew noted that although Lisa was a very bright student, she was also kind and caring about other children.

Carol Elliott, the teacher for the academically talented at the elementary school, taught Lisa four years. "She was just a beautiful child," Elliott said. "It's a real loss."

Health official advises calm in meningitis case

by DOUG TRUAX

Although three cases of meningococeal meningitis have occured in northern Michigan since the first of the year, Dr. Brian Youngs, medical director and health officer of District Health Department Numbers 3 and 4, says it is not likely there will be other cases.

Parents, he said, should not be overly concerned. "It is likely that no one else will get ill," Youngs commented.

Letters explaining the disease, a bacterial infection of the lining of the brain, were sent home with all Charlevoix School District students Tuesday following the death of

Benefit for Kents set

Entertainer Sean Ryan will headline a benefit performance at the Holiday Inn in Petoskey this Sunday, March 8, from 5 to 9 p.m. Appearing with Sean Ryan will be the trio, Jazzmania, and the Peacemeal String Band.

A $5 cover charge will be donated to the Richard Kent family of Charlevoix, to assist them in obtaining legal defense for a hearing before the Department of Naturalization and Immigration. The Kents, natives of Scotland, may face deportation if they are unable to convince the department to renew their visas and allow the family to continue working while they apply for citizenship.

The Holiday Inn will provide a cash bar and hors d'ocuvres for the benefit, which is being organized by friends of the Kent family.

Sean Ryan is one of Michigan's most original and sought-after entertainers. Born and raised on the south coast of Ireland, his show is a wide assortment of folk songs, Irish ballads, popular hits, sing-alongs and original music, all mixed well with stories and anecdotes filled with his own sly humor. Ryan plays six and twelve-string guitar, piano, and flute.

A personal friend of the Kent family, Ryan is making this benefit his only performance in northern Michigan this month. He appears regular at Sullivan's North in Saginaw, and Bullinger's in Jackson.

Jazzmania is a high-energy trio comprised of John Parks, Jim Spring and Sabin Fine. The Petoskey-based group will perform a set of jazz tunes early in the afternoon program.

Peacemeal String Band plays traditional Celtic music on acoustic instruments. John Magee, Dale and Maureen Scott plan a set of Scottish fiddle and dance tunes in honor of the Kents.

Individuals wishing to assist the Kent family, but unable to attend the benefit, may send contributions in care of Audrey Collins, P.O. Box 273, Walloon Lake, MI 49796.

County seeks grant for transit garage

by FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix County Transit system may have a maintenance building and garage facility if the grant, Transit Manager Art Saworski is seeking, becomes a reality.

At its meeting Wednesday night, the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners authorized Saworski to take the necessary steps to secure the $300,000 grant which would be used to underwrite the cost of such a facility. At the present time the transit system leases a garage facility.

In other action, the board voted to support the city of Boyne City's application for a Clean Michigan fund grant for closing and capping the city-operated dump located in Evangeline Township.

–Approved the hiring of a half-time employee to supplement the custodian staff.

–Expressed its appreciati... for the Federal Surplus Property program made available to the county –Opened one bid received for the 1979 Chevrolet Chevette acquired by bond forfeiture. The bid was turned over to the Public Safety Committee for recommendation.

–Heard the Hon. Richard Pajtas, Circuit Court judge, present a statistical report relating to the operation of his court including the case load since he came to the bench, the mediation system he introduced and the Victims Restitution fund which has made restitution to 11 victims in Emmet County and nine in Charlevoix County. The average payment has been $140 in Charlevoix and $158 in Emmet county.

The budget, caseload and the operation of the Friend of the Court was outlined for the commissioners

Fiddlers ready to play at Jamboree

Rosin up the bow and get out your dancin' shoes, the old-time fiddlers (and some new fangled ones too) are coming to East Jordan March 7 for the annual Fiddlers' Jamboree and Old-Fashioned Square Dance.

The popular event will take place again at the East Jordan Civic Center, with the jamboree being held from 1-5 p.m. and the square dance from 7-11 p.m.

The event is one of several staged around the state by the Michigan Fiddlers' Association. The public is invited to attend either to listen or to play. Anyone with a fiddle or other non-electrified instrument is encouraged to take a turn on stage.

The Charlevoix County Commission on Aging will be serving meals from 10:30 a.m. until they run out. Baked goods will also be for sale.

For further information contact Bill Stevens, guitar strummer extraordinaire, at 547-9153.

Lake Charlevoix Trout Tourney to raffle boat

The Lake Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament is selling raffle tickets for the give-away of a $17,500 198 Thompson Carrera boat and Shore Land trailer.

Money from the raffle will be used for the 1987 trout tournament to be held May 15-17. In addition to the boat, $2,700 in cash prizes will be given away in the drawing. Tickets for the raffle are $100 each and only 250 tickets will be sold. "Your odds of getting your money back are 25 to 1," said Jim Withers, tournament chairman.

The drawing for the boat will be held on May 16 during the tournament under the big tent in East Park, accompanied by live entertainment.

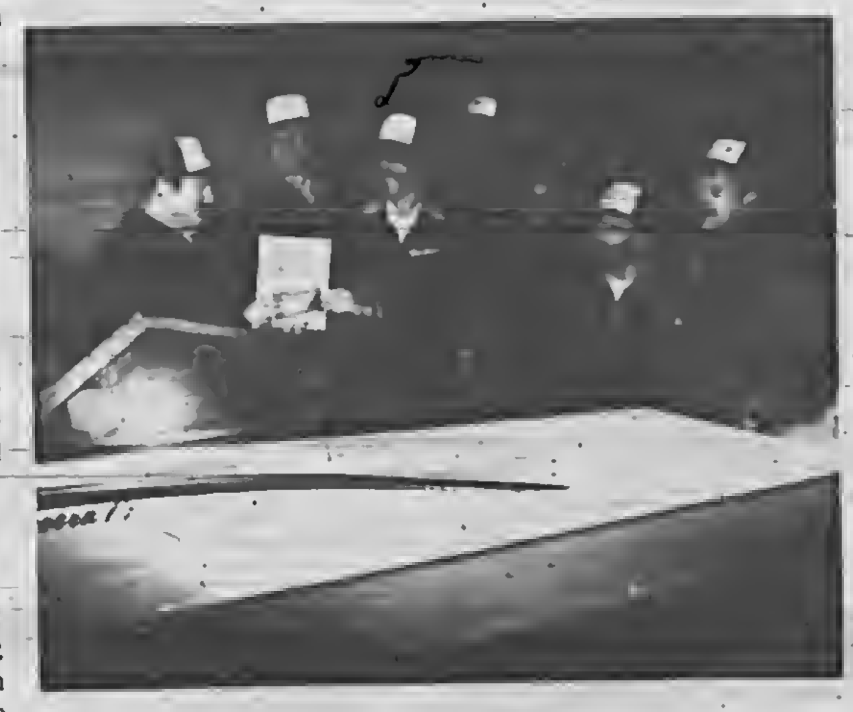
Raffle tickets are available from Juilleret's Restaurant and Village Inn Pizza.

This year's Lake Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament will feature over $30,000 in cash and merchandise for the fishermen who participate. Prizes will be awarded for catches entered in four divisions: brown trout (20 places), steelhead (15 places), lake trout (15 places) and salmon (three places).

A tagged brown trout, if caught, will be worth $3,000.

The tournament boundaries will cover Lake Charlevoix and Lake Michigan from the Penn Dixie cement plant on the north to Norwood on the south.

This year the tournament is instituting a 16-inch size limit for the first time. Tournament organizers hope the size limit will be picked up by the state in the year-round regulations for Lake Charlevoix and adjoining waters.



Directors of the Lake Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament take a look at the boat from Si's Marine that will be raffled off May 16.

Davis aide in Charlevoix

Congressman Bob Davis' district representative, Bill Huber, will be in the congressman's Charlevoix office from 9-10:30 a.m. Thursday, March 5.

Huber will be available to discuss any problems citizens may have with federal or state government.

Band hits high note

The Charlevoix High School Band, directed by Terry Isenbarger, received straight I's from the four judges at the District II Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association Festival held in Petoskey Saturday.

Isenbarger said that the band also received "A" in eight of the nine categories on which bands are judged.

"This is the sixth consecutive year the Charlevoix band has qualified for state," Isenbarger commented.

Adjudicators were Arthur Hills of Grand Valley State College, Walter Cole of St. Johns, John Butterfield of Muskegon and Henry VanderLinde of Holland.

The band is now qualified to attend the state festival to be held in the Lansing area April 25.

The selections the band played were the "Diamond Jim March," Maxwell, "Prelude" to the Third Act of Verdi's "LaTraviata" and "Imperatrix" by Reed.

Tournament pairings are drawn

The Charlevoix Rayders will meet Rogers City in their opening game of the Class C district tournament at Boyne City at 7 p.m. Monday, March 9, Dale Burge, athletic director, has announced.

The six team tournament will also find Boyne City and Harbor Springs playing at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Onaway, which drew a first round bye, will take on the winner of the Charlevoix-Rogers City game at 7 p.m. Wednesday, and East Jordan which also drew a first round bye, will play the winner of the Boyne City-Harbor Springs game at 7 p.m. Thursday.

The finals will be played at 7 p.m. Saturday.

The winner of the district tournament will advance to the Class C regional tournament at Gaylord which will begin on March 16.

Burge said that tickets will be available at the office of the Charlevoix High School. All tickets both student and adult are $2 each. The office is open from 7:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. daily Monday through Friday.

Local Boy Scouts achieve Life Rank

by FRAN MARTIN

Two members of Boy Scout Troop 11, David Salmonson and Bill Burns, were presented with Life Rank at the annual Blue and Gold Boy Scout banquet held recently in observance of the 77th anniversary of the organization.

Terry Salmonson and David Novotny of the Boy Scout committee made the presentations in the presence of the more than 75 Scouts, parents, guests and members of the sponsoring organization, the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club.

During the program Mike Ochs and Gehry Weisner received the Star Rank from John Ochs and Col. Robert Rajewski, respectively; Steven Kniat, John Rathjens and Matt Seaman, the First Class Rank from Gerald Chase; Joshua Strzyzewski, Tracy Meadows and Gary Arnold, the Tenderfoot Rank from Col. Rajewski; and Larry Pop, Ronald Zellers and Donald Landerman, the Scout Rank from Jim Smith and Scoutmaster Louis Edwards. Edwards said he presented the same award to Pop's father, Larry Pop Sr., 20 years ago.

The Pete Burns Memorial Scout of the Year Award was presented to John Rathjens by the 1986 recipient, Bill Burns. The award is presented in recognition of a Scout's contribution to the scouting program.

Twenty-eight merit badges were presented to members of the troop by David Phillips, Chase, Salmonson and Novotny, and five merit badges given by David Salmonson and Mike Ochs, members of the leadership corps.

The Camp Greilick Scoutmaster award was presented to Edwards, Chase, Salmonson and Jim Smith for having spent time with the members of the troop who attended the camp. Badges of office were distributed by Edwards and Smith; Polar Bear awards by John Ochs; perfect attendance awards by Edwards and year pins by James Gaskin, Hal Chase, Brian Phillips and Smith of the Leadership Corps.

A member of the Order of the Arrow, Travis Miller of Gaylord, showed Camp Greilick slides; Hal Smith, the Canadian canoe trip slides; Brian Phillips told of the Two Hearted River trip and Rathjens of the Boardman River trip.

Bill Burns, senior patrol leader, had welcomed the guest; Terry Salmonson gave the invocation and the color guard headed by Kniat had advanced the colors and led the pledge of allegiance to the American and Michigan flags.

The program was concluded with the American'a Creed and the Scoutmaster's benediction, the latter by Burns.

The Scouts in the troop are: Owl Patrol: Pat McKay, patrol leader, Landerman, Ernest Antoine, Christopher Lindemier, Kyle Harrington and Herbert Pines; Eagle Patrol, Gary Arnold, patrol leader; Pop, Max Goass, Zellers and Jerome Simonson.

Wolverine Patrol: Kniat, Patrol leader; Rathjens, Meadows, Matt Seaman, Strzyzewski, and Charles Pitcher.

The Leadership Corps members are: Phillips, Chese, Steven Hopkins, Gaskin, Salmonson, Wiesner, Ochs, Greg Seamon and Randy Wurst.

Scouters (members of the troop committee) are Novotny, Gunnar Lundteigen, Melvyn Thayer, Chase, Salmonson, Charles Bergmann, Rajewski, Smith, Ochs and Edwards.

The members of Troop 11 and its leadership thanks the Oleson Food Store and the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club for making the banquet possible.

Band Day arrives March 6

Charlevoix will cap its first annual Band Day Friday, March 6 with a spaghetti dinner at the high school cafeteria prior to the Charlevoix-Gaylord game.

The dinner will be held from 4:30 to 7 p.m. Tickets are $3.50 for adults, $2.50 for students and $12 for families.

The Band Day climaxes a month-long fund-raising campaign on behalf of the band program at the Charlevoix Public Schools. The fund-raiser is being sponsored by the Band Boosters which has raised over $8,000 in the last four years for the band programs. The boosters group hopes the latest fund-raising effort will provide money for e sinking fund for new uniforms and for a variety of band activities.

Also scheduled Friday is the drawing for a $500 grand prize donated by Medusa Cement Company. The winner will be announced at halftime of the basketball game. The winners of 19 other prizes, including gift certificates and savings bonds, will also be drawn during the halftime and winners will be announced between the third and fourth quarters.

After the game Friday, the Band Boosters are sponsoring an all-area dance at the Elementary School with music and disk jockey provided by WKHQ of Charlevoix.

This is the fourth year the boosters have sponsored a dinner before the last home basketball game of the season. "The dinner seems to pull everyone together," Don Voisin, Band Boosters president, observed. Last year's dinner raised over $1,000, he said.

This year's dinner has been organized by Nancy and Steve Agnew with the help of school cook Kelly Murphy. A non-meat sauce will be available for those observing Lent.

School Board sets June 8 election date

The Charlevoix Board of Education set Monday, June 8, as the date for the annual school election at its meeting Monday night.

The issues to appear on the ballot at that time will be approved at a later date.

A second resolution approved by the board designated May 5 as Michigan Teachers Day. Tuesday, March 3 is National Teachers Day.

In other action, letters of congratulations for the success of the Performing Arts team from Robert Davis, U.S. Representative from the 11th Congressional District and Ralph Ostling, State Representative from the 10th district were read.

A Uniform Traffic Code ordinance granting permission to law enforcement officers to enforce traffic laws on school property in the City of Charlevoix and Charlevoix township was approved.

The board also:

–Adopted a Clean Indoor Air Policy designating a specific area within buildings as a smoking area.

–Approved a resolution naming election inspectors for the Char-Em Intermediate School District's special election April 7 which the Charlevoix schools will conduct within the Charlevoix School District.

–Approved tenure for Kenneth Plude who has completed two years preliminary teaching in the Charlevoix schools and Becky Gengle who is completing one year in the Charlevoix schools and two years in the East Jordan school district.

–Accepted a church calendar compiled by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association from Rev. Bruce Hamilton which will be used in planning school events in an effort to prevent conflicts.

The board then adjourned to executive session to discuss a sale of property.

Kid's Corner registration set

Registration for the Kid's Corner Nursery School will be held Tuesday, March 10 in the basement of the First Congregational Church.

There will be a $20 registration fee which is applicable to tuition. For further information contact Kris Schaperkotter et 547-6275.

Obituaries

Lisa K. Dixon

Lisa K. Dixon, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Dixon, died Monday, March 2, at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Funeral services will be held at the First Congregational Church at 4 p.m. Wednesday, March 4. Rev. Philip G. Schairbaum will officiate. Interment will be in Brookside Cemetery.

Born at Richland, Wash., Jan 19, 1973, to John and Susan (Phelps) Dixon, Lisa K. Dixon came to Charlevoix with her parents in 1974. She was an eighth-grade honor student at Charlevoix Middle School where she was active in the eighth-grade girls basketball program and was also an avid skier. She was active in the Youth Fellowship of the First Congregational Church.

She is survived by her parents; a brother, Matthew H, at home; her paternal grandparents, Richard and Irene Dixon of Vero Beach, Fla; her maternal grandparents, Hudson and Jackie Phelps of Charlevoix and her maternal great-grandmother, Mrs. Carol Phelps of Battle Creek.

The family suggests memorials to the Charlevoix County Hospice. Envelopes for this purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home.

Lamaze classes scheduled

Lamaze childbirth classes are being offered in Charlevoix by Judy Wojcik beginning Saturday, March 21.

The two-hour class sessions are held once e week for six consecutive weeks beginning Saturday, March 21 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Wojcik has been trained over the past four years by the American Society for Psychoprophylaxis in Obstetrics, the national organization which trains and certifies childbirth educators in the Lamaze method.

Lamaze classes provide an opportunity for expectant couple to become active in the preparation for their child's birth many weeks before the actual birth.

Classes are small (limited to eight couples) to provide maximum effectiveness in teaching the method. The topics include: prenatal exercises, coping with the changes of pregnancy, relaxation techniques, stages of labor and delivery, breathing techniques, dealing with the discomforts of labor, the role of the coach, variation in labor and delivery (including induction and Cesarean birth), the postpartum period, the newborn and parenting.

Also included in the series is a film of an actual birth and a tour of the labor and delivery unit of the hospital where couples expect to deliver.

Expectant mothers are encouraged to bring a "coach" (husband, friend or mother) to the classes.

The cost of the six-week course is $40. For more information, contact Wojcik at 347-1426.

EDITH GILBERT

THE SUBJECT OF WAITRESS TRAINING seems to have struck a nerve among a great many of our readers. Suzi Reis reminds me of the time she was a teenage waitress at Houston's on Michigan Avenue. Houston's was a rooming house with a dining room, and most of the summer "guests" stayed for weeks and sometimes for the entire season.

One of the blue haired, grand dames, Cora Stern asked that Suzi be her regular waitress. However, when Suzie served her from the right instead of the left side, Cora Stern firmly tapped Suzi on the knuckles with a knife. Boy, have times changed!

SPEAKING OF CHANGES, a lot of people are going to be stunned when they hear that Breeze is no longer playing on the piano bar at the Grey Gables. He's been there since 1961! I'll keep you informed as to where he relocates.

LOOKING FOR A COMPETENT SPEAKER to give a topical program to your group? Greta Mackler has recently moved from Birmingham, Michigan to Boyne City. She is the co-founder of Michigan Communities in Action for Drug Free Youth. She can tell you how to organize a parent group among other things. Her telephone number is 582-6831. I hear she is outstanding.

SOME OF US have been following with interest the political career of one of our faithful, third-generation summer friends, Edwin Eisendrath. I'm pleased to report that this young man came in first in the race for alderman in Chicago's 43rd ward (That's the fabulous Gold Coast area). Running as an independent and endorsed by the Chicago Tribune, we hope he'll amass the necessary vote in this hotly contested race in April.

IT'S BEEN ABOUT FIVE YEARS since I skied. This winter I decided to introduce my granddaughter, Shena Walker, to the chair lift at Nub's Nob. On a beautiful sunny day, we loaded our ski equipment in the car and off we went. As a precautionary measure, I took my practically new Trucker skis with Salomon bindings and nifty Lange boots in to the ski rental shop to be adjusted.

A very pleasant young man looked at my equipment and said, "I'm sorry, but I can't touch your skis."

"And why not?" I asked him.

"Your boots are not compatable with your skis. Our insurance won't allow me to adjust your equipment. In fact, your boots are a collector's item."

"A collector's item? My beautiful Lange boots?" I practically shrieked.

"These Salomon bindings," he calmly continued, "are heavy duty bindings. I don't recommend them on your Trucker skis. And your skis are much too stiff. Our skis today are much more flexible."

I can't imagine what my expression was, but it must have been most unusual, because the young man spoke softly to me and selected some rental equipment that included flexible skis, bindings without straps and very comfortable looking boots.

"Try these," he said, "without charge."

I did, and I loved my rented equipment. The heck with owning your own gear. Anyone interested in a pair of Lange boots – like new? They're a collector's item...

IN ANSWER TO SULANE HAMILTON who objected to my review of the Bag Lady Party, let me remind her that this is merely a new twist to the popular hobo parties started during the Depression. As for buying garments from the Rainbow Shoppe for dress-up, people have been doing that for years, especially on Halloween. And, finally, let her direct her feeling of insensitivity to our government, which allows the neglect of the frail, mentally ill and disadvantaged.

NEAT THINGS TO DO: Don't miss the clever, unusual exhibit at the McCune Arts Center in Petoskey. Jean Micheal has done 11 portraits in oil of well-known artists who live in our area. Shown with the painting are samples of the artists' work. I've never seen a show like it anywhere.

People who enjoy both classical and modern dance, will want to attend the Theatre Ballet of Canada on Thursday, March 5 at 8 p.m. at the Petoskey High School auditorium. They have toured worldwide. Tickets are $10 and will be available at the door.

Caretaker

Clockwise

BY BOB CLOCK

Welcome to the Regency!

It now appears we will live under a caretaker government for the next 22 months.

I am speaking, of course, about President Reagan's appointment of former Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee as his chief of staff, a position formerly held by Donald Regan, late of Wall Street.

If intimates of the president are correct in their assessment of his diminishing mental prowess, Baker surely will play a major role in the final quarter of Reagan's eight-year presidency.

All of which augurs well for the country.

Although it becomes more apparent with every passing day that Reagan broke laws by trading arms to Iran for hostages — and probably by supplying the Nicaraguan Contras as well — I have a gut feeling that the old man was being manipulated by unscrupulously ambitious aides. When he says he cannot remember this conversation or that memo, I am inclined to believe him.

Furthermore, it is idle to chastise him, as former Sen. Edmund Muskie did over the weekend, for his "lack of alertness." When you are well into your eighth decade, as Reagan is, you simply are not going to be alert as someone of 40 or 50. The years do have a way of taking their toll and no amount of finger-shaking is going to make Reagan any younger or any brighter.

Mental capacity differs from individual to individual, and it is folly to suggest that all of us are going to retain a high level of intellectual activity forever. G. B. Shaw was a mental giant at 90; others burn out at 45. The brain is just as vulnerable as the body when it comes to wearing down and wearing out.

If Reagan is guilty of any crime, it is running for a second term in light of his advancing age. He should have called it quits while he was ahead.

I, for one, do not want to see the nation subjected to the agony of an impeachment trial; nor would I want to see Reagan resign, since I do not think his second-in-command, George Bush, has the necessary charisma to head up a county commission let alone a nation of 280 million people.

A strong chief of staff seems to be the best answer — and I believe that is just what we have in Howard Baker, a man universally respected by both Republicans and Democrats and one who is thoroughly familiar with how the government operates — or how it should operate.

The situation, of course, is not without precedent. Woodrow Wilson was virtually a non-functioning president during his last months in office. Most of the duties reportedly were taken over by Mrs. Wilson; and the American public was none the wiser. Without TV, radio and satellite communications, the man in the street was less attuned to the daily workings of the presidency.

George IV of Great Britain served as regent for his ailing father, George III, from 1811 to 1820. A regent ran France from 1715 to 1723.

I don't believe Reagan is incompetent. Probably far from it. But he has surrounded himself with some extremely dangerous opportunists who bear watching.

And Howard Baker seems to be the right fellow to do the watching.

Besides, Baker just might give Republicans a shot at the presidency again next year. Before his appointment, a Democratic victory in 1988 was a foregone conclusion.

Letters to the editor:

The customer should be first priority in restaurants

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to Edith Gilbert's recent articles on the lack of proper service in restaurants. Her observations point out the weakness in the old saying "If you can't do anything else, you can always wait tables."

It takes a great deal of skill, coordination, and stamina to be a professional waitperson. I feel that the biggest failure in most restaurants is the lack of proper, if indeed any, training in correct service skills. I worked in Charlevoix for nine years as a fine-dining waitress and was fortunate to learn a great deal from people I worked with, but it wasn't until I began working at the "Trillium atop the Tower" at the Grand Traverse Resort last June that I was given a proper training course in fine service.

There were orientation sessions, written tests, practice service sessions, following existing waitstaff, and checklists of skills mastered. Uppermost on the list is the importance of customer satisfaction. We call that "Priority One." I think we sometimes lose sight of that priority, especially in slow times when money is tight, as often happens in our resort area. We get in a hurry to "turn tables" and sometimes allow our service to suffer.

I have learned, through proper training, how to be efficient without seeming to rush the customer or myself. I wish I could share this knowledge. Food service as a professional is very exciting and rewarding when one has the necessary skills. It is also a means to meeting many wonderful, interesting people. My hope is that all people involved in waitstaffing be as proud as I am of my profession.

Desperation of homeless

Dear Editor;

Since I have long believed that "Bag Lady" shirts, totes, etc. are FAR from cute, and that the problem of the homeless is indeed a national tragedy, I'm relieved to see those opinions shared by someone else. To ridicule the less fortunate is, or at least should be, intolerable.

Despite the fact that they are drawn and portrayed as "cute" and exploited for the personal gain of many who already have food on the table, the desperation of these people must not be ignored, forgotten or ridiculed.

So, on behalf of bag ladies everywhere, thanks to Sulane Hamilton who hit the nail on the head.

City using excessive road salt

Dear Editor:

Mr. Wiesner's plea for additional city or county funds for various projects could be reduced if these projects were managed more effectively.

It appears as if the City of Charlevoix and Charlevoix County are competing with Detroit to determine who can use the most road salt. Add the cost of the salt, its transportation to Charlevoix, its effect on the environment and its effect on the city and country roads which Mr. Wiesner claims are in bad need of repair, and we wonder why we are spending money on an expendable item no one wants, except of course, car dealers and body shops.

Come on, City Council, let's get our winter streets back to normal, by using snow plows and sanding on hills and curves. We'll all save money on washer fluid, slush related fender benders and be spared the excessive use of four-letter words!

For a salt-free Charlevoix County, sign up at Midwest International, 105 Stover Road, Charlevoix. Our receptionist has a petition.

EYES TOWARD THE LORD

A group of boys were trying to see who could make the straightest track across a snowy field. Only one of them succeeded in making a path which was almost perfectly straight. When asked how he managed to do it, he said: "It was easy. I just kept my eyes fixed on the lightening rod on the top of the barn at the end of the field–while the rest of you kept looking at your feet."

This reminds me of the Bible verse: "Mine eyes are ever toward the Lord" (Psalm 25:15). In the workaday world in which we live, there may be heartaches and disappointments, irritations and vexations, trails and temptations, but in the midst of it all our eyes are ever toward our Lord. Our Lord and we share every trial, and in that very act of sharing our burdens lose their weight, and our trials lose their sting.

How often throughout the day and in the dark hours of the night do our eyes meet the eyes of our Savior? In that mutual glance there is hope and strength. For "the eyes of the Lord are upon the righteous and His ears are open unto their cry...The righteous cry, and the Lord heareth and delivereth them out of all their troubles," (Psalm 34:15, 17).

Are we keeping our eyes "toward the Lord?" This is really what the true Lenten theme is all about, as we again enter into that time of the year where we mediatate on the suffering of our Lord for us. Let us press courageously forward, "looking unto Jesus, the Author and Finisher of our faith" who for the joy that was set before Him endured the cross, despising the shame, and is set down at the right hand of the throne of God" (Hebrews 12:2).

The Christian life might be compared to a race. But notice how we are to run: "looking unto Jesus, the Author and Finisher of our faith." In Him we have not only our goal, but also our source of strength. Is that where our lives are focused? During this Lenten season, come before the Lord, at all times keeping your eyes and your hearts focused on Him, and on that cross, which he took for you!

Know your Chamber

By JACQUIE MERTA
Executive Director

WE MEAN BUSINESS!

This 1987 Chamber Board of Directors is probably one of the best you've ever had. They have the ability to stretch, and the spirit to reach with a purpose, the courage to make decisions on your behalf and to remain tenacious, and they are dependable and loyal to the organization.

The remaining ingredient needed to make this an organization that we can be proud of is you, the membership. Together the Board of Directors and the membership can create a chamber that is active, one that accomplishes everything to promote, increase and maintain the economic health in the community for ourselves and our families.

With this kind of stability, we are bound to attract the kind of industry needed to maintain an environment that will encourage our young people to return to raise their families.

One of our goals should be a better life for all. While we are making a commitment for a better community lets dedicate ourselves to support the economic stability by supporting each other. This is our organization and we should stand up and be counted. Please continue to take an active role in the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

Suzi Reis,
President

Engagements

Judi Ashe

Ashe-Tollas

The engagement of Judi Ashe and David W. Tollas, both of Arcosanti, Mayer, Ariz., has been announced by the bride's mother, Mrs. John R. Ashe Jr., of Concord, N.C. The bride-elect is also the daughter of the late Dr. Ashe.

The prospective bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Robert C. Tollas of Charlevoix.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Chatham Hill High School in Chatham, Va., and the School of Architecture at Virginia Polytechnical Institute at Blacksburg, Va. Mr. Tollas, a graduate of Charlevoix High School, attended Kalamazoo College and Michigan State University.

Both are presently involved in the ongoing construction and development of Arcosanti, a city of the future planned by Paolo Soleri, located at Mayer, Arizona.

The wedding will be an event of May 2nd at the First Presbyterian Church at Concord, N.C.

Church music workshop planned

The eighth annual Church Music Workshop will be held beginning 8:30 a.m. Saturday, March 14, at the First Congregational Church.

Larry Gray, retired director of choral activities at the Interlochen Arts Academy and music director at the Congregational Church in Traverse City, will be the guest clinician.

Emphasis this year will be on a massed choral sing. Whole choirs will attend. There will be a practice Saturday morning, lunch, mini-workshops by Ellen Addington on conducting and children's music, and by Fran Tollas and Barb Holg on solo music and vocal techniques. A special seession for organists will also be conducted. The day will end with a concert by the massed choir at 3 p.m.

The workshop is co-sponsored by the Christian Nurture Committee of United Northern Associates and the Division of Congregational Life.

Pre-registration by March 7 is requested, but latter registrations will be accepted until all spots are filled.

For more information contact Fran Tollas at 547-9479.

Schmidt to appear in concert

A special benefit concert held for the Women's Resource Center of Petoskey will feature Claudia Schmidt, singer, songwriter, storyteller and musician. A professional performer for the past ten years, Schmidt's repertoire includes a sampling of blues, classical, jazz, country, folk and traditional. Her performances have taken her all over North America and Europe.

She has appeared in concert and on radio and television. Garrison Keillor, host of "A Prairie Home Companion," on which Schmidt is a frequent guest, says of the versatility, range and texture of her voice, "When Claudia sings a song, it stays sung."

The concert will celebrate the 10th anniversary of the services provided by the Woman's Resource Center and is the second in a series of events planned by the Center. It will be held in the Petoskey High School auditorium on Saturday, March 7 at 8 p.m. Advance tickets are available in Charlevoix at Wharf Side Market.

Income Tax Preparation
One time home sale exemption.
If you are 55 years or older and sold your home in 1986, you may avoid taxes on profits of up to $125,000. To qualify for this tax exclusion, not only must you or your spouse be 55 years or older at the time of sale, but you must elect to take this exclusion, which is only offered once in a lifetime, and have lived in the home as a principal residence for three out of the past five years.
If you decided at the time of the sale to invest the money in another home of equal or greater cost to completely defer the tax and then changed your mind, you can elect to take the $125,000 exclusion up to three years after the sale. You may also change your mind in the other direction.
If you sold your home and realized a smaller gain than the $125,000 allowed, you need to carefully decide whether or not you want to take the exclusion for the smaller amount. Remember, you are only allowed to take this exclusion once in your lifetime. If you take the exclusion and then invest in a home that increases in value, you will have to pay taxes on the entire gain.

Obituaries

Esther S. Hawley

A memorial service for Mrs. Esther S. Hawley, 74, were held Saturday at the First Congregational Church. The Rev. Philip G. Schairbaum officiated.

Mrs. Hawley died Tuesday, Feb. 24, at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Born in Bergen, Norway, Oct. 23, 1912, the former Esther Skagen came to Bessemer, Michigan, with her parents, in 1919. She graduated from the Bessemer High School in 1931, and from Northern State Teachers College now Northern Michigan University, in 1933. She taught at Central Lake, Saginaw and Charlevoix. In June 1938 she was married to E.D. Hawley at Bessemer. They always made their home in Charlevoix.

She was a member of the First Congregational Church where she was active in the choir. She was a vocalist in the community and a member of the trio known as the "Charlevoices." She was also a member of the Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild and the Charlevoix Chapter No. 72, Order of the Eastern Star.

She is survived by her husband, E.D. "Pat" Hawley of Charlevoix; one son, Thomas of Charlevoix; a daughter, Mrs. Anthony (Anne) Genia of St. Paul, Minn.; five grandchildren; a brother, Erling Skagen of Rhinelander, Wisc. and four sisters, Mrs. Frederick (Marian) Fuerste of Dubuque, Iowa, Mrs. James (Edna) Skinner of Birmingham, Ala., Mrs. Michael (Lillian) Reichel of Leucadia, Calif., and Mrs. Eugene (Anna) Steveason of Lansing.

The family suggests memorials to the Charlevoix Area Hospital or the First Congregational Church.

The Winchester Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Bernard W. Russell

Funeral services for Bernard W. Russell, 66, were held Friday at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Cecil Drost officiated. Interment was at Brookside Cemetery.

Mr. Russell died Monday, Feb. 23, at Grandvue Medical Care Facility.

Born in Charlevoix Jan. 4, 1921, to Milton S. and Mabel (Hadden) Russell, Mr. Russell always made his home in Charlevoix. He was employed as a custodian at the Charlevoix Public Schools for 45 years, retiring Jan. 1, 1983.

In February 1966, Russell was accorded special recognition by the community for saving the life of Bobby Warner, a kindergartener at the time, when Russell rescued him from a snowbank that had caved in on the youngster. In appreciation, the Charlevoix Courier spearheaded a fund campaign and purchased a motorcycle for Russell.

He is survived by four brothers, Albert of Charlevoix and Texas, Walter (Pug) of Charlevoix and Bonita Springs, Fla., Robert (Hime) and Douglas, both of Charlevoix; and two sisters, Mrs. Jake (Edith) Deschermeler and Mrs. Rita Zoukowski, both of Charlevoix.

Garden lecture planned

"Beauty Spots for Your Yard" will be the topic for the program to be presented at the Tuesday, March 10 meeting of the Charlevoix Area Garden Club.

The program will be presented by Pine Hill Nursery at the meeting to be held at the Charlevoix Public Library. The lecture will feature guides to landscaping a garden.

A 15-minute mini-workshop on flower arranging will also be included.

Hostesses will be Carolyn Christianson and Edith Close.

Five OM teams qualify for state competition

The Charlevoix middle and elementary schools qualified five OM (Olympics of the Mind) teams for the state competition to be held at Central Michigan University April 4. Faculty coordinators Tom Sothard and Carol Elliott have announced.

At the middle school, the Cro Magnon team of Jamie Pfuecke, Megan Friedley, John Hess, Billy Dreyer, Laura Kelly and Mary Ann Pfister, coached by John Pfuecke and Phyllis Hess, placed first in the competition. A second team, OMer to the Rescue, placed second. Members of this team are: Kasha Barrett, Becky Rautio, Christine Browe, Shannon Dryer, Angela Levengood, coached by Gail Levengood. This team will also advance to state competition.

At the elementary school level, the OMer to the Rescue team of Stephanie Boss, Travis Levengood, Nick Himebauch, Doug Himebauch, Wendy Jacobs, Melanie Weidner and Adrian Russell, coached by Neva Himebaucb and Jackie Russell, placed first and also received Arnatra Fusca recognition for its creativity.

Also receiving first-place recognition was the Decision Structure team of Greg Holmes, David Skeel, Elizabeth Browe, Matt Dietel, David Dobulis, Mike Bush and Carolyn Campbell, coached by Eric Dietel and Mary Lee Campbell.

A second OMer to the Rescue team of Brad William, Brian Liotta, T.J. Felter, Steve Crook, Allison Beatty, Marlo LaBlance and Callie Siwarga, coached by Judy Crook, Toni Felter and Kay Beattie, placed third.

A Cro Magnon team coached by Reinhard Matye, while receiving a sixth place in the competition was awarded the special Arnatra Fusca award for creativity. Members of the team were Amy Freidinger, Marcy Wojan, Jessie Leadabrand, Chris Matye, J.H. Heck, Megan Potter and Amy Holm.

In fifth place at the middle school was the Poetic License team of Mindy Noirot, Kelly Heck, Danielle Hamlin, Andrea Mayte, Sbeila Siegwart and Amber Phillips, coached by Evelyn Noirot and Eilene Heck. The Chain Reaction team of Paul Sheets, Elizabeth Campbell, Gary Arnold, Josh Scheets, Dorsey Sherman, and Anne Schairbaum, caoched by Sue Sheets and John Campbell, did not place.

Receiving fourth place in the elementary division was the Decision Structure team of Michael Weidner, Jesse Beatty, Robert Sineway, Steven Sitzema, Aimee Pfister and Scott Burns, coached by Sam Weidner and Christin Pfister.

The Poetic License team of Mark Schairbaum, Ellie Frey, Melisa Anderson, Tammy Butters, Paul Henne, and Tim Terry, coached by Hilde Frey and Ginnie Schairbäum, received a fifth place rating.

Another K-5 team, Cro Magnon, composed of Crissy Dean, Jesse Dibley, James Conlon, Debbie Hamilton, Mandy Dean, coached by Linda Hamilton and Gloria Dibley, participated but was not placed.

A third OMer to the Rescue team from the K-5 composed of Ryan Smith, Jesse Lord, Keith Webster, Michael Patrick, Scott Boyer and Dan Hansma, coached by Steve Smith and John Hess, also did not place.

The non-competitive team of kindergarten, first and second grade students received special recognition but was not rated. Team members were Tricia Kelly, Jodie Bingham, Annie Campbell, Elizabeth Hess, Caleb Levengood and Duffy Stewart. Coaches were Anne Kelly and Linda Bingham.

A total of 82 students, 59 from the elementary and 23 from the middle school, plus 27 coaches participated.

Extension Service sponsors property tax workshop

tions have expressed concern that this situation is not being reflected in local property tax assessments. Dr. House will address the following areas: changing farmland values in Michigan, Michigan's property tax structure and measures required under Michigan's property tax structure to document changes in farmland values.

The program will run from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. and is open to anyone interested in this issue. For more information contact the Cooperative Extension Service at 582-6232.

The Cooperative Extension Service will present an educational program on Michigan's property tax structure Monday March 9 at 7:30 p.m. in the court room of the Charlevoix County Building.

Dr. Alvin House, extension specialist in state and local government will be the featured speaker.

Due to the depressed agricultural economy and decreased rate of inflation, since 1981 farmland values have been dropping throughout the country. Michigan is no exception. Local farmers and farm organiza-

EVELINE TOWNSHIP BOARD MINUTES

A regular meeting of the Evelina Township Board was held on February 10, 1987 at the township hall.

The minutes of the January meeting were read and approved.

The supervisor, Dave Willson reported on some old business of which no action was needed.

In other old business, the dry hydrants were discussed. It was moved, supported and carried to pay Site Planning a partial payment to cover two of the three hydrants and to withhold the balance until the Ridge Rd. hydrant is put in to a satisfactory depth in the spring.

The budget meeting will be held on March 18 at 8:00 p.m. at the township hall instead of at the supervisor's home as previously planned.

Motion was made, supported and carried to turn a zoning ordinance violation over to attorney L. Stedman to resolve; it involves the operating of a commercial enterprise within a residential area.

A cable T.V. franchise was approved for Taft Cablevision Assoc. for a period of fifteen years.

In other action, it was moved to send a certified letter to O. Burnett of Holy Island that he will be fined $25 per day until he acquires the necessary permit for a deck which he built some time ago without any permits; and that from here on in anyone who is cited by the Evelina Township Administrator for no permits will be informed of a $25-$100 per day fine which begins the day the violator receives certified mail stating such; this motion was also supported and carried.

Payment of bills amounting to $5,176.00 were approved unanimously.

Adjournment was at 11:48 p.m.

Marsha Baishtag, Clerk

Health official discusses meningitis

14-year-old Lisa Dixon Monday at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The other cases in the area were also with young girls, both age 13. One case was reported in Otsego County, the other near Boyne City. Both of those girls survived the disease, Youngs said.

The other cases, he said, occured on Jan. 26 and Feb. 15 of this year and were outside the maximum 14-day incubation period for the disease. Youngs said they therefore should be considered isolated incidents and not an outbreak.

"The number of cases is unusual because this type of illnes is uncommon," Young said in his letter to parents. "However, the bacterial organism causing meningococeal meningitis is frequently found in normal individuals without any illness. This is called the carrier state and most cases of acute illness are related to exposure to a carrier.

"At other times, individuals with an acute illness place close contacts at increased risk of developing meningitis, although this is still uncommon," he wrote.

A close contact is someone exposed to the ill patient's saliva, or nasal discharges, by kissing or sharing of food or beverages.

Anyone having close contact with Lisa was being asked to contact their family physician and, in most cases, were prescribed an antibiotic, Rifampin. Area pharmacies reported a flood of requests for the antibiotic and extra supplies were sent from Traverse City to meet the demand. Personnel at the Charlevoix Area Hospital who came in contact with the girl were also being treated with the antibiotic as a preventative.

Youngs said his office did not recommend closing the schools because such measures were not effective in preventing contact among students.

Symptoms of meningococeal meningitis include fever, sore throat, lethargy, nausea, stiff neck and headache. The disease, which has symptoms common to other illnesses including viral sore throat, acts rapidily.

The form of the disease which killed Lisa, Youngs said, was a very rare instance were the bacterial was blood-born. He said he had never before had this type of the disease reported. In most other cases of menigococceal meningitis, Youngs added, there is a 90 percent survival rate.

In 1985 there was only one case of the disease in Emmet, Charlevoix, Antrim and Otsego counties.

Youngs said that if another case were discovered in the Charlevoix area in the near future he would have to consider this an outbreak of the disease and "all bets are off." There is a vaccine which can prevent certain types of meningitis, Youngs said, and it would be considered if an outbreak occurs. The vaccine is generally given to close contacts, family members, and other groups at high risk.

He emphasized that the best preventative is good hygiene, especially hand washing and not sharing saliva through the use of common beverages and such.

Individuals concerned about meningitis are urged to contact their family physician.

World Day of Prayer observed

World Day of Prayer celebrates its centennial on Friday, March 6 with the theme, "Come and Rejoice," at a 1 p.m. worship service at the Community Church of God. A 100-year-old prayer movement, the World Day of Prayer is described as "a worldwide expression of mutual prayer and Christian Unity."

World Day of Prayer, begun in the United States in 1887 as a day of prayer for mission, has developed into a movement in which Christians in some 170 countries and regions of the world gather each year to observe a common day of prayer. The same theme and worship service is shared and translated into hundreds of languages and dialects. In many countries, the event serves as a catalyst for women to come together as they work to bring about changes in their lives.

An international committee chosen from each of eight major regions of the world, was formed in 1967 to assume responsibility for the global administration of World Day of Prayer. It was this committee of women who wrote the centennial worship materials.

In Charlevoix, women from the Community Church of God, Community Reformed Church. St. Mary's Catholic Church, First Congregational Church, Charlevoix United Methodist Church, First Baptist Church, Bethany Lutheran, Christ Episcopal, The Charlevoix Assembly of God and the Church of the Nazarene are working together to offer this united worship experience. Jane Sarasin, of the Community Church of God serves as this year's chairperson.

Church Women United (CWU), since its founding in 1941, has been the official sponsor of World Day of Prayer in the United States and has assumed responsibility for the preparation and distribution of World Day of Prayer resources and materials throughout the world. "CWU is the ecumenical movement that brings Protestant, Roman Catholic and Orthodox women together into one Christian community of prayer, advocacy and service," a spokesman said. "It represents a broad spectrum of religious tradition, race, age, economic status and ethnic background and works through a national unit, 52 state units (including ones in Greater Washington, D.C. and Puerto Rico) and 1,800 local units.

"World Day of Prayer offerings make possible, in part, the mission of Church Women United including the Intercontinental Grants for Mission program that funds national and international projects in support of the empowerment of women, human rights, justice and peace."

DEPARTMENT OF NATURAL RESOURCES

(Under authority of Act 165, P.A. 1929, and Act 230 P.A. 1925, as amended)

STATEWIDE TROUT AND SALMON REGULATIONS

Under the authority of Section 3 of Act 230, P.A. 1925, and Act 165, P.A. 1929, as amended, being Sections 300.3 and 303.1, respectively, of the Michigan Compiled Laws, the Natural Resources Commission, at its February 8, 1987, meeting, amended its order of October 10, 1986, that no person shall possess, take or attempt to take, any species of trout or salmon from any of the waters of this state except by hook and line during the open seasons prescribed, and within the minimum size limits and maximum possession limits indicated below.

Statewide open seasons on all streams and designated trout lakes shall be from the last Saturday in April through September 30 (longer on waters designated by the Director for extended fishing under Act 165) on all trout and salmon; statewide open seasons on all other inland lakes and the Great Lakes and connecting waters shall be any time for all trout and salmon; except: on Lake Huron and its tributary streams and on Lake Michigan and its tributary streams where the season on lake trout is from May 1 through August 15. Also, the following defined areas are established as refuge areas for lake trout rehabilitation and are closed to sport fishing for lake trout.

Lake Michigan (North)
All waters enclosed in an area commencing at a point 9 miles due west of 7-mile point, then westerly for 13½ miles, then north 5½ miles, then west for 9 miles, then north for 11 miles then west for 18 miles, then south for 38½ miles, then east for 9 miles, then north for 5½ miles, than east for 9 miles, then north for 5½ miles, then east for 18 miles, then north for 5½ miles, then east for 4½ miles, then north for 5½ miles to the point of beginning.

Lake Michigan (South)
All waters enclosed in an area commencing at a point 12½ miles due west of the lake entrance of Duck Lake, Muskegon County (T11N, R18W, Sec. 24), then west to the state boundary, then southerly along the state boundary to a point due west of a point 1½ miles south of Lake Macatawa Harbor entrance; then due east 14 miles, then north to point of origin.

Lake Huron
All waters enclosed in an area commencing from Pt. Anderson (T41N,R5E, Sec. 11) to a point 21 miles south, then easterly to the international boundary, then northerly along the international boundary to a point due east of the point of land south and east of Bass Cove on Drummond Island (T41N, R7E, Sec. 26) then due west to the intersection of Drummond Island (T41N, R75, Sec. 26).

Size limits shall be 8 inches in Lower Peninsula streams, 7 inches on Upper Peninsula streams, and 10 inches on all lakes. The possession limit for trout and salmon shall be 5 fish singly or in combination but no more than 2 lake trout or splake from Lake Michigan and its tributary streams or 3 lake trout or splake from Lake Superior and Lake Huron and their tributary streams, except that an additional 5 brook or brown trout or pink salmon may be taken from streams from the last Saturday in April through September 30 only.

In addition to one day's possession limit of salmon and trout, a person may possess an additional two days' possession limit of processed salmon. For the purposes of this Commission Order, the term processed means:

(a) Canned in a sealed container
(b) Cured by smoking or drying
(c) Frozen in a solid state

Any processed salmon or trout aboard a vessel on the water or at dockside shall be included in the daily possession limit.

This order supercedes the previous order, CFI-104.86, dated October 10, 1986, and shall be effective for two years, beginning April 1, 1987, through March 31, 1989.

Rayders fall to league champion

CHEBOYGAN – Cheboygan wrapped up outright possession of the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference basketball title Friday with a convincing 74-49 victory over the Charlevoix Rayders.

The Chiefs lead the league with a 12-1 record, with only a home game against Grayling remaining. Charlevoix fell to 11-7 for the season and 8-5 in the league.

Charlevoix looked like it might threaten the champs in the early going, taking a 12-11 lead after the first quarter. Cheboygan poured on the points in the second quarter, however, and took a 34-24 advantage at the intermission.

The Chiefs widened the gap at the end of three quarters, 49-35, and then poured it on for the 25-point win.

Scott DeYoung led the Rayder scoring with 12 points. Roger Smith came off the bench to score eight. Jim Ciuk had seven points and Joe Miller and Owen Phillips each had six.

Center Dan LaHaie was high scorer for the game with 19 points. Also scoring in double figures for the Chiefs were Steve Skicra with 18 and Pete Maybank with 14.

Cheboygan had 30 baskets and hit 14 of 20 free throws, with 14 fouls. Charlevoix hit 19 baskets and 11 of 14 from the free-throw line, with 16 fouls.

Friday, March 6, the Rayders will close the regular season by hosting Gaylord.

JVs edge by Chiefs

The Charlevoix Rayder JVs posted a 47-40 win over the young Cheboygan Chiefs following a seesaw battle at Cheboygan Friday night.

Two quick buckets by Shawn Putman as the clock ticked down put the game out of the reach of the scrappy Chiefs.

Cheboygan took a 15-12 first-period lead only to have the Rayders edge ahead to a 24-22 lead at halftime and hang on 31-30 going into the final period. Putman, with the hot hand, poured in five field goals and two free throws in the final quarter to score 12 of his 16 points for the night to give Charlevoix the victory..

James Corwin had 10 points for the game.

Wagner had 19 points and Bur 10 for the Chiefs.

The Rayders outscored Cheboygan from the floor 19 to 17 and had nine of 17 from the line while picking up 11 personal fouls.

The Chiefs had six of 13 charity shots and 18 personal fouls.

The team now stands as 12-1 in league play and 15-3 overall.

Cheboygan is 10-3 in the conference and 14-5 overall.

Depot takes A league win

The Depot of Boyne City defeated Pepsi-Cola of Petoskey 73-70 in an overtime game Thursday night while Kit Carson Lumber edged Nanny's 69-68 and Dr. Dave's Green Grinders won over Buday's NCE 91-61.

In the Depot-Pepsi game, the Boyne City five trailed 18-11, 37-31 and 52-49 by quarters before outscoring their opponent 19-16 in the final period to knot the score at 68. In the overtime, the Depot outscored Pepsi 5-2 for the game.

Tom Beyer with 35 points, Dean Hicks with 17 and Tim Hartwick with 11 points paced the scoring. Mark Long had 29, Mike Schmidt 13, Kim Thomson 11 and Woody Pearson 10 for Pepsi.

A fourth-quarter surge by Nanny's who outscored Carson 25-15 in the final quarter brought them within one point of tying the scores as time ran out. Carson had headed Nanny's throughout the game 17-13, 36-27 and 54-43 until the final period. Vince Left had 15 points, Tim Carey 14, Bo Boss 12 and Scott Kelly 11 for Carson. Tim Burley with 22 points, Brad Behrendt 15 and Mike Spence 12 for Nanny's.

It was a breeze for Dr. Dave's Green Grinders as they coasted past Buday's NCE 16-10, 39-25 and 67-43 by quarters.

Dick Swenor had 27 points, Dave Storm 22 and Kraag Lieberman 16 for the Grinders. Randy Holecheck had 28 and Dave Swanson 12 for Budays.

The Depot will play Buday's NCE, Carson's and Pepsi will clash and Nanny's will meet the Green Grinders Thursday.

Marsh upsets Bankers

Marsh Construction upset First State Bank 70-51, Rich's Topside edged Mesquite 47-46 and Paul Lindberg, Inc., downed Dairy Queen 83-49 in recreation league basketball action Wednesday.

In their upset of First State Bank, Marsh Construction jumped to a 16-8 first-period lead, remained ahead 31-25 at the half and 47-36 going into the final period when they outscored the Bankers 23-15 for the victory.

Jeff Drury had 21 points, Clay Jones 18 and Ray LaVole 12 for the victors. Dennis Dominic had 13, Rod Stevens and Bob Jess 10 each for First State.

The Topside-Mesquite game was a seesaw battle in the first half with Topside ahead 10-6 before the Mesquite crew took over 25-22 at halftime. As the second half got underway, the teams pulled to a 34 tie before Topside edged ahead to a one-point win.

Dave Cole lead the attacb with 27 points. Jerry Martin had 15 points and Rol Chavez 14 for the Mesquite.

Dairy Queen stayed with Paul Lindberg, Inc., 16-13 for the first period but faded as the latter look over 34-19 at halftime and 58-34 going into the final period when they outscored Dairy Queen 25-15 for the lopsided win.

Gale Sheldon had 21 points, Mike Crain 20, Ron Cox 17 and Bill Habel 15 for Lindberg. Tom Lally scored 11 and Steve Leazier 10 for Dairy Queen.

On Wednesday, Dairy Queen will meet the Mesquite, Marsh Construction will play Paul Lindberg and First State Bank will take on the Topside.

The following Monday Topside will play Paul Lindberg, Marsh Construction and First State will meet and the Mesquite and Dairy Queen will play.

Pace tops state

Lauren Pace, Charlevoix High School junior who has won honors all season on the slopes, places first in the state in slalom and fifth in giant slalom at the state meet at Crystal Mountain Monday.

Karl Erber, Charlevoix senior who had also qualified for state competition, participated but did not place.

"Lauren did a beautiful job," Coach Erik Lundteigen said. "It definitely was her best day on the slopes. She's had a good year. This really capped it off for her."

"It was a disappointing day for Karl who had one good run before things came apart for him. In competition at this level you can't afford any mistakes and he made a few," Lundteigen commented.

"We've had a good year as a team. It was better than I had anticipated. Lauren's success is a great way to conclude it," Lundteigen said of the season.

Volleyball squad prepares for district tournament

The Charlevoix Rayder volleyball team will go into the seven-team Class C district tournament at Kalkaska Saturday, March 7, against Elk Rapids.

The one-day tourney will open at 9:30 a.m.

The other teams in the tournament are Rogers City, Mancelona, Kalkaska, Traverse City St. Francis and East Jordan.

The Rayder team will go into the tournament with a 5-7 record after defeating East Jordan 3-0 in the final game Tuesday and dropping the game at Kalkaska on Monday, 2-0.

The final night of play was Parents Night, Coach Brenda Bryan said.

The Rayders downed the visitors 15-11, 15-5, 15-7 in the three game series Tuesday.

Jennifer Sell and Jill Taylor were the top setters and servers; Amy Antaya and Sell, the offensive players; and Antaya and Taylor, the defensive players.

The JV squad lost 2-1 by scores of 15-10, 13-15 and 15-4.

Marci Wynkoop was the top setter; Jody Kluczynski and Patti Brannon, servers; Wynkoop, the offensive player; and Linda Hoesksema, Becky Melke and Laura Wilmot, defensive players.

In the game at Kalkaska the Rayders lost 15-11, 15-6.

Taylor and Sell were named top setters; Shelly Crain and Sell, servers; Crain and Antaya, offensive players; and Taylor and Antaya, defensive players.

Kalkaska topped the Rayder JVs 2-1 by scores of 15-3, 5-15 and 15-9.

The JVs also finished the season with a 5-7 record, Bryan said. This marked the end of the season for the JVs.

Three wrestlers qualify for state

Three members of the Charlevoix Rayder wrestling team qualified for state competition at Middleville Saturday. They are Toby Young (98-pound class) Derek Dutcher (198) and Bill Marquardt (hvy.wt.)

Young placed second in the Class C regional meet at Ithaca Saturday with a 2-1 record; Dutcher third with a 3-1 record and Marquardt fourth with a 2-2 record.

It marks the first time Rayder wrestlers have advanced to state competition since 1983. It is also the largest number to advance to state competition since the sport was introduced at Charlevoix coach Gregg Bryan said.

As a team, Charlevoix placed seventh among 26 teams entered with 44.5 points. Shepard took the regional title with 130.5 points followed by Kalkaska with 86; Rogers City 77.5; St. Louis 62; Carson City 56.5 and Grayling 54. Among the top seven teams in the regional, three are from the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference and fourth, Kalkaska, is a team the Rayders met three time prior to the regional competiton.

"As a team we wrestled well, as good as could be expected," Bryan said. "A regional tournament is so tough to get through. The level of competition is so intense that people outside the sport, i.e., people who never see it, cannot understand the physical and mental aspect of it.

"A lot of very excellent athletes are through for the season because a single point in the final seconds, in numerous close matches, means the difference between qualifying and losing. To qualify for state is a great accomplishment. Now only 16 wrestlers remain in each weight class from the 120 or so who started," he said.

Bryan said Young did a fine job. In the semi-finals, he pinned Matt Glowack (35-5) in 1:52 but then lost a close 10-8 decision to Dean Amos of Kalkaska, the same wrestler Young lost to in the district competition last week, in the finals to place second in his class. The match came down to the final seconds when young came up short. "I feel he outwrestled Amos but missed on a few scoring maneuvers early in the match that made the difference," Bryan added.

Dutcher placed behind Jay Getzinger of Rogers City and Corey Campbell of Mancelona in the same order as the district meet. All three are all possible placers in the state meet, Bryan said.

Marquardt, who placed third in the district did well in qualifying for the state. He lost an 8-2 decision to the other district champion in the consolation finals. Again, as in the 198 pound weight class, the heavyweights from our district placed one and two. Thus Marquardt has come through a tough district and regional and has a good chance of doing well in state, Bryan commented.

Scott Novotny (112) lost a close match to Scott Gray of Benzie Central in an overtime to just miss qualifying for state. His record was 1-2. Jason Whitiey (138) had a 1-2 record. Shann Bier (132), Jamie Montieth (145) and Steve Mellios (167) were 0-2.

"It has been a good season," Bryan said. "Many of the team members will be back for another year."

The records to date and class of those who advanced to the regionals include: Seniors: Marquardt 35-12; Bier 29-9-2; Mellios 15-13.

Juniors: Young 38-3; Dutcher 36-8.

Sophomores: Novotny 23-18; Whitiey 30-14; Montieth 28-17.

No new meningitis cases reported

No new cases of meningitis have been reported in Charlevoix since the illness which took the life of Lisa Dixon, 14, last week, the District Health Department has said.

Doctors offices, pharmacies and the health department reported widespread concern last week following the reports of the case of meningococcal meningitis, a rare bacterial infection of the lining of the brain. Doctors were prescribing an antibiotic, Rifampin, for people who had been in close contact with the victim.

One area doctor said that for two days after the incident his phone rang constantly with requests for the antibiotic. "Any kid that throws up or gets a headache has come in," he said.

Meningococcal meningitis has symptoms like other more common illnesses including fever, sore throat, lethargy, nausea, stiff neck and headache.

Dr. Brian Youngs, medical director and health officer of District Health Department Numbers 3 and 4, said that all public health notifications were taken care of by Tuesday of last week. Youngs said his office was keeping a close eye on illness reports, particularly since two other cases have been reported in northern Michigan since Jan. 1, 1987.

Youngs said he did not expect another case in the near future, but his office was prepared to act should one occur. An outbreak of this form of meningitis would be considered one more case in the Charlevoix Public Schools, Dr. Youngs said. The District Health Department would then be prepared to immunize anyone in the target population. "We know where the vaccine is and we can get it if we need it," he said.

Last week the District Board of Health gave it's authorization to use county funds for the vaccine should it be necessary.

But Youngs stressed that immunization was not called for now because a single case within the Charlevoix school population did not represent an outbreak.

The other cases in northern Michigan were in Boyne City, with an onset on Jan. 26, and Gaylord, with an onset of Feb. 10. The normal incubation period in from one to four days and the longest possible incubation is two weeks.

"Three cases in a small area like this is real unusual," Youngs noted. "That's why we have to be prepared to deal with any future problems that come up. But the likelihood is that nothing is going to happen."

Police chief search narrowed to six

A review committee has sorted through a list of over 70 applicants for the job of Charlevoix police chief and has identified six people to be interviewed for the job.

Those to be interviewed include: Paul Ivan, currently a police officer in Charlevoix; Leon Dyke of Harrison; James Hatch of Walker; Dennis Halverson of Traverse City; Randy Kruse of Evart and Robert Rosenberg of Saginaw.

The interviews, one hour each, will take place Thursday, March 12 at City Hall from 3:15 to 6:15 p.m. and from 7 to 10 p.m. They will be conducted by city council and Mayor Ralph McRae using a set of questions prepared in advance. The public is invited to attend but will not be allowed to participate in the interviewing process.

The police chief review committee is composed of council members Shirley Roloff, Norm Probert and Bill Haggard. In screening the more than 70 applicants they checked references and asked for additional screening by the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department and the State Police.

In addition to interviews by the city council and mayor, each applicant will be interviewed by a special panel of police officers including police chiefs from Boyne City and Petoskey, Sheriff George Lasater, County Prosecuting Attorney Kraag Lieberman and Charlevoix Acting Police Chief Robert Tripp.

NEWS BRIEFS

Moblie home park rejected

The Charlevoix County Planning Commission and the Marion Township Planning and Zoning Board each rejected a proposed rezoning for a mobile home park last week.

Developers had requested a rezoning for some 10 acres of land zoned agricultural and residential to allow for the mobile home park on M-66 south of Charlevoix near Castle Farms music theater.

County Planning Director Larry Sullivan recommended denial because the rezoning would not be consistent with the township master plan.

The Marion Township Board will have final say in the rezoning.

Wetland park permit denied

The state Department of Natural Resources last week denied a wetlands permit for a proposed 22-unit single family development on Lake Charlevoix near the Hemingway Pointe Club.

Chris Shafer, chief of the land, lakes and steams protection section of the DNR, said the application was denied for the same two reasons that permits for Water's Edge were denied: concern about the value of the forested wetlands on the property and the existence of an upland alternative on the 100-acre tract.

Walter Coyle applied for the permit to construct 22 homes along 2,700 feet of Lake Charlevoix.

The DNR said a large parcel of the property was upland and would be suitable for building.

Kent's benefit

A benefit held Sunday for Richard Kent's efforts to fight deportation raised some $1,100 for legal fees.

The fund-raiser, held at Petoskey's Holdiay Inn, drew U.S. Rep. Robert W. Davis, R-Gaylord, who has been working for Kent and his family in their efforts to overturn a deportation order issued by the U.S. Department of Immigration and Naturalization.

Kent, a native of Edinburgh, Scotland, and his wife, Maggie, and their three children are residents of Charlevoix. Davis was instrumental in winning a 60-day extension to the Kent's original deportation order issued Feb. 28.

FIDDLIN' AROUND

Fiddlers young and old gathered at the Jamboree.

Jamboree packs 'em in at East Jordan

A full house crowded into the East Jordan Civic Center Saturday to hear fiddlers from throughout Michigan play during the ninth annual fiddler's jamboree.

Over 1,000 people heard 33 fiddlers and various backup musicians perform during the afternoon and a large crowd joined the square dancing at night. The event, sponsored by the Michigan Fiddler's Association, featured once again the appearance of Krista Knight's youth string orchestra. Also appearing from the Charlevoix area were Jasper Warner and Dudley Stevens for Charlevoix and Dan Stolt from Bay Shore.

Charlevoix's Bill Stevens again acted as host and his brother, Clare, as master of ceremonies.

Following Saturday's performance, the old-time fiddlers entertained for two hours Sunday morning at the American Legion pancake breakfast in Charlevoix.

First Band Day brings in $3,800

The first annual Band Day honoring the music department in the Charlevoix Public School netted approximately $3,800, Don Voisin, president of the Band Boosters, sponsors of the special day, has announced.

A breakdown of the fund-raising program shows approximately $2,200 was realized from the raffle of the $500 donated by the Medusa Cement Company and other prizes; $1,240 from the spaghetti dinner; $380 from the dance for high school students from throughout the area and $61 from the 50-50 raffle.

The funds derived from the project will be used to support the band program in the Charlevoix schools and to establish a sinking fund for band uniforms, Voisin said.

The success of the project was the result of the fine support from the community, Voisin added. "The response shows that there's a lot of support out there for the band program and that people appreciate it."

Charles M. Bergmann was the winner of the $500 grand prize in the raffle. Winners of the $50 savings bonds contributed by an anonymous donor, First State Bank and Charlevoix County State Bank were Mrs. Kerr Tallberg, Mrs. Betsy Felton and Mrs. Gay Kiteley.

Voisin expressed his appreciation to the workers on all the fund-raising projects and to the public at large for their generous support.

The spaghetti dinner was a big hit with this young man.

Star Line plans new cruise boat

by FRAN MARTIN

Step back in time to an era of leisure and romance is the invitation issued by the Star Line Corporation as it announced the arrival on July 1 of a turn-of-the-century riverboat, a stern wheeler, that will ply the waters of the area as the Star of Charlevoix.

That's right. The new Star of Charlevoix, now under construction at Charleston, N.C., will be an authentic replica of the riverboats that once traveled this country's inland waterways. It will be 105 feet long designed with twin stacks and the familiary paddle wheel across its stern.

The ship will be powered, however by diesel engines and will feature two decks - an enclosed lower one that will seat 90 diners and an open-air upper deck to seat 60.

Carrying out the theme of yesteryear will be waitresses in period dress and the crew wearing striped shirts with stiff collars and elastic garter-like band on the sleeves and trousers supported by suspenders.

As in the past, the dinner boat will feature two luncheon cruises and a dinner cruise daily from July 1 through Oct. 18. Dinner cruises will feature music by a Dixieland band playing riverboat music as well as favorites of today, Corinne Assenza, sale representative for the Star of Charlevoix, said.

Docking facilities have not been announced at this time but are expected to be in the downtown area.

This is the fifth dinner boat in the Star Line's fleet. Others are located at Detroit, Chicago and Milwaukee with the homeport of the former Star of Charlevoix still to be assigned a location.

In 1981 the Star Line's first dinner boat came to Charlevoix which has been the homeport for one of the ships since that date.

The Star of Charlevoix previously was berthed at the former Charlevoix Lumber Co. dock.

Musical reviews 15 years

"Fifteen Years of Song," a musical featuring the most popular songs and dances seen and heard during that period of time, is the name of the musical to be presented by the Charlevoix Elementary School on Thursday, March 19, under the direction of Marina LaBlance, music instructor at the school.

"We're celebrating 15 years of musicals, taking the best from each as the basis of this year's event" LaBlance said. "We started in 1973 with our first school-wide program which has now become a tradition. The musicals started as simple programs with limited props, activities and costuming, but since 1981, they have become quite sophisticated productions involving difficult music, choreography, scenery and some very dramatic finales."

"We're able to do this because of a strong fine arts department and the entire staff working together," LaBlance added.

A dress rehearsal will be presented at the Charlevoix High School gymnasium at 9:30 a.m. with the evening production to be presented at the same site at 7:30 p.m. Thursday evening.

All elementary school students from the first through the fifth grade will appear in the show which is open to the public without charge.

Charlevoix Yesterday

This picture postcard shows the old Charlevoix High School (on the left) and grammar school, which were located on Grant Street between Mason and Clinton Streets. The grammar school also provided space for the Charlevoix Normal School for some years.

Early registrations needed for Camp Daggett

Early registration is encouraged for this year's summer camp program at Camp Daggett on Walloon Lake. Last year, for the first time in 62 years, all the summer sessions at Camp Daggett filled early and over one hundred requests were denied.

Applications for summer camp are now available at local schools and chambers of commerce.

Established in 1925, Camp Daggett is a nonprofit camp, owned and operated by a board of trustees made up of representatives from service clubs in Charlevoix and Emmet counties.

A traditional program is offered at the camp with activities including swimming, sailing, rowing, canoeing; fishing, arts and crafts, field sports, archery, nature study, camp songs, campfires, skits, overnight campouts and evening activities.

One week of each summer program is set aside for a special session, held in conjunction with the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District, for children from the school district's special education program.

Camp Daggett receives support from many local individuals, service clubs, United Way funds of Charlevoix and Emmet counties, the Youth Foundation of America, and other charitable organizations.

This year's summer staff has already been hired, with most of last year's staff returning to Camp Daggett. Jerry Donnelly will be returning for his sixth year as the summer camp director.

The 1987 Camp Daggett Board of Trustees is composed of the following members: Tom Taber, president, Emmet County member-at-large; Bill McClutchey, vice-president, Petoskey Rotary; Ken Olinger, secretary, Charlevoix Kiwanis; Pat McFall, Petoskey Business and Professional Women; Mike Rosenow, Harbor Springs Kiwanis; Mike Farrimond, Petoskey Lions; Bob Herrmann, Boyne City Lions; Michael Hills, life member; Ken Lemon, East Jordan Lions; Tracy Malpass, East Jordan Rotary; Fred Sterns, Petoskey Kiwanis; Dennis Foltz, Emmet County member-at-large; Howard Berger, Petoskey Jaycees; Art Treloar, life member; John DiMartino, Boyne City Rotary; Marge Greenway, Petoskey Zonta.

For more information about Camp Daggett write to P.O. Box 120, Petoskey, MI 49770 or call 347-9742.

Oddfellows build commanding lead

Cribbage players will return to the tables for one more night of play in the 56th annual Mason-Oddfellow cribbage tournament, giving the Masons one last chance to trim the Oddfellows 894 point lead, Ted Pennell Jr., tournament secretary, has announced.

The Oddfellows, with an almost insurmountable 886 point lead, picked up eight points after defeating their opponents 387 to 374 Thursday night Pennell said.

The tournament will move to the American Legion post home at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

BUY OR SELL FIRST?

Should you buy your new home or sell your present one first?

This situation arises consistently when families move up into a larger home in the same general area. In this case, it makes sense to sell the present home first.

The secret, however, is to sell the house under the conditions that the papers will pass and title will be conveyed in, say, 90 or 120 days. This way, you avoid the possibility of owning two homes at the same time.

True, it puts you in a position of being forced to buy another home, but this was your original intention anyway. With a concerted effort, one should be able to buy the right property in the 90 or 120 days allotted.

Also, you avoid the possibility of panic-selling your original home (a good way to lose money), plus you'll know exactly how much money will be available for a down payment on the new house.

ITEMIZING DEDUCTIONS-CORRECTION

The zero bracket amount for itemizing deductions on your 1986 income tax return is $3,670. It would be to your advantage to itemize only if they exceed that amount. If your deductions approach but do not meet this zero bracket amount, then it may benefit you to have your expenses reviewed by a competent tax preparer to see if you have any additional items which are deductible. Then if your total deductions exceed $3,670 it is to your advantage to itemize. Deductible items include union dues, medical expenses, state taxes and home mortgage interest. Please note that this is the last year that charitable contributions may be completely deducted without itemizing.

Conservancy gets new director

HARBOR SPRINGS – Tom Lagerstrom has been named the new associate director for the Little Traverse Conservancy. He is responsible for the Conservancy's membership and fund-raising programs and will oversee its business operations.

"The Little Traverse Conservancy is having a positive impact in northern Michigan," stated Lagerstrom. "I'm very pleased to be able to assist its efforts to protect significant lands and natural areas in this region." Over the past 14 years the Conservancy has protected more than 2,000 acres of land, with the Colonial Point Forest and wetlands on Walloon and Crooked Lakes serving as recent protection examples.

Lagerstrom comes to the Conservancy after working three years as membership and Communications coordinator for the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council, a local water quality protection organization. "My work with the Watershed Council was very rewarding. I had an opportunity to work with staff and volunteers who are committed to protecting the high water quality of our lakes and streams." In his three years with the Watershed Council, its membership base grew from 144 to 1075 members.

Lagerstrom's immediate goal at the Conservancy will be to expand its membership support base. He indicated that major projects, such as Colonial Point, have diverted energy and effort away from the Conservancy's membership development programs. "We currently have the same number of members as we had in 1984, while our budget has grown by 35 percent. With our growing responsibility to safeguard northern Michigan's natural land, it is important that we attract new contributing members to support the Conservancy's programs."

The Conservancy is expanding its land preservation focus to inland lakes and wetland protection. Lagerstrom indicated that this new emphasis will safeguard lands which help protect a lake's water quality, and also help to preserve the scenic beauty of the area. "The conservancy recognizes that there will be growth in northern Michigan. We are working to maintain the natural beauty which attracted people to the area in the first place."

Lagerstrom came to northern Michigan after receiving a masters degree in environmental education from Michigan State University in 1983. He also holds a bachelors degree in wildlife management from MSU. He lives in Petoskey with his wife, Diane, and daughter, Andrea. He enjoys skiing, sailing, hiking and photography.

Wetland zoning ordinance developed

The Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council has developed a sample wetland ordinance and has made it available to townships and counties in northern Michigan. The Watershed Council hopes that it will be adopted by local governments.

According to Gail Gruenwald, staff attorney and wetlands project coordinator for the Watershed Council, the ordinance does not involve the issuance of permits locally but rather serves to notify landowners of the need to contact the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) prior to beginning any construction activity. Under the ordinance, a township or county must identify wetland areas and include them in its zoning plan or map.

"The ordinance plays a very important notification and education role," explains Gruenwald. "Landowners are forewarned of the need for a permit to dredge or fill wetlands. We hope that it will help avoid permitting controversies and prevent unauthorized fills."

The wetland ordinance was developed by Gruenwald with the assistance and approval of the DNR. Hayes Township in Charlevoix County was the first to adopt it.

The ordinance is part of a comprehensive wetland evaluation and protection program launched in 1985 by the Watershed Council under a three-year grant from the C.S. Mott Foundation.

Gruenwald explains the goals of the project. "Wetlands play a critical role in protecting water quality and wildlife habitat. Because much wetland has already been lost to development and agriculture, protection of the remaining areas is especially important."

Through the project, we are identifying and evaluating individual wetlands in Emmet, Charlevoix and Cheboygan counties. We are also developing and promoting various protection strategies. This ordinance is one of them. Others include the wetland stewardship program and wetland development proposal review. Under the grant, we are also conducting educational programs to inform area residents about the value of wetlands and the need to preserve them."

The Watershed Council is a nonprofit conservation organization which serves the area of Emmet, Charlevoix and Cheboygan counties. Its goal is the protection of the region's water quality including lakes, river, wetlands, and groundwater..

The Beach arrives — despite winter

Increasing numbers of Charlevoix residents are sporting nice, rosy tans this spring and not all of them have been vacationing in Florida or the Bahamas.

Many have been visiting The Beach, a new business located in the back of the Market Mall, which has brought warm, tanning rays to the north country during the normally pallid days of late winter.

Owned and operated by Diane and Rob Westfall, The Beach has three tanning booths and employs the latest in indoor tanning technology.

Is indoor tanning dangerous to the skin? Diane answers that "almost anything can be dangerous if used wrongly or to excess." But, she adds, the new tanning machines is used properly can tan safely as well as heal, sooth and relax.

The Uvalux Ruva tanning machines give off a largely ultra-violet A rays, the harmless rays that only reach the very surface of the skin, according to Diane. She said the machines contain only .068 watts of the ultra-violet B rays which are said to promote skin cancer and premature aging of the outer layer of the skin. A small amount of the B rays are needed to activate the pigment forming cells.

"If you are going to tan, it is safer to tan indoors," Diane said, noting that the sun contains a high percentage of harmful B rays.

The Westfalls say it takes seven to 10 trips to the tanning booth to become completely tanned, although the length may vary for some skin types. Each tanning session lasts for a maximum of 15 minutes, at which time the machine shuts off automatically to prevent burning or excess exposure.

The Uvalux machines contain 28 ultra-violet lamps which encircle the body and 20 fans to keep things cool.

The Westfalls felt there would be a market for indoor tanning when the Charlevoix health club went out of business. The couple loves outdoor sunning on their boat, but figured Charlevoixans could use a little help with their tans during the many months when it is too cold or cloudy to soak up the rays.

A tanning session costs $6 and there are three membership plans offered with reduced rates. The Beach will be open year round and hours are currently from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday and noon to 6 p.m. Sunday.

Diane operates the shop with the full-time assistance of Shannon Titsworth and two part-time employees. Rob helps out when he is not at his regular job as assistant manager of Glen's Market.

One-hour processing comes to town

It wasn't too long ago that a photographer felt lucky to get good color enlargements in several days. Recent advancements in technology, however, have reduced the process to a matter of minutes not days. One-hour color processing is a reality.

The process is available in now in Charlevoix through Charlevoix Camera, located in the Oleson Mall, which installed the rapid processing equipment this winter and now offers film processing and printing in one hour for a variety of formats.

Bruce Lanphar, owner of Charlevoix Camera, purchased a Yokoyama Prince color printing machine late in 1986 and has since been doing his own color printing in house.

Lanphar, a veteran photographer who ran a color lab while in the Navy, said the equipment features computerized negative evaluation and remarkably consistent results. He can process film and prints in a variety of sizes including 35mm, 120mm, 110mm and 126mm. Print sizes range from wallet size to 8 x 12 inch enlargements.

The Yokoyama equipment, Lanphar says, maintains temperatures within one-quarter degree and runs the film through the chemicals without it touching the rollers, virtually eliminating scratches. The chemicals are automatically replenished, he added.

A 35mm 24 exposure roll of 3 x 5 inch prints costs $7.95 at Charlevoix Camera. An 8 x 12 enlargement sells for $4.50.

The camera store, which sells a variety of cameras and accessories including Nikon, continues to send out custom work and to provide custom framing.

Think spring! KCB to plan 1987 petunia plant

Keep Charlevoix Beautiful will hold its regular March meeting at 9 a.m. Saturday, March 21 at the Weathervane Restaurant. Coffee and rolls will be provided.

On the agenda will be a status report on Operation Petunia and a discussion of fundraising plans for 1987. According to KCB President Bruce MacArthur, 1986 marked the organization's most successful fundraising year ever with almost $24,000 generated by the Petunia Auction and a new car raffle. The money was used to buy petunias and purchase the new petunia watering truck.

District Health Department sanitarian Larry Levengood will be a speaker at the meeting and will discuss topics related to groundwater quality.

Also on the agenda will be a report by Paul and Katie Burlew on their trip to London this year which they made top bid for at last year's Petunia Auction.

Letters to the editor:

"Amerika" stirs up passions

Dear Editor:

Why did ABC's airing of America provoke so much controversy and was the criticism justified? Some of those who defended the week-long mini-series pooh-poohed the idea that it would worsen the already dangerous level of distrust between the people of the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. "It was only fiction," they said. "It was merely entertainment, it was never meant to suggest that the Russians are coming! But if it did have an unintended negative effect, so what? This is a free country isn't it?"

So what, indeed! Such a brush-off of responsibility is similar to the rationalization by the networks and the film industry regarding the overload of violence and sex which they dish out everyday in the year. Does this affect our society adversely? No, no, they say, it is only fiction, it is merely entertainment, it has no effect on our social fabric.

Would a network spokesman tell a prospective client that a series of spots on prime time TV would have no effect on the buying choices of the viewers? And would corporations shell out millions of dollars if their ads, being fictional, would produce no sales?

In keeping with the long held notion by many people that the communists want to rule the world, the Russins have taken over the U.S. in America, the inference being that our country was too poorly armed and our countrymen too weak-willed to resist–certainly a far-fetched scenario. There follows 14 hours of the horrors under occupation troops and their collaborators. And yet ABC insists that no offense was intended against the invaders or the United Nations which facilitated the invasion!

In our nation's history no Russian soldiers have ever set foot on our soil whereas a contingent of U.S. troops, many of them from the Upper Peninsula, were ordered into Russia in 1918 to help put down the revolution against the czarist autocracy. The U.S. and its allies were determined to overthrow the new regime if possible.

In a yellowed copy of the Petoskey Evening News dated Sept. 2, 1919 (found in an attic trunk) the front page headline read, "British Fleet Moves on Reds, Will Battle Bolsheviki in N. Russia" - this 10 months after the Armistice.

And even though the U.S.S.R. was our ally in World War II, within weeks after the defeat of Hitler's armies, Four Star General George S. Patton wanted to invade Russia with the help of some of the remnants of the Nazi troops. In a recorded conversation with General Joseph McNarney, Patton declared, "We are going to have to fight them sooner or later...just let me handle it...in ten days I can have enough incidents happen to have us at war with the sons of b— and make it look like their fault." (The Last Days of Patton by Ladislas Farago). Fortunately wiser heads prevailed and Five Star general Dwight Eisenhower relieved Patton of his command of the Third Army.

Although the U.S.S.R. has never attempted to overrun the U.S.A, it has marched roughshod into adjacent territories–in order to create a buffer against future invasions, they say. Currently, its army is bogged down in Afghanistan, its economy is faltering, political dissidents are harshly punished, emigration has been denied, etc., etc.

Indeed, each nation has shameful chapters in its history but if there is to be an end to the rabid feelings about each other, especially in this day of push-button war-making, both sides must stop shouting insults and begin to build a better, safer, saner world.

Intentionally or otherwise, ABC has played to the "go get 'em, let's nuke 'em" mentality. With freedom goes responsibility and stirring up dangerous passions as America was bound to do, is akin to shouting fire in a crowded theatre.

Is President Reagan really man in charge of country?

Dear Editor:

A recent CNN call-in program asked callers what they thought of the president's speech in response to the Tower Committee Report. One caller said "It was an excellent speech, - Reagan at his very best! And that's not good enough!"

That sums it up. Reagan dealt skillfully, as usual, with his prepared text, covering all the points raised in the Tower report. But there are still unanswered questions about Iran arms money sent to the contras, and about government and private aid to the contras still not accounted for. These questions were dismissed with "We'll have to wait and see what comes out of the House and Senate and Special Investigator's inquiries."

Is that the response of a man who is really in charge? All of these secret operations were carried out by people in his own administration - people whom Ronald Reagan appointed. If, as he implies, they were acting without his knowledge or consent, he should have personally demanded answers from all in the NSC, the CIA and Chief of Staff Regan's office four months ago when the story first came out. As he admits, these things happened "on his watch" and the normal reaction of a person in command, who believes he has been betrayed by his own crew, would be to go straight to the people involved and demand a full accounting.

That didn't happen then and it still isn't happening. We must wait while various committees, special investigators and "damage control" advisors go to work on the situation. Meanwhile we have seen two primary participants take "the fifth" and refuse to testify, another become too ill to testify and a fourth attempt suicide to avoid testifying. We have listened to a number of unreliable foreign participants muddy the waters with conflicting statements, and now we must "wait and see" what more comes out.

A man truly in command of his own crew would have used his authority immediately to personally see that all the fact came out, unless, of course, he already knew all the facts and was himself involved. In that case maybe he might just hope that it would all become too complicated and confused and take so long that people would lose interest - maybe.

Executive Director

There's still time to register for the Fourth Annual Governor's Conference on Tourism, March 29-31 at the Westin Hotel-Renaissance Center in the Motor City. Highlights of the conference are addresses by Governor James J. Blanchard and news commentator Paul Harvey and a "Best of Detroit" reception featuring the Detroit Jazz Greats. Governor Blanchard will outline the new travel marketing strategy which has been designed to help the travel industry grow to $20 billion by 1991.

Motivational speaker Michael Hoffman, president of Marketing Catalysts, will present two workshops on sales and business improvement. Other workshop sessions will include: cooperative marketing, packaging and the importance of a marketing strategy, regional promotion, convention bureaus, recreational boating and vehicles, motorcoach tours and vacation packages.

The conference is being co-chaired by Paula L. Blanchard, First Lady of Michigan, and Robert Carlson, president and chief executive officer of Crowley's in Detroit.

For information regarding this outstanding conference contact Sue Wagner, Michigan Travel Bureau (517) 335-1866.

Band Day a huge success

Dear Editor:

The First Annual Band Day was a huge success – over $3,800 was raised for the Charlevoix band program.

Community support for Band Day was fantastic. Thanks to all who bought raffle tickets and joined us for the spaghetti dinner. Special thanks to Medusa Cement Company for their donation of $500 for the first prize for the Grand Raffle which was won by Charlie Bergmann.

Much appreciation, also, to the following merchants who donated other prizes for the raffle: Nanny's, Pizza Hut, First State Bank, Trademark Clothiers, Glen's Market, First Savings, K-Mart, Carter's IGA, American Legion, Charlevoix KFC, Venture Video, Charlevoix Agency, Inc., Charlevoix County State Bank, Barb's Hallmark and The Clothing Company.

Tim Moore, Tom Pluister and the KHQ staff were responsible for the great music at the dance sponsored by Band Boosters as the grand finale to Band Day. Their efforts made this a fun event for all area high school students.

The publicity devoted to Band Day by the Courier was outstanding. Thank you to all of your staff and, especially to Fran Martin for your excellent promotion and coverage of Band Day.

So many parents gave so generously of their time and energy to Band Day. Without their never-ending support, it could not have happened. We are all very proud of every band student in our school system and of the excellent program established by our great Band Director, Mr. Isenbarger! With the funds earned on Band Day, we will be building our uniform fund and we will be sending senior band students on a weekend trip as a reward for their seven years of devotion to the band. It is our intention that this trip will be an annual event for seniors and our way of saying "thanks" for all of their hard work.

The precedent has been set and Band Boosters are looking forward to the Second Annual Band Day in 1988.

Don Voisin, President

One people

Clockwise BY BOB CLOCK

Because Americans are such rotten students of world history, Charlevoixans of Irish ancestry can look forward to a fun-filled St. Patrick's Day next Tuesday.

Their cousins in Ireland — an island wracked with religious, social, economic differences — won't be so lucky. In fact, there probably will be good deal of blood-letting as Catholics and Protestants on the Auld Sod go for the jugular on this holiest of days.

Fortunately Irish-Americans have almost forgotten the old animosities still festering between the Republic of Ireland and Ulster — and more specifically between Protestants and Catholics living in Ulster.

Today when Irish-Americans get together to hoist a few in honor of St. Pat, no one asks if grandpa came from County Antrim or County Down. And no one gives a damn, which is just beautiful. Just being Irish is good enough cause for a celebration if your name is Murphy, O'Brien, Dulaney or McGee.

Of course, some pockets of agitation persist to this day in Canada where Orangeman's Day — complete with anti-Catholic overtones — is still celebrated in many communities. The holiday commemorates the victory of Protestant Prince William of Orange's victory at the Battle of the Boyne 300 years ago.

Like the Green Irish, the Orange Irish love a parade and on July 12 they bedeck themselves in orange and strut through the streets to the stirring music of fife and drum bands.

But even Canada's Orange celebrations appear to be on the wane as second, third and fourth generations reassess Old World antagonisms in light of New World tolerance and fair play. The blood has left the eye, just as surely as the brogue has left the tongue.

The Orange movement apparently was never very strong among the Ulster Irish who immigrated to the United States. The average Yankee-in-the-street today has never heard of an Orangeman and wouldn't know one if he met one. But, thanks to the Irish Tourist Board, he does know that old St. Pat chased the snakes out of Ireland, a feat which deserves round after round of Guinness stout on St. Patrick's Day at your favorite watering hole.

A few of us, of course, have roots on both sides of the Irish fence. My mother's grandparents came from Ulster; my father's from the Republic of Ireland. How my folks ever met, married and had children without killing each other is enough to boggle the mind.

But I think they set a beautiful example for their kinfolk in Ireland.

The Irish are one people on this side of the Atlantic. It's a pity they can't be one people at home.

I'll drink to that. If you will.

Beacons of Blessing

A devotional column prepared by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association

by Duane Nelson
Church of the Nazarene

Death. It is one of the many experiences of life we don't understand. Whether we have lost a son or daughter, a brother or sister, or a close friend at school or work, death still cuts into our deepest emotions. It leaves us feeling empty inside - a void that needs to be filled. It leaves us feeling exposed and naked to a world of painless pain. We feel alone and crushed no matter how strong the supports are. Oh, how we hurt and hurt and hurt.

King David experienced this same pain (2 Sam. 12). David and Bathsheba's first child became desperately ill. David cried and pleaded to God for his child. He fasted and prayed for days. On the seventh day, his child died. David got up, washed, put on some lotions, and went to God's house and worshiped. His servants were quite confused by his activity. David answered, "While the child was still alive, I fasted and wept. I thought, 'Who knows? The Lord may be gracious to me and let the child live.' But now that he is dead, why whould I fast? Can I bring him back again? I will go to him, but he will not return to me."

David was hurt just like some of us. There was a crushing pain, an emptiness, yet he turned to God. Though we go through these feelings and hurt, God promises to mend the broken hearted, carry the weak and comfort the pain (2 Cor. 1:3-4, Rom. 8:28). All we have to do is trust Him to do these things, and He will mend, carry and comfort. Trust in Him and seek Him with all your heart. He has promised to do the rest. God truly knows what we go through - remember He lost His only Son.

Out of the Blue

April brings showers;
May brings flowers -
Bashful violets, stunning roses --
March just brings those endless hours
Of sneezes, wheezes, running noses.

Karen Mae Hoisington and Robert Frost Donaldson were joined in marriage on Valentine's Day.

The marriage took place Feb. 14, 1987 at the Petoskey Church of Christ with Rev. D.E. Voss officiating. The couple honeymooned in Canada.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Irene Hoisington of Cadillac and the late Laurence Hoisington. The groom is the son of Mrs. Lois Donaldson of Charlevoix and the late Howard Donaldson.

The bride owns Hoisington's Residential Training and Care (adult foster) Home in Central Lake. The groom is employed by East Jordan Iron Works and is secretary of the South Arm Township Planning Commission for Charlevoix County.

Their children include Cathy Musser, David Schweer and Laura Warren of Central Lake and Samantha and Roberta Donaldson of Ellsworth.

Obituaries

William M. Saunders

Funeral services for William Mark Saunders, 84, former Ironton resident, were held Saturday, March 7, at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Harold E. Kruse Jr., of the Ironton Congregational Church officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery.

Mr. Saunders died Wednesday, March 4, at the Meadowbrook Medical Care Facility in Bellaire.

Born near Ironton in Eveline Township Dec. 9, 1902, Mr. Saunders had always lived in the area where he had farmed for 50 years. On June 28, 1924, he married the former Elsie Ward at Ironton. She preceded him in death in 1970. In 1971, he was married to the former Mrs. Letha Kiteley at Cheboygan. She died in 1982.

From 1971 until 1983 he spent the winter months at Zephyrhills, Fla. In 1983, he moved to Central Lake to live with his daughter, Mrs. Douglas Sudman.

Mr. Saunders was a member of the Ironton Congregational Church, the Charlevoix County Farm Bureau and the Central Lake Senior Citizen Group.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Albert (Thelma) Sibinic of Ypsilanti and Mrs. Douglas (Evelyn) Sudman of Bellaire; six grandchildren; three great-grandchildren; a brother, Milford Saunders of Battle Creek; a stepson, Charles Kiteley of Charlevoix; three step-daughters, Mrs. Warren (Leola) Brody of Elsie, Mrs. Tom (LaVonn) Siminski of Durand and Mrs. Robert (Idora) Ade of Owosso; 18 step-grandchildren and 20 step-greatgrandchildren.

The family suggests memorials to the Ironton Congregational Church.

Linda C. Bodley

A memorial service for Mrs. Linda C. Bodley, 40, of Hayes Township, were held Tuesday, March 3, at the First Baptist Church. The Rev. Thomas Black officiated.

Mrs. Bodley died Friday, Feb. 27, at her home.

Born in Alabama Oct. 6, 1946, the former Linda C. Powell lived there until her marriage to DeMar K. Bodley in 1971. At that time they moved to Petoskey to live. More recently they had lived in Hayes Township. She graduated from Petoskey High School as an adult. She was a member of the Petoskey Rock and Mineral Club.

Besides her husband, she is survied by a son, Michael Leslie Burt of Monroe, Ala.; a granddaughter, Candice Burt of Monroem Ala.; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tillery H. Powell of Alabama; two brothers, Jerry Powell of Florida and Benny Ray Powell of Alabama and a sister, Mrs. John (Barbara Ann) Powell of Charlevoix.

The family suggests memorials to the Hospice of Petoskey.

The Charles G. Parks Funeral Home of Petoskey was in charge of arrangements.

Gerald F. Chambers

A memorial Mass for a former Charlevoix resident, Gerald (Jay) F. Chambers, 61, of Havasu City, Ariz., was held Saturday, Feb. 28, at St. Patrick's Catholic Church at Traverse City. The Rev. Francis Murphy was the celebrant. Interment was in Grand Graverse Memorial Gardens at Traverse City.

Gerald Francis Chambers was born in Charlevoix June 23, 1925, to Barnaby and Margaret (Cleary) Chambers. On May 3, 1947, he married the former Barbara Bradley. The couple lived in Traverse City from 1960 until 1980 when they moved to Havasu City, Ariz. He was a retired life insurance representative for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

While in Traverse City he had been a member of the B.P.O.E. Lodge No. 323 and the Knights of Columbus Council 1213.

DEPARTMENT OF NATURAL RESOURCES

(Under authority of Act 165, P.A. 1929, and Act 230 P.A. 1925, as amended)

STATEWIDE TROUT AND SALMON REGULATIONS

Under the authority of Section 3 of Act 230, P.A. 1925, and Act 165, P.A. 1929, as amended, being Sections 300.3 and 303.1, respectively, of the Michigan Compiled Laws, the Natural Resources Commission, at its February 6, 1987, meeting, amended its order of October 10, 1986, that no person shall possess, take or attempt to take, any species of trout or salmon from any of the waters of this state except by hook and line during the open seasons prescribed, and within the minimum size limits and maximum possession limits indicated below.

Statewide open seasons on all streams and designated trout lakes shall be from the last Saturday in April through September 30 (longer on waters designated by the Director for extended fishing under Act 165) on all trout and salmon; statewide open seasons on all other inland lakes and the Great Lakes and connecting waters shall be any time for all trout and salmon; except: on Lake Huron and its tributary streams and on Lake Michigan and its tributary streams where the season on lake trout is from May 1 through August 15. Also, the following defined areas are established as refuge areas for lake trout rehabilitation and are closed to sport fishing for lake trout.

Lake Michigan (North)
All waters enclosed in an area commencing at a point 9 miles due west of 7-mile point, then westerly for 13½ miles, then north 5½ miles, then west for 9 miles, then north for 11 miles then west for 18 miles, then south for 38½ miles, then east for 9 miles, then north for 5½ miles, then east for 9 miles, then north for 5½ miles, then east for 18 miles, then north for 5½ miles, then east for 4½ miles, then north for 5½ miles to the point of beginning.

Lake Michigan (South)
All waters enclosed in an area commencing at a point 12½ miles due west of the lake entrance of Duck Lake, Muskegon County (T11N, R18W, Sec. 24), then west to the state boundary, then southerly along the state boundary to a point due west of a point 1½ miles south of Lake Macatawa Harbor entrance, then due east 14 miles, then north to point of origin.

Lake Huron
All waters enclosed in an area commencing from Pt. Anderson (T41N, R5E, Sec. 11) to a point 21 miles south, then easterly to the international boundary, then northerly along the international boundary to a point due east of the point of land south and east of Bass Cove on Drummond Island (T41N, R7E, Sec. 26) then due west to the intersection of Drummond Island (T41N; R75, Sec. 26).

Size limits shall be 8 inches in Lower Peninsula streams, 7 inches on Upper Peninsula streams, and 10 inches on all lakes. The possession limit for trout and salmon shall be 5 fish singly or in combination but no more than 2 lake trout or splake from Lake Michigan and its tributary streams or 3 lake trout or splake from Lake Superior and Lake Huron and their tributary streams, except that an additional 5 brook or brown trout or pink salmon may be taken from streams from the last Saturday in April through September 30 only.

In addition to one day's possession limit of salmon and trout, a person may possess an additional two days' possession limit of processed salmon. For the purposes of this Commission Order, the term processed means:

(a) Canned in a sealed container
(b) Cured by smoking or drying
(c) Frozen in a solid state

Any processed salmon or trout aboard a vessel on the water or at dockside shall be included in the daily possession limit.

This order supercedes the previous order, CFI-104.86, dated October 10, 1986, and shall be effective for two years, beginning April 1, 1987, through March 31, 1989.

New transmitter discussed by council

by DOUG TRUAX

A proposal for a new radio communications system for the city police and fire departments was reviewed by city council Monday at its working session. The new system, designed and developed by Consumers Power Company engineers at a cost of some $10,000, would place a new 20-foot antenna at the top of the water tower and a radio transmitter at the tower's base.

The new system would cost the city $12,840, with Consumers paying additionally for one-half the cost of the antenna.

In exchange for designing the system, Consumers has asked for an agreement with the city to place its Emergency Warning System control point in the new Fire Hall.

The city police and fire departments have been notified they can no longer operate on their current radio frequency. The new system would give the police and fire departments new, separate frequencies.

IN OTHER ACTION, council:

–Reviewed bids for the purchase of a new ambulance. The low bid meeting the specifications was $55,898 from R.K. Holden Distributing Co. for a 1987 Ford E-350 XL 4x4 gasoline-powered ambulance. When radios and other equipment are installed, the ambulance will cost some $66,000.

–Discussed a series of amendments to the City Zoning Ordinance presented by City Planner Gerry Harsch. The amendments are concerned mainly with administrative details or are corrections to previous amendments, Harsch explained.

Among other things the amendments reduced the Bed and Breakfast zone on Park Avenue to run only from Bridge Street to State Street, added parking lots to uses allowed within certain districts, and spelled out what is needed in a development plan submitted to the city.

Only the latter item drew much discussion from council. Councilman Norm Probert suggested development plans include a scale model or drawing to show proposed developments in relation to surrounding features.

Councilman Robert Timms concurred. "I think a lot of people have been surprised by Jon Hisey's project (the new Edgewater Inn)," he said. "Shocked by it," Councilwoman Shirley Roloff added.

City Manager Michael Wiesner suggested that the amendment require a developer to provide any schematics or models as required by council. Most councilmen agreed with the change.

COUNCIL ALSO discussed a proposed Charlevoix boat show submitted by Judy Petkewicz of Grand Bay Marine and Brokerage Co. The boat show would involve all area boat dealers and would be held in East Park and the city docks, she explained. Tentative dates are a weekend in late May or early June. Council reacted favorably to the idea.

Council also received a partial report on a traffic study done on the junction of U.S.-31 and M-66. The study, done by the Michigan Department of Transportation to evaluate the need for a light at the corner, concluded that no light was necessary.

The study found that although there was enough traffic to warrant a light, "because of the predominant pattern of right turns from M-66, no significant backup or delays were recorded." It also concluded that a light would do little to correct accidents at the corner and would interfere with northbound U.S.-31 traffic turning on State Street.

Council deferred discussion on the report because part of it was missing from their materials.

St. Patrick's day dinner

Tis no blarney that there will be the annual St. Patrick's Day dinner served at St. Mary's Parish Center on Sunday, March 15.

"Sure, and we'll be serving corned beef and cabbage, and if that's not to your liking there'll be baked ham with cherry sauce," Julie Supernaw president of St. Mary's Parish Club and general chairperson for the dinner, has announced. In addition there will be potatoes, choice of vegetables, salads, homemade breads, desserts and beverage.

Tickets for the dinner to be served from 11:30 a.m. until 2 p.m. will be $4.50 for adults, $4 for senior citizens, $2 for children five-12 years and children under five free. A family ticket will be available for $20.

Supernaw has delegated the following chairpersons to assist: setup, Connie Pischner and Joan Hansen; salads, Debbie Jess; dining room hostess, Arlene Blissett; tickets, Laura Butcher; desserts, Edna Miller; dishwashers, Connie Carr; kitchen, Paul Stephan; coffee, Josephine Bindo and takeouts, Dawn Fletcher and Sue Miller.

The St. Patrick's Day dinners at St. Mary's parish date back more than half a century Supernaw said.

Heath wins competition

Deborah Heath, winner of the 1985 Writers North prose contest and White Birch Award took the prize again in 1987 at the seventh annual awards ceremony, held at the Park Garden Cafe in Petoskey, Monday, March 2.

John Charles Robbins of the Petoskey News-Review and judge for the occasion awarded Heath the first prize for her emotionally gripping short story, "Well."

Placing second was Anna Alexander, charter member of Writers North. Alexander's winning entry was called "Wilt Thou Take This Man."

Rayders drop Rogers City out of tourney

The Charlevoix Rayders overcame their first hurdle in Class C district tournament at Boyne City Monday by defeating Rogers City 67-56 in the first round of play.

On Wednesday, the Rayders will meet the Onaway Cardinals at the same site at 7 p.m. East Jordan which drew a first-round bye will meet the winner of the Harbor Springs-Boyne City game at 7 p.m. Thursday with the finals scheduled for 7 p.m. Saturday.

In their meeting with Rogers City, the Rayders got off to a slow start but managed a 20-17 lead at the quarter. As the second period got underway, the Rayders pushed to a 34-27 halftime advantage and, in the third period, outscored the Hurons 17-8 to go ahead 51-35.

As the game went into the final period, the Rayders continued to increase their lead until midway in the period when Coach Dave Smith began to empty his bench. The Hurons trimmed the Rayder lead to nine points but the Rayders, making repeated trips to the free-throw line as the Hurons battled for possession, scored 16 points, 10 of them free throws, for the 67-56 win.

"It was a good game. Scott DeYoung had a good game on the board with 12 rebounds, Jim Ciuk had 10 assists. The overall rebounding was good. Joe Miller did a good all-around job. The free throws were a plus. I was especially pleased with the subs who came off the bench," Smith said.

The Rayders made 25 of their 57 shots for a 43 percent average and had 31 rebounds. At the free-throw line they had 17 of 25. The Hurons had 23 field goals, hit on 41 percent of their shots and made 10 of 18 of their free throws. The Rayders had 16 personal fouls; Rogers City 19.

Scott DeYoung had 16 points, Ciuk 15, Miller 13, Phillips with nine points had five of six free throws. Eight Rayders scored.

For the Hurons, Scott Orr had 15 points, Chris Conley 11 before fouling out with about three minutes to go in the game, Joel Idalski 11, John Sellke 10.

Tournament tickets

Tickets for the class C district tournament at Boyne City will go on sale in the gym lobby at the high school Friday morning if Charlevoix is in the finals scheduled for 7 p.m. Saturday, Dale Burge, athletic director, has announced.

Season ticket holders may purchase tickets between 7 and 9 a.m.; students from 10 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. and the general public from 1 until 4 p.m.

All tickets are $2 each.

Rayders close season with upset of Gaylord

by DAVID SALMONSON

Charlevoix wrapped up its regular basketball season in fine style by defeating Gaylord 65-57. While holding their opponents to only four field goals in the first quarter, every first-string Rayder had a chance to score more than a basket each.

"The team had a good attitude and really let it out," coach Dave Smith said. "All the things that the team learned over the year fell into place."

The Rayders' coach was especially happy with his team's rebounding. Charlevoix had a total of 27 rebounds with Scott DeYoung pulling down 11 and Joe Miller 9.

Smith was not hesitant to say he was also pleased with everyone that played. "I feel we are ready for tournaments," he stated.

Charlevoix's determination Friday night showed early. In the first quarter, the Rayders showed they were not afraid to shoot as Owen Phillips and Jim Ciuk each sank 20-foot baskets. Miller, DeYoung, and Chad DeVries also did their part to add to the Rayder tally by scoring two field goals apiece. At the close of the quarter, the Rayders led by five points, 19-14.

During the second quarter, Dan Drury who had been sidelined for 11 games with an injury, shined on offense and defense. He put in a long sideline shot, made each of his free throws and helped keep the offense rolling with his consistent passing. With the help of some nice layups by Miller, Charlevoix added another 18 points to the score board and led at the half 37-31.

In the third quarter, Ciuk was the major offensive player with 8 points. Phillips also had a couple commendable assists and ended the night with seven, second only to DeYoung who had 8 assists in all. By the end of the quarter, the Rayders were in front of the Blue Devils, 55-45.

The final quarter, DeYoung and Ciuk built up Charlevoix's score enough to give almost the entire second string a chance to play. In the last few minutes of the game, Gaylord began to close the point gap but did not manage to pull ahead.

The top scorers for the Rayders were DeYoung and Ciuk, who both had 19, followed by Miller with 10, and DeVries with 8. Other scorers for Charlevoix were Drury 4, Phillips 3, and Roger Smith 2.

The Rayders shot in 29 baskets from the floor out of 53 attempts.

The Blue Devils' leading shooters were Bill Guthrie and Rick Gray each with 12 points. Chris Markovich had 10 points and Mike Johnston 8.

Following Friday's game against the Blue Devils, Coach Smith was asked about his strategy for next season. He smiled and simply replied, "Our first objective is to do well in the tournaments, then think about next year. We'll just play 'em as they come."

Lifesaving offered

The East Jordan Community Pool will be offering a Red Cross Certified Advanced Lifesaving course on March 13, 14, 20 and 21. In order to enroll in the course you must meet the following requirements: Be at least 15 years old, able to swim 500 consecutive yards, dive to a depth of eight feet, be proficient in the front crawl, side stroke, breast stroke and elementary back stroke.

You can register at the East Jordan Community Education office, 536-2250. The cost is $30.

State meet gives wrestlers experience

Three Charlevoix Rayder wrestlers were among those from 86 teams who participated in the state Class C meet at Middleville Saturday.

Toby Young (98-pound class) junior, finished with a 2-2 record at the meet and 38-5 for the season; Derek Dutcher (198) junior, 0-2 at the state meet and 36-10 for the season, and Bill Marquardt, (hvy.wt.) senior, 0-2 and 35-14 for the season. His career total over a four-year period was 69-57. Young and Dutcher will return next season.

In his matches at the state meet which was won by New Lothrop, which repeated as Class C champs, Young outpointed Ray Gendron (42-2) of Hartford; lost to Joe Ifudeck (48-5-2) by an 11-3 decision; defeated Chris Trosvig (34-11) of Dundee 14-11 before losing to Pat Kast (31-3-1) of Morenci by a technical pin.

Coach Greg Bryan said Young made it to the top eight and was close to placing but just didn't have quite enough this year to make it.

Bryan said Marquardt was elected co-captain and has been a mainstay of the team all season at the heavyweight spot. "We will be hard pressed to replace him," Bryan added.

Wrestling at the state level was a good experience for Dutcher Bryan said. "Although he did not wrestle as well as he is capable of, he now knows what it takes to be competitive at this level. I think we were all a little intimidated at state," Bryan commented.

"I have not been to a state meet in three years and I was unprepared for the level of competition," Bryan added. "One can readily see the difference in technical abilities between the downstate wrestlers and those from this area. They show much more experience, especially on the takedowns, as the result of free style experience and early elementary and middle school training.

"Although we did not do as well as I had hoped, we gained a valuable lesson and, as a result, will be better prepared next year, knowing what it will be like at a state tournament," he concluded.

The Charlevoix Middle School wrestling season is now underway with Gregg Whitley as assistant coach.

The young wrestlers are preparing for the Middle School tournament to be held at the high school gymnasium from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Saturday, March 21.

Volleyballers eliminated

The Charlevoix Rayder volleyball team lost its first match 2-0 in the Class C district tournament and was eliminated from further play.

The Rayders played a strong Elk Rapids team early in the one-day tournament and lost 15-7, 15-10.

Elk Rapids went on to lose to Kalkaska. In the lower bracket, Mancelona defeated Traverse City St. Francis before falling to Rogers City who had drawn a first round bye.

In the finals, Kalkaska won the first game 17-15 before losing 15-7, 15-9 to Rogers City.

Rogers City which had won the Michigan-Huron Shores league title will advance to the Class C regional meet.

Coach Brenda Bryan named Jennifer Sell and Michelle Siebert as the top servers, Sell as the setter, Amy Antaya and Sell as the best defensive players and Antaya and Carla Henry as the top defensive players.

Seniors on the team who were playing their last games were Antaya, Sell, Henry, Jill Taylor and Julie Martin.

Freshmen get consolation victory

The Charlevoix Rayder freshmen basketball team won the consolation division of the Petoskey freshman tournament held last week.

The team toppled Harbor Springs 61-45 in the finals of the consolation division after losing in the opener to Boyne City 56-53.

In the finals, the young Rayders took over 14-12 at the quarter, increased the lead to 29-23 at halftime and 46-33 going into the final period.

Webb Friedley had 35 points and Scott Miller 10 for Charlevoix. Bob Donnelly had 16 for Harbor Springs.

In the opening game of the tournament which sent the Rayders to the consolation bracket, Charlevoix had lead throughout the game until the final period when they were outscored 16-11 resulting in the 56-53 loss to Boyne City.

The scores had been 16-12, 35-23 and 42-40 at the quarters.

Jason Corwin had scored 17 points, Chad DeYoung 12 and Friedly 12 for the Rayders. Jim Abney had 24 and Scott Hammontree 14 for Boyne City.

Boyne City won the tournament after defeating Petoskey in the finals of the four-team tourney.

The freshmen completed the season with a 11-7 record.

B league action continues

Rieb's Topside edged First State Bank 64-62, Marsh Construction defeated Paul Lindberg, Inc., 63-56 and the Mesquite trounced Dairy Queen 89-42 in B League action Wednesday night.

In the Topside-First State Bank game, Topside jumped to a 23-18 first-period lead and though the Bankers whittled it to 52-49 First State was unable to overcome the deficit as they went down by two points.

Dave Cole had 14 points for the victors. Ike Boss had 24 points and Bob Sandahl 14 for the Bankers.

In the Marsh Construction-Lindberg game, Marsh coasted to an easy win as they led Lindberg 20-11, 35-24 and 59-36 by quarters.

Jeff Drury had 23 points and Ray LaVoie 16 for Marsh. Gale Sheldon canned 25 and Mike Crain 19 for Lindberg.

Five players were in double figures for the Mesquite as the Sailors paced the game 18-11, 41-18 and 61-30 by quarters.

Roll Chavez had 24 points, Jerry Martin 22, Tom Conlan 16, Mark Phillips 13 and Mark Husak 10 for the ship. Gene Morrison scored 11 and Tom Ifferriman 10 for Dairy Queen.

Grinders chomp on Depot

An upset on Monday and scores totaling more than 100 points each marked the action in the A League of the Charlevoix Independent Basketball League last week.

On Monday, Dr. Dave's Green Grinders upset the Depot Restaurant of Boyne City, defeating the first-place team 88-75. In other action, Kit Carson Lumber beat Buday NCE 74-65 and Pepsi-Cola of Petoskey trounced Nanny's 104-66.

In the upset game, the Green Grinders ran roughshod over the Depot 19-13, 42-29 and 70-50 by quarters before winning by a 13-point margin.

Dick Swenor poured in 30 points, Dave Storm 16, Mike Loper 12 and Jim Parrish 10 for the Grinders. Tim Hartwick scored 26 points and Dean Hicks and Tom Beyer 12 each for the Depot.

In their game, Carson Lumber took a 21-15 first-period lead and managed to stay ahead 41-30 and 53-49 by quarters before winning by nine pints.

Scoring for the victors were Bo Boss with 20 points, Scott Kelly with 19 and Vince Left with 15. Randy Holecheck ahd 26 and Doug Buday 18 for Budays.

Pepsi was in control all the way as they headed Nanny's 22-16, 52-33 and 82-47 at the quarters.

Mark Long with 27 points, Kim Thomson with 25, Brian Shorter with 18, Woody Pearson with 17 and Mike Schmidt with 10 lead the scoring attack. Tom Burley had 26 and Mike Bostick 19 for Nanny's.

Scoring buckets was the name of the game for three teams in the league Thursday as the Green Grinders dumped Nanny's 119-73; Pepsi squelched Carson Lumber 105-94 and the Depot trounced Buday NCE 104-77.

Five players hit in double figures for the Grinders as the team led 37-8, 61-26 and 90-41.

Swenor had 33, Storm 24, Loper and Kraag Lieberman 19 each and Bernie Ward 19 for the victors. Tom Steffen had 25 points, Burley 23 and Mike Spence 14.

In the Pepsi-Carson game, Cliff Haas scored 42 points, Mark Long 27, and Pearson and Brian Shorter 12 each.

JVs fall to Gaylord five

The Charlevoix Rayder JVs closed out their season Friday with a 15-4 overall record, 12-2 in league play, after dropping its final game to Gaylord 39-29.

In a defensive battle that saw the Rayders held to 12 field goals, the Rayders got off to an 8-4 first-period lead and held on a 14-13 at halftime before the Blue Devils took the initiative to go ahead 22-19 going into the final period. The visitors stretched their winning margin to 39-29 as they outscored the Rayders 20-7 in the fourth quarter.

Gaylord outscored Charlevoix 15-12 from the floor and had nine of 18 from the line while the Rayders had nine of 19 charity shots. The Rayders had 15 personal fouls to Gaylord's 17.

Shawn Putman had 16 points for the game while D. Caverly had 10 for Gaylord.

Pizza, dances, snow will be remembered fondly when Peruvian student returns from U.S. stay

by FRAN MARTIN

On Wednesday Claudia Marroquin began the long trip to her home in Lima, Peru, after spending two months as an exchange student at the Charlevoix High School.

She will arrive just in time for the beginning of the school year in her native Peru after taking part of her annual school vacation in the land below the equator to come to the United States under the sponsorship of the Lions International Youth Exchange Program. While here, she was sponsored by Charlevoix's Evening Lions Club headed by Gary Zeitier.

Though she understands English without any difficulty, Claudia found it difficult to carry on a conversation in her "adopted" language; thus, she depended on her American "sisters" Kathy, Kris and Kallie Washburn to translate for her. She had spent her time in Charlevoix with the family of Sanford (Sam) and Jill Washburn.

Claudia said she enjoyed her stay in Charlevoix and found the people very friendly. She especially enjoyed the students at Charlevoix High School where she found everyone kind and helpful. Ted Miller, Spanish teacher, invited her to assist the first-year Spanish students in mastering the language. "It was fun helping the students," she said.

In Lima, Claudia attends a private school so she found life at the Charlevoix High School much different.

What did she like here? "Everything! The food especially pizza and hamburgers and candy bars and gum. "You have so many kinds!" she said. She also liked the dances and, of course the boys.

When she came here, Claudia had never seen snow except on the mountain peaks, and she will miss it, she said because it gets so hot in Lima.

Kathy said Claudia loved American clothes and bought many to take home. Among the things she took home was a "Charlevoix" sweatshirt presented to her by Zeitier in behalf of the club.

Claudia said programs and movies on television in Peru include such old-timers as "Flipper", and "Mr. Ed" (the show about the talking horse).

Life in Lima is much more family oriented than here, Claudia said. And young people go places and do things with their families rather than with friends as students do here. Students there, she said, are much more protected than they are in Charlevoix.

Lima, she said, gets very hot during their summer, which is the opposite of the season here, and her family leaves the city to go to their summer home on the Pacific Ocean. Lima is less than 15 degrees below the equator. It is a city of approximately five million people.

Claudia, 17, plans to become a diplomat. Following graduation from high school, she hopes to write entrance exams at three different universities and attend the one which accepts her.

Gary Zeltler looks on as Claudia Marroquin, center, unwraps the "Charlevoix" sweatshirt the Evening Lions Club presented to her. Kris Washburn looks on.

Barry Pfister displays the Steering Wheel Award he received from AAA Michigan.

Trucker gets Steering Wheel Award

Barry Pfister of Charlevoix, an 18-year veteran truck driver who works currently for Central Transport of Sterling Heights, recently was presented with the Steering Wheel Award presented by AAA Michigan during the Michigan Trucking Association's 39th annual Driver of the Year banquet.

Pfister was one of the 12 Drivers of the Month nominated for the MTA's top driving award, which was won by Kenneth Miedema of Wyoming.

AAA Michigan presented Steering Wheel Awards to the nominees in recognition of their combined 294-year careers and more than 25 million miles of safe driving.

Len Barnes, editor of AAA Michigan Living magazine, addressed the Driver of the Year banquet and told the audience the 12 Steering Wheel Awards presented in one evening "will probably never happen again."

Michigan Living has been running a series of articles on problems associated with car and truck safety. One article featured Pfister as an example of safe, responsible truck drivers.

"The 12 drivers of the year are an elite group," Barnes said. "They give glamour, courtesy and safety to an industry when glamour, courtesy and safety are needed. They represent the triumph of professionalism in an industry under fire for road behavior by a few careless and irresponsible truck drivers.

"The represent an enduring lesson in safe driving when safe driving is needed to enable cars and trucks to mix safely on our roadways," he concluded.

Pfister has logged over one million miles in nearly 18 years of commercial driving. In his three years with Central Transport he has driven without a ticket or an accident.

Grant deadline approaches

LANSING - The application deadline for project grants available through the Department of Natural Resources' (DNR) Coastal Management Program is March 13.

The grants are available on a 50-50 match basis to eligible communities and agencies for planning or low-cost, shoreline enhancement construction projects including trails, boardwalks, stairways and historical restoration on the Great Lakes coastline.

For more information about the program, or to receive an application form for fiscal year 1987-88, contact the Coast Management Program, P.O. Box 30028, Lansing, MI 48909, 517-373-1950.

Seniors plan St. Patrick's Day dinner

St. Patrick's Day will observed with a traditional dinner at the Senior Citizens Center in Charlevoix, Sherry Black, director of the program, has announced.

There will be corned beef and cabbage and all the trimmings for the dinner to be served at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 17. Marge Warner, the Country Cousin, will entertain.

The group is also preparing for participation in "Spring Thaw," a program to be presented at Boyne Mountain at noon April 10. The local group is cooperating with those from Boyne City and East Jordan in presenting the show. Guests will be the Antrim County Senior Citizens. The dinner will be $7.50 with a choice of roast beef, chicken or fish. Everyone is urged to participate.

The local group is also planning a spaghetti dinner for the public as a fund-raising project on April 11. Tickets will be $3.25 if purchased in advance and $3.50 at the door. There will also be crafts for sale.

Black also advises that the new swimming pool at East Jordan is open to senior citizens 60 years and older from 9:30-11 a.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays at a cost of $1. A family swim time has been set for 6:30-8 p.m. on Monday and Wednesday and an adult swim at the same time on Tuesday.

Democrats elect county officers

The Charlevoix County Democrats met Feb. 21 in Boyne City and heard County Chairman Lance Johnson report on the Michigan Democratic State Convention held the prior weekend in Detroit.

U.S. Senator Donald Riegle kicked off his campaign for re-election in 1988, Johnson said, with a keynote address to the convention that called for an end to the "illegal war" in Central America, a tough trade bill implementing fair trade principles, plant closing legislation and aid to cities.

Johnson and Ruth Crawford, former county chairperson, were elected to seats on the Democratic State Central Committee. Newly elected officers for the 11th congressional district were Jack LaSalle of Marquette, chairman, Marie Twite of Alpena County, vice chairman, and Gary Quick of Delta County, treasurer.

Calling for an increase in local Democratic affiliations commensurate with the county's two to one support for Gov. James Blanchard in last November's election, Johnson set in motion a membership drive to feature mail and phone contacts.

The next regular meeting of the Charlevoix County Democrats will be held Saturday, March 21 at 9:30 a.m. at 305 Burns Street, Charlevoix.

Motorcycle courses offered

Central Michigan University is offering motorcycle rider education courses in 16 northwestern Lower Michigan counties including Charlevoix this spring and summer.

The program is funded by a Michigan Department of Education grant, said Keith Allen, director of traffic safety education at CMU.

State law requires successful completion of the 20-hour courses by all 16- and 17-year-old motorcycle operators before they make application for an original motorcycle endorsement on their operator's license.

Courses will run two to three days each and are scheduled at various sites from May through August.

For the complete summer schedule, or for more information, contact Paula Russell, continuing Education and Community Services, Rowe 126, Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasent, Mich. 48859. (517)774-7141.

Prosecutor says dump site curbs would be legal

The disposal of out-of-county waste at the privately-owned Charlevoix County Landfill, Inc., may be banned by action of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners, Kraag Lieberman, county prosecutor, advised the board at its regular meeting Wednesday.

After hearing the report, Larry Matthew, board chairman, named a special committee to study the problem that has plagued the board for years and to recommend action the board should take.

One alternative to court action could be a flow control ordinance limiting any waste coming into the county from outside the county plan area. The dumping of contaminated soil and wood chips impregnated with iron sulphide, which give off an obnoxious odor, triggered the increased pressure on the board to do something.

In the fall of 1985, the county planning commission recommended that something be done to limit the disposal, especially of these materials. Lieberman was asked to research the problem and come up with a recommendation when Dawson Way, owner of the landfill threatened court action.

Lieberman found that courts have upheld similar action in other areas of the state. According to DNR (Department of Natural Resources) rules, Lieberman said that a solid waste disposal site located in one county but which serves another county shall be identified in both counties solid waste plans. This rule was referred to by the courts in making their decision regarding the disposal of solid waste.

While Charlevoix county's plan is somewhat unclear on this point, there is acknowledgment and apparent acceptance of solid waste from Emmet County and several northern townships of Antrim County. If not mentioned in the solid

DISTRICT CHAMPS AGAIN

The Charlevoix Rayders wrapped up their third straight district title Saturday with a decisive victory over Harbor Springs. It was their fifth district title in the last six years.

Rayders win first round of regional competition

The Charlevoix Rayders, considered the under-dog going in to the game against favored Lincoln Alcona upset the Tigers 70-66 in the opening game of the Class C Regional tournament at Gaylord Tuesday night.

The Rayders will now meet the winner of the Pine River-Benzie Central game at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

In the game with Alcona, the Tigers jumped to a 16-6 lead before the Rayders began chipping away to trim the margin to 18-13 at the quarter.

With 2:30 gone in the second period, the Rayders went ahead briefly, 21-20 on a pair of free throws by Jim Cluk and my halftime the lead was cut to 33-31.

As the second half got underway, the Rayders found their way around the Tiger defense and went ahead 41-39. Alcona tied the score for the last time 41-41 at 3:31 and the Rayders began their long hard trek to victory, fighting for rebounds and patiently waiting for the good shots for a slim 51-48 lead going into the final period.

Big Rock returns reactor to service

Operators at Consumers Power Company's Big Rock Point Nuclear Plant are gradually increasing power now following completion of the plant's refueling and maintenance outage.

Operations personnel began withdrawing control rods to start the reactor on Monday, March 9. The plant's generator was connected to the Consumers Power Company electric grid at 1:40 p.m. Tuesday, March 10. At present, the plant is at about three-quarters of its 69 megawatt generating capacity.

Big Rock Point was taken out of service for scheduled maintenance and refueling on January 2 after completing a record-setting operating run during 1986.

Consumers Power Company is Michigan's largest utility, servicing almost six million of the state's nine million residents in 67 of the 68 Lower Peninsula counties.

Control operators Donald Horstman and Andrew Loe operate reactor controls at Big Rock Point to bring the plant up to power following completion of the recent refueling and maintenance outage.

Joan Balch picked as new county treasurer

Joan L. Balch, 39, who as been employed in the Charlevoix County Treasurer's office for the past 19 years, has been appointed county treasurer to fill the unexpired term of Anah H. Potter who retired Feb. 28 after 21½ years in the position.

At the time of her appointment to the office, Balch was serving as chief deputy treasurer.

The appointment was made from among nine applicants for the office by Jane Brannon, county clerk, Kraag Lieberman, county prosecutor, and Probate Judge John T. Murphy as dictated by statute.

In the position, the treasurer is required to enter data on the computer for the accounting procedures and tax system; assist in balancing and banking procedures; prepare state and federal reports; assist title companies, banks and real estate companies in tax searches, certifications, and general tax and property information; share responsibilities in working on deadline projects set by statute; train and supervise office personnel and oversee general office work.

Joan Balch

Balch comes to the position with 19 years experience under Potter, and she participated in the recent transition of the office to the county's new computer system. Prior to 1968, she was employed in a sales position at the Liberman Clothing Co. and in a receptionist-secretary at Freedman Artcraft and Engineering Co.

The former Joan Louiselle, a native of Charlevoix, is a 1965 graduate of Charlevoix High School where she majored in a business curriculum. In 1986 she returned to enroll in a course in investments, completed a course in accounting and in 1985 a course in business communications at North Central Michigan College. She received certification in 1972 in County Government Accounting Systems at Michigin State University and attended numerous seminars relating to the updating of state laws and office procedures.

Balch is a member and financial chairman of the Charlevoix County Republican party and has served as a delegate to the county convention. She has served as a volunteer for the United Fund, Cancer Fund and March of Dimes. She is also a member and recording secretary of the Assembly of God Church and has been Youth Activities coordinator.

She is married to Jerry Balch. They have two sons, Karl 16, and Kevin, nine.

Hayes Township plan addresses long-term growth

Hayes Township unveiled a comprehensive plan last week designed to guide the future growth and land use planning of an area under increased pressure.

The comprehensive plan, which has been four years in the making, lays a philosophical base for controlling growth in the township.

"In the past two decades, the population of the township has more than doubled," the report states. "During the same period the township has evolved from a basically agricultural community with a constant summer second-home population to a thriving year-round community whose population of skilled workers and professionals commute to the neighboring towns of Petoskey, Boyne City and Charlevoix."

The final version of the report was written by writer Sara Gay Dammann based on four years of preliminary drafts prepared by various members of the Hayes Township Planning Commission.

Hayes Township is changing, the report states, through the breakup of family-owned farms and the subdivision of large lakefront parcels for year-round homes and new seasonal residences.

Most industrial and commercial growth within the township has centered on Bay Shore, the report notes.

The 42-page comprehensive plan addresses a wide range of issues including the township's history, population, economy, community facilities, environmental resources, transportation and land use plan.

"Every township should have a long-range plan," Dammann said. "It's an absolutely essential underpinning to any zoning ordinance." She noted that the current plan up dates one first done for the township

Council ok's electric cost increase

Some of the fuel cost savings from the city's purchase of excess power from Lansing will be channeled away from consumers and into an electric system improvement fund as a result of action taken by City Council Monday.

The city has been saving some $113,500 in fuel costs annually, City Manager Michael Wiesner told council, through the purchase of excess power from Lansing. Fuel cost savings had been passed on to city electrical consumers.

Council's resolution Monday, however, will allow the city to capture some $75,000 of those savings for updating and improving the electric system.

The change would mean, Wiesner said, that in February, for example, the average electrical consumer would pay 49 cents additional rather than receiving a 41 cent credit, resulting in a 90 cent difference for the month.

The change was accomplished by lowering the base for a fuel adjustment formula from 4.1 cents to 3.8071 cents.

Council also passed a series of amendments to the zoning ordinance as recommended by the planning commission. Most of the amendments dealt with minor typographic and language changes. Among the amendments were several that allowed parking lots in various zoned districts, but council decided not to include the scenic reserve zone in the changes.

Also added to the zoning ordinance was a section giving council and the planning commission authority to require schematic scale models of various developments. The change was suggested because council expressed concern that some condominium developments were out of proportion to surrounding buildings and landscape.

Pat Jackson told council it should consider landscaping requirements

Sheriff presents 1986 special service awards

Two members of the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department have been awarded special recognition by Sheriff George T. Lasater.

They are Carron Bennett, a member of the Department for 5½ years, communication-security officer, who has been named Officer of the Year for 1986, and Richard Gallant, auxiliary officer for six years, who has been named Sheriff's Auxiliary Member of 1986.

In announcing the awards, Sheriff Lasater said "I am pleased to recognize the efforts of Bennett as a vital member of the department. She has proven her outstanding service to the Sheriff's office not only through her communication-security officer assignment but by her extra duties as CPR and first aid instructor for the department. Since she has become a certified instructor, she has certified all members of the department plus 569 residents of the county for CPR and 151 for first aid.

"I am pleased to recognize her as Officer of the Year for 1986."

In recognizing Gallant as Auxiliary Member for 1986, Lasater said "Gallant is a senior auxiliary member who has always been available, reliable and loyal to the department. When I have needed auxiliary assistance in an emergency, Gallant was always there.

"Recognition should also be given to his wife Barbara, who has supported his volunteer efforts."

Each was presented a certificate of recognition.

Cast of 465 students ready to perform

Four hundred and sixty-five students at the Charlevoix Elementary school, under the direction of Marina LaBlance, will present their annual spring musical at the high school gymnasium Thursday.

The performances are scheduled for 9:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. The morning performance is a dress rehearsal open to the public for the benefit of those who are unable to attend the evening performance.

This year's show is entitled "Fifteen Years of Song" and is a composite of songs and dances from shows presented by the school over the past 15 years. The shows have been written and produced by LaBlance, music director at the K-5 school.

"Credit should be given the entire staff for the success of our shows for without their cooperation, it would be impossible to present them," LaBlance said.

The musical is presented without charge to the public with all students except the kindergartners appearing in the production.

Good health habits urged by health official

Brian L. Youngs, M.D., medical director for District Health Departments Number 3 and 4, is stressing the importance of good health habits, especially during this time of year. During the winter-spring months, viral illnesses such as measles and chickenpox, and bacterial illnesses such as meningitis and streptococcal sore throat (scarlet fever) increase in frequency.

Many of the diseases are spread by direct and intimate contact with nose and throat secretions and discharges from infected individuals or healthy carriers of disease.

Good health habits are an important factor in staying healthy, Dr. Youngs said. They help by preventing the spread of disease and are especially important during the school year. Bringing together large numbers of children into the classroom increases the amount of illness within the community. The amount of illness can be reduced by good health habits, he noted.

"Staying healthy is more than just keeping yourself clean," he said. "Staying healthy requires you to use good health habits, and avoid unhealthy habits which lead to disease. Most good health habits are those common sense things taught to us as children by our parents."

Good health habits include: washing your hands before you eat; washing your hands after you use the bathroom; not sharing common personal items such as eating utensils, classes, combs, towels, and food; brushing your teeth after you eat; changing your clothes and underwear when dirty; taking a bath and washing your hair at least once a week; keeping your fingernails clean and trimmed; not biting your fingernails.

County accepts transit funds

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners agreed to accept $62,700 in federal funds to support its transit system.

The action was taken at the regular meeting of the board of commissioners Wednesday after the Transit Director Art Saworski had advised the board that the funds were available.

Of the amount, $50,429 is earmarked for operation, $7,241 to underwrite the cost of a computer system and $5,000 for marketing.

The board also gave its approval to the purchase of printers for use by the Equalization Department and office of the County Clerk. The cost of the printers and the accompanying maintenance agreement is $14,785.

In other action, the board:

- Voted to increase the number of jail security officers from seven to eight. The number had been increased to seven in may 1986.
- Requested the retirement system to credit Commissioner Don Smith with four years prior service.
- Reappointed four members to the Economic Development Corporation for terms of six years. They are I. Lee Moerland and Don Voisin of Charlevoix; Larry Matthew, commission chairman of Walloon Lake; and Ray Towne of Boyne City.
- Heard Mary Feindt, county surveyor, ask to have surveyor records stored in an area more accessible than the jury room where the records are presently filed. The records are not accessible if a jury is serving in one of the courts.
- Heard Bob Smith of Traverse City, executive director of the Northwest Michigan Human Services Agency, review services and programs available through the agency in the 10-county area of northwestern Michigan.

The next meeting of the board is scheduled for 7 p.m. March 25.

Petunia shirt debuts

A new petunia sweatshirt, modeled by Sue Mebee above, will be shown at the next meeting of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, Inc. on Saturday, March 21 at 9 a.m. in the Weathervane Restaurant.

The sweatshirt, available in several colors, shows three petunias in special raised ink. They are the design of Judy Mebee and will be available through The Clothing Company in Charlevoix. For each sweatshirt sold, $1 will be donated to KCB for petunia plantings.

The Clothing Company will present a fashion show at the meeting.

Also on the agenda for the KCB will be Kate and Paul Burlew with a presentation on their trip to London, sanitarian Larry Lavengood will speak.

Warning to returning snowbirds

'Round Town — EDITH GILBERT

WARNING TO ALL snowbirds, fudgies and Charlevoix travelers. You are in for one big shock when you return north this year. Condominiums are springing up like morels on both sides of the bridge. One is almost completed. People are shaking their heads and saying, "I didn't know it was going to be so BIG!" and "How did this happen?"

Privately, northsiders are telling me it's easier to shop in Petoskey than to wait for the bridge in the summer. The next thing we'll be offered–and I've seen such frightening plans–are overhead ramps to alleviate traffic. Earl Young must be spinning in his grave!

REMEMBER THE STORY about the shopkeeper, who forgot to lock up at night? One of our Bridge Street merchants told me be had quite the opposite experience. It seems he decided to run an errand and when he returned and unlocked the store, he found two people in his store!

"What are you doing here?" he asked.

"Oh, we've been here quite a while. We're just browsing."

Would you believe, his customers never even knew they'd been locked in the store!

THE PETUNIA CONNECTION: What is the connection between a flat of petunias and a flat in London? Just ask Paul and Katie Burlew, who own Accents on Bridge Street.

Last summer, at the Petunia Auction, which raised money for the new watering truck, the Burlews were the high bidders on a two-week trip to London. Fortunately, travel tycoon Scott Supernaw, president of Olsen Tours, threw in a stay in an elegant London flat, which, it turns out is located right next to the penthouse belonging to the Duchess of Argyll.

The Duchess's black poodle dog took a liking to the Burlew's and with one thing and another, they ended up having cocktails with the aristocratic lady, who admitted she also has a fondness for American men. (Wasn't her first husband the handsome amature golfer, Charles Sweeny?)

The Duchess has a fabulous reputation as a hostess and has written a party book, which the Burlew's had autographed for them. Also, Cole Porter fans, like me, will be interested to know that THE Mrs. Sweeny in the hit tune "You're the Tops" is the present Duchess!

"You're the nimble thread of the feet of Fred Astaire, you're Mussolini, you're Mrs. Sweeny, you're Camembert."

I always wondered who Mrs. Sweeny was, didn't you? It's good to know these things.

But even more astonishing, Katie, who is a devotee of Britain's world renowned Barbara Cartland–she's written over 300 romantic novels, which have sold over 350 million copies–Katie wrote her a letter before the trip and received a warm reply. Unfortunately, the proposed tea party didn't come off, because Miss Cartland had just returned from Hong Kong and was suffering from jet lag. However, Katie received two of her new red leather and gold printed library editions, autographed. Katie will let you look, but not touch, these books the next time you stop in at Accents.

AND FINALLY, a footnote on waitstaff training. The National Restaurant Association has two video tapes available which teach preparation, greeting the customer and taking the order, as well as serving the meal, maintaining service, presenting the check and saying farewell. The tapes cost $95 each. Seems like our library, Chamber of Commerce or several restaurants could get together and promote this popular cause before the summer season begins.

Swaping cats

Clockwise — BY BOB CLOCK

I think I'll trade in our three cats for a bird. Namely, a cockateel if I can find one.

Maybe you read in Monday's News-Review how a pet cockateel owned by James Churchill of Hudson Township woke him up early Sunday morning by threshing around in his cage when the house caught fire.

The dwelling was practically destroyed, but Churchill and Boy George, the cockateel, escaped unscathed.

Churchill rewarded Boy George, a species of Australian parrot, with a fresh supply of birdseed and plenty of so-called bird treat and says he would have bought his little friend a steak — if birds ate steak.

In my book, that little cockateel has earned its keep from here on in.

And I wish I could say as much for our cats who simply adore fire — particularly a fire in the wood stove.

Even on mild days, they shiver and cast long, withering glances in my direction if I don't have a fire going in the stove. But as soon as I light one, they are all smiles and stretch languourously in front of the hearth to absorb as much heat as felinely possible without scorching their immaculate coats.

On cold nights I think they'd be just as happy to discover a fire in a wastebasket or under the kitchen sink. They might even start one. And I can't imagine them galloping upstairs to arouse the sleeping occupants or even calling the fire department.

In fact, I am a little hard-pressed to come up with any kind of rationale for keeping cats in the first place. Oh, our mother cat, Magic Shadow, is a pretty good mouser who has expanded her range to include moles and rabbits. She sort of pays her way. But her two lazy offspring — Rotunda and Izod — never lift a paw to help around the house and try to get by on their good looks alone.

And all three eat like stevedores. The other morning I stumbled into the kitchen and reached for the bag of Happy Cat to give them their breakfast — only to find the bag was empty.

Of course, a full bowl of dry cat food was standing under the kitchen table, but that isn't their normal breakfast fare and they wouldn't touch it. They only pick at it during the day when they want to remove plaque from their teeth or sweeten their breath. They have watched too many milkbone ads on TV.

As a result, three sets of soulful, accusatory eyes followed me around the kitchen as I whipped up a batch of scrambled eggs and pork sausage — something they don't really enjoy, but will eat in a pinch if faced with nothing more appetizing than dry cat food.

I have never been on such a painful guilt trip.

I have a feeling that cockateels, in addition to being excellent smoke alarms, wouldn't be such picky eaters. Any creature that prefers millet seed to beefsteak has a lot going for it.

Letters to the editor:

Radioactive dump site would threaten state's environmental integrity

Dear Editor:

Citizens of Michigan should be aware of the actions of the Michigan Radioactive Waste Control Committee (RWC Committee). Plans are moving quietly but rapidly ahead to place a low-level radioactive waste dump in Michigan. A bill to allow this will be ready to present to the Michigan Legislature within six weeks.

The proposed dump will contain a host of toxic and potentially lethal radioactive materials, including plutonium-239, the most toxic element known to man, with a lethal activity period of 486,000 years. One such low-level dump in Kentucky now contains 200 pounds of plutonium, some of which, in ten years, has leaked and migrated over two miles off site onto private land and into ground water.

This absolutely positively guaranteed not to happen, but alas, as always, it did happen. The company responsible declared bankruptcy and left the state. It will now cost Kentucky millions of dollars to try to clean up the dump, which will be all but impossible, and the ground waters in the area are beyond help and will remain toxic virtually forever. Some of these same materials will be in the Michigan dump, remaining toxic for hundreds-of-thousands of years.

The Federal government proposes to offer some minimal financial assistance towards the maintenance of the dump for up to 100 years, and the actual containers of the radioactive waste are designed to last 10 to 20 years. The difference in these three sets of figures bothers me, but it doesn't seem to bother the administration in Lansing.

The RWC Committee in public debate in Saginaw on January 15, 1987 reluctantly conceded that the proposed Michigan dump site will leak, as have all others, despite guarantees to the contrary. This will most assuredly lead to radioactive contamination of groundwater, which in the State of Michigan, is synonymous with radioactive contamination of the Great Lakes, representing 20 percent of the fresh water supply of the entire world.

In the past few months, we have all been exposed to Michigan governmental propaganda on T.V. and in print, stating that Michigan can expect to be chosen as the host state for the dump, because Michigan produces the most radioactive waste of any state in the seven state Midwest Compact group. This is decidely not true!

Official governmental figures released in Lansing on February 12, 1987 show that Michigan does not hold this dirty distinction; it belongs to Minnesota. Statistics prove that for the period 1980-1985 (the most up-to-date figures available) Minnesota produced 2.7 percent more radioactive waste than any other state in the seven state Midwest Compact. These facts totally destroy the Michigan administration's argument that Michigan should get the dump.

Officials of the Michigan Low-Level Radioactive Waste Commission, fearing that the dump might not be economically feasible because of an unforeseen slow but steady decline of radioactive waste generation in Michigan, have made contact with and are actively seeking radioactive wastes of other states even beyond those in our own seven state Compact, notably Illinois and Kentucky. This presents a unique opportunity for other states to say "yes!" to Michigan, when we come begging for their radioactive garbage. What a revolting scene–that our grand and noble state has fallen to this; but it is happening today, courtesy of our state government!

The health and well-being of our present citizenry, as well as that of the millions yet unborn, and the environmental integrity of our state is in jeopardy. These are on the block to be bartered for the estimated twenty jobs that the dump will generate. Is Michigan to be traded for these twenty tainted pieces of silver? Apparently the state administration and the RWC Committee believe it should be. I strongly disagree. Lincoln said it, I believe it: "By sin of silence, when they know they should protest, men are made cowards."

Let those in government know how you feel. Let's keep Michigan beautiful–and liveable.

Bag lady story is offensive

Dear Mrs. Gilbert,

I too found your Party Chatter item about the bag lady party offensive.

You do, of course, have the right to have any type of party you wish. The poor taste came when you wrote about it. You did the same kind of "disservice" to your area's poor as the old minstrel shows did to our nation's blacks.

You are a lady of much intelligence and your column is usually well done. The "let them eat cake" attitude has damaged your following.

As Sulane Hamilton wrote at the end of her letter, remember, there but for the grace of God go you.

President Reagan did no wrong in delegating authority

Dear Bob Clock,
Charlevoix Courier

Mr. Clock: I have hesitated but still want to write this letter.

After reading and re-reading your recent editorial (on President Reagan), which I thought was well written until the end where I thought you did Ex-Senator Howard Baker an injustice by intimating be was appointed Watch over his peers.

He (for his knowledge and ability) was appointed advisor to the president, cabinet members and Congress, all of whom are as capable for fullfilling their duties, no doubt, as is Mr. Baker and probably are as devoted to the welfare of our country and its government and don't need to be watched over.

Those who erred in their assigned duties are gone and those in their places or those left are in my judgment as devoted as Mr. Baker, be they Republicans, Democrats or Independents. Maybe you never made a mistake or erred in judgment but most of us have and have paid dearly in anguish.

Now President Reagan, who I can see did no wrong in delegating some of his duties to his advisors, needs no apology. He has admitted his mistaken judgment and is paying in anguish for them, A president of any organization I ever knew of has done and is doing the same thing.

I hope the Hon. Howard Baker is able to prove to the American public which service he is rendering.

The other day I rediscovered a little jewel of a book, "Behind the Clouds–Light" by L.H. Mayfield. It had been hidden away on my personal library shelves for some time. I drew it out in a moment of sadness when I needed a special lift. The following is an excerpt from that book. I share it in hopes that it will give you the inspiration and insight it gave me:

"We have often heard the statement: 'Life is the greatest teacher.' This may be true when a person learns to react properly to the difficult circumstances of sickness, adversity, and sorrow, as well as joy and success. It may be heard to believe one can learn from sadness, but it is true. Note some of the lessons to be learned.

We can learn to be still! In the mad rush of our lives this is not easy, but we can with God's help find a place of 'quietness'.

We can learn to think! So often persons facing adversity have said, 'It makes you think!' During such times, spiritual values have a way of coming into focus.

We can learn to appreciate! In our normal rush we so often lose sight of the grace of gratitude. Moments of dependence upon others make us see how much we need one another. Our friendships take on new meaning.

We can learn to sympathize! It may take time to learn to sense the needs of others, but this concern makes our own burdens lighter.

We can learn to pray! A woman said, 'We really learn to pray when confronted with a situation like this.' Prayer does take on new meaning.

'Be still, and know...' (Ps. 46:10)."

Family

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. John Bradley

Moats-Bradley

St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Winter Haven, Fla., was the scene recently of the wedding of Paula D. Moats and John L. Bradley, both of Winter Haven, Fla.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Robert Crandell of Charlevoix, David A. Moats of Big Bear, Calif., and Mr. and Mrs. John C. Bradley of Citrus Springs, Fla., and Charlevoix.

The Rev. Sean Heslin officiated at the double ring service in the presence of 100 guests on Feb. 14. Arrangements of white mums graced the altar for the ceremony. Theresa Bradley, sister of the bridegroom, was the soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her mother, chose a white tea length gown fashioned with a high neckline accented with floral lace and a white hat and short veil. Her bridal bouquet was of pink and red sweetheart roses.

Leeann Clark of Cheboygan, as her only attendant, carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

John C. Bradley assisted his son as best man.

Joseph Savató and Lawrence Bradley, brother of the bridegroom, seated the guests.

A reception hosted by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Crandell and David A. Moats and Mr. and Mrs. John C. Bradley followed at the Holiday Inn in Winter Haven.

The couple will make their home in Winter Haven, Fla. They plan a trip during the summer.

The bride is employed at Thayer Industries and the bridegroom at Vegter Construction at Winter Haven.

A rehearsal dinner at Tom's Steak and Seafood Restaurant on Friday, Feb. 13, was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. John C. Bradley.

Watershed Council membership hits record

Membership in the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council has topped 1,000. The Council is one of the largest locally-based environmental organizations in Michigan.

"We are very pleased with the growth in membership which the Watershed Council has experienced in the last several years," states Executive Director Carol Magee. "I believe it shows that many northern Michigan residents are concerned with protecting our area's unique water resources."

The Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council was formed in 1979 as a nonprofit organization service Emmet, Charlevoix and Cheboygan Counties. Its goal is the protection of the water quality of the region's lakes, rivers, wetlands, and groundwater.

At the end of 1986, the Watershed Council had 1,063 individual members and 22 organizational members, including lake associations and other local groups who want to protect water resources. The 22 organizational members have a combined membership of over 6,500.

The organization is governed by a Board of Directors consisting of representatives from each lake and at-large members with environmental expertise.

The Watershed Council's staff consists of an executive director, staff attorney-wetlands coordinator, water resource specialist, membership-communications coordinator and office manager. Additionally, summer assistants and volunteers are utilized to perform water quality monitoring, wetland surveys and other functions. These staff provide service which include the following: education about water resources management; monitoring local water quality; monitoring activities which may affect lakes, streams, wetlands and groundwater; and taking action to protect water resources.

The basic activities of the Council are supported almost entirely by memberships and donations from concerned citizens. The organizations also seeks grants for special projects.

Emergency loans available to farmers

Farmers in Charlevoix, Cheboygan, and Emmet counties are eligible to apply for emergency loans from the Farmers Home Administration according to Keith Greenwald, county supervisor. This assistance is available because of damages and losses caused by excessive rains which occurred last fall.

In order to qualify, a farmer must provide evidence of having suffered a qualifying physical loss, or a production loss of at least 30 percent on combinations of similar type crops. Among other requirements, applicants must be unable to obtain suitable credit from other sources.

The deadline for receiving applications for Charlevoix and Emmet counties is September 29, 1987. For Cheboygan County, the deadline is September 9, 1987.

For further information, contact the local FmHS office at 231 State St., Petoskey, MI 49770 or call 347-4551.

Audubon Society to see slide show of canoe trip

Vaughan McGraw of Petoskey will narrate his slide presentation of a 1980 wilderness canoe trip at the March 19 meeting of the Petoskey Regional Audubon Society.

"Wilderness Whitewater in Canada's Northwest Territories" details the journey of a group of 12 down the South Nahanni River, one of the most renowned wild rivers in North America. The river is hundreds of miles from the nearest town and is accessible only by airplane.

The 400-mile trip on the river took the group through some stunning subartic scenery and many turbulent rapids. One of the most spectacular scenes was Virginia Falls, about twice the height of Niagara Falls.

The program begins at 7:30 p.m. in the Presbyterian Church, 517 E. Mitchell, Petoskey. It is free to the public and refreshments will be served.

Rayders breeze to 3rd straight district title

The Charlevoix Rayder basketball team captured its third straight Class C district title Saturday night, defeating Harbor Springs 68-50 to advance to the Class C regional tournament at Gaylord.

Rayders Jim Gibbs and Scott DeYoung reach for a rebound.

The Rayders had defeated Rogers City 67-56 and Onaway 87-63 to advance to the finals against the Harbor Springs Rams who were playing in Class C for the first time in many years.

The Rayders were to meet Lincoln Alcona in the first game of the Class C regional tournament at Gaylord Tuesday.

In Saturday's game against Harbor Springs at Boyne City, Charlevoix drew first blood with two quick field goals, the Rams tied the score several times with the Rams leading 13-12 at the end of the first quarter, their only lead in the game.

As the second-period got underway, the Rayders swung with the Rams defense which shifted from zone to man-to-man and back numerous times to outscore them 20-13 for a 33-24 halftime lead.

In the third period, as the Rayders continued to control the backboards, the Rams were held to four buckets and a free throw while the Rayders increased their margin to 48-33. At one time the Rayders had led by 17 points.

With Dan Drury hitting a couple long shots from outside and Joe Miller scoring four layups, the Rayders put the game away by a score of 68-50 as Coach Dave Smith all but emptied the bench.

"The biggest factors in the game were our defense and our patience in taking only the good shots," Smith said of the win. "Our rebounding was great by Scott DeYoung, Miller and Chad Devries. We limited Harbor to very few rebounds. In fact, our defense was the best we've had all year. Then we had a lot of help off the bench," he continued.

Charlevoix hit on 27 of 49 shots in the game and had 14 of 25 free throws. They also had 15 personal fouls. The Rams had 21 field goals and eight of 16 charity shots and 21 personal fouls.

DeYoung had 19 points, Miller 12, Drury 12 while DeVries had eight, Owen Phillips seven, Jim Ciuk six, and Jim Gibbs two.

For the Rams, Rick Shepard was held to 20 points, Doug Dickinson 11, Greg Garver five, and Chris Beaudoin four.

Onaway defeated in district

Charlevoix waltzed to a 87-63 victory over Onaway Wednesday prior to their title match with Harbor Springs.

The Rayders were in control throughout the game, leading by as much as 30 points in the second half.

Charlevoix dominated the boards with Chad DeVries pulling down 10 rebounds and Joe Miller eight.

At the end of the first quarter Charlevoix held a 24-18 lead and closed the first half up by 10 at 41-31.

The Rayders turned the game into a runaway in the third quarter. Going into the final stanza they were up 71-41 and the substitues from both teams got plenty of action.

First State Bank with a 13-5 record for the season won the title in the B League of the Charlevoix Independent Basketball League sponsored by the Charlevoix Recreation Departmen

First State takes B title

The B League of the Charlevoix Independent Basketball League wrapped up its 1986-87 season last week with the First State Bank claiming the title in the six-team league, Dwight Boss, city recreation director reported.

Marsh Construction and Paul Lindberg Inc. tied for second place, three games behind the league champs.

In the final games played Wednesday, First State Bank edged Dairy Queen 65-63, Marsh Construction beat Rich's Topside 67-56 and the Mesquite, which joined the league in January, defeated Paul Lindberg 67-64 in overtime.

Dairy Queen jumped to an 18-13 lead over First State Bank. It was short-lived as the Bankers took over 36-27 at halftime and coasted to an easy win after leading 49-44 going into the final period.

Jack Cross scored 18 points, Dennis Dominic 12 and Bob Sandahl 10 for the victors. Tom Lolly had 18, Steve Leazier 13 and Tom Morrison 11 for Dairy Queen.

Rich's Topside had a good second period, outscoring Marsh Construction 20-11 to overcome a 16-8 first-period deficit and go ahead 28-27. The Builders were not to be denied as they took over 43-34 at the third period before winning by an 11-point margin.

Clay Jones with 19 points and Jeffy Drury with 18 paced the builders scoring. Dave Cole had 33 for Topside.

In their overtime win over Lindberg, the Mesquite had to overcome a first-period deficit to take over 28-23 at the half. Lindberg came back strong to claim a 47-45 margin going into the final period when Mesquite tied the score at 60. The Sailors then outscored Lindberg 7-4 in the overtime for the victory.

Jerry Martin had 25 points, Tom Conlan 21 and Marc Phillips 16 for the lion's share of the scoring. Mike Crain with 26, Bill Habel with 19 and Gale Sheldon with 13 were the top scorers for Lindberg.

Depot repeats in A league

The top four teams of the A League of the Charlevoix Independent League went into the playoffs Monday after completing the regular schedule.

The Depot of Boyne City repeated as the league champions with a 13-2 record followed by Pepsi-Cola of Petoskey 11-4, Dr. Dave's Green Grinders 10-5 and Kit Carson Lumber 7-8. These are the teams participating in the playoffs Wednesday and Thursday nights and continuing Monday if necessary in the tournament. The games are played at 6:30 and 7:45 p.m.

In the final games of the season, the Depot downed Pepsi 88-71; Dr. Dave's Green Grinders crushed Buday NCE 79-56 and Kit Carson Lumber defeated Nanny's 97-81.

The Depot opened with a 22-13 lead over Pepsi and increased it to 43-28 at the half and 61-42 going into the final period before chalking up the 17-point win.

Dean Hicks with 30 points, Tim Hartwick with 17 and Tom Beyer with 16 paced the scoring. Mark Long had 19, Brian Shorter 16, Cliff Haas 14, Mike Schmitt 12 and Steve Martinus 10 for Pepsi.

After a 16-16 first-period deadlock, Dr. Dave's Green Grinders took a commanding 39-30 lead at halftime and 57-50 at the third-period intermission before taking the game 79-67.

Dick Swenor had 33 points, Mike Leper 18 and Dave Storm 15 for the victors. Dave Swanson had 21, Rob Hilton 12, Tex Drenth and Kevin Swanson 10 each for Budays.

Carson Lumber rolled past Nanny's 24-15, 52-33 and 75-50 by quarters before finishing with a comfortable 98-87 lead. Vince Left had his best night with 33 points, Bo Boss 15 and Paul Hoffman 12 for Carsons. Tom Steffen had 35 and Tom Burley 28 for Nanny's.

STATE OF MICHIGAN

ANNUAL TAX SALE

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF Charlevoix

ORDER FOR HEARING
No. 86-241-11 PZ

In the Matter of the Complaint of the State Treasurer of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State, for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon.

On reading and filing the complaint of the State Treasurer of the State of Michigan praying for a judgement in favor of the State of Michigan against each parcel of land therein described, for the amounts therein specified, claimed to be due for taxes, interest and charges on each such parcel of land, and that such lands be sold for the amounts so claimed by the State of Michigan.

It is ordered that said complaint will be brought on for hearing and judgement at the April term of this Court, to be held at Charlevoix in the County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, on the 13th day of April A.D. 1987, at the opening of the Court on that day, and that all persons interested in such lands or any part thereof, desiring to contest the lien claimed thereon by the State of Michigan, for such taxes, interest and charges, or any part thereof, shall appear in said Court, and file with the clerk thereof their objections thereto on or before the first day of the term of this Court above mentioned, and that in default thereof the same will be taken as confessed and a judgement will be taken and entered as prayed for in said complaint. And it is further ordered that in pursuance of said judgement and lands described in said complaint for which a judgement of sale shall be made, will be sold for the several taxes, interest and charges thereon as determined by such judgement on the first Tuesday in May thereafter, beginning at 10 o'clock a.m. on said day, or on the day or days subsequent thereto as may be necessary to complete the sale of said lands and of each and every parcel thereof, at the office of the County Treasurer, or at such convenient place as shall be selected by him at the county seat of the county of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, and that the sale then and there made will be a public sale, and each parcel described in the judgement shall be separately exposed for sale for the total taxes, interest and charges, and the sale shall be made to the person paying the full amount charged against such parcel, and accepting a conveyance of the smallest undivided fee simple interest therein, or, if no person will pay the taxes and charges and take a conveyance of less than the entire thereof, then the whole parcel shall be offered and sold. If any parcel of land cannot be sold for taxes, interest and charges, such parcel shall be passed over for the time being, and shall, on the succeeding day, or before the close of the sale, be reoffered, and if on such second offer, or during such sale, the same cannot be sold for the amount aforesaid, the County Treasurer shall bid off the same in the name of the State.

Witness the Hon. Richard M. Pajtas, Circuit Judge, and the seal of said Circuit Court of Charlevoix County this 4th day of March A.D. 1987.

Countersigned,
Jane E. Brannon, Clerk

Richard M. Pajtas, Circuit Judge

STATE OF MICHIGAN
IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF CHARLEVOIX

In the Matter of the Complaint of the State Treasurer of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State, for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon.

TO THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF Charlevoix, Robert A. Bowman, State Treasurer of the State of Michigan, respectfully shows unto the court:

1. That he is the State Treasurer of the State of Michigan and makes and files this complaint under, by virtue of and pursuant to the provisions of Act No. 206 of the Public Acts of 1893, as amended, and Act No. 380 of P.A. 1965, as amended.

2. That Schedule A annexed hereto is the tax record required by the act first above mentioned and contains the description of all lands in the aforesaid county upon which taxes, which were assessed for the years mentioned therein, have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent; the description of all lands in said county heretofore bid off in the name of the State and thus held and upon which taxes which were assessed subsequent to the tax for which such lands were sold to the State have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent.

3. That extended separately in said schedule against each description of said lands therein contained are (a) the total amount of delinquent taxes upon said description for the non-payment of which the same may lawfully be sold at the next annual tax sale, (b) interest computed thereon as provided by law to the first day of May, next ensuing, (c) a County Property Tax Administration Fee of four percent which shall be a minimum of $1.00 as provided by Section 211.59, C.L. 1970, as amended, and (d) $10.00 for expenses, all in accordance with the provisions of the act first above mentioned.

4. That all of the aforesaid taxes, interest and charges are valid, delinquent and unpaid, and have remained delinquent and unpaid for sufficient time to authorize and require, as provided by the foregoing acts, the sale of the aforesaid parcels of land against which they were assessed and are extended in said schedule at the next annual tax sale for the non-payment thereof, and that the said taxes, interest, County Property Tax Administration Fee and expenses so extended in said schedule against each parcel of land therein described constitute a valid lien upon each of the said several parcels of land described in said schedule as therein and against which extended in favor of the people of the State of Michigan, the payment of which lien the court may enforce as a preferred or first claim upon such lands by the sale thereof.

Wherefore your plaintiff prays:

a. That within the time provided by law the court may determine and adjudge that the aforesaid taxes, interest, County Property Tax Administration Fee and charges are valid and constitute a valid lien upon each of the said several parcels of land described in said schedule as therein extended,

b. That within the time provided by law the court make a final judgement in favor of the State of Michigan against each parcel of said lands for the payment of the several amounts of taxes, interest, County Property Tax Administration Fee and expenses as computed and extended in said schedule against the several parcels of land therein contained, and the amounts listed in the column headed "aggregate" shall constitute the amounts adjudged against the said several parcels, unless so amended by the court,

c. That said judgement provide that in default of the payment so ordered of the said several sums computed and extended against said lands in said schedule, the said several parcels of land, or such interest therein as may be necessary to satisfy the amount adjudged against the same, shall severally be sold as the law provides,

d. That your plaintiff may have such other and further relief in the premises as to the court may seem just and equitable.

And your plaintiff will ever pray, etc.

Dated: February 20, 1987

Robert A. Bowman,
State Treasurer
for and in behalf of said State

SMALL ADS COMMAND ATTENTION!

GOOD NEWS! DID YOU KNOW?

...That the IRS will allow 100% of your dona tion again for the year 1987? Just file the itemized form to receive the 100% deduction.

So, why not avoid the hassle, time and expense of yard, garage and moving sales.

Just give the Rainbow Shoppe - sponsored by Charlevoix's churches - a call and we'll pick up everything and give you a tax deduction slip for whatever value your sale would bring.

The Rainbow Shoppe is a Michigan non-profit corporation and proceeds go into the community for many needy projects.

Just phone. 547-2815. We're open every day Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. We'll pick up or you may drop off.

Pick ups in Charlevoix area only. Pick ups in other towns just before sales — no after-yard or garage-sale pick ups.

Obituaries

James W. Gaskin

James W. Gaskin, 93, veteran of World War I, died Tuesday, March 10 at Grandvue Medical Care Facility.

Funeral services were held Thursday at St. Mary's Church with the Rev. Casimir J. Zawacki officiating. Interment was in St. Mary's Cemetery.

The Rosary was recited at the Winchester Funeral Home Wednesday evening.

Born in Leroy Sept. 22, 1893, Mr. Gaskin was raised in Charlevoix. He was a veteran of service in both the U.S. Army and U.S. Navy during World War I. On Sept. 3, 1924, he was married to the former Myrtle Reinhart. Th Gaskins made their home in Chicago where he was employed as a chauffeur by a private family until 1947 when they returned to Charlevoix to make their home. At that time, Mr. Gaskin was employed by the Charlevoix City Police Department. Mrs. Gaskin preceded him in death July 28, 1984. He was a member of St. Mary's Church.

Surviving are two sons, John I. Gaskin and Peter W. Gaskin, both of Charlevoix; a daughter, Helen K. Gaskin of Royal Oak and one grandson, James W. Gaskin of Charlevoix.

The family suggests memorials to St. Mary's School. Envelopes for this purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home.

James H. Bellinger

James H. Bellinger, 78, of Charlevoix, died Thursday, March 12, at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The funeral service was held at the Winchester Funeral Home Monday, March 16. The Rev. Lowell Anderson of the Assembly of God Church officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery.

Born at Charlevoix Feb. 9, 1909, to William C. and Eleanor (Greenaway) Bellinger, Mr. Bellinger graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1927 and the University of Michigan School of Naval Architecture. He crewed on the pleasure yacht, Sylvia I and Sylvia II until they were commandeered by the U.S. Government at the beginning of World War II. He was employed as a marine architect by the Foster Boat Co. during World War II. During the early 1950s, he, his brother Charles, and their late father built and launched a 32-foot sailboat. He owned and operated Bellinger's Marine Service on the south shore of Round Lake for 37 years.

Bellinger was a member of the Michigan Marine Dealers Association and the U.S. Power Squadron.

He is survived by a son, William A. of Charlevoix; a daughter, Mrs. Raymond (Diaaa) Mitchell of Kalkaska; four grandsons; two sisters, Mrs. Wilma Smith of Charlevoix and Mrs. George (Adeline) Wollam of Traverse City and one brother, Charles Bellinger, of Charlevoix and Zephyrhills, Fla.

The family suggests memorials to the Charlevoix Area Hospital or the Charlevoix Volunteer Fire Department. Envelopes fot this purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home.

Ralph A. Bacot

Ralph A. Bacot, 95, of Charlevoix, died Thursday, March 12, at Grandvue Medical Care Facility at East Jordan.

Funeral services were held at St. Mary's Church Saturday, March 14. The Rev. Casimir J. Zawacki officiated. Interment was in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Born in Hayes Township July 31, 1891, to George and Lillian (Cram) Bacot, Mr. Bacot was a lifelong resident of the area. During the early years of the century, he was a northern Michigan logger. On April 14, 1913, he was married to Josephine Pupor at Petoskey. He had been employed as a police officer by the Charlevoix City Police Department. He was self-employed as an interior decorator. An avid horseman, he was an accomplished harness racer and circuit racer at county fairs in the state. Mrs. Bacot preceded him in death Nov. 25, 1968. He was a member of St. Mary's Church.

Surviving are a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Jack (Louise) Bacot of Charlevoix; a granddaughter, Mrs. Jack (Susan) Stockwell of Rapid City; three great-granddaughters and a niece Mrs. Frances Derwe of Warren.

The family suggests memorials to the St. Mary's Educational Fund. Envelopes for this purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home which was in charge of arrangements.

Muriel Fitzsimons

Muriel Badger Fitzsimons died March 6, 1987 in San Diego, Calif. She is survived by her children Mary Louise Toomey, Kathleen Tschurtschenthaler, Janette Dilley, Frances Cosentino and Peter and Paul Fitzsimons.

Also surviving are 17 grandchildren, one great-grandchild, and a brother, Albert Badger. A memorial Mass will be held April 25 in Grosse Pointe, Mich.

Mrs. Fitzsimons was a summer resident of Charlevoix for more than 30 years and owned a cottage on Elm St.

Council discusses zoning waste plans of these counties, the disposal waste could be prohibited, Lieberman stated in his report. Emmet County is the only county mentioned in both county's plans.

Way, owner of the landfill, told the board it could expect exorbitant costs if the county should decide to go into the solid waste business. He said large subsidies and increased garbage pick-up rates would result.

It was suggested that surrounding counties cooperate by at least discussing other alternatives such as an incinerator rather than concentrating on a regional landfill. In the past most counties have ignored a meeting to discuss other alternatives.

The committee named by Matthew to grapple with the problem is composed of Don Smith, Oral Sutliff and Matthew. They are scheduled to hold their first meeting Wednesday and report to the board within a month.

in the zoning for parking lots. "I think you should strengthen that and put some teeth in it," Jackson said.

He suggested the zoning require a minimum height and diameter for trees to be planted and should define the minimum planting of shrubs necessary to achieve a screen.

Making the language specific will allow developers to know from the start what their landscaping costs will be, Jackson added.

Council agreed to send the parking lot zoning changes back to the planning commission for further consideration of the landscaping issue.

IN OTHER ACTION, council:

–Approved a site plan for a Little Caesar's pizza carry-out store in the Captain's Corner shopping mall. Council urged that any sign be made of wood.

–Authorized a site plan for Blue Fin Charters to add to an existing bath house at Fairport Marine.

–Reviewed a request from the Chamber of Commerce for the use of East Park for several events in 1987.

--Accepted a study by the Michigan Department of Transportation which rejected a stop light at the corner of M-66 and U.S. 31. The study concluded that although there was enough traffic to warrant a light, the bulk of the traffic was on M-66 turning right on U.S. 31. No significant backup or delays were reported in the study.

Adding a light would also result in more traffic accidents, Wiesner told council.

–Discussed plans for the Ferry Beach area, including the addition of a fish cleaning station, new rest rooms, improvements to two boat ramps and the addition of two more, and the relocation of Ferry Avenue to the railroad right-of-way.

–Authorized Hill, Woodcock and Schroderus to perform the 1986-87 audit for a maximum of $14,900 and to audit the miscellaneous grants for not more than $2,400.

–Approved a new radio and emergency warning system for the new water tower.

–Appointed a committee to study City Manager Michael Wiesner's recommendations for improvements in city streets, sewer and water. The committee will include: Ralph McRae, mayor; Norm Probert, First Ward councilman; Joan Hoffman; Gerald Staublin; Tom Sikavitsa; Robert Timms, Second Ward councilman; Tony Klieber; Ken Stalcy; Roberta Whitley; Shirley Roloff, Third Ward councilwoman; I. Lee Moertand; Rhonda Swarga; and John Friedly and Alvin Ranger, planning commission.

BOARD MINUTES-MARCH 4, 1987

A regular meeting of the Eveline Township Board was held on March 4, 1987 at the township hall; all board members were present; eight guests.

The minutes of the February meeting were read and corrected and approved.

Lynn Stedmen, attorney for some zoning matters, introduced himself to the board and questions were asked of him.

The Greg Greenman P.A. 116 application has been tabled until a letter of recommendation is received from the Soil & Water Conservation District.

Letters will be sent to District Health Dept. #3, Dept. of Building Ins. and Soil Erosion Dept. requesting that copies of applications for permits be sent to the township before permits are issued and before work is started; hopefully this will help alleviate some zoning problems and misunderstandings.

Miscellaneous correspondence was read-no action needed.

A letter of resignation from Dave Willson resigning the Zoning Board of Appeals effective April 1, 1987 was read and regretfully approved. A motion was made, supported, and carried to appoint Dan Skrezeczkoski to fill the remainder of the term vacated.

A treasurer's report was received and approval to pay bills amounting to $7,468.12 was given unanimously.

Adjournment was at 11:00 p.m.

DNR approves 1987 field work to help protected species

Michigan's nesting populations of loons, piping plovers, and bald eagles headline the list of protected birds and animals to draw special attention this year among 31 field projects recently approved by the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) for financing under its Nongame Wildlife Program.

The 1987 small grant projects, representing more than $70,000 worth of field work this spring and summer, will also cover activities to benefit lake sturgeon, sandhill cranes, the endangered Northern Blue Butterfly, ospreys, red-shouldered hawks, purple martins and copperbelly water snakes.

At least one type of nongame work will take place in each of the state's 83 counties this year under the DNR's latest plans, which include cost sharing of the Michigan Breeding Bird Atlas survey and Natural Features Inventory.

Main sponsor of the total program is the Nongame Wildlife Fund, made up of nearly 100,000 citizens contributions from last year's state income tax refunds. Financial support also comes from Michigan's Living Resources Program, administered by the DNR's office of Public Affairs. Many of the projects are to be cost shared by local civic and conservation organizations.

Among 1987 work plans just approved for funding under the DNR's Nongame Wildlife Program are several "hammer-and-nail" projects designed for outdoor public use. On tap for construction are wildlife observation towers at the Au Sable River-Millpond near Grayling, the Houghton Lake Flats, and near a state-owned marsh in Manistee County. A scenic boardwalk will be built as part of the Grayling area project.

In Oscoda County, the Nongame Wildlife Fund will help the Michigan Youth Corps Program in underwriting development of the Blue Horizon Walkway. That facility, spanning a pond on a 20-acre outdoor education center along the Au Sable River, will serve school students, scout members, senior citizens and church groups. Under its allocation to Oscoda County, the MYC Program is contributing nearly $2,500 to their project.

Most of the projects approved for this year are geared to getting more people involved on their "homefronts" in efforts to manage and protect local nongame resources, explains Bob Hess, who heads the DNR's Nongame Wildlife Program.

A good case in point, he adds, is an expanded plan to register more lakeshore owners and other local citizens as volunteers to help save and rebuild dwindling populations of nesting loons on at least 100 lakes in the eastern Upper Peninsula and northern Lower Michigan. Last year, the project succeeded in signing up 56 community cooperators to cover 50 northern lakes with nesting loons.

More local leaders will be sought under this year's small grant project to monitor loon populations, to help spur public sightings of loons, and to improve the birds' nesting success. Hess and others hope to see these opening efforts grow into formation of a statewide loon protection group in tandem with the Michigan Audubon Society.

On two other important fronts, namely northern Lake Michigan and eastern Lake Superior beaches, the Nongame Wildlife Fund will again finance field work to rejuvenate nesting success among the piping polver, one of the state's most endangered birds.

With the bird's numbers in Michigan down to a scant 16 breeding pairs last summer, emphasis will be continued this year to give nesting plovers greater protection. Efforts will also be made to improve nesting habitat for the birds and to field test ways of reducing predation losses among plover eggs.

The state's nesting populations of bald eagles, estimated at about 125 pairs last summer, figure high in this year's lineup of priority projects. Special emphasis will be placed upon banding 80-90 percent of the eaglets produced in Michigan to augment continued field studies focusing upon the nation's symbol.

As a key, new facet of field research, eagle feathers and other samples will be collected to broaden the DNR's scope of monitoring levels of toxic pollutants in Michigans eagle population.

"In weighing 74 small grant applications for 1987, we have keyed our selections to those projects which best meet the two major goals of our Nongame Wildlife Program," notes Hess.

These goals, he explains, are aimed at:

1) Preserving populations of desirable nongame wildlife species and their habitat; and

2) Increasing people's enjoyment, understanding, and appreciation of these precious wildlife and plant resources.

Under that latter, "people's" category, SEE-North has been awarded a small grant for 1987 to develop science and environmental education curricula centering upon nongame wildlife resources in northern Lower Michigan and the eastern Upper Peninsula.

In addition to the 31 small grant projects, the DNR's Nongame Wildlife Program this year will continue to help fund Michigan's Breeding Bird Atlas survey and the Natural Features Inventory as its two largest, "building-block" projects.

The breeding bird project, drawing upon the field findings of some 2,000 volunteers throughout the state, is approaching the fourth year of a six-year effort to pinpoint the distribution and abundance of 230 resident bird species in Michigan. More than 200,000 bird records have already been channeled into the Kalamazoo Nature Center for computerized data banking. Such information will chart future management work by identifying specific areas and habitats in need of protection and other measures.

Its importance to long-range management of bird life in Michigan is underscored by the DNR's $53,000 contract with the nature center for 1987.

The Natural Features Inventory, supported in part this year by a $25,000 grant from the Nongame Wildlife Fund, is continuing to search the state for new locations of all Michigan plant and animal species listed as endangered or threatened. It is entering the third year of work to survey natural plant communities and unique, undisturbed habitats, such as prairies and wetlands, on a county-by-county basis.

Hayes plan addresses growth

in 1974.

Dammann said the plan asks "What kind of township is this and what do we want it to be in 5-10 years?"

"Sure Hayes Township is going to be more developed," she observed. "The long-range plan addresses how that is going to happen and what kind of growth will occur and where."

The intent of the plan, Dammann said, is to build on what exists. Bay Shore can grow as a residential and commercial center and there are rural areas that can expand. "There's also room for growth on the lakes but it has to be carefully monitored," she added.

"Everyone involved in Hayes Township government sees the lakes as very valuable assets that belong to everybody," she said.

Hayes Township should maintain and improve lake access sites, the report concludes.

Among the other areas faced with high growth and change are the traditional farming areas in the center of the township which are being divided into 10 acres lots for residential purposes. People in the township are concerned that these areas not be divided further, Dammann said, hoping to preserve the rural character of their residences.

As one person said at the first public hearing on the comprehensive plan, "That's my pice of mind."

One proposal for study offered by the comprehensive plan is to study further a rural-residential zone with home sites of five acres minimum as a transition zone between agricultural and residential.

"Hayes Township values that open land, not only for farming but as an asset to the township aesthetically," Dammann said. "It is one of the things that draws people to northern Michigan. She added that one way to preserve the open space, as well as woodlots, was through various assistance programs to farmers.

The plan rejects the idea of a sewer system around the north shore of the lake. "A municipal sewage system or connection with an existing municipal system is not recommended for Hayes Township because this could permit more intense development in areas heretofore not suitable, and because such develpment could be a source of increased non-point pollution and run off," the report states.

Instead, the study concludes that Hayes Township should monitor on-site septic sytems and study the need for an ordinance mandating the repair and maintenance of septic systems.

This is a comprehensive plan that is not anti-growth. It's for controlled growth," Dammann said.

Developing the study, she noted, has involved all elements of the community. "Hayes Township is really growing up. The business of the government at the township level is becoming more and more complex. There are a lot more people involved than ever before. It's an exciting process."

The comprehensive plan, which contains recommendations for further study, will now be turned over to the township board and additional public hearings are expected.

DEPARTMENT OF NATURAL RESOURCES

(Under authority of Act 165, P.A. 1929, and Act 230 P.A. 1925, as amended)

STATEWIDE TROUT AND SALMON REGULATIONS

Under the authority of Section 3 of Act 230, P.A. 1925, and Act 165, P.A. 1929, as amended, being Sections 300.3 and 303.1, respectively, of the Michigan Compiled Laws, the Natural Resources Commission, at its February 6, 1987, meeting, amended its order of October 10, 1986, that no person shall possess, take or attempt to take, any species of trout or salmon from any of the waters of this state except by hook and line during the open seasons prescribed, and within the minimum size limits and maximum possession limits indicated below.

Statewide open seasons on all streams and designated trout lakes shall be from the last Saturday in April through September 30 (longer on waters designated by the Director for extended fishing under Act 165) on all trout and salmon; statewide open seasons on all other inland lakes and the Great Lakes and connecting waters shall be any time for all trout and salmon; except: on Lake Huron and its tributary streams and on Lake Michigan and its tributary streams where the season on lake trout is from May 1 through August 15. Also, the following defined areas are established as refuge areas for lake trout rehabilitation and are closed to sport fishing for lake trout.

Lake Michigan (North)
All waters enclosed in an area commencing at a point 9 miles due west of 7-mile point, then westerly for 13½ miles, then north 5½ miles, then west for 9 miles, then north for 11 miles then west for 18 miles, then south for 38½ miles, then east for 9 miles, then north for 5½ miles, then east for 9 miles, then north for 5½ miles, then east for 18 miles, then north for 5½ miles, then east for 4½ miles, then north for 5½ miles to the point of beginning.

Lake Michigan (South)
All waters enclosed in an area commencing at a point 12½ miles due west of the lake entrance of Duck Lake, Muskegon County (T11N, R18W, Sec. 24), then west to the state boundary, then southerly along the state boundary to a point due west of a point 1½ miles south of Lake Macatawa Harbor entrance, then due east 14 miles, then north to point of origin.

Lake Huron
All waters enclosed in an area commencing from Pt. Anderson (T41N,R5E, Sec. 11) to a point 21 miles south, then easterly to the international boundary, then northerly along the international boundary to a point due east of the point of land south and east of Bass Cove on Drummond Island (T41N, R7E, Sec. 26) then due west to the intersection of Drummond Island (T41N, R75, Sec. 26).

Size limits shall be 8 inches in Lower Peninsula streams, 7 inches on Upper Peninsula streams, and 10 inches on all lakes. The possession limit for trout and salmon shall be 5 fish singly or in combination but no more than 2 lake trout or splake from Lake Michigan and its tributary streams or 3 lake trout or splake from Lake Superior and Lake Huron and their tributary streams, except that an additional 5 brook or brown trout or pink salmon may be taken from streams from the last Saturday in April through September 30 only.

In addition to one day's possession limit of salmon and trout, a person may possess an additional two days' possession limit of processed salmon. For the purposes of this Commission Order, the term processed means:

(a) Canned in a sealed container
(b) Cured by smoking or drying
(c) Frozen in a solid state

Any processed salmon or trout aboard a vessel on the water or at dockside shall be included in the daily possession limit.

This order supercedes the previous order, CFI-104.86, dated October 10, 1986, and shall be effective for two years, beginning April 1, 1987, through March 31, 1989.

Soil and water conservation group works quietly behind scenes

by PEG OILLE

Some people are quiet about the work they do.

That's the way it is with the Charlevoix Soil and Water Conservation District and the smaller area Resource Conservation and Development (RC&D) Council.

Kelly Looze, coordinator of the Soil and Water Conservation District, reported to the County Board of Commissioners recently on some of the work being done out of her Boyne City office

While many of the projects have been reported in the newspapers, they are usually described as city or township projects, with mention of the assistance of the Conservation District downplayed or omitted.

There was the project at Mt. McSauba, where the District supplied technical assistance and labor to plant 180,000 plugs of beach grass for sand erosion control.

There was the project at the Lake Michigan end of Townline Road in Hayes Township, where the District helped construct a wooden stairway down the bluff to the beach below, thus eliminating erosion by foot traffic.

There was the stone berm the District helped build around the Charlevoix Township Hall.

There was the Avalanche Overlook in Boyne City, a project of soil stabilization and construction of a woodchipped trail and wooden stairway of 205 steps to a viewing platform.

There were other projects, too, all undertaken in cooperation with a local unit of government, and while many projects were related to recreational purposes, they all had an element of soil-and-or water stabilization.

The Charlevoix Soil and Water Conservation District has also established a beach grass nursery on Clipperview Road in Norwood Township, planting 50,000 plugs of grass obtained from the Mason County District in Scottsville. After two years, some of this grass will be available to the public for erosion protection purposes.

Right now, the Conservation District is taking orders for seedling trees and shrubs to be used for windbreaks, reforestation, erosion control, and wildlife. Among the varieties available is a packet of 75 different trees and shrubs of 10 or 12 different varieties. All the trees and shrubs will be delivered to the District's Boyne City office for pickup on April 25.

Early in May each year, the Conservation District sponsors a Farm and Field Day for fifth grade students in Boyne City and Boyne Falls schools. The children are taken by bus to the Korthase farm for a day of observation and learning about the various aspects of farming.

The Conservation District has taken over the job of preparing and selling plat books of Charlevoix County as a fund-raising project.

With only 100 copies left, they are planning a re-issue in 1988.

The Charlevoix RC&D Council is part of the Northwest Michigan RC&D Council, with headquarters in Traverse City. Last fall, the Northwest Council held workshops on the growing and marketing of Shiitake mushrooms. These Japanese forest mushrooms are grown commercially in Wisconsin at a latitude about the same as northwest Michigan, so there is a real possibility they could become a profitable commercial crop in this area, according to some interested persons.

The purpose of the Charlevoix Soil & Water District, as well as other Districts throughout the state, as explained, is to "develop a program of land use assistance to balance the land's capabilities with the user's goals so an economic or social return is produced on a sustaining basis". This would include reduction of wind and water erosion, productivity of soils, management of surface water, and assurance that best management practices are being used to make certain land uses are in harmony with soil capabilities.

Private citizens, as well as local units of government, are eligible for land management assistance from the Conservation District. Assistance may include site evaluation and conservation plans based on projected use of the land. This could be the establishment of windbreaks, grass waterways, diversions, contour strips, wildlife habitat management, or waste treatment systems.

There is no direct cost for technical assistance, and implementation of any recommended measure is voluntary. Actual construction or installation costs, however, are paid by the land user. Plant materials, tree seedlings, and use of specialized equipment for conservation purposes are available at a nominal cost.

The Soil and Water Conservation District is funded through the Michigan Department of Agriculture and receives some funds from Charlevoix County. The RC&D program is largely funded through the United States Department of Agriculture Soil Conservation Service.

Locally, affairs of the Soil and Water Conservation District are handled by a board of directors consisting of William Korthase, Jr., Boyne Valley Township, chairman; Wayne Saunders, Eveline Township, vice-chairman; Dave Stolt, Bay Township, treasurer; Tim Matchett, Marion Township, member; and Carl Grutsch, South Arm Township, member. Kelly Looze serves as coordinator.

The Charlevoix RC&D Council is made up of Clyde Cunningham, Marion Township, chairman; Charles Kitely, Marion Township, vice-chairman; Larry Matthew, Melrose Township; Thora Kotowich, South Arm Township; and June Cross, Charlevoix. Tim Matchett serves as district representative and Kelly Looze as secretary.

Children at St. Mary's visit shut-ins

Spring will arrive this weekend. Helping to usher it in will be 29 First Holy Communicants from St. Mary's Parish who will be knocking on the doors of shut-ins in the parish to deliver a basket of flowers. Each child will be accompanied by a parent or a friend.

"This is our way of instilling in these children the joy of giving, of giving of themselves as well as a gift, of making them aware of others outside their family circle and the joy it is possible to bring by being thoughtful and caring," Sister Jean Marie Lazio, who has been preparing the children to receive this sacrament, explained.

In the accompanying picture, some of the children are shown arranging their baskets for delivery.

Credit cards can be used for licenses

Charlevoix County motorists can now use credit cards to pay for their license plates and driver licenses when using the Department of State's mail program, Secretary of State Richard H. Austin announced recently.

"With so many consumers preferring to use credit cards, we started this program so we can continue to offer Michigan motorists the most convenient service," said Austin.

Charleviox County motorists join those in 53 other counties who can use their VISA or MasterCard to charge their fees. The credit card program, the first of its kind for motorists in the nation, should be available in all 83 Michigan counties by July.

"We are hopeful the acceptance of credit cards will increase our mail business," continued Austin. "This should shorten the waiting time in our branch offices and allow us to achieve significant savings in departmental costs.

"I expect the use of credit cards to be as popular as when we began accepting personal checks for the payment of fees in 1971," Austin added.

Beginning last week, Charlevoix County's 15,695 drivers who own 18,935 vehicles began receiving charge slips when their license renewals notices arrive in the mail.

The Department of State began accepting credit cards under a pilot program last October shortly after receiving authorization from the Michigan Legislature.

During the pilot program, motorists who used their credit cards charge an average of $50 in fees.

The Department is implementing the credit card program by adding a number of counties each month. In addition to Charlevoix County, 24 other counties have been added to the program this month. Credit cards cannot be used in local Secretary of State branch offices.

Democrats to meet

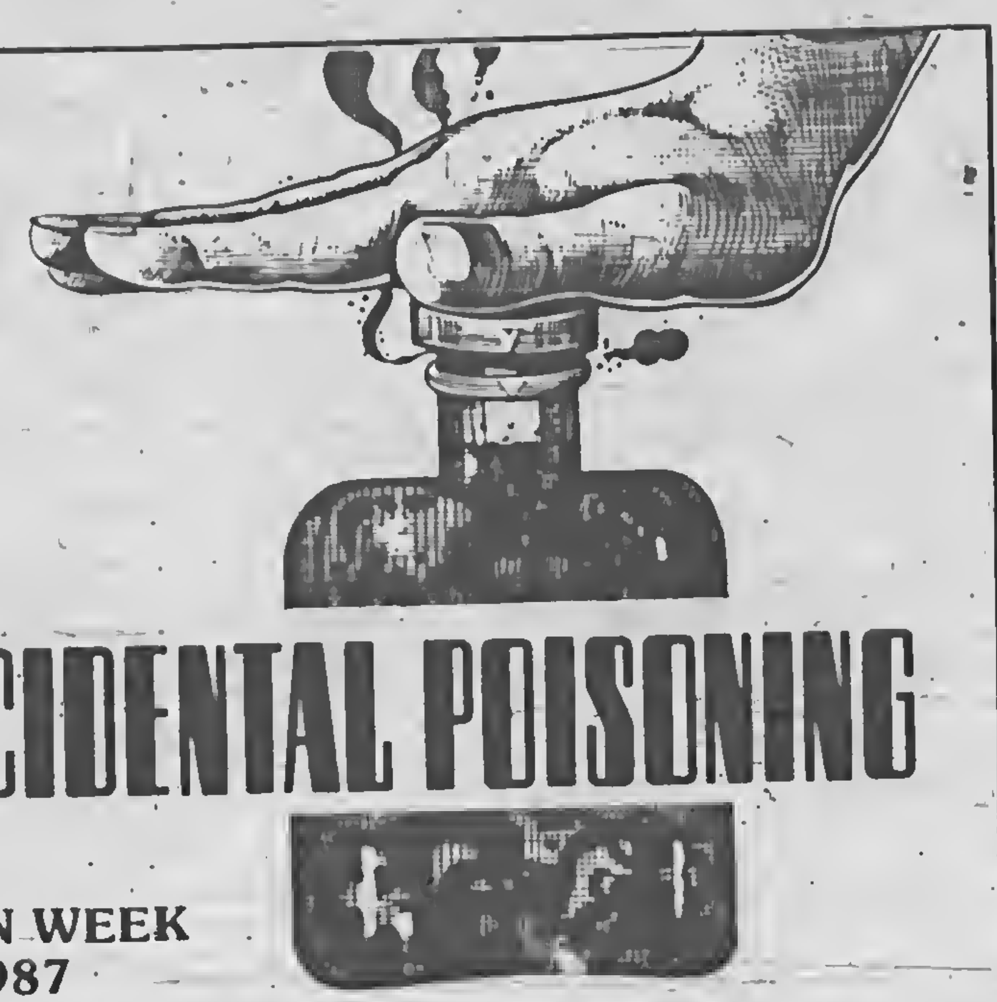
PREVENT ACCIDENTAL POISONING



POISON PREVENTION WEEK
MARCH 15-21, 1987

Clean out your medicine chest; exchange old prescriptions for "Pizza Bucks"

Now is the time to purge your medicine chest of obsolete medication! During Poison Prevention Week participating local pharmacies will take your old, outdated prescriptions and exchange them for a "Pizza Buck", redeemable at your local Pizza Hut Restaurant.

Remember, the dates of all medications should be checked carefully and medication should be administered only to those for whom it is prescribed.

What If My Child Takes a Potential Poison?

- Remain calm and call your poison control center immediately.
- Bring the container or label to the phone.
- Describe the situation: what was taken, how much, and how long ago?
- Describe your child's current condition.
- For mouth, skin or eye exposure, rinse the affected area immediately.
- Do not give your child anything to eat or drink except water until you have contacted your poison control center.
- However, if a caustic has been ingested, give milk or water immediately.
- Keep syrup of ipecac on hand.
- Do not wait for symptoms to occur. In all cases of suspected poisoning, call your poison control center as soon as the ingestion is discovered.
- Keep their number by your telephone at all times.

New police chief picked by city

by DOUG TRUAX

Dennis Halverson

Dennis S. Halverson, a ten-year veteran of the Grand Traverse Sheriff's Department, was named Charlevoix's new police chief Monday in a unanimous vote of council.

Halverson, 31, was recommended for the post by a search committee composed of council members Norm Probert, Shirley Roloff and Bill Haggard. The committee reviewed over 70 applications for the job and interviewed the top five candidates on March 9.

Halverson, currently a sergeant with the Grand Traverse Sheriff's Department, is a graduate of Michigan State University. He has taken additional course work at Ferris State College and the University of Minnesota and has been accepted in the master's program at Central Michigan University.

Halverson is married and he and his wife, Joy, have two children ages four and six.

Councilman Probert, who headed the search committee, said the caliber of the candidates interviewed was exceptionally high. "They are probably five of the best gentlemen I have met in the State of Michigan," he said.

He was the unanimous choice of the council and of a special interviewing committee composed of area police officials, Probert said.

Halverson began his career with the Grand Traverse County Sheriff's Department in 1978 in the marine division. He subsequently worked on road patrols and as a detective where he assisted the FBI and the Secret Service.

Halverson has experience in undercover drug and narcotics investigations and has worked with child abuse and as school liaison officer.

As sergeant he is in charge of from six to eight officers. He is the son of a former chief of the Michigan State Police.

The new police chief told council that while his background was being checked he, in turn, did some checking on Charlevoix. "Charlevoix and its police department have an excellent reputation in the law enforcement community," he said. "I feel pretty fortunate."

Halverson said he liked small town aspect of Charlevoix and felt it had much in common with the Traverse City area.

Councilman Earl Muma told council that supervisory experience was the only thing lacking in the background of the local candidate, Charlevoix police officer Paul Ivan. Of Halverson he noted, "He will serve you well as a police officer."

Other candidates interviewed for the job included Ivan, Leon J. Dyke of Harrison, James M. Hatch of Walker, Randy W. Kruse of Evart and Robert J. Rosenberg of Saginaw.

Council seeks grant for Ferry Beach area

by DOUG TRUAX

Major improvements costing $666,281 could be in store for Ferry Beach and the adjoining boat launching area if the grant application approved by the city council Monday night is accepted by the state.

The grant was developed jointly by City Manager Michael Wiesner, Charlevoix County Recreation Director Mike Davis and a group of area fishermen. It calls for construction of a fish cleaning station and rest rooms in the center of the Ferry Avenue boat launching parking lot at an estimated cost of $70,000.

Also planned are improvements to the boat launch ramps on Lake Charlevoix, including reconstruction of the two south ramps ($45,000), construction of two new ramps on the north ($50,000), three permanent walkways between the ramps ($22,500), floating pier extensions ($10,500) and skid piers ($12,000).

The plan also calls for a rubber tire breakwall to the north of the launch area ($30,000) to protect boats from northeasterly winds.

Changes in the existing park would include relocation of the beach restrooms and concession stand to a more central location, grading and paving of a parking lot for 200 cars to the west of the current park, the construction of new picnic shelters and children's play apparatus ($51,000), installation of a transient boaters dock ($10,000), and the filling of the recently acquired annex to the Ferry Beach park ($30,500).

Under the plan the children's play area would be moved away from the beach.

Davis told council the grant application would go to both the Land and Water Conservation Fund funded by the federal government and the Natural Resources Trust Fund which is funded by state royalties from oil and gas revenues from state land.

If approved by the Land and Water Conservation Fund the federal government would pay 75 percent of the costs, Davis said. The state's land trust would pay 50 percent.

Davis said the project would be scored by field representatives and then by state staff. A final decision would not come before the end of the year with funding for the state Land Trust requiring Senate approval next April.

He said the project should score well with grant evaluators since it involved activity on the water and Area fishermen look for clout in new group

by DOUG TRUAX

A group of Lake Charlevoix area fishermen have joined forces in a new group aimed at providing a better sport fishery for northwest Michigan.

Called Northwest Lakes and Streams, the organization which has held only three meetings to date already counts over 30 members.

Clem Olach of Charlevoix, recently elected president, said the group is intent on "improving the fishery in our waters, both lake and streams and will also provide an opportunity for sport fishermen to get together socially and fraternally."

He said the group will represent the entire northwest Michigan area, from Traverse City to Mackinaw City. Although it has yet to draw up a list of priorities, Olach said the group's goals would include pressure for a more diversified fishery with the addition of spring spawning species in the Lake Charlevoix area.

Also of major concern to the fishermen is the enforcement of recently approved restrictions on gill netting in Lake Michigan. Northwest Lakes and Streams will work with sport fishing organizations in Petoskey and Traverse City, Olach said, to see that the scheduled gill net bans are enforced.

Other issues the fishermen will address include habitat improvements, a lamprey weir on the Jordan river, walleye plants for the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix and continued pressure to increase trout and salmon plants in the Lake Charlevoix area.

Northwest Lakes and Streams has also been involved in talks with the city to develop new boat launching ramps and a fish cleaning station at the Ferry Beach access site.

"I'm very encouraged by the membership for the group so far," Olach said. "It's an enthusiastic bunch."

Council sends scenic reserve issue back for planning commission review

City council agreed Monday night to have the city planning commission reconsider a proposal to broaden the uses allowed in the scenic reserve zone which fronts the Chicago and Belvedere clubs on Lake Charlevoix and includes Park Island in Round Lake.

One week ago, after a closed session dealing with the Chicago Club tax appeal, council directed the planning commission to consider adding residential homes to the uses allowed in scenic reserve. The zoning is currently restricted to cabanas, docks, boat houses and the like.

The planning commission was to take up the issue again at its meeting Wednesday at 7 p.m. in City Hall. Earlier this year the planners unanimously rejected a change in the scenic reserve zoning.

Some members of council and the mayor believe the expanded use would give the city a stronger case for higher taxes on the Chicago Club, which has taken the city to the state Tax Tribunal to overturn the city's assessment for the property. In a previous ruling in support of the Chicago Club, the Tax Tribunal ruled that lower taxes were justified because of the limited uses allowed in the scenic reserve zone.

Cribbage captains named for 1988 tournament

Hugh Mayne of the Masons team and Bruce Reinhart of the Oddfellows will captain their respective teams in the 1988 Masons-Oddfellows cribbage tournament, it was announced at the annual dinner which climaxed the 10-weeks event.

Ted Pennell Jr., tournament secretary, said as high scorers for the season they will serve as next year's captains.

At the same program, Clay Berry was named to succeed Pennell as secretary.

The dinner held at the Masonic Temple and prepared by Otto Yemmans and Thurmond McKinney, honored the winning team, the Oddfellows.

The tournament, a product of the Great Depression of the 1930s is the oldest ongoing event in the community. This was its 57th season.

French students to tour countryside

by FRAN MARTIN

Ahh, Paris, Versailles, Orleans (the city of Joan of Arc), Nice, Monaco, Geneva...names that have been but a dream until now will become a reality for some 20 members of the French Club at the Charlevoix High School.

On Tuesday, March 31, the students, accompanied by their teacher, Mrs. Yvonne Wendt, and her husband, Richard, will depart via bus for Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., where they will take a domestic flight to Toronto to join other students for the overseas trip conducted by the Cultural Heritage Alliance (CHA). Two members of CHA will join the Charlevoix group as tour guides throughout the trip.

Arriving in Paris, the group will be escorted to their hotel and enjoy a walking tour to get acquainted with the city.

The following day, the tour will take them to the many wonders of the fabulous city including the Place de L'Opera, the Tuileries, Les Invalides, Place de la Concorde, Champs Elysees, Eiffel Tower and the Gothic splendor of Notre Dame, climaxed by a brief visit to the Louvre.

The afternoon will be free to walk along the banks of the Seine or to join a CHA walking tour of the city.

A special treat awaits the tourists at night when they take a Bateaux Mouches cruise on the Seine and a tour of Paris at night.

Day four of the tour will take the travelers to the Loire Valley with is succession of historic chateaux, among them Chambord with its 440 rooms, lovely Chenonceaux given by Henry II to Diane de Poitiers and Azay-le-Rideau with its exquisite gardens. They will reach Orleans at the close of the day and visit the city of Joan of Arc.

Next on the tour will be the beautiful Palace of Versailles built by Louis IV with its Hall of Mirrors, the Royal Chapel, Marie Antoinette's Chamber and the beautifully landscaped gardens by Le Notre. Then on to Fontainebleau to visit the beautiful Renaissaince chateau, a favorite resident of the Emporer Napoleon.

After returning to Paris, the group will board a modern train-couchette for the trip to the south of France where on day 6 they will visit Nice, "Queen of the French Riviera." An orientation tour will take the visitors along the sweeping Promenade des Anglais and to the Old City with its narrow winding streets. Following the tour the students will have an opportunity to explore this elegant city of sunny beaches.

Day seven will open with a trip into the hills to the town of Eze famous for its Fragonard perfume factory. Then, on to the principality of Monaco and the sheer elegance and beauty of Monte Carlo.

On day eight, the tour will leave the coast for a fantastic drive over the majestic Alps over the Route Napoleon through picturesque villages to Geneva, Switzerland. In the evening there will be time to explore this international city located on Lake Geneva.

A brief tour of the city featuring its famous Reformation Monument will take the tourists to the airport where they will board their plane on Wednesday April 8 for the trip home but not before they have an unforgetable view of Mont Blanc.

Making the trip, chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Wendt, will be Jill Austin, Laura Bartley, Tricia Blissett, James Boydston, Scott DeYoung, Dan Drury, Jennifer Greene, Allison Hall, Kristin Holmes, Amy Kelly.

Heather Livingston, James Mabee, Thomas Merta, Ellen Pearl, Jennifer Ritt, Rebecca Smith, Roger Smith, Bonnie Themm, Robert VanKuiken and Jennifer Werner.

The travelers will be met at Sault Ste. Marie for the return trip to Charlevoix.

Theresa Dean

New teacher joins staff

Miss Theresa Dean has joined the faculty of the Charlevoix public schools as a Spanish teacher at the high school and middle school.

She succeeds Ted Miller who has taken a leave of absence to become a visiting lecturer at Soka University in Hachioja, Japan. He plans to be overseas a minimum of two years. Miller has been a teacher in the Charlevoix schools since 1981. He was accompanied by his wife, Mary Lou and two children.

Dean, a native of Hesperia where she graduated from high school, is a recent graduate of Alma College with majors in Spanish and music. She plays the piano and organ. She did her practice teaching in the Alma school system.

Students organize all-night lock-in

The Charlevoix High School chapter of Students Against Driving Drunk (SADD) has organized an all-night "lock-in" dance for April 11.

The first of its kind in Charlevoix, the dance is designed as a substance-free alternative to weekend parties. Students in grades 9-12 will be allowed into the school from 8 to 11 p.m. at which time the students are locked in for the night. Students will remain in the school until at least 8 a.m. Sunday participating in not only dancing but a variety of sports, games, movies, and other activities.

"Our main thing is to get across to people that they can have fun without booze," one of the student organizers explained.

Chaperones will oversee the activities. Tickets are $5 and are available at the school.

SADD is a nationwide organization designed to eliminate drunk driving among teenagers. "Kids place too much emphasis on alcohol and weekend fun. We think this will help prove to kids you don't need it (alcohol) to have a good time," Lorelei Southwood, one of the dance organizers, said.

The students are looking for chaperones for the dance to work in two or four hour shifts. They are also open to suggestions for activities and need donations of food and other items for the dance. Persons wishing to contribute should call Kim Maxson at 547-5281.

Teacher Kenneth Plude serves as faculty advisor to the SADD chapter. Helping plan the dance are Maxson, Southwood, George Scholey, Hal Chase, Jana Mansen, Beth Cates and Jodi Kluczynski.

Choir, orchestra prepare Spring Festival of Song

Rehearsals for the choir and orchestra in preparation for the annual Spring Festival of Song have started and are being held at the First Congregational Church every Monday and Tuesday, Ellen Addington, director, has announced.

The orchestra rehearses at 7:30 p.m. Monday and the choir at the same time on Tuesday.

Anyone who plays an instrument who would like to play with the orchestra or sings and would like to join the chorus is invited to attend the rehearsals.

The Spring Festival of Song will be presented at St. Mary's Church at 4 p.m. Sunday, May 3.

Addington may be reached at 536-7018.

RENTING OUT YOUR HOME

Your home becomes a business if you rent it out either for a year or some seasonal period such as the summer. The costs of running the property are subtracted from the rent to determine the net income from the operation — just as would be done in any other business. Among the expenses that can be charged off are interest on the mortgage, maintenance and repairs, agent's fees, utilities if you pay them, insurance premiums, annual depreciation, and improvements.

If you sell a house you rented as against a home occupied by the owner — there are important tax differences.

Depreciation claimed must be subtracted from the cost of the house. You can't defer the profit from the sale by buying another house. However, you can charge off a loss on the sale against your income for the year.

Tax-wise, renting out your home is a whole new ball game. So as not to pass up any moneysaving deductions, I suggest you put your return in the hands of a good accountant.

Opinion

Letters to the editor:

Why has Charlevoix been exploited for money?

Dear Editor:

I was wondering if you would be so kind as to show my anquish at the plight of most of the citizens of Charlevoix by printing this letter, sent to you, in dedication to them. My heart truly aches for those who haven't the first idea of how to stop the overdevelopment of the hometown even I have grown to love so far away from my own.

Dear Citizens of Charlevoix the Beautiful,

Remember the breathtaking view of Lake Michigan sunsets as you were driving the curves into Charlevoix before the Dunes and LaCroft condos arrived?

As a long time, intermittent visitor of your heavenly place, I've been here again recently and am concerned. Why has there been allowed such exploitation of Charlevoix by people who have monetary interest only? Can't the people of Charlevoix please stand up to those who completely destroy, blow by blow, the asthetic beauty of their town?

—The only clear peek at any of the water that has made Charlevoix "the Beautiful" is right ON the bridge and if you happen to notice it while driving by East Park. The last eyecatching view of Round Lake has been bluntly blocked by the Edgewater Inn condominiums near the bridge. Remember the sparkling waters of Round lake on an early trip to town shortly after sunrise?...

Please...act soon...

Let dead rest in peace

Dear Editor:

The following is an open letter to your erstwhile columnist, Edith Gilbert:

Dear Ms. Gilbert:

I could not care less if you dress like a bag lady, act like a bag lady or even smell like a bag lady and I am not concerned that a waitress spits in your eye now and then.

But I do want you to know that we were out at the cemetery recently and everything was calm, cool and quiet and neither Earl Young nor anyone else out there was "spinning in his grave."

It might help a little if you would let the dead rest in peace.

My Fair Lady

Clockwise

BY BOB CLOCK

Dave Fowler of Charlevoix says that Boyne City is Northern Michigan's best kept secret.

And he is probably right.

Charlevoix's neighbor down the lake is not the same community it was even 10 years ago — a sleepy ex-logging town where nothing much seemed to happen.

But the new Boyne City is putting the rest of Northern Michigan to shame, with a rapidly filling air-industrial park, improvements to the downtown business district, one of the North's most popular new restaurants called One Water Street, acres of new resort-recreational housing and a brand new $2.8 million bond issue to rebuild the city's ancient infrastructure in preparation for future growth and development.

But what convinced Fowler that Boyne City is on the comeback trail has nothing to do with bricks, mortar or water mains.

He was among hundreds of area residents who flocked to Boyne City Saturday night for the final performance of "My Fair Lady" by the Boyne City Drama Department, directed by Bob and Jackie Wollenberg.

I attended the same performance and share Fowler's enthusiasm for what is happening in Boyne City.

I have seen "My Fair Lady" at least a half dozen times, including the movie and two professional performances in large downstate theaters with upholstered seats and carpeted aisles.

But the Boyne City production was far and away the best from every standpoint — acting, music, choreography, costuming, stage set, lighting, acoustics — and such nice little touches as having Cockney "flower girls" circulate through the audience before the performance selling spring posies.

It was a little difficult to believe that the people on stage were all high school students, because there was nothing amateurish about the production.

Although the entire cast did a superb job, the performances of Amy Bogetto as Eliza Doolittle and Bill Casper as her dad, Alfred P. Doolittle, were outstanding. I have never seen better portrayals of either character.

In fact, I have always had a secret hankering to play the role of Alfred P. Doolittle myself. But not any longer. I could never come close to Casper's performance.

The crowd scenes at Covent Garden were nothing short of spectacular — such verve, such animation, such... And the Ascot race scene has never been better costumed or performed with more straight-laced gentility.

The surprise is that the Wollenbergs have been turning out three such first-rate productions a year for the past 10 years in Boyne City's tiny elementary school auditorium. In fact, it was in 1977 that they directed the community's first production of "My Fair Lady."

Charlevoixans have long prided themselves on the wealth of talent displayed by their own drama students under the direction of Connie Ford. It's a pleasant surprise to learn Boyne City's kids are in the same league.

Now I am wondering why our two communities don't join forces and turn Northern Michigan into another mecca for the performing arts — like Stratford, Ont., or Niagara-on-the-Lake.

So much talent certainly deserves wider appreciation than it now receives.

And what a drawing card for an area so heavily dependent upon tourism!

Know your Chamber

By JACQUIE MERTA
Executive Director

We are having our first "Business After Hours" Thursday, March 26.

You're probably asking yourself, "what is Business After Hours?" It is a chance for you to get to know what is available in the Charlevoix business community and, conversely, to let others know what you have to offer. There is no formal program. Just a good time for all Chamber members, and prospective members, to get together away from "the office."

Tim Moore, of KHQ Radio, is chairman of Business After Hours. And KHQ will be our first munificent sponsor providing complimentary hors d'oeuvres.

Bring your guest, your management staff, your sales staff, your purchasing agent, all professionals.

See you at the Weathervane Restaurant on March 26 from 5-7 p.m.

Council asks scenic reserve review

At Monday's meeting Councilman Norm Probert introduced a motion to rescind the previous week's decision to send the issue back to the planning commission. Probert opposes a change in the zoning.

His action prompted an extended discussion of conflict of interest after Mayor Ralph McRae asked whether Probert should be allowed to vote because he owned property near the scenic reserve.

City Attorney Jeffery VanTreese told Probert he would be in conflict of interest if he felt his property values would be affected "discernably different from others" if the zoning were changed.

Probert chose to vote on the issue, saying his property did not directly adjoin the scenic reserve. Council voted 4 to 2 to ask the planning commission to include residential housing in the scenic reserve zone. Probert and Shirley Roloff voted against the move.

Fishermen form group

Other officers of the organization include Pat Mitchell, Boyne City, vice president; Don Swartz, Charlevoix, recorder; Bill Tache, Charlevoix, treasurer. Representatives elected so far include Charles Hawley and John Howard from Boyne City and Dave Julleret from Charlevoix. Additional representatives from Charlevoix and East Jordan will be elected.

Northwest Lakes and Streams meets the second Monday of each month on a rotating basis between Charlevoix, East Jordan and Boyne City. The next meeting is Monday, April 13 in Boyne City at a site to be announced. Frank North of Fairport Marine Electronics will speak on LORAN and other electronic equipment for the fisherman. Membership dues are $10 per year.

KCB sets schedule of events

Keep Charlevoix Beautiful finalized a schedule of events for 1987 at its regular meeting Saturday. Included on the organization's calendar this year will be the annual petunia planting, a new silent auction and a repeat of last year's car raffle capped by an end-of summer celebration.

The sixth annual Petunia Planting Day will be Thursday, May 21. Planting of 930 flats of petunias along both sides of US 31 through the city will commence at 5 p.m. and be followed at 6 p.m. with the picnic for planters in East Park.

In a new twist on what was formerly the Petunia Auction held in August the past few years, a silent auction will be held this spring with sealed bids opened at 7:30 p.m. on Petunia Planting Day.

Items donated to date are featured in an advertisement in today's Charlevoix Courier on page 3. They will be on display in the Market Mall for a least one week before the May 21 bid openings.

The raffle of a brand new vehicle yet to be chosen will again involve 200 tickets at $100 each. At a Labor Day Summer Finale Party on Sept. 7, ticket purchasers will be invited to attend a 5 p.m. reception and mini-auction at the Edgewater Inn of donated services such as gourmet dinners, cruises and a round trip for two to Germany.

Later, the raffle winner will be announced at a 7 p.m. dinner at the Weathervane Restaurant. Capping the evening will be a cruise for ticket purchasers on the Star of Charlevoix paddlewheeler.

In other business at KCB's meeting:

-The Clothing Company presented a fashion show of sweatsuits and t-shirts featuring a new petunia design. The downtown Charlevoix store has agreed to donate $1 from each purchase of the new items toward the KCB petunia project and turned over a $100 advance donation Saturday.

-City Shade Tree Commission chairman Pat Jackson reported that the city has eliminated 38 dead or dying trees and has identified 21 more to be cut down in a replacement project.

-District Health Department sanitarian Larry Levengood reported on a number of issues including the Lake Charlevoix Management Planning project, the new Lake Michigan Water Treatment plant which he said is expected to be in operation in early April and the search for a proposed low-level radioactive waste dump in the Midwest.

-Lou Orlowski presented a landscape plan he has designed for the Charlevoix Historical Society's Harsha House museum featuring the replica of a fence photographed at a local home in 1886.

-The KCB board approved donation of a tree to Harsha House in the name of Bob Miles.

-Kate Burlew recounted the adventures she and her husband experienced during their recent trip to London which they won as highest bidders at last year's Petunia Auction.

Spring Thaw luncheon set

The annual Spring Thaw, a luncheon and program, will be held at Boyne Mountain Lodge at noon Thursday, April 2, under the sponsorship of the Commissions of Aging of Antrim and Charlevoix counties and the Charlevoix County Community Education Department.

The buffet luncheon at noon will feature three entrees at a cost of $6.50 including tax and gratuity.

Entertainment by the Charlevoix Sing-alongs, East Jordan Merry Musical Singers and the Boyne City Kitchen Kuties will follow.

Arrangements have also been made for transportation to the Boyne Mountain Lodge via school bus.

Tickets are available at Senior Citizens meal sites in the county. In Charlevoix the site is at the VFW post home. Inquiries may be directed to the director, Sherry Black.

School ready for spring break

The Charlevoix Public Schools and St. Mary's Parochial School will close Friday, March 27, for the annual spring break.

Classes will be resumed at the usual hours on Monday, April 6.

Clowning around is serious business

Send in the clowns.

So say Phyllis Pidek and Laurie Cornett, a mother and daughter team who have recently begun a clowns for all occasions business in Charlevoix.

Called Jolly Ann & Chuckles, the clown team will do everything from deliver a birthday message to entertain for a party for anyone from age 2 to 92.

"My mom has been talking about this for years," explains Cornett. "She has a great personality for this, very outgoing."

The talk turned to action after Laurie returned one year ago from living in Alaska.

The pair has incorporated two classic clown types in their act. Phyllis, the mother, plays Chuckles, an "August" clown with funny, stupid and clumsy antics, huge shoes and a nose that squeaks. Laurie takes the role of a white-faced clown. "I'm more the straight man in the act," she explains. She also plays the ukelele.

The pair of clowns inaugurated their act on March 18 at a party honoring the 72nd birthday of Betty Allison, a resident of the Van Pelt Home in Atwood. Everyone had a fine time as the clowns led the singing of "Happy Birthday," "When Your're Smiling," "My Betty Lies over the Ocean" and a variety of other favorites.

Anyone interested in hiring Jolly Ann & Chuckles should call 547-9534. Prices range from $55 for the pair for a one-hour party or $30 for a one-half hour party to $20 for delivery of a birthday message or song or balloons.

Rayders lose to Benzie Central in regional final

The quickness and the experience of the Benzie Central Huskes paid off for them as they romped over the younger Charlevoix Rayders to win the regional finals at Gaylord Friday night 77-62.

On the boards, the Huskies outrebounded the Rayders 35 to 26 and from the floor outshot them with the Rayders hitting on 24 of 57 or 42 percent to Benzie's 34 of 58 or 59 percent.

"I was a little disappointed that we didn't rebound better. Their quickness was definitely a factor in the game," Coach Dave Smith said. "Added to that, their team was made up of mostly seniors where we have three juniors who started. That year of playing and maturing makes a big difference," he added.

Smith was especialled pleased with the play of Jim Ciuk and Scott DeYoung. DeYoung had 13 of the team's 26 rebounds, all in the second half. "In fact, all the players tried but Benzie's experience and quickness was just too much for us," he said.

Benzie jumped to a 21-12 first period lead.

Three quick buckets by the Rayders, one by Ciuk and two by Owen Phillips; put Charlevoix back in the game and, with 2:37 in the half, the Rayders trimmed the lead to 24-23 on three free throws and a basket by Chad DeVries. Another spurt by the Huskies gave them a 30-25 lead with a minute remaining and a 36-27 advantage at halftime.

As the second half got underway the Rayders cut the Huskie lead to 40-33 on baskets by Ciuk, Joe Miller and Dan Drury. At this point, Benzie pulled away to a 49-35 lead after Ciuk had scored two free throws. A free throw by Drury and a basket by Ciuk gave the Rayders 38 points as Benzie lead 53-38 at the three-quarter mark.

Both teams scored 24 points in the last quarter. With the score at 72-55 with three minutes remaining, both coaches started emptying their benches.

Benzie Central had 34 baskets to the Rayders' 24 and connected on nine of 18 free-throw attempts while collecting 20 personal fouls. Charlevoix had 14 of 21 free throws and 19 personal fouls.

For Charlevoix, Ciuk, who fouled out with more than three minutes on the clock, had 16 points, Scott DeYoung 14, Roger Smith nine, all of them in the last period. DeVries seven, Miller five, Phillips four, Jim Gibbs and Marty Joy, two each.

Benzie's Todd Kulawick dominated the game with 24 points, Rex VanDeren 20 and Bill Huddleston 16.

It was the final prep school game for Ciuk, Miller, Gibbs and Rodger McBride.

In the semifinals of the regional tournament, Charlevoix beat Lincoln Alcona 70-66.

In this game Charlevoix led 18-13 at the quarter and 33-31 at halftime before outscoring the Tigers in the third quarter to go ahead 51-48. The Rayders outpointed the Tigers 19-18 in the final period to advance to the regional finals.

Charlevoix had 30 field goals, 10 of 22 free throws and 20 personal fouls for the game. Alcona had 25 from the floor, 16 of 26 from the line and 22 personal fouls.

Charlevoix had four players in double figures, Miller with 16, Ciuk and DeVries with 15 each and Phillips with 10, Gibbs with eight and DeYoung with six completed the scoring. Kirk Franklin led the Tigers with 20, Dean McClure had 15, Jim Ritchie 13 and Matt Carroll 12.

The Rayders closed out the year with a 16-8 record

Pepsi captures A title

Pepsi-Cola of Petoskey, a team that has paced the A league of the Charlevoix Independent Basketball League most of the season, captured the 1986-87 title Monday by defeating the Depot of Boyne City 83-72 in the best two-out-of-three playoff to close out the season.

The final game was a seesaw battle with Pepsi taking a 19-15 first-period lead only to lose it to the Depot 35-34 at halftime.

As the second half got underway, Pepsi outscored the Depot 22-17 to take a 56-63 advantage going into the final period. Pepsi then outscored their opponent 27-19 to capture the title.

Cliff Haas again led the attack with 30 points, Kim Thomson scored 17, Brian Shorter 14 and Mark Long 12 for the victors. Tom Beyer had 21, Dean Hicks 8 and Ralph Belford 14 for the Depot.

In the opening games of the playoffs, Pepsi of Petoskey defeated Dr. Dave's Green Grinders 88-79 and the Depot of Boyne City beat Kit Carson Lumber 71-62.

Tuesday saw Carson Lumber edge the Depot 60-59 which called for a third game between the two and Pepsi eliminate Dr. Dave's Grinders 104-72.

This called for one game on Wednesday in which the Depot cut short Carson Lumber's hopes for the title by a score of 84-72.

Thursday pitted the two top teams, Pepsi and the Depot, against each other with the Pepsi five coming out on top in the final playoff in this bracket 88-78.

Six Pepsi players were in double figures as they overcame a 19-18 first-periood deficit to go ahead 44-43 at halftime and increase their advantage to 69-54 going into the final period before winning by a 10-point margin.

Childbirth classes April 6

Childbirth classes for expectant parents will start Monday, April 6 at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The six-week series will be held from 6:30 p.m. to 8:45 p.m. on consecutive Monday evenings through May 11 in the hospital's lower level classroom.

Topics to be covered include prenatal exercises, relaxation and breathing techniques, and anatomy of pregnancy, labor and delivery, nutritional needs of mother and baby, breastfeeding and the emotional aspects of having a baby.

Instructor Luanne Henry, R.N. is an obstetrics staff nurse at the hospital and has attended literally thousands of births in her career. For some portions of the classes she will be assisted by a staff physician.

Expectant mothers should be accompanied by either the father-to-be or a "coach" of their choice, wear slacks and bring two pillows to classes. A $20 per family fee covers the entire series and is payable at the first class attended. Some financial assistance is available.

To register or obtain more information call Luanne Henry at 599-2887 or Charlevoix Area Hospital at 547-4024. The Childbirth classes are co-sponsored by the hospital and the CAH Guild.

Cancer screenings offered at hospital

Northern Michigan Planned Parenthood of Petoskey will again offer reduced-rate cancer screening exams during April in conjunction with the American Cancer Society's designation of April as Cancer Control Month.

Morning or afternoon appointments are available and may be made by calling the Planned Parenthood clinic at 347-9692.

The reduced fee of $20, one-third off the regular price, covers the complete exam and lab work. The exam includes: a Pap smear test for cervical cancer; a pelvic exam; a breast exam and instruction for breast self-exams; colon and rectal screening for women over 45; lung, heart and abdominal check; a urine test for diabetes; and a blood test for anemia.

Alice Clayton, NMPP clinic manager and nurse practitioner, recommends an annual pap smear for women over the age 20 who are in a sexual relationship, or whose last test was more than a year ago.

Women also needing contraceptive services, information or counseling may obtain these for a small additional fee.

The Planned Parenthood clinic is located at 820 Arlington Ave., Petoskey, in the professional building next to Lockwood-MacDonald.

Penny Carnival planned

The Ellsworth Senior Class has announced that it will stage a Penny Carnival on April 11 at the Ellsworth High School gymnasium from 2-8 p.m.

The carnival will include games such as a fishing pond, dart balloons, beanbag toss, Hacki Sac attack and football toss. There will also be a 50-50 raffle, balloons, two additional raffles for a basketball and a football, along with bake sales, book fairs, food booths and many other activities.

Tickets are being sold in advance by the Ellsworth fifth- and sixth-grade students. They can also be purchased in advance by contacting Julia Doctor or Jo Tornga at 588-2544. Tickets are five for $1 in advance or four for $1 at the door. Most games require one or two tickets to play.

No. 86-241-11 PZ

In the Matter of the Complaint of the State Treasurer of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State, for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon.

On reading and filing the complaint of the State Treasurer of the State of Michigan praying for a judgement in favor of the State of Michigan against each parcel of land therein described, for the amounts therein specified, claimed to be due for taxes, interest and charges on each such parcel of land, and that such lands be sold for the amounts so claimed by the State of Michigan.

It is ordered that said complaint will be brought on for hearing and judgement at the April term of this Court, to be held at Charlevoix in the County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, on the 13th day of April A.D. 1987, at the opening of the Court on that day, and that all persons interested in such lands or any part thereof, desiring to contest the lien claimed thereon by the State of Michigan, for such taxes, interest and charges, or any part thereof, shall appear in said Court, and file with the clerk thereof their objections thereto on or before the first day of the term of this Court above mentioned, and that in default thereof the same will be taken as confessed and a judgement will be taken and entered as prayed for in said complaint. And it is further ordered that in pursuance of said judgement and lands described in said complaint for which a judgement of sale shall be made, will be sold for the several taxes, interest and charges thereon as determined by such judgement on the first Tuesday in May thereafter, beginning at 10 o'clock a.m. on said day, or on the day or days subsequent thereto as may be necessary to complete the sale of said lands and of each and every parcel thereof, at the office of the County Treasurer, or at such convenient place as shall be selected by him at the county seat of the county of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, and that the sale then and there made will be a public sale, and each parcel described in the judgement shall be separately exposed for sale for the total taxes, interest and charges, and the sale shall be made to the person paying the full amount charged against such parcel, and accepting a conveyance of the smallest undivided fee simple interest therein; or, if no person will pay the taxes and charges and take a conveyance of less than the entire thereof, then the whole parcel shall be offered and sold. If any parcel of land cannot be sold for taxes, interest and charges, such parcel shall be passed over for the time being, and shall, on the succeeding day, or before the close of the sale, be reoffered, and if, on such second offer, or during such sale, the same cannot be sold for the amount aforesaid, the County Treasurer shall bid off the same in the name of the State.

Witness the Hon. Richard M. Pajtas, Circuit Judge, and the seal of said Circuit Court of Charlevoix County this 4th day of March A.D. 1987.

Countersigned.
Jane E. Brannon, Clerk

Richard M. Pajtas, Circuit Judge

STATE OF MICHIGAN
IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF CHARLEVOIX

In the Matter of the Complaint of the State Treasurer of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State, for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon.

TO THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF Charlevoix: Robert A. Bowman, State Treasurer of the State of Michigan, respectfully shows unto the court:

1. That he is the State Treasurer of the State of Michigan and makes and files this complaint under by virtue of and pursuant to the provisions of Act No. 206 of the Public Acts of 1893, as amended, and Act No. 380 of P.A. 1965, as amended.

2. That Schedule A annexed hereto is the tax record required by the act first above mentioned and contains the description of all lands in the aforesaid county upon which taxes, which were assessed for the years mentioned therein, have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent; the description of all lands in said county heretofore bid off in the name of the State and thus held and upon which taxes which were assessed subsequent to the tax for which such lands were sold to the State have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent.

3. That extended separately in said schedule against each description of said lands therein contained are (a) the total amount of delinquent taxes upon said description for the non-payment of which the same may lawfully be sold at the next annual tax sale, (b) interest computed thereon as provided by law to the first day of May next ensuing, (c) a County Property Tax Administration Fee of four percent which shall be a minimum of $1.00 as provided by Section 211.59, C.L. 1970, as amended, and (d) $10.00 for expenses, all in accordance with the provisions of the act first above mentioned.

4. That all of the aforesaid taxes, interest and charges are valid, delinquent and unpaid, and have remained delinquent and unpaid for sufficient time to authorize and require, as provided by the foregoing acts, the sale of the aforesaid parcels of land against which they were assessed and are extended in said schedule at the next annual tax sale for the non-payment thereof, and that the said taxes, interest, County Property Tax Administration Fee and expenses so extended in said schedule against each parcel of land therein described constitute a valid lien upon each of the said several parcels of land described in said schedule as therein and against which extended in favor of the people of the State of Michigan, the payment of which lien this court may enforce as a preferred or first claim upon such lands by the sale thereof.

Wherefore your plaintiff prays:

a. That within the time provided by law this court may determine and adjudge that the aforesaid taxes, interest, County Property Tax Administration Fee and charges are valid and constitute a valid lien upon each of the said several parcels of land described in said schedule as therein extended.

b. That within the time provided by law the court make a final judgement in favor of the State of Michigan against each parcel of said lands for the payment of the several amounts of taxes, interest, County Property Tax Administration Fee and expenses as computed and extended in said schedule against the several parcels of land therein contained, and the amounts listed in the column headed "aggregate" shall constitute the amounts adjudged against the said several parcels, unless so amended by this court.

c. That said judgement provide that in default of the payment so ordered of the said several sums computed and extended against said lands in said schedule, the said several parcels of land, or such interest therein as may be necessary to satisfy the amount adjudged against the same, shall severally be sold as the law provides.

d. That your plaintiff may have such other and further relief in the premises as to this court may seem just and equitable.

And your plaintiff will ever pray, etc.

Dated: February 20, 1987

Robert A. Bowman,
State Treasurer
for and in behalf of said State

Obituaries

Mildred V. Lazure

Mrs. Mildred V. Lazure, 89, of Norwood, died Sunday, March 22 at the Grandvue Medical Care Facility. Rev. Philip G. Schairbaum of the First Congregational Church conducted a service on Tuesday, March 24 at Winchester Funeral Home.

The former Mildred Vance was born at Dayton, Ohio, June 28, 1897, to Joseph E. and Mary E. (Snyder) Vance and graduated from Steele High School in Dayton in 1916. In 1928 she was married to Albert Ronald Lazure. They made their home in Dayton until 1940 when they moved to Indianapolis. Mr. Lazure preceded her in death in 1953. Mrs. Lazure came to Charlevioz to make her home in 1976.

While in Dayton, she did secretarial work at the Montgomery County Courthouse in Ohio and volunteer work for the Republican party and later secretarial work at the Indiana State House.

In Dayton she was a member of the Dayton Central Reformed Church where she taught Sunday school and was a member of the Old Friends Circle; a member of the Tabernacle Presbyterian Church and the Trinity Hospital Guild in Indianapolis and the First Congregational church and its circle, Charlevoix Women's Club and the Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Robert (Nancy E.) Murray of Charlevoix; three grandsons, R.J., Jr. of Kalkaska, David R. and John G. of Charlevoix and four great-grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials to the First Congregational Church Lift Fund.

Belma J. Webster

Funeral services for a former resident, Mrs. Belma J. Webster, 55, of East Jordan, were held Sunday, March 22, at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Charles W. Fullmer of the United Methodist Church of Petoskey officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery.

Mrs. Webster died Thursday, March 19, at Little Traverse Hospital in Petoskey.

Born in Charlevoix July 16, 1931, to Milo and Emma (Wakefield) Kane, the former Belma J. Kane moved to Boyne City in her late teens and graduated from the Boyne City High School in 1949. On Dec. 18, 1954 she married Harry L. Webster of Charlevoix and moved to South Dakota where her husband was stationed in the service. In 1958 they returned to Michigan and lived at Royal Oak until 1961 when they moved to Pompano Beach, Fla. Mr. Webster preceded her in death Feb. 11, 1976. She returned to Charlevoix to live in 1977.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Gregory (Gail) Borgman of Petoskey and Mrs. Tony (Paula) Brewer of Hendersonville, N.C.; a son, Harry N. Webster of Petoskey; three grandchildren; two brothers, Herbert P. Kane and Sam E. Kane, both of Charlevoix and three sisters, Mrs. Frank (Thurl) Case of Sandusky, Mrs. Helen Shaw of East Jordan and Mrs. Charlotte G. Batchelder of Flint.

Regional competition will be held at Kirtland Community College near Roscommon, April 11. Top winners will then advance to state competition.

Health care scholarships available to area students

Twelve northern Michigan area students will be the recipients of health career scholarships awarded this spring by the Northern Michigan Hospitals Auxiliary. The Auxiliary awards the scholarships to encourage new students into the healthcare field.

The $500 scholarships are given each year to students entering or enrolled in an accredited health services program. Students must be accepted into an accredited prenursing or pre-medicine program to be considered for these awards. Undergraduate students only are eligible for the awards.

Candidates must reside in Emmet, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Antrim, Montmorency, Presque Isle, Otsego, Chippewa, Mackinaw or Alpena counties.

Scholarship applications for the 1987-88 school year are available upon request and must be completed and returned by April 30.

For further information contact Dee Dilworth, scholarship chairwoman, at 347-8473, or the auxiliary volunteer office at 348-4568.

Club offers scholarships

The Petoskey Business and Professional Women's Club is now accepting applications for scholarship awards for the 1987-88 year.

Four scholarships will be given: one to a full-time student to attend North Central Michigan College; one to a woman at least five years out of high school to attend any college or university; and two part-time professional advancement scholarships for seminars, workshops, trainin sessions, business schools and such.

Justice system honors area youth

by FRAN MARTIN

A young Charlevoix woman has been named the recipient of the 1987 Youth Achievement aword offered by the Juvenile Justice Association of Michigan.

The award is given as recognition to an outstanding youth coming out of the Juvenile Justice system of Michigan, Brad Campbell, juvenile officer for Charlevoix County, explained. The award carries with it a $1,000 saving certificate.

The recipient is Samantha Sharlene Spencley, 18, now adopted by her foster parents, Gary and Sharlene Spencley of Charlevoix and first came to the attention of the Charlevoix County Juvenile Court in April 1982, Campbell said. Described by the Spencleys and her caseworker, Gary Aschum, as once a very withdrawn, shy and damaged child, Samantha is now a successful graduate of the Charlevoix High School and the Petoskey Beauty Academy. She has worked for the City of Charlevoix as a goodwill representative and is a shining example of the system at its best.

Loving foster parents, good casework and professional counseling brought this child out of the shadow of an abusive family background, Campbell continued.

"I can't think of a more deserving person to receive this prestigious award. We see a lot of kids who are so badly damaged we cannot completely bring them through the trauma they have suffered. Samantha, or 'Sam' as she is affectionately called, is the exception. Those of us who worked with her, her foster parents, Lenore Landon or Protective Services at DSS and Gary know how far she has come," Campbell said. "It has been the caring, understanding, patience and continued hard work of all of us who brought it about. I'm happy because it shows that the system can work. We are equally proud of Sam who is now a happy, outgoind child," he added proudly.

Accompanied by her parents and Campbell, Sam will be in Lansing March 26 to receive the 1987 Youth Achievement Award from Michael Murphy Governor Blanchard's Children's Advocate during the Midwinter Conference of the Juvenile Justice Association of Michigan. Campbell will also acecpt an award on behalf of the Charlevoix County Juvenile Court.

Campbell said it was the first time in his memory a northern Michigan recipient had been named to receive the award.

Sullivan named to Clean Michigan Fund board

Larry Sullivan, Charlevoix County Planner, has been named to the 11-member advisory panel to assist in administering the Clean Michigan Fund Act.

The 11-member advisory panel appointed by the governor, speaker of the house and Senate majority leader is charged with reviewing applications and making recommendations to the Natural Resource Commission which will award the $10 million available for grants.

Sullivan, who has been with the Charlevoix County Planning Department for the past four years, was appointed to the advisory panel by Gary Owen, speaker of the house. He was recommended for the appointment by the Charlevoix County Planning Commission.

The Clean Michigan Fund, Sullivan explained, was established by the state Legislature to promote solid waste managemeat and resource recovery technologies as alternatives to landfill disposal. This is the second year $10 million has been appropriated to expand and promote resource recovery opportunities throughout the state.

Applications for the grants will be accepted until this weekend. It is anticipated the grants will be revived and evaluated by the advisory panel by August of this year when the grants will be awarded through the DNR.

Funding categories for grants including recycling-composting capital, recycling-composting operational, market development, resource recovery education, landfill-dump closure, transfer station construction, household hazardous waste collection and waste-to-energy.

"I am happy to have an opportunity to offer some imput into this project," Sullivan said. "The planning commission has some ideas that I think could be utilized and I have a philosophy regarding solid waste. It is something I have been involved with for some time. These grants can play an important role in developing means of disposing of solid waste."

Sullivan went on to say that the appointment came as a complete surprise. "In the beginning I was afraid we would not have representation from northern Michigan. Then appointments were made from Crawford and Manistee counties and I figured that would be it. When I received a call about my appointment I was really surprised. However, I was elated because aorthern Michigan would now be represented. It will give this part of tha state a chance to air its philosophy about the problem," he added.

Sullivan previously served on a committee that was formed to make recommendations to the DNR regarding solid waste.

A graduate of Michigan State University, Sullivan was employed by the Northeast Michigan Council of Governments and the Northwest Michigan Regional Development Commission at Traverse City prior to coming to Charlevoix County to head the county's planning department in 1982.

Council seeks grant was near both downtown and residential areas.

Wiesner told council the plan was developed after careful consultation with Jim Withers and others representing fishing interests.

The plan, he noted, was still in the preliminary stages and would be refined further. The fish cleaning station should be located in the center of the parking lot, Wiesner said, to minimize the odor problem and to avoid double parking by fishermen.

Fish remains would probably be kept in a holding tank and then pumped out at intervals, Wiesner said, because it was unlikely the sewer system could handle the waste without problems.

In addition to the costs covered by the grant, the city would also be responsible for relocating Ferry Avenue to the west along the old railroad grade, completing the sanitary sewer connections and extending a water line to the area.

The city's portion of the project would be paid for from money accumulated by the Tax Increment Financing Authority (TIFA) set up in the Ferry Beach area. The TIFA captures a portion of increases in property assessments which can then be used for improvements in the district.

Wiesner estimated the city would pay for its share of the project by 1989 if the grant is received.

"I think it is obvious that (the improvements) are needed," Withers told council. "The emphasis on fishing has never been greater than now. If Charlevoix does not do something to accommodate the influx of people, they're going to go someplace else."

Mayor Ralph McRae said he was concerned about the cost of the project. "I think you should study it over a little more," he told council. "You've got $90,000 for fish cleaning. I think it's too damn high."

McRae cautioned council that it was facing other capital costs including a $1.7 million electrical system improvement project and $4 million in improvements for streets, sewer and water.

Although the beach project would be funded by TIFA funds, McRae said, that money would have gone to general fund revenues if not spend on this type of project.

City Recreation Director Dwight "Ike" Boss told council they were experiencing "just the tip of the iceberg as far as fishing goes."

He said the money would be much better spent than the $5,000 recently allocated to a study of cable television. "It is very important that the people sitting on council at least give this grant application a shot."

Although several councilmen had concerns about the total cost of the project, it was approved unanimously by council.

Christian Week celebrated

The Ebenezer Christian School in Ellsworth will celebrate Christian Education Week from April 5 to 11. The theme for the week is "Perspective" and the emphasis is on getting and sharing the Biblical perspective of life with students in the Christian school.

Ebenezer will observe the week with a Grandparents' Day on Friday April 10 and with special displays of students' work.

The school, with classes from kindergarten to eighth grade, "provides a well-rounded curriculum with a special emphasis on the students' relationship to God and on academic excellence."

SPECIAL SCHOOL ELECTION

NOTICE OF SPECIAL ELECTION OF THE ELECTORS OF CHARLEVOIX PUBLIC SCHOOLS
CHARLEVOIX AND ANTRIM COUNTIES, MICHIGAN

TO BE HELD

APRIL 7, 1987

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE SCHOOL DISTRICT:

Please Take Notice that the Board of Education, pursuant to a directive from the Intermediate School Board of Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District, Michigan, has called a special intermediate school district election to be held in the district on Tuesday, April 7, 1987.

THE POLLS OF ELECTION WILL OPEN AT 7:00 O'CLOCK, A.M., AND CLOSE AT 8:00 O'CLOCK, P.M.

The following proposition will be submitted to the vote of the electors at the special intermediate school district election:

SPECIAL EDUCATION MILLAGE PROPOSITION

> Shall the one mill limitation ($1.00 on each $1,000.00) on state equalized valuation on the annual property tax previously approved by the electors of Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District, Michigan, for the education of handicapped persons be increased by 1.2 mills ($1.20 on each $1,000.00) on state equalized valuation for a period of 3 years, 1987, 1988 and 1989 (.8 mill of the above increase being a renewal of .8 mill for special education purposes which expired with the 1986 tax levy and .4 mill being additional special education millage)?

THE VOTING PLACE(S) ARE AS FOLLOWS:

PRECINCT NO. 1
Voting Place: Charlevoix Elementary School on Division Street.

All school electors who are registered with the city or township clerk of the city or township in which they reside are eligible to vote at this election.

RESOLUTION DECLARED ADOPTED.
FOURTH AMENDED
ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION OF
MICHIGAN PUBLIC POWER AGENCY

These Articles of Incorporation of the Michigan Public Power Agency are adopted by the incorporating municipalities for the purpose of creating a joint power agency under the provisions of the Act 448 of the Public Acts of Michigan of 1976 ("Act 448").

ARTICLE I

The name of this corporation is Michigan Public Power Agency.

ARTICLE II

Section 1. The incorporating municipalities creating the Michigan Public Power Agency (the "Agency") were the Cities of Bay City, Charlevoix, Croswell, Grand Haven, Harbor Springs, Hart, Holland, Lowell, Petoskey, Portland, St. Louis, South Haven, Traverse City and Zeeland, and the Villages of Chelsea, Paw Paw and Sebewaing, all municipal corporations of the State of Michigan operating municipal electric utility systems as of the effective date of Act 448 of the Public Acts of Michigan of 1976, as the same may be amended from time to time ("Act 448").

Section 2. The members of the Agency are the cities of Bay City, Charlevoix, Croswell, Eaton Rapids, Grand Haven, Harbor Springs, Hart, Holland, Lansing, Lowell, Niles, Petoskey, Portland, St. Louis, Traverse City and Zeeland, and the Villages of Chelsea, Paw Paw and Sebewaing, all municipal corporations of the State of Michigan operating municipal electric utility systems as of the effective date of Act 448.

ARTICLE III

This Agency is incorporated for the purpose of undertaking the planning, financing, development, acquisition, construction, reconstruction, improvement, enlargement, betterment, operation, or maintenance of a project or projects to supply electric power and energy for the present or future needs of the members of the Agency or supplemental method of obtaining the benefit and assuming the responsibilities of ownership in a project and to do all other acts and things and enjoy all further powers and purposes provided by Act 448.

ARTICLE IV
POWERS AND DUTIES:

Section 1. The Agency shall be a public body politic and corporate with power to sue and be sued in any court in the State of Michigan.

Section 2. The Agency shall have the powers and duties enumerated in Act 448, together with all such other powers not inconsistent therewith as may be necessary for and convenient and incident to the carrying out of the purposes of the Agency either alone or in conjunction with other corporations, firms or individuals, whether situated within or without the State of Michigan, to the extent permitted by Act 448.

Section 3. For the purpose of accomplishing the objects of its incorporation, the Agency may acquire property by purchase, construction, lease, gift, devise or condemnation, and for the purpose of condemnation it may proceed under the provisions of Act No. 149 of the Public Acts of 1911 of Michigan, as now or hereafter amended, or any other appropriate statute.

Section 4. As a condition of membership in the Agency each municipality shall pay a membership fee of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000), which shall not be refundable.

Section 5. For the purpose of defraying the project costs of a project as defined in Act 448, the Agency may issue revenue bonds in accordance with the subject to the provisions of Act No. 448.

Section 6. All property owned by the Agency shall be exempt from taxation by the State or any taxing unit therein.

Section 7. The term of this corporation and the Agency shall be perpetual, or until terminated in accordance with law and these Articles of Incorporation.

ARTICLE V
GOVERNING BODY, OFFICERS:

Section 1. The Agency shall be governed by a board of commissioners appointed by the respective governing bodies of the municipalities which are members of the Agency. The governing body of each member municipality shall, by resolution, appoint one (1) commissioner who, at the discretion of the governing body, may be an officer or an employee of the municipality. Each commissioner shall serve at the pleasure of the governing body by which he or she was appointed.

Section 2. The board of commissioners of the Agency shall annually elect one (1) of the commissioners as chairperson, another commissioner as vice-chairperson, and another person or persons, who may or may not be a commissioner, as treasurer, secretary, and if desired, assistant secretary. The office of treasurer may be held by the secretary or assistant secretary. The board of commissioners may appoint additional officers as it deems necessary. The secretary or assistant secretary of the Agency shall keep a record of the proceedings of the Agency, and the secretary shall be the custodian of all records, books, documents, and papers filed with the Agency, the minutes or journal of the Agency, and its official seal.

Section 3. The board of commissioners shall adopt and may amend by-laws and rules of procedure providing regular meetings of the board of commissioners, duties of the officers and methods of voting on various matters.

Adoption and amendment of by-laws shall require a two-thirds majority vote of the members of the board of commissioners. A final vote shall not be taken on proposed by-laws or amendments until they have been referred to the governing bodies of the member municipalities for one month.

Section 4. The commissioners shall adopt a corporate seal and employ a general manager, full time or part time, as required by Act 448.

Section 5. The books and records of the Agency and board of commissioners, officers and agents thereof, shall be open to inspection and audit by the incorporating municipalities at all reasonable times. The Agency shall submit an annual report to the incorporating members.

ARTICLE VI
INCORPORATION;

Section 1. The Clerk of each incorporating municipality shall cause a copy of these Articles of Incorporation or any amendment thereto to be published once in a newspaper of general circulation within the municipality which shall be:

Section 2. The Clerks of each municipality shall file a printed copy of these Articles of Incorporation with the county clerk of the county or counties in which that municipality is located and shall forward proof of filing and publication of the secretary of the Agency which shall file a copy with the secretary of state as required by Act 448.

ARTICLE VII
AMENDMENTS: NEW MEMBERS: DISSOLUTION:

Section 1. Amendments may be made to these Articles of Incorporation and new members admitted to the Agency as provided in Act 448.

Section 2. When the board of commissioners of the Agency and the governing bodies of its member municipalities shall by resolution determine that the purposes for which the Agency was formed have been substantially fulfilled and that bonds issued and other obligations incurred by the Agency have been fully paid or satisfied, the board of commissioners and governing bodies may declare the Agency to be dissolved. On the effective date of the resolutions dissolving the Agency, the title to the funds and other properties owned by the Agency at the time of the dissolution shall vest in the member municipalities of the Agency as provided in the by-laws of the Agency, and in accordance with Section 11 of Act 448.

ARTICLE VIII

These Articles of Incorporation shall become effective and be in full force and effect on their publication and filing as required by Act 448.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the incorporating municipalities have adopted and authorized to be executed these Articles of Incorporation on their behalf by their authorized officers.

ORDINANCE NO. 480

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE CODE OF THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX BY ADDING A NEW SECTON WHICH NEW SECTION SHALL BE DESINGNATED AS SECTION 5.188 (6) OF CHAPTER 51 OF TITLE V OF SAID CODE.

The City of Charlevoix ordains that Secton 5.188 of the Charlevoix City Code is hereby amended to add Section 5.188 (5) as follows:

SECTION 5.188 (5) PERFORMANCE GUARANTEE FOR COMPLIANCE. To insure compliance with a City Zoning Ordinance and any conditions imposed under said Ordinance, the City Council may require that a cash deposit, certified check, irrevocable bank letter of credit, or a surety bond acceptable to the City covering the estimated cost of improvements associated with the project for which zoning approval is sought, be deposited with the clerk of the City to insure faithful completion of the improvements. The performance guarantee shall be deposited at the time of issuance of the permit authorizing the activity or project. The City shall not require the deposit of the performance guarantee before the date on which the City is prepared to issue the permit. The City shall rebate any cash deposits in reasonable proportion to the ratio of work completed on the required improvement as work on the required improvements progresses.

ORDINANCE NO. 481

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE CODE OF THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX BY ADDING A NEW SECTION WHICH NEW SECTION SHALL BE DESIGNATED AS SECTON 5.233 (7) OF CHAPTER 51 OF TITLE V OF SAID CODE.

The City of Charlevoix ordains that Section 5.233 of the Charlevoix City Code is hereby amended to add Section 5.233 (7) as follows:

SECTION 5.233 (7) SPECIFIC REQUIREMENTS.

In reviewing an impact assessment and site plan, the Planning Commission shall consider the following standards:

(a) That the applicant may legally apply for development plan review.

(b) That all required information has been provided.

(c) That the proposed development conforms to all regulations of the zoning district in which it is located.

(d) That the plan meets the requirements of the City for fire and police protection, water supply, sewage disposal or treatment, storm drainage and other public facilities and services.

(e) That the plan meets the standards of other governmental agencies where applicable and that the approval of these agencies has been obtained or is assured.

(f) That natural resources will be preserved to a maximum feasible extent, and that areas to be left undisturbed during construction shall be so indicated on the site plan and at the site per se.

(g) That the proposed development property respects floodways and flood plains on or in the vicinity of the subject project.

(h) That the soil conditions are suitable for excavation and site preparation, and that organic, wet or other soils which are not suitable for development will either be undisturbed or modified in an acceptable manner.

(i) That the proposed development will not cause soil erosion or sedimentation problems.

(j) That the drainage plan for the proposed development is adequate to handle anticipated storm water runoff, and will not cause undue runoff onto neighboring property or overloading of water courses in the area.

(k) That grading or filling will not destroy the character of the property or the surrounding area, and will not adversely affect the adjacent or neighboring properties.

(l) That phases of the development are in a logical sequence, so that any one phase will not depend upon a subsequent phase for adequate access, public utility services, drainage or erosion control.

(m) That the plan provides for the proper expansion of existing facilities such as public streets, drainage systems and water and sewage facilities.

(n) That landscaping, fences or walls may be required by the Planning Commission in pursuance of the objectives of this Ordinance.

(o) That parking layout will not adversely affect the flow of traffic within the site, or to and from the adjacent streets.

(p) That vehicular and pedestrian traffic within the site, and in relation to streets and sidewalks serving the site, shall be safe and convenient.

(q) That outdoor storage of garbage and refuse is contained screened from view and located so as not to be a nuisance to the subject property or neighboring properties.

Legislation aims support at Bed and Breakfast industry

As Bed and Breakfast (B&B) establishments become a booming cottage industry in Michigan, a core of state legislators are set to introduce bills designed to help them flourish.

State Senator Bill Sederburg (R-East Lansing), sponsor of the main bill, said the legislation will exempt B&B's from the stringent rules which apply to larger hotels and restaurants in order to treat them as the private homes they are. "The beauty of these establishments is that they give tourists an inexpensive way to see Michigan by staying in private homes," Sederburg said. "If you treat these establishments like hotels or restaurants you're adding a major cost factor."

Sederburg is joined in sponsoring the B&B legislation by Senators Ed Fredricks (R-Holland) and Mitch Irwin (D-Sault Ste. Marie) and Representatives John Pridnia (R-Alpena) and Pat Gagliardi (D-Drummond Island).

"Michigan Bed and Breakfast establishments are a major part of our state's tourism industry," Irwin said "And because so many of them exist in find old historical homes and inns, this legislation is a sesquincentennial gift - a way of restoring and maintaining a special aspect of Michigan history."

The four bills amend the Public Health Code and the State Construction Code, where B&B's are now treated as hotels and restaurants, to do the following:

--Define Bed and Breakfast establishments in more traditional terms, meaning a private residence that offers sleeping accommodations to lodgers in 14 or fewer rooms in the Public Health Code (Sederburg); –Create statutory safeguards to protect B&B's from the rigorous regulations of the hotel (Fredricks) and restaurant (Sederburg) industry as long as there are eight or fewer rooms. Those B&B's with 9 to 14 rooms can serve a continental breakfast.

–Add B&B's to the list of facilities which are limited in their liabilities to $250, as is the case for hotels and inns (Irwin); and –Clarify that B&B's are treated as residential structures under the construction code since they are private residences.

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND SECTION 5.212 (8) OF CHAPTER 51 OF TITLE V OF THE CODE OF THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX.

The City of Charlevoix ordains that Section 5.212 (8) of the Charlevoix City Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

SECTION 5.212 (8). Whenever a use or an activity requiring off-street parking is created or increased in floor area, intensity of activity or number of boat berthing slips by structural alteration, or new construction, the number of off-street parking spaces shall be provided and maintained as required in this Chapter for such new construction or change. In the Central Business District, the City Planning Commission may, through negotiations with the owner of such property, vary the location of such required off-street parking spaces or agree to the owner's participation in other authorized off-street parking facilities which will furnish the same number of spaces as required for his floor area.

Changes in use or new uses of existing buildings or floor area shall require parking in accord with this Chapter, provided however; in the Central Business District the requirement for additional parking due to a legal commercial use change shall be waived.

The new creation of accessory residential uses in the Central Business District, including uses of residential units unsuited for occupancy and vacant at the date of this amendment, shall require the provision for parking in accord with this Chapter; provided, further, that said existing parking requirement shall be in addition to parking required for the principal commercial use on said property.

Council proposes changes in scenic reserve

by PERRY CLARK
Special to the Courier

CHARLEVOIX — Despite overwhelming opposition from the audience, city council Monday decided to forge ahead with plans to allow some residential structures to be built in scenic reserves.

A public hearing on the matter will be held Monday, April 27. City Manager Mike Wiesner will draw up a sample ordinance for consideration by council in the weeks prior to the public hearing.

Past proposals have included a 20,000-square-foot minimum lot size for building, 120-foot lot width and 100-foot setbacks from the water. Back yard setbacks have been proposed at 50 feet, sideyard setbacks at 20 feet and front yard setbacks at 35 feet.

An 18-foot height restriction also has been proposed, though council indicated that provision, and some others, might be changed.

The planning commission has recommended no change in scenic reserve zoning, but council directed it to draw up changes anyway. The planning commission balked. It asked for outside help, but council Monday rejected that idea and decided to move on its own.

That brought out the wrath of the audience.

"You have a planning commission that has expertise," said Jerry Puhl, president of the environmental group WATCH (Water and Air Team for Charlevoix). "They have said they do not want to change the scenic reserve. Many people in the community feel the same way."

He said council is only considering the zoning change in an effort to derive more tax money from the Chicago and Belevedere clubs, which own much of the land zoned scenic reserve.

THE CITY AND the Chicago Club are locked in a legal battle over club assessments, and council has been advised the courts may rule against the city because the scenic reserve land cannot be developed. If it cannot be developed, it cannot be assessed higher, the argument goes.

Mayor Ralph McRae said the land was the most valuable in Charlevoix and both he and Wiesner said it was not taxed up to its value.

"It's more than tax dollars, it's equity," Wiesner said.

Chris Papineau told council members they should stick with the original ordinance, which has stood for years. He said the proposed changes would leave the ordinance more vulnerable to attack in court.

"I think you're getting yourself into a real bag of worms," Papineau said.

Council said it did not think the land would be developed if the zoning was changed, but Puhl said that was a gamble the city shouldn't take. Timms said the land was private property, and that it could not be seen from public land.

"You can see it from a boat," said Bruce MacArthur, president of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, which also opposes the changes.

What areas scenic reserve covers in town

Scenic reserve zoning covers land along Lake Charlevoix from Northwest Marine to the north city limits, and also includes Ferry Avenue beach. It varies in width. Current zoning regulations permit only the building of docks, beaches, cabanas, boathouses and noncommercial uses in scenic reserve areas.

Opponents of zoning changes that would expand use in the scenic reserve areas contend the zone was not created entirely for aesthetic reasons, but also because the lands possess unique physical characteristics, many of which pose developmental limitations. For example, some of the lands are wetlands and subject to erosion and destructive wave action.

Supporters of the change contend the zoning is confiscatory because it effectively prevents people from developing their property in a beneficial manner. They also charge it amounts to spot zoning and is based primarily on aesthetic reasons, which they contend are not a legitimate public welfare consideration.

Band students compete

Four of the seven instrumental students from the Charlevoix High School who qualified for participation at the state level competed in the State Solo and Ensemble Festival sponsored by the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association at Ferris State College in Big Rapids Saturday.

Two of the group, Michael Stargardt, playing an alto sax solo and Kathy Pease, a piano solo, were awarded I Division ratings.

Two others, Heather Dietrich with a flute solo, and Kirsten Joy, also with a flute solo, received II ratings for their performances.

Accompanying the students to Big Rapids were their director, Terry Isenbarger, and Steve Stargardt, middle school teacher.

OMers competition bound

Two Middle School OM teams are going to state competition at Central Michigan April 4. Picured around the middle school sign are teams coached by Phyliss Hess and John Pfluecke and Gail Levengood.

Three OM teams from the Charelvoix Elementary School will attend the state competitions. Team members, coached by Judy Crook and Toni Felter, Neva Hmebauch and Jackie Russell, Mary Lee Campbell and Eric Dietel, are shown above.

Water's Edge owner: Development 'up in air'

CHARLEVOIX — John McGoff, owner of the Water's Edge Resort on Lake Charelvoix, said Monday that plans for the property are "still up in the air."

McGoff made his remarks to a reporter following his appearance at city council to discuss the Star of Charlevoix docking contract with the city.

An associate of McGoff's said work on plans for the property is ongoing. A proposal to build 90 condo units in wetlands at the site was nixed by state and federal agencies in recent months.

A partnership between McGoff and First Centrum Corp. was dissolved earlier this year, according to First Centrum President Ed Oelschlaeger. Oelschlaeger said at that time he did not know if First Centrum would develop the property, or if it would just be developed by McGoff.

McGoff said the status of the realtionship with First Centrum also still was up in the air.

Petitions due for school board seat

The deadline for filing nominating petitions for the Charlevoix Board of Education is 4 p.m. Monday, April 6.

There will be one four-year term to be filled.

The term of Robert Drenth, who has been a member of the board since 1981, expires June 30. Drenth has not at this time decided whether he will be a candidate for reelection.

Nominating petitions are available at the school business office at 208 Clinton St. or from the secretary of the board of education, Kenneth Boss.

Charlevoixan wins appointment to Naval Academy

Russell "Rusty" Coolman, a senior at the Charlevoix High School has received an appointment to the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., he has been advised by Rep. Bob Davis' office in Washington.

John McGoff

'Star' seeks docking agreement

by PERRY CLARK
Special to the Courier

CHARLEVOIX — A proposal from John McGoff of the Star of Charlevoix Inc. would give 2 percent of the cruise ship's gross revenue and a five-year commitment to the city in exchange for dockage and utilities.

The five-year committment has provisions for compensation in the event of relocation before the end of the lease. The Star would also pay for the removal of any pilings and removal and disposal of an existing pier to accommodate the vessel.

Charlevoix would pay for relocation of utility lines to facilitate access and the welding of any cleats/bollards on the 58 feet of dock needed for securing the ship and a proposed food and beverage barge.

"We think over the years we've done some positive things for this city," McGoff told council at a work session. "We love this area and we'll continue to do what we can to do a good job and to promote the area for the future."

THE STAR is preparing a new $1 million paddlewheel version of the popular cruise ship to begin operation this summer. McGoff said he could probably make more money by putting it someplace with a longer season, but said he wanted to stay in Charlevoix.

He agreed to discuss sharing costs for removal of an existing dock and other matters, but said he would like an answer soon.

"If it doesn't go here, it's under construction, it has to go somewhere else," McGoff said.

Council generally supported the idea, though there were questions. A decision on a contract is expected in the next few weeks.

"It's important to the city," Mayor Ralph McRae said. "We'll do what we can to make it fair."

Councilwoman Shirley Roloff questioned the propriety of the city paying the Star's utilities, saying it's not done for any other business, but Councilman Bill Bellows noted no other business gives the city 2 percent of its gross, either.

Charter fisherman Jim Withers said he totally supported McGoff, his plans and what he had done in Charlevoix in the past, though he cautioned the city to be sure it adopted an agreement it could live with for five years.

Roloff said council had to think about all the ramifications, especially when dealing with people whom she said "can afford to buy this town."

"I'm not going to give them the golden apples," she said.

Fish tug not damaged by explosives

A laboratory analysis by the Michigan State Police of portions of a sunken fishing tug showed damage that occurred to the tug after it sank Aug. 20, 1986 was not caused by explosives.

Three Upper Peninsula fishermen died when the tug Razal Bros. was either struck or swamped by the Yugoslavian freighter Jablanica northwest of Whiskey Island.

Divers discovered damage to the tug on Nov. 18.

The state police analysis of the wreckage does not show the damage was caused by the detonation of high explosives, according to Charlevoix County Sheriff George Lasater and Prosecuting Attorney Kraag Lieberman. The damage was so extensive that some believed explosives must have been used.

No other cause for the damage to the sunken tug has been determined.

WATCH awards scholarships for student essays

by PERRY CLARK
Special to the Courier

Three Chalevoix County high school seniors have added their two cents worth to the current debate about solid waste.

Actually, $2,000 worth would be more like it. That's the amount of scholarship money awarded to Wendy Voisin, Matthew Dixon and Sean Shea for their essays on solid waste disposal alternatives. The awards were made by the environmental group WATCH (Water and Air Team Charlevoix).

Michelle Rick-Biddick, executive director of WATCH, said 16 seniors entered the contest, and the seven judges had a hard time picking the winners.

"I was real pleased with all of the essays that came in," Rick-Biddick said. "It was a real difficult decision for everybody to make."

Wendy, the daughter of Don and Vicki Voisin of Charlevoix, took first place and a $1,000 scholarship to Michigan State University where she will study engineering.

She said she was surprised and excited to have won the scholarship.

"I think everybody who turned in a paper could have won," she said. "Anybody who did it must have learned something."

Wendy's essay discussed the problem of importing solid waste to Northern Michigan, limited landfill space and the potential for groundwater contamination. Her solutions included cogeneration, the burning of waste in specially constructed incinerators which limit air pollution.

She also said in an interview she favors a ban on out-of-county waste entering Charlevoix County, a move being considered by county officials.

"I think each county should take care of its own," Wendy said. "If they keep tucking it around, it's going to end up somebody else's problem. Right now, it's a problem. A couple years fom now it's going to be a big problem. It just keeps building up."

Wendy said in her essay that until she started research, the only problem she had with garbage was remembering to get it to the curb on Thursday morning.

Matthew, also of Charlevoix and a neighbor of Wendy's, took a second place. He will recieve a $500 scholarship to Michigan Technological University where he will study mechanical and biomedical engineering. His parents are John and Sue Dixon.

Unlike Wendy, Matthew calls for a regional solution to the probelm, though he said the idea of banning out-of-county waste was useful in getting other counties' attention.

"It's geting the counties to realize landfills are not a long term solution," Matthew said in an interview.

In his essay, Matthew also discussed cogeneration and wrote that cement kilns would make ideal incinerators because of their high temperatures and the length of time waste would be exposed to those temperatures.

He suggested the abandoned Penn-Dixie cement plant near Petoskey would be a good facility for such purposes, but said such a move should involve a regional coalition to make it economically feasible.

"There's no way, in my opinion and a lot of other people's opinion, that a single county could absorb the cost of a solid waste plant that's economical," he said in an interview.

Third place went to Sean, the son of Chris and Judy Shea of East Jordan. Sean is unsure as yet where his $500 college scholarship will be sent, but be plans to study the arts and become a musician-writer.

Sean said he was elated to be one of the winners and enjoyed compiling his essay, which stressed recycling, incineration, landfills and composting. He wrote in his essay that the average U.S. citizen generates twice as much trash as the average European. He wrote that given the incentive of money, people will recycle more.

In an interview, he said that while recycling can't be the only solution — not everything can be recycled — it is the most important one.

Winnars of WATCH (Watar and Air Team for Charlavoix) scholarships ara honored at e ceremony Wednesday. Participating ara (from loft) WATCH Presidant Jorry Puhl; Saan Shea, third placa; Matthew Dixon, second placo; Wendy Voisin, first place; and Michello Rick-Biddick, WATCH diractor. (NEWS photo by G. Commissioners want fast solid waste study

by FRAN MARTIN

The recently-appointed Solid Waste Management Committee for Charlevoix County has been requested by the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners to complete its update of the county's solid waste plan within six months and to spell out in specific language four issues.

This action was taken by the board of commissioners at its regular meeting Wednesday night. The committee was requested to address the following issues:

- Contaminated soil.
- Service area for the landfill.
- Alternative disposal methods.
- Enforcements and precedents.

In other action, the board:

- Approved the purchase of a new computer system for District Court and approved an expenditure not to exceed $24,000 for the purchase of IBM 30 P.C. computer hardware and software plus an annual maintenance fee of $1,251. District Judge Harvey C. Varnum and Patricia Conkle, Court Commissioner had addressed the board on the need of the Justice Management System.
- Approved the Friend of the Court special fund budget to be used to underwrite the cost of a part-time employee and office supplies.
- Accepted the EDC (Economic Development Commission) report which outlined its revenues and expenditures and the projects completed.
- Revised the personnel policy, effective April 1.

The regular meeting of the board is scheduled for Wednesday, April 8.

Opinion

Try a swim

'Round Town EDITH GILBERT

THIS IS THE IN-BETWEEN time of year, when sport enthusiasts are torn trying to decide if they should go spring skiing on corn snow or play tennis outside. The nets are up at the city courts and the tennis team has been practicing their strokes all week.

In addition to skiing and tennis, there is now a third activity that calls to David Strawbridge, Doug McCombs, Gordon Van Wieren and Bruce MacArthur, to name a few. It's a swim at the brand new beautiful East Jordan Community Pool! You can find the energetic Charlevoix men doing laps there at 6 a.m. every Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and I've been told that Doug is up to half a mile already. The pool is 75 by 30 feet, capacity is 130 people, and is packed by students, senior citizens and classes all week long.

The spacious, well-lit pool complex is a welcome addition to the East Jordan High School and was donated to the school for community use through the generosity of the Malpass Foundation...you know, the East Jordan Iron Works family that makes manhole covers...among other things.

The pool is open to everyone, East Jordan residents and non-residents alike. Anyone who wishes to plan a pool party will be interested to know that residents may rent it with a lifeguard for one hour on weekends at $65. The fee for non-residents is $85. The number to call is 536-2250. Now that's something to think about.

DRIVING BACK to Charlevoix from East Jordan and passing Castle Farms, it always bothers me when, see that gorgeous architectural stone marvel blemished with a commercial eyesore–a red and white sign that says, "Hot rock, Budweiser, cold Bud". Now really!

BRAD LUNDY IS DOING great things to his home on 210 Park Avenue. I was thrilled to be invited to tour the new Poggenpohl kitchen, with the curved ceiling, parquet floor, and well-organized pull out cabinets, divided black sink, and shiny, charcoal granite counter tops. The big, new window with a wide ledge for plants makes such a difference from the way I remember the kitchen. You see, I lived in that house for over 20 years. My father-in-law, the late Sam Gilbert, RG Dun cigar man, bought the house new almost 80 years ago for $5,000.

He vacationed with his family here every single summer and this went on for four generations. Not only did the family look forward to the wonderful summers in Charlevoix, but the renowned live-in cook, Mary, did too. Mind you, that was before microwaves and self-cleaning ovens, ice cube makers, garbage disposals, trash compactors. The original kitchen had a woodburning stove in the "summer kitchen" and when the family converted the icebox into a refrigerator, they had to stash the motor in the basement.

One summer Mary used 90 pound of flour just to bake cookies, cinnamon rolls, bundt cakes, brownies, angel food cakes, chocolate rolls, apple and lemon meringue pies. Frozen foods and mixes had not been invented yet. Only fresh fruits and garden vegetables, uncontaminated fish, and live poultry from nearby lakes and farms were available for the table.

And everybody in town spent the whole summer and early fall canning! They canned everything they could get their hands on from meats to vegetables to fruit. They made jams, jellies and relishes. They pickled things, they mashed things, they labeled and stored everything neatly on shelves. It was a tasty accomplishment one could be proud of.

I wish our fabulous cook, Mary–whom I wouldn't trade for all the microwaves in the world–were alive today. I would like to show her the new Poggenpohl kitchen at 210 Park Avenue. She would love it!

Letters to the editor:

WATCH opposes proposed city zoning change

Dear Planning Commission Members:

Watch, Inc. has received word that the Planning Commission may once again consider changing the Scenic Reserve Ordinance of the Charlevoix City Zoning Code.

The Watch Board of Directors and its 500 plus membership is very much opposed to any change that would allow single or multiple family development within this zone. We feel that this type of change in Scenic Reserve could have an extremely adverse effect on the future of Charlevoix.

The fact that changing of this zone to allow development would add greater tax income to the city does not justify the potential unfavorable results to Charlevoix's future. The few additional tax dollars to be gained from this zoning change would be an unfortunate error in that we will lose another portion of the beauty and charm of "Charlevoix the Beautiful."

We would have preferred to have one of our board members present tonight at your commission meeting but unfortunately we have a board meeting scheduled for this evening as well. Thank you for your consideration in this matter.

Jerry Puhl
President
WATCH, Inc.

By the dark lagoon

Clockwise BY BOB CLOCK

"Ghost stories, weird stories! The hermit knows of them all. Turn off your lights! Turn them off, while the hermit tells you the story of..."

If you remember those words which were used to open each episode of "The Hermit's Cave" on WJR radio in Detroit the 1940s, you have survived some of the most deliciously scary entertainment ever offered the American public.

"The Hermit's Cave" originated every Sunday night from a small studio the tower of the Fisher Building. Occasionally my mother would let me attend one of the broadcasts. Once, when there was a very scanty audience, I was even invited to sit on the stage, along with the actors, props and sound effects people.

But being there in person wasn't nearly as much fun as listening to the program at home, huddled in the corner of the davenport in the darkened living room. Then the imagination could run riot as the ghoulish drama unfolded from the speaker of the Atwater-Kent.

Since "The Hermit's Cave" was on radio rather than TV, no one actually saw the two-headed monster with green eyes crouching in the swamp, but everyone with an ounce of imagination knew exactly what he looked like. Even today some vivid scenes from those long-forgotten gothic nightmares remain buried deep in my cerebellum.

All of which is prelude to a few comments on the tremendous amount of interest in the supernatural that the folks at Horton Bay stirred up with their Windigo Hunt last Sunday.

No one, to my knowledge, has ever come up with a decent picture of a Windigo — which also has been called Sasquatch and Big Foot by various people at various times. Not a single specimen has been captured alive; none has been found dead.

Yet the word pictures of the enormous ape-man that have been passed along by word of mouth or in written accounts over the years have left an indelible impression of what the Windigo looks like on everyone who can read or hear.

We know the possibility that such a creature exists is remote at best; but something deep inside says, "What if..." and the blood races, the heart pounds, the spine tingles and the imagination soars like a mythical Phoenix.

Furthermore, the phenomenon isn't limited to the young. People old enough to know better are swept up in the excitement just as surely as their offspring.

Is it bad?

Probably not. The same imagination that has given us Windigo, Sasquatch and Big Foot also has given us computers, lasers and moon landers.

Besides, what a dreary place the world would be unless something lurked — just out of sight — beside the dark lagoon.

Charlevoix Assembly of God

The silent cry that Nobody heard....
No one took even a second look.
So,
i screamed out silently to that awsome Nobody and wrote to no one in this book.
Nobody cared and Nobody moved as i cried my silent tears
and
Nobody heard by silent cries –
Nobody knew by fears
and Nobody hears me even now as I write upon this page
'cause
Nobody knows that i hate myself –
Nobody sees my rage.
Nobody sees
'cause
Everybody says,
"You shouldn't feel this way."
"You're being your own very selfish pig" – that is what They'd say!
They'd quote me scripture
and
They'd say, "It's not true.
Perhaps It's an illusion or Perhaps it's the Devil, but it NEVER could be you."
So,
i'm afraid to speak,
'cause
I don't want to hear
All Their pat answers;
All Their haughty jeers.
So,
I sit here tonight alone
on my bed, writing to Noone
'cause
Noone has said,
"I love you in spite of who you think you are.
I know you better–
I'm the bright Morning
Star.
I love you,
child, amid your hurt and your pain.
I've heard your crying out–
I've heard your refrain."
and from Nowhere,
my Nobody–
He's given me His name.
He says that from now on,
I'm no longer to blame
'cause
He bears my burden–
He overwhelms my shame.

Jesus points me towards the Father and finely focuses my aim.

Know your Chamber

By JACQUIE MERTA
Executive Director

Kicking off membership activities, the Chamber's first "Business After Hours" was a tremendous success. This was evident when 50 members got together at the Weathervane Restaurant on March 26. Our sponsor, KHQ Radio, deserves a big thank you for both sponsorship and all the publicity they provided.

Business After Hours is a valuable opportunity for members to tell each other about what they do, and have a good time doing it. Business After Hours is a new Chamber of Commerce activity that is designed not only to be fun, but an opportunity to do more business in the Charlevoix area.

Directors of the Chamber Board have decided to hold Business After Hours every other month, which means the next one will be in May. In the future there will be drawings for door prizes. Also new businesses and guests will be announced so that everyone has an opportunity to get to know more members of our community.

Tim Moore is chairman of Business After Hours and we thank him for his expertise in executing this Chamber program for the entire year of 1987.

By the way, we've already had two businesses offer to sponsor Business After Hours and if you'd like information regarding sponsorship, or would like to volunteer, just give us a call at the Chamber office.

Boyne, East Jordan libraries host literacy open houses

The District Libraries at Boyne City and East Jordan will host "Say Yes to Literacy" open houses at the respective libraries on Wednesday April 8, in conjunction with National Library Week.

The librarians at the two libraries, Nancy Furiherson of Boyne City and Louise Manerski of East Jordan have issued an invitation to the residents of their respective communities to view the new collection of readability graded books and newspapers, comprehension books, tutoring manuals, survival skills workbooks and other materials that would be of assistance to adults wanting to learn to read.

There will not be an open house in Charlevoix. However, Sherry Black, directors of the Adult Learning Center at Charlevoix located at the senior center at the VFW post home on US 31 North said similar materials are available at the center for use in the literacy program for which tutors are being recruited.

All three sites have persons on their respective staffs who have received certification to qualify for establishing "Say Yes to Literacy" centers and to assist adult new readers, educators and tutors in literacy work.

Adults wanting to learn to read or read better are encouraged to visit the centers or call ahead for a confidential appointment to learn about the assistance available to them. The number at the Boyne City Library is 582-7861; at the East Jordan Library 536-7131 and at the Charlevoix Senior Center 547-5361.

The centers listed here are among the 17 literacy centers opening in northern Michigan in April under the sponsorship of Northland Library Cooperative, Alpena, for its members. The project is being financed by a $15,000 LSCA Title VI "Say Yes to Literacy" Center project grant from the U.S. Department of Education.

Leveron and Shirley Davis

Ministers at Assembly of God

Evangelists Leveron and Shirley Davis of Pell City, Ala., will be ministering at Charlevoix Assembly of God Church, M-66 South, April 5-8. Services on Sunday are 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. and Monday through Wednesday evenings beginning at 7 p.m.

Leveron became a licensed Baptist minister at age 16, and was ordained at age 18. During this time he assisted his father who pastored a Baptist Church.

Rev. Davis attended Central Bible College, Detroit Campus, for a number of years. After 14½ years as a pastor he took up the call of an Evangelist. Music is part of Rev. Davis's ministry and has recorded three albums.

Shirley also began her ministry at an early age. She has been involves in almost every area of church ministry: Sunday school, youth, children's ministries, women's ministries.

Michigan meal sought for cook contest

Michigan chefs–both amateur and professional–with a flair for fish or a penchant for peach pie can enter their favorite four-course recipe in the third annual "All-Michigan Meal" Contest and win a $500 cash or travel prize.

Entrants must use only Michigan ingredients in fashioning their four-course feast, consisting of soup, vegetable, entree and dessert. Entries must be postmarked by April 13.

For the first time, the contest has two categories, one for professional chefs employed in Michigan restaurants and the other for any Michigan resident age 16 or over.

The top professional and amateur chef will each win their choice of a weekend for two at a Michigan resort or $500 cash.

Entries should be clearly marked amateur or professional and mailed to AAA Michigan Public Relations, One Auto Club Drive, Dearborn, MI 48126.

Several families from Charlevoix attended the family night at the USO of the Navy Recruit Training Center in Orlando, Fla. on Thursday, March 19.

Neighborhood Watch groups encouraged

Charlevoix County Sheriff George Lasater has asked any county resident interested in forming a local association of Neighborhood Watch for their own neighborhood to contact his office.

Sheriff Lasater notes that any grouping of homeowners, no matter how few, can form a Neighborhood Watch association.

Neighborhood Watch promotes safer residential areas within the county and provides a conduit between the Sheriff's Department and the public. As always, residents are encouraged to report any suspicious activity they might observe, and this program helps to instruct on how to give accurate information to law enforcement agencies.

Rayders make all-league

Four members of the Charlevoix Rayder basketball team and two from the Rayder girls volleyball team have received all-conference recognition in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference.

Each team made its own selection with the number of selections based on the team's finish in the final standings.

Following are the Rayder selections.

Named to the Rayder basketball MVP list were Jim Ciuk, a senior who received honorable mention last year, and Scott DeYoung, a junior. Joe Miller, a senior, and Chad DeVries, a junior, received honorable mention.

Named to the girls volleyball MVP list were Amy Antaya, who was given honorable mention in 1986 and Jennifer Sell who received honorable mention.

Again, the players are picked by their own team with the number based on the team's overall standing.

Middle school wrestlers do well

Eight teams competed in the junior high wrestling tournament hosted Saturday by the Charlevoix Middle School team coached by Gregg Whitley and held at the high school gymnasium.

"My boys did very well after only three weeks on the mat. They show great promise," Whitley said.

Team scores were not kept at the tournament. "It was held to give the kids experience and everyone got a chance to participate," Whitley said. The tournament was attended by teams from Sault Ste. Marie, St. Ignace, Rogers City, Onaway, Petoskey, Grayling and Elk Rapids.

Charlevoix had two champions come out of the tournament, Andy Wynkoop and Brian Darrah each had byes in the first round and went on to win four straight matches to take the top spot for the day.

Others who placed and their records for the day were: Gary Haines 3-1 and Shawn Young 3-1 to take third place medals; Joe Prevo 2-2, David Hunter 2-2 and Larry Pop 3-2 to take fourth places.

Jason VanLoo, Jesse Leadabrand, Charlie Pop, Tony Pearsall, Chris Meier, Chris McCallum and Doug Benoit each won one match.

Others who participated were Jerrit Moreno, Herbie Pines, Ernest Antoine, B.J. VanLoo, Joe Ehrke and Cody Bush.

The tournament closes out the middle school wrestling season.

Rayder tennis players getting ready for season

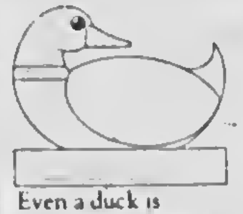
Charlevoix Rayder tennis players, who until this week have been at the racquet club or at the municipal courts in preparation for the opening of their schedule, will return to the courts in competition, weather permitting, on Wednesday, April, 8 when they travel to Traverse City.

More than 40 students have signed up for the sport with several veterans among them.

Among the boys are Quinton Walker, Rusty Coolman, Dan Staublin, Mike Chew, Ty Wagner, Jon Eakes, Todd Holtzman, Matt Dixon, Charlie Witthoeft, Wes Cumberland, Dan Blekersteth, Marty Joy, Jim Cuik, Scott Kelly, J.D. Boydston and Scott DeYoung, who was out as a freshman but didn't play last season. There also a number of freshmen who are reporting regularly.

Among the girls vying for starting positions are Lauren Pace, Kristen McLelland, Amy Kelly, Heather Livingston, Kay Stoneham, Melissa Hansen, Heather Dietrich, Susi Healey, Tina Fershee, Julie Brewster, Kerry Hartnett, Jennifer Miller, Laura Bartley and Annette Scharenbroch. There also several freshmen.

Although the students have been practicing, Coach Erik Lundtelgen has not called an official practice session, which he is expected to do when spring break is over.



Even a duck is out of luck during a forest fire.

Dear Friends, Neighbors and Relatives,

Perhaps you sent a lovely card or sat quietly in a chair.
Perhaps you sent a funeral spray. If so, we saw it there.
Perhaps you spoke the kindest words as any friend could say.
Perhaps you were not there at all, just thought of us that day

Whatever you did to console our heart,
We thank you so much whatever the part.
And a special thank you to Dr. Arnold, the Meadow Brook Staff, Rev. Kruse, Sally Saunders, Carron Bennet, Winchester Funeral Home, American Legion.
By the family of Mark Saunders.

Joan Cook, James Mills

Mr. and Mrs. Norman J. Cook of East Lansing announce the engagement of their daughter Joan M. Cook to James C. Mills. He is the son of Judge and Mrs. Joel Mills of West Branch.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Charlevoix High School and Michigan State University. She is a Ph.D. candidate in biochemistry at Michigan State University.

Her fiance is a graduate of Ogemaw Heights High School and Michigan State University. He is employed at Stone Container Corp., Chicago, Ill.

The wedding will take place June 27 at St. Marys Church in Charlevoix. (Photo courtesy Tim Calloway)

Welsheimer-Herriman

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Welsheimer of Petoskey announce the engagement of their daughter Leslie Welsheimer to Duane Herriman Jr. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Duane Herriman Sr. of Charlevoix.

The bride-elect is a 1980 graduate of Petoskey High School. She is employed at Mechanical Components Division of Wickes Manufacturing in East Jordan.

Her fiance is a 1983 graduate of Charlevoix High School.

A May 16 wedding is planned at the Bay Shore Presbyterian Church.

Spanish students compete

Charlevoix High School Spanish students were at Traverse City recently to participate in language competition sponsored by the Michigan Association of Language Teachers.

The competition required the presentation of a song in Spanish, two television commercials and a vocabulary bee.

Theresa Dean, Spanish teacher, said the students did very well in the competition. Laura Reibel placed first in the vocabulary bee.

Students who participated were Charles Austin, Kristin Holmes, Lorelei Southwood, Jim Hand, Laura Reibel, Marcia Hand, Kathy Washburn, Anne Smith, Sandi Brosofske, Allison Clock and Itziae Aeizoleta.

Irwin proposes environmental protections

Michigan's present environmental protection effort is falling far short in many vital area, requiring innovative solutions and strong state financial support, Senator Mitch Irwin said recently after introducing a measure to place a billion dollar super bonding program on the ballot.

"There are more than 1,200 identified environmental contamination sites in our state, and the fiscal year 1987 budget provides for final cleanup of only three," Irwin said.

"More and more contaminated sites are being found, and more are being created daily," the northern Michigan Senator said. "Contamination of Michigan's soil and drinking water is a serious threat to our quality of life. The citizens of this state deserve a full-scale effort to safeguard their health, as well as protect wildlife, lakes, streams and all our natural resources from insidious hidden timebombs."

Irwin added that the Clean Michigan and the Environmental Response (Act 307 of 1982) funds have been important first steps toward a total solution, but that much more needs to be done.

"The money now allocated for these two programs is simply inadequate. With the federal government reducing spending, it is clear that immediate state action is required. We need a Michigan Superfund."

Numerous communities in the north, as well as across the entire state, have closed old landfills, and now face high costs to cap and clean up the sites. Local officials are struggling to find funding for the clean-up projects, Irwin said.

Also, many local groups are working on landfill alternatives, such as incineration projects, recycling programs and waste-to-energy facilities, but they are meeting dead ends when it comes to financing, he added.

"Clean Michigan Fund applications have greatly outnumbered the available dollars," Irwin said, saying that it is clear local organizations and communities need a program with a larger mission and adequate funding.

Once voters approve Senate Bill 164, the state would issue $1 billion in bonds. Up to half of the money raised through the bonding could then be used to provide grants and loans to municipalities to finance environmental improvement measures, including recycling, incineration and composting projects, waste water treatment facilities, drinking water supply and treatment facilities, and education and research and development programs.

The other half of the money raised could be used by the state to finance clean-up and remedial measures at contamination sites across the state.

Other bonding proposals have been put forth in the Legislature, Irwin said, but none are as comprehensive or complete as the Michigan superfund initiative.

The Democratic Floor Leader said he was hopeful that a complete package addressing the entire environmental situation, including contamination site clean-up, solid waste disposal alternatives, landfill closures, and waste treatment and drinking water facilities, could be agreed upon by the legislature this spring.

Cleanup days promoted

FARMINGTON, MI. – At the request of Keep Michigan Beautiful, Inc, (KMB), Governor James J. Blanchard has declared April 19-May 23, 1987 as KMB Cleanup Days in Michigan.

Keep Charlevoix Beautiful Inc. will conduct the annual Operation Petunia on May 21 at 5 p.m.

"Our Great Lake state is still a land of beauty after 150 years of statehood, with its unique sand dunes, magnificent Great Lakes, 11,000 inland lakes and 36,000 miles of winding streams, rolling hills and rich farmland, orchards and forests," a KMB spokesman said.

Keep Michigan Beautiful, Inc., a volunteer organization established in 1962, annually sets aside mid-April to mid-May as Cleanup Days in Michigan, to promote awareness of our responsibility to keep our state clean and beautiful.

"It is important that all citizens take an active role in preserving the environment, disposing of litter and rubbish, and beautifying their homes and communities during this observance and always," the group spokesman said. Businesses, schools, communities and individuals are encouraged to plant trees and flowers in conjunction with cleanup efforts during April 19-May 23.

Charlevoixans enjoy winter

Charlevoixans spending the winter months in the south and others who are more recent arrivals gathered at a park in Fort Pierce, Fla., for a picnic recently, a communication from Mrs. Perry Smith advises.

"We have a beautiful day and everyone enjoyed it. It's great to get together and talk about home and old times" she added.

Attending the event were Mr. and Mrs. George Baldwin, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carey, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Shapton, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Fairbanks, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Neff, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Essenberg, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Miles, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Buchanan, Dr. and Mrs. Lysle Ance, Mrs. Millie Withers, Mrs. Dorothy Withers and Mr. and Mrs. Perry Smith, all of Charlevoix, and Mr. and Mrs. Emerald LaBlance former residents now of Ontario.

STATE OF MICHIGAN

ANNUAL TAX SALE

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF Charlevoix

ORDER FOR HEARING
No. 86-241-11 PZ

In the Matter of the Complaint of the State Treasurer of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State, for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon.

On reading and filing the complaint of the State Treasurer of the State of Michigan praying for a judgement in favor of the State of Michigan, against each parcel of land therein described, for the amounts therein specified, claimed to be due for taxes, interest and charges on each such parcel of land, and that such lands be sold for the amounts so claimed by the State of Michigan.

It is ordered that said complaint will be brought on for hearing and judgement at the April term of this Court, to be held at Charlevoix in the County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, on the 13th day of April A.D. 1987, at the opening of the Court on that day, and that all persons interested in such lands or any part thereof, desiring to contest the lien claimed thereon by the State of Michigan, for such taxes, interest and charges, or any part thereof, shall appear in said Court, and file with the clerk thereof their objections thereto on or before the first day of the term of this Court above mentioned, and that in default thereof the same will be taken as confessed and a judgement will be taken and entered as prayed for in said complaint. And it is further ordered that in pursuance of said judgement and lands described in said complaint for which a judgement of sale shall be made, will be sold for the several taxes, interest and charges thereon as determined by such judgement on the first Tuesday in May thereafter, beginning at 10 o'clock a.m. on said day, or on the day or days subsequent thereto as may be necessary to complete the sale of said lands and of each and every parcel thereof, at the office of the County Treasurer, or at such convenient place as shall be selected by him at the county seat of the county of Charlevoix, State of Michigan; and that the sale then and there made will be a public sale, and each parcel described in the judgement shall be separately exposed for sale for the total taxes, interest and charges, and the sale shall be made to the person paying the full amount charged against such parcel, and accepting a conveyance of the smallest undivided fee simple interest therein; or, if no person will pay the taxes and charges and take a conveyance of less than the entire thereof, then the whole parcel shall be offered and sold. If any parcel of land cannot be sold for taxes, interest and charges, such parcel shall be passed over for the time being, and shall, on the succeeding day, or before the close of the sale, be reoffered, and if on such second offer, or during such sale, the same cannot be sold for the amount aforesaid, the County Treasurer shall bid off the same in the name of the State.

Witness the Hon. Richard M. Pajtas, Circuit Judge, and the seal of said Circuit Court of Charlevoix County this 4th day of March A.D. 1987.

Countersigned
Jane E. Brannon, Clerk
Richard M. Pajtas, Circuit Judge

STATE OF MICHIGAN
IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF CHARLEVOIX

In the Matter of the Complaint of the State Treasurer of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon.

TO THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF Charlevoix: Robert A. Bowman, State Treasurer of the State of Michigan, respectfully shows unto the court:

1. That he is the State Treasurer of the State of Michigan and makes and files this complaint under by virtue of and pursuant to the provisions of Act No. 206 of the Public Acts of 1893, as amended, and Act No. 380 of P.A. 1965, as amended.

2. That Schedule A annexed hereto is the tax record required by the act first above mentioned and contains the description of all lands in the aforesaid county upon which taxes, which were assessed for the years mentioned therein, have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent; the description of all lands in said county, heretofore bid off in the name of the State and thus held and upon which taxes which were assessed subsequent to the tax for which such lands were sold to the State have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent.

3. That extended separately in said schedule against each description of said lands therein contained are (a) the total amount of delinquent taxes upon said description for the non-payment of which the same may lawfully be sold at the next annual tax sale, (b) interest computed thereon as provided by law to the first day of May, next ensuing, (c) a County Property Tax Administration Fee of four percent which shall be a minimum of $1.00 as provided by Section 211.59, C.L. 1979, as amended, and (d) $10.00 for expenses, all in accordance with the provisions of the act first above mentioned.

4. That all of the aforesaid taxes, interest and charges are valid, delinquent and unpaid, and have remained delinquent and unpaid for sufficient time to authorize and require, as provided by the foregoing acts, the sale of the aforesaid parcels of land against which they were assessed and are extended in said schedule at the next annual tax sale for the non-payment thereof, and that the said taxes, interest, County Property Tax Administration Fee and charges so extended in said schedule against each parcel of land therein described constitute a valid lien upon each of the said several parcels of land described in said schedule as therein and against which extended in favor of the people of the State of Michigan, the payment of which lien the court may enforce as a preferred or first claim upon such lands by the sale thereof.

Wherefore your plaintiff prays:

a. That within the time provided by law the court may determine and adjudge that the aforesaid taxes, interest, County Property Tax Administration Fee and charges are valid and constitute a valid lien upon each of the said several parcels of land described in said schedule as therein extended.

b. That within the time provided by law the court make a final judgement in favor of the State of Michigan against each parcel of said lands for the payment of the several amounts of taxes, interest, County Property Tax Administration Fee and expenses as computed and extended in said schedule against the several parcels of land therein contained, and the amounts listed in the column headed "aggregate" shall constitute the amounts adjudged against the said several parcels, unless so amended by the court.

c. That said judgement provide that in default of the payment so ordered of the said several sums computed and extended against said lands in said schedule, the said several parcels of land, or such interest therein as may be necessary to satisfy the amount adjudged against the same, shall severally be sold as the law provides.

d. That your plaintiff may have such other and further relief in the premises as to the court may seem just and equitable.

And your plaintiff will ever pray, etc.
Dated: February 20, 1987

Robert A. Bowman,
State Treasurer
for and in behalf of said State
By Donald Bengel, Administrator
Local Property Services Division
Said State Treasurer's authorized representative

Obituaries

Mina Parker

Mrs. Mina M. Parker, 93, of Central Lake, died Saturday, March 28, at the Meadowbrook Medical Care Facility at Bellaire.

Funeral services were held at the Grace Communiity Church in Ellsworth Wednesday, April 1. The Rev. Estel Clark officiated. Interment was in Southern Cemetery at Central Lake.

The former Mina Mae Peterson was born at Newaygo June 9, 1893. She was married to Charles Parker at Insley Center, Mich., moving to Central Lake to make their home. Mr. Parker preceded her in death in 1968. She was a member of Grace Community Church in Central Lake.

She is survived by four sons, Leo of Cecelia, Ky., Orrie of Central Lake, Glenn of Deford and Charles of Hudsonville; a daughter, Mrs. Irving (Elsie) Thureson of Milton, Wisc; 18 grandchildren; numerous great-grandchildren and a sister, Mrs. Lloyd (Evelyn) Burgener of Eastport.

Nellie Potter

Mrs. Nellie Potter, 90, died Friday, March 27, at her Marion Township home.

Funeral services were held at the Barnard United Methodist Church Monday with Pastor Robert Bellairs officiating. Interment was in the Barnard Cemetery.

The former Nellie DeYoung was born in Banks Township, Antrim County, March 9, 1897 and attended the Bentley Hill School in Banks Township. On Sept. 7, 1917, she was married to Henry Potter in Banks Township. They always made their home on a farm in Marion Township. Mr. Potter preceded her in death in 1982. She was a member of the Barnard Methodist Church and its women's organization.

Surviving are five daughters, Mrs. Henrietta Hocksema of Ellsworth, Mrs. Richard (Jennie) Hoffman of Cutlerville, Mrs. William (Mildred) Himebauch of Harbor Springs, Mrs. Clarence (Lucille) Himebauch and Mrs. ~~Bernie~~ (Frances) Ward, Jr., both of Charlevoix; a son, Archie Potter of Charlevoix; 35 grandchildren; 77 great-grandchildren and 14 great-great-grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials to the Barnard United Methodist Church. Envelopes for this purpose are available at the Hasting Funeral Home in Ellsworth which was in charge of arrangements.

Dessie Farrell

Mrs. Dessie Farrell, 91, of Charlevoix, died March 30, 1987, at the Grandvue Medical Care Facility.

Funeral for Mrs. Farrell will be held at the Eastport Baptist Church at 2 p.m. Thursday, April 2, with the Rev. John Gillatte officiating. Interment will be in Lakeview Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Hastings Funeral Home in Ellsworth all day Wednesday.

The former Dessie Groenink was born to Lubertus and Anna (DeVos) Groenink on Dec. 21, 1895, in Banks Township, Antrim County. She attended the Charlevoix County Normal School and, at age 17, began teaching at Crestwell. Mitchell and Mapleville rural schools in the area and later at the Ellsworth and Central Lake Public Schools. On June 21, 1917, she was married to Earl Farrell and they made their home on a farm in Banks Township. Mr. Farrell preceded her in death in 1958. She later moved to Ellsworth and, in 1981, to Charlevoix to make her home. She was an active member of the Eastport Baptist Church and for many years taught Sunday School.

She is survived by two sons, Chester and Donald, both of Charlevoix; eight grandchildren; 14 great-grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

The family suggests memorials to the Eastport AWANA Club. Envelopes for this purpose are available at the Hastings Funeral Home.

Mary Taylor

Mrs. Mary Taylor, 75, former Charlevoix resident, died March 25 at Sarasota (Fla.) Memorial Hospital.

Private memorial services will be held in Venice, Fla.

The former Mary Krulik was born in Charlevoix, Aug. 1, 1911, the daughter of Frank and Barbara Krulik, and attended the Charlevoix schools. On Sept. 14, 1928, she was married to Malcolm Taylor at Petoskey where they lived until moving to Detroit in the mid-1930s. They returned to Petoskey for a short time before going to Venice, Fla., in 1955 to make their home. She had been employed by the Montgomery Ward Company in Detroit and Petoskey for many years.

Surviving are her husband; a daughter, Mrs. Jack (Gladys) Hamill of Petoskey; two sons, Donald Taylor of Westland and Harold Taylor of Petoskey; four grandchildren; three great-grandchildren and a brother, Arthur Krulik, of Charlevoix.

Clarence S. Way

Clarence Simeon Way, 87, of Charlevoix, died March 31, 1987, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Funeral will be held at the Assembly of God Church at 3:30 p.m. Saturday, April 4. Officiating will be his son, the Rev. Robert R. Way of Augsberg, Germany, the Rev. William Elder Jr. of Upright Church of God and the Rev. Lowell Anderson of Assembly of God. Interment will be in Barnard Cemetery.

Friends may call at the church from 2-4 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. Friday, April 3.

Mr. Way was born on the family homestead in Kalkaska County Sept. 28, 1899. He lived there until he was 18 when he went to Detroit to be employed at the U.S. Rubber Co., where he worked for 34 years.

He was married in Cadillac Oct. 11, 1920, to the former Ruth S. Olson. In 1947 they moved to Northern Michigan and purchased a farm in Norwood Township. He had been employed at Brumm's Studio in Charlevoix as a brazier.

Way was a charter member of the Charlevoix Assembly of God Church organized in 1947 and taught adult Sunday School classes. He was a published author, having written "Rhyme Rhythm 'n' Reason" and "From the Oxcart to the Space Shuttle."

He is survived by his wife, Ruth; a daughter Mrs. Arthur (Geraldine) Hittenborger of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; four sons, the Rev. Robert R. of Augsberg, Germany, D. Dawson, Douglas W. and Richard all of Charlevoix; 18 grandchildren; 23 great-grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. Hazel Barton of Princeton, W. Va.; and a brother, Lloyd Way of Algonac.

The family suggests memorials to the Assembly of God Church for missionary work in Germany.

CLEAN WATER FLOWS

City gets new water, 5½ year struggle ends

by DOUG TRUAX

Fresh, uncontaminated water started flowing into the Charlevoix system Monday at 9:40 a.m. as the new Lake Michigan Water Treatment Plant went into operation for the first time.

Start-up of the $2.8 million plant ends some 5½ years of difficulties after Charlevoix discovered TCE (trichloroethylene) in its well water supply.

On Tuesday morning Plant Superintendent Mike Reinhart said everything was operating well. Minor tests and adjustments in meters were being fine tuned.

Reinhart would not speculate on how long it would be before TCE was completely purged from the city's water supply. That would depend on the demand for water, he said.

Residents living close to the plant and water tower will recevie the clean water first.

The new water plant is capable of producing 3 million gallons of water a day. Water is held in a 1 million gallon resevoir at the site.

The cost of the plant is being shared by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), the state Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and the City of Charlevoix.

The EPA and DNR are paying the costs of a 2 million gallon per day plant with a 500,000 gallon resevoir. To date that bill is $2,482,480 of which the EPA will pay 90 percent.

Charlevoix is paying for the cost of the additional 1 million per gallon output and an additional 500,000 gallon resevoir. The city's cost is $335,450.

Jim Senical, EPA supervisor for the project, said that additional work remains to be done on the site, including landscaping, the removal of the old water plant and riprapping of the shoreline. He expects all work to be completed by the early or mid-June.

Prior to going on line Monday, the plant was put through a series of readiness tests, Reinhart said. Controls were checked and monitored and the plant made several million gallons of test water which was put back in Lake Michigan.

Bacteria tests were performed on Tueday and Wednesday and proved negative.

TCE was first detected in the Charlevoix water suply in 1981. The contamination is believed to have resulted from a 70-gallon spill of the industrial solvent at the middle school. About half of the spill evaporated, with the rest seeping into the groundwater.

The TCE will remain in the groundwater for some 50 years or until it is removed. Concentrations of TCE up to 1,100 parts per billion, nearly 40 times the amount that contaminated the drinking supply, were found by DNR scientists in April 1986.

An expanding slug of the contamination was believed moving toward Lake Michigan, the site of the contaminated well.

The new plant draws its water from Lake Michigan where the water is expected to remain free of the TCE contamination.

Dibley named Courier editor

Don Dibley, wire editor for the Petoskey News-Review, has been named as new editor of the Charlevoix Courier, Ken Winter, general manager of the Courier has announced.

Dibley, 39, will take over the post May 1. He replaces Doug Truax, who has resigned to open a business at the Grand Traverse Resort near Traverse City.

A veteran newspaper editor whose experience includes both dailies and weeklies, Dibley began his career in journalism at his hometown newspaper in Utica. Afterwards he joined the Army, working for service papers in Vietnam and Texas.

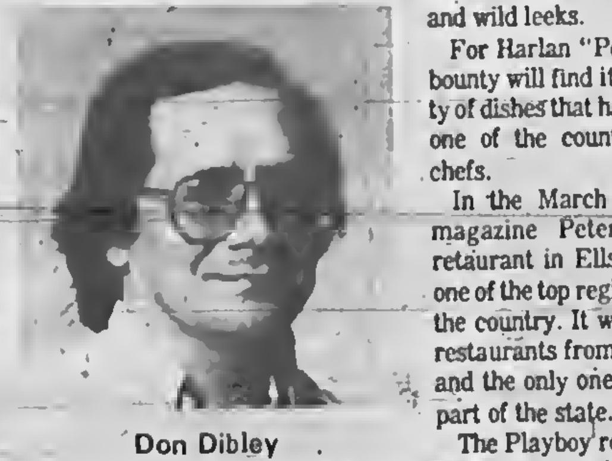
Dibley worked for the Spinal Column, a group of weeklies in Oakland County, for five years as managing editor and then went to the Ypsilanti Press where he put in another five years at a similar post. He also worked at the Flint Journal.

In 1981 Dibley and his family moved north after purchasing Charlevoix Graphics, a printing company on U.S. 31 South, which he ran with his wife, Gloria. He also worked as editor of the Charlevoix County Press at that time.

He was hired by the Petoskey News-Review in 1982 where he has been involved in several phases of the newsroom, including covering Charlevoix for a time. He currently edits the UPI wire service, does layout for the paper and edits copy.

"An interest in the Courier was what attracted us to the north in the first place," Dibley said. He recalled how he and his wife came to Charlevoix to check out an advertised opening for an editor at the paper. On arriving in town they discovered it had already been filled by Dave Knight.

"But the first time we saw the town we decided we wanted to live here," Dibley said. "It happens to a lot of people." A year later they bought the printing business and came to stay.



Don Dibley

The current opportunity to work at the Courier, Dibley said, gives him a chance to stay in the area and still do something different. Despite his 4½ years at the Petoskey News Review, he said as editor he hopes to "try not to duplicate what the News-Review is publishing."

Dibley and his wife have two children — a daughter, Jesse, 8, and a son, Adrian, 4. They live on Antrim Street in Charlevoix.

Char-Em millage defeat looms: count incomplete

Charlevoix defeats proposal

CHARLEVOIX — It appears a millage request from the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District (Char-Em) has been defeated by 47 votes, but final results from Beaver Island could possibly change that outcome.

The 1.2 mill request for special education from Char-Em gathered 1,458 yes votes and 1,505 no votes during the election Tuesday. Results from Beaver Island were not available at press time because the machine used to count votes there was deemed unreliable.

Because 64 voters cast ballots on the island Tuesday, the outcome is still in doubt. However, at least 56 yes votes would be needed out of the 64 cast on the island in order to give the millage enough votes to pass.

The millage was overwhelming defeated in Petoskey, which voted 429-255 against it.

Charlevoix also voted against the millage, defeating it 256 yes, 315 no.

Also opposing the voter were the Cross Village, Pellston and Littlefield school districts. It was supported by voters in Boyne City, Boyne Falls, Central Lake, East Jordan and Ellsworth. Harbor Springs votes were even.

Big Rock Point stages mock nuclear accident

by DOUG TRUAX

Consumers Power Company activated a mock emergency at the Big Rock Point Nuclear Plant Tuesday morning.

The excercise, which employees knew would come sometime during the week of April 5, began at 3:21 a.m. Tuesday. Gov. James Blanchard issued a proclamation declaring a state of disaster and the emergency plan was put into effect.

Under the scenario there was a loss of cooling water to the reactor. The emergency core cooling system was put into operation, but two power lines feeding the plant lost power.

Emergency generators at the plant failed because diesel fuel had been contaminated by an unknown substance.

Without cooling water, the core was in danger of being uncovered and a meltdown could have occurred.

"The State of Michigan has ordered an evacuation of all residents living within two miles of the nuclear plant and all residents out to five miles to the east of the plant," a news release stated.

East Jordan High School was designated as the receoption and decontamination center.

By 10:04 electrical power was restored to the Big Rock plant, resuming water flowing to the core. Radioactive material, however, was permitted to escape into the atmosphere.

Consumers Power employees posed as reporters from the Washington

Lake Charlevoix committee nears completion of work

by PEG OHLE

After 27 months of meeting, studying, discussing, and planning, the Lake Charlevoix Management Planning Advisory Committee's work is coming to an end.

With two more meetings scheduled, on April 14 and April 28, the 15-member committee should be "just about finished" with its assignment of delving into the many natural and man-made forces affecting Lake Charlevoix and its shorelines and making recommendations for preserving the lake's value as a great natural resource.

County Planner Larry Sullivan, who has coordinated the work of the committee, notes some of the specific features studied by the committee: water quality, wetlands, soil types, erosion, recreational uses of the lake, shoreline development, rights of riparian property owners, zoning laws, and many other factors.

Shortly after its formation, the committee participated in preparing and distributing a "Lake Charlevoix Attitude Survey" to a randomly selected group of property owners in the townships and cities bordering the lake. Responses from these people were carefully noted in many discussions and will form an important part of the committee's final report.

Cooking the wild morel

Tapawingo earns national reputation

by DOUG TRUAX

It is only weeks now before the northern woods will fill with fiddlehead ferns, morel mushrooms and wild leeks.

For Harlan "Pete" Peterson that bounty will find its way into a variety of dishes that have marked him as one of the country's finest young chefs.

In the March issue of Playboy magazine Peterson's Tapawingo retaurant in Ellsworth was named one of the top regional restaurants in the country. It was only one of four restaurants from Michigan honored and the only one from the northern part of the state.

The Playboy recognition confirms what many in Michigan, and indeed throughout the country, have come to realize — that this little, unimposing restaurant on the shores of St. Clair Lake takes a back seat to few if any of the country's fine eateries.

The Playboy list of top regional restaurants accompanied its critics' choice of the 25 best dining establishments in the country. Both lists included heavy representation

Charlevoix Yesterday

This picture, found at the home of the late Carrie (Bartlett) Heise on Mason St. was loaned by her niece, Mrs. Larry (Lorraine Heise) Warner of Petoskey. She said she did not know what occasioned the picture which was taken by the late George W. Priest, local photographer or the names of any of those in the picture.

Since then, Mrs. Marion (Bartlett) Arbuckle has identified the group as young local women employed at the Ferry Seed Co. located in the building which now houses the Foster Boat Works condominiums, and named several of the women pictured.

Pictured from the far right are Mrs. Fred (Sybil Cook) Bargmann, Mrs. Arbuckle's mother, Mrs. Clerence (Sadie Halverson) Bartlett, one of the Swertz sisters, either Mrs. Grover (Grace) Genejt or Mrs. Harry (Mae) Mohrmann, Mrs. Arbuckle's aunt, Mrs. Vaughn (Lydia Halverson) Orvis and, second from the left, Alpha Feulus (married name unknown).

If you can identify anyone please call the Charlevoix Courier or Mrs. Larry Warner in Petoskey.

Mesquite damaged in accident

by FRAN MARTIN

A gash in the port side of the USCGC Mesquite while the ship was returning to the municipal dock following training maneuvers will be repaired while the ship is in "Charlie" status, Lt. Cmdr. Thomas F. Conlan, commanding officer, said Friday.

The accident which damaged the cutter occurred when the ship, passing through the upper channel from Lake Charlevoix to its berth on Round Lake, was blown against the south breakwall by high winds. The impact cut a two-foot gash in the port side of the vessel three feet above the waterline 118 feet from the bow of the 180-foot ship. The impact also cut a hole in the ship's diesel fuel tank resulting in a spill of 10 to 15 gallons of fuel oil. Cmdr. Conlan said the ship's crew immediately placed an absorbent boom (a buoyant float containing absorbent pads) over the spill. The wave action dissipated the remainder of the oil.

The following day, Friday, Cmdr. Conlan dispatched a small boat to the site to check the spill.

The ship had been participating in a U.S. Navy training session on Lake Charlevoix prior to the accident.

After fuel tanks are inspected to determine the extent of the damage, they will be repaired and a steel plate will be welded over the damaged hull and the ship readied for its remaining spring work which will include the withdrawal of winter buoys and replacing them with Aids to Navigation in the Straits of Mackinac, Manitou Passage and Grand Traverse Bay areas and northern Lake Michigan and in the Cheboygan areas.

According to the schedule, this work should be completed in time to assist the Department of Natural Resources Fisheries Division with the fish planting in Lake Huron early in May. After wrapping up the spring buoy run, the ship will return to port for maintenance to be followed by readiness training late in May.

From June 15-28, the ship is scheduled to be at Cleveland for refresher training. July will find them at the Cherry Festival, doing lighthouse preparation out of Charlevoix and, from July 13-August 7, in the Chicago area. "We are trying to schedule a time to return to Charlevoix for the Venetian Festival on July 24-25," Cmdr. Conlan said.

The South Haven Festival Aug. 8-9 will see the ship in southern Lake Michigan and Aug. 12-19 at the conference of 180 foot tenders at Toledo before the annual shipyard visit Aug. 24-Sept. 13.

"We're going to be gone a lot this summer," Cmdr. Conlan said.

The ships season started in late March between Chicago and Milwaukee where 15 buoys were set in place. The USCGC Acacia, out of Grand Haven, which normally services that area and the west side of Lake Michigan is now back in commission which lightened the Mesquite's work load. When the Mesquite returns to service, one of its first projects will be putting the NOAA weather buoy in northern Lake Michigan 15 miles southwest of the Boulder Reef light west of Beaver Island. This buoy relays information to a satellite for the National Weather Service.

Families converge on Charlevoix to celebrate Mrs. Dhaseleer's 100th

by FRAN MARTIN

April 2 was her birthday but the observance of the 100th birthday of Mrs. Josephine Dhaseleer continued for more than a week, according to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dhaseleer with whom she makes her home.

"People started coming in the last weekend in March and all through the week, they would stop in. It was wonderful because at no time was there a crowd and Mother was able to visit them," her daughter-in-law said.

Before the week was over, some of all her brothers' and sisters' families had visited her. Only one who lives in the far West was not represented. We couldn't believe it she continued.

Mrs. Dhaseleer, was born at Mitchell, South Dakota, when it was part of the Northwest Territory. She was the daughter of Henry and Elizabeth Ricksgers, who, with two sons, had migrated to the United States from Germany. They were to have seven other children who lived as they traveled by covered wagon and train from South Dakota to Texas and Illinois before coming to Beaver Island in northern Lake Michigan.

It was there she met and married John Dhaseleer at Holy Cross Church on May 12, 1914. Later they came to Charlevoix and settled on a farm in Marion Township and raised their two children, Charles, who has lived on the family farm since his marriage, and Elizabeth, now Mrs. Harvey Mosher of East Jordan and Florida.

The senior Mrs. Dhaseleer enjoys a fairly active life despite her age. She insists on doing little chores around the house such as setting or clearing the table. She also joins the members of the family in card games and enjoys visiting with callers. Her eyes are failing but new hearing aids allow her to visit with family and friends when they stop by. "She has a remarkable memory," her daughter-in-law said.

She has 16 grandchildren and 20 great-grandchildren and a host of nieces and nephews.

Big Rock exercise

Post; New York Times and USA Today and questioned officials set up in a Joint Public Information Center at the Petoskey Holiday Inn. Media briefings were held progressively throughout the morning.

Four students from Charlevoix High School and three from Petoskey High School were also involved in the excercise posing as reporters. They were notified along with other news media a little after 6 a.m. Tuesday and reported to the information center.

Representing Charlevoix students were Marty Joy, Brad Kluczynski, Pat Rajewski and Sean Henne, all juniors. Joy joined the excercise as a journalism student and will write a story for the school newspaper. He invited the others to participate because of their interests in computer science and nuclear power.

The students carried beepers during the week in case they had to be notified when away from a phone. The timing of the mock incident, however, found all of them at home preparing to go to school.

Joy said Consumers responded well to the students' questions. "They got vague sometimes, but generally they were very open. They didn't hide much."

In addition to attending the briefings and asking questions the students called hotlines set up to dispel rumors and provide information.

Charles MacInnis, public information officer for Big Rock Point, said he was pleased with the excercise and the students' participation. "It has been a lot of fun," he said. "It was very realistic, not a set piece like in the past. It is very educational when you don't know it's going to take place and have to plan for all contingencies."

MacInnis said Consumers officials were notified in Jackson at about 4 a.m. and drove north to the information center. The State Police in Lansing were also called and dispatched to Petoskey.

In all, MacInnis said, well over 100 people were notified of the mock emergency.

The Beaver Islander heads out the Pine River Channel at the start of a new navigation season.

Beaver Islander gets early start

by FRAN MARTIN

The navigation season in northern Lake Michigan has opened just short of three weeks earlier than planned according to David Wilhelm, business manager of the Beaver Island Boat Co. said Friday.

The motorship Beaver Islander, berthed at the city dock in Charlevoix during the winter months, underwent its U.S. Coast Guard inspection Wednesday, March 25 and made its first trip of the season to St. James harbor at Beaver Island the same day Wilhelm said. At the same time, the smaller vessel of the fleet the South Shore, which had been berthed at the island for the winter, was brought to Charlevoix for its inspection, as required by the U.S. Coast Guard, in preparation for the season.

The cargo for the first trip included building materials and food supplies Wilhelm said, adding that the island had been without surface traffic since the boat's last trip to the island on Dec. 24. The last trip from the island to the mainland had been, Dec. 26. Between then and the present time all supplies to the island had been via air traffic.

The comparatively mild winter which resulted in little ice forming in the harbor at St. James and along the shorelines has made it possible to open the navigation season earlier than usual. The tentative plan for the opening had been April 13, the usual date, weather permitting.

Wilhelm said, "We were hoping for an early opening (of navigation) because we have a lot of lumber ready to be brought off the island this spring for transportation to a plant in mid-Michigan. We were anxious to get this behind us before the Beaver Islander had to go the shipyard at Sault Ste. Marie for its five year inspection that requires its removal from the water. While it's in drydock we plan to have new engines, transmission and props installed which will prolong its stay. If we can get the lumber to the mainland before we have to go to the Soo, the South Shore can take over in its absence."

Weather permitting, the Beaver Islander will make three trips per week on Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

"If we can get in eight trips before we go to the drydock, we'll be in good shape" Wilhelm continued. He said he did not know, at this time, when the new equipment to be installed would be assembled at the drydock at the Soo. However, when the company is advised of this, the motorship will depart for Sault Ste. Marie. The motorship will then be placed on the ways, the overhall completed and the coast guard inspection made before the ship will return here beginning its regular schedule of three trips per week, sailing out of St. James harbor and returning daily.

The ship will return to its summer schedule early in June, sailing daily out of Charlevoix.

"We had an excellent summer last year and we are anticipating an even better one this year. The inquiries and reservations have been coming in earlier than usual and if the weather cooperates, we should have a great season," he added.

The Beaver Island Boat Co. operates the MS Beaver Islander and the MS South Shore to and from the island located 32 miles northwest of Charlevoix in Lake Michigan from mid-April to late in December transporting mail, freight and passengers. The Island Airways, which has the mail contract from late in December until mid-April, operating out of the Charlevoix Airport and Welke Aviation, operating out of its own field on Beaver Island, services the island all year. Both companies operate out of the Charlevoix airport on the mainland end of the route.

Opinion

Viewpoint

Citizen involvement needed on zoning

It is nearly impossible to have a conversation with someone in Charlevoix these days without the subject of the Edgewater Inn being brought up. The viewpoint nearly always espoused, usually accompanied by a few choice expletives, is that the new condo-hotel is an eyesore, that it does great injury to Charlevoix's downtown.

Most people don't object to the idea of a hotel on that site. What they complain about is that it is too tall, out of proportion to the surrounding buildings, blocks the view from the north hill, and comes too close to the sidewalk and the lake.

They are right on all those counts. But their next statement is invariably something like, "How could city council allow such a thing to happen?" It's an interesting question, but it places the blame in the wrong place.

Council certainly should take a fair share of responsibility for not more aggressively studying and objecting to the site plan provided by the developers. Their laissez-faire attitude was inexcusable.

But council failed to act, quite simply, because the people of Charlevoix were uninvolved. The real question should be, "Why didn't we do something about it?" Only one or two citizens raised any questions about the condo plan when it was proposed, and their concerns were largely ignored.

Similar acquiescence by the council and its citizens greeted the Rysberg Inn across the street, creating a veritable condo gulch on Bridge Street.

In contrast, at about the same time people in Charlevoix Township were raising numerous questions about the Water's Edge condominium project on Lake Charlevoix. Their concern and involvement led to the eventual defeat of the grandiose development. The people, when aroused, can make a difference.

Council is currently considering action that could eventually bring additional development and aesthetic destruction to the face of Charlevoix. In order to grab a few more tax dollars, it is proposing to alter the scenic reserve zoning that controls Park Island at the Chicago Club and the property lying north and south of the channel between Round Lake and Lake Charlevoix.

Council is accepting the advice of a consultant lawyer that if residential housing is allowed on the island and the lakefront, the city can justify its higher tax assessments. These same assessment have for two years – 1980 and 1981 – been judged by the Tax Tribunal and the Michigan Court of Appeals to be illegal.

The possiblity of higher taxes is not justified by one more intrusion on Round Lake and Lake Charlevoix. At best it is simply trading our most precious asset for a few bags of silver. At worst it is a strategy that will fail both to convince the Tax Tribunal that higher assessments are justified while paving the way for more development.

If the city thinks higher taxes are needed for the Chicago or Belevedere clubs it should make its case without gutting the zoning that protects the lakefront and gives the city much of its unique character. Even the attorney urging the change admits that a good case can be made for increased assessments without adding residential housing to the scenic reserve.

But the clear message of past council actions like the Edgewater Inn issue is that without citizen involvement – and loud and clear complaints – Charlevoixans can expect the gradual but inevitable ruination of their beautiful city.

Citizen participation in the scenic reserve issue has until recently been difficult since nearly all discussion has been behind closed doors. Council chose to prevent the public and the press from participating because of the pending legal case, an action that was certainly within council's rights.

But the issue is now in the open and it is imperative that the people of Charlevoix let their councilmen know how they feel on the matter.

Letters to the editor:

Growth of resort industry demands more nature preserves

Dear Editor:

Having supported the Little Traverse Conservancy for several years, I am not surprised when people ask me why I support such an organization when I am in a business that many people consider to be in opposition to the work of LTC.

In fact, I do not think that the growth of our area and LTC's work to establish nature preserves are necessarily at odds. The factors that draw people in the first place are the same natural resources that LTC is involved in preserving and enhancing.

Being the original developer of the Birchwood Golf and Country Club, the Breakers East, Windward and Baypoint Condominiums of Harbor Springs and now the Hemingway Pointe Club on Lake Charlevoix, it is evident that I am a firm believer in the future of northern Michigan as a place for resort homes. Our area is a natural destination for resorters because of the abundance of clean lakes, forests, and beautiful views.

At the same time, in order to have those views and lakes, our development must proceed in an orderly fashion. We must see to it that enough natural land is saved to lend that northern outdoor flavor to the community as it grows. People who buy resort property here need to have places to hike, swim and ski or the area loses its appeal. Thus, the growth in the resort industry demands corresponding growth in the number of parks and preserves for people to enjoy.

LTC, to me, is a group which can raise the funds and provide the natural areas that go hand in hand with the growth in business and housing in our area, but without being involved in telling other people what to do with their land. The Conservancy focuses on providing recreation and open space on property it acquires directly.

Charlevoix Library will have open house for literacy programs

Dear Editor:

I would like to extend a sincere apology to Mary Beth Wallick and her staff for the error in the article in last week's Courier which concerned the literacy open house at the other Charlevoix County libraries.

I accept full responsibility for this error. The article should have read - "There will be no open house in Charlevoix on this date."

I am sorry for any frustration I have caused and hope that the Charlevoix Library has a successful open house on Thursday, April 9 from 1-8 p.m.

Leo Meyers

Clockwise

BY BOB CLOCK

Leo Meyers, 81, who died Sunday at Charlevoix Area Hospital, heads my list of people I wish I had known better.

I first met Leo a few years ago when the Volunteer Fire Department was raising money to purchase the new fire engine. Cocktail parties were among the most popular fund-raising activities and I think Leo and I attended all of them — Leo as the master of ceremonies and I as the chief sampler of hot hors d'oeuvres and liquid refreshments.

At first I thought someone had hired Leo to entertain us with his brisk repartee. But not so. He was just one of the crowd who had a way with words and was a master of the one-liner — a la George Jessel, Jack Benny and George Burns.

And he was good; his timing perfect, his stage presence impeccable. He was a vaudevillian of the old school.

That is why I was surprised to learn that Leo wasn't a professional entertainer, although he was a member of a barbershop quartet in Ann Arbor several years ago.

Leo spent most of his working life in the real estate and construction business and at the time of his death was manager of LeHavre condominiums in Charlevoix.

Leo was a familiar figure in town, ramming around in his little blue three-wheeled vehicle, emblazoned with the insignia of the University of Michigan, a school he attended 60 years ago.

Sometimes I'd run into him at Oleson's Food Store or Edwards' IGA. Always a smile, always a joke, always a wry comment about the human race and its foibles.

I wish I had known Leo better.

HOW DO YOU like the new water?

On Monday, for the first time in the long history of Charlevoix, city residents are toasting each other with drinking water directly from Lake Michigan.

Skol!

They not only are drinking it but are using it to wash dishes and do laundry, hose down the car, water the garden, shower, shave, shampoo — you name it.

And, hopefully, the water is as pure as water can get, without a trace the trichloroethylene (TCE) that was seeping into the old water supply from some unknown source. TCE is a suspected carcinogen. That means if you drink a lot of water laced with TCE over a long period of time you may get cancer.

Or you may not. No one knows for sure.

But the new water supply should be free of everything harmful, although Charlevoixans probably will notice a little more chlorine than they are used to.

But the new water will be a lot softer than the old, which was a combination of ground water and seepage from Lake Michigan. Soap should suds up in a hurry and you should have less calcium buildup inside your teakettle. Calcium also should be less of a problem in water pipes and hot water heaters.

Charlevoix's first municipal water supply was an artesian well near the Ward Brothers boat livery on Round Lake. When that supply became suspect, the unusual shore seepage system was installed. The late Jim Taylor, city superintendent in the 1960s, used to shake his head when he contemplated the city's water system. He said he had never seen anything like it — and he doubted anyone else had either.

He was amazed that it worked as well as it did as long as it did.

I think he'd be very pleased with the new water treatment complex on the Lake Michigan shore.

WATCH OUT FOR THE THIEF

Satanic influences, once thought by the average American church goer to only be in pagan cultures and religions of far-off lands, are now present in every segment of American society and in every community in our land. Once thought to be related only to superstition, the power of the occult world is demonstrated to be very real, and very evil. I am concerned about the inroads this ungodly influence is making into the homes and into the lives of Christians.

Sometime back the newspapers nationwide carried the tragic account of twelve-year-old Steven Erwin, of Lafayette, Colorado who had murdered his older brother Daniel, 16, with a gunshot to the head, then committed suicide. Investigators discovered the incident to be the result of a death pact inspired by the popular and seemingly innocent game Dungeons and Dragons. The detective report read, "No doubt Dungeons and Dragons cost them their lives." This is only one of numerous documented cases of murders and suicides related to the game. This game is only one of scores of avenues the deadly power of the occult is finding its way into the homes and lives of people. Christian faith, and common sense, would prompt us to be on guard against involvement with anything that is occult related - games, movies, television programs, music, books and magazines, etc.

While Christians justifiably are concerned about the deadly affects of pollution, famine, nuclear accident, and war, let's also heed the warning of Jesus Christ regarding the deceptive influences of satanic power. "And fear not them which kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul: but rather fear him which is able to destroy both body and soul in hell" (Matthew 10:28).

Jesus has much better things in mind for your life! "The thief cometh not, but for to steal, and to kill, and to destroy: I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly. (John 10:10).

Engagements

Nancy MacArthur and Peter Smith

MacArthur-Smith

Nancy Olive MacArthur and Peter Jay Smith will be married July 11 in the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix.

Their engagement is being announced by Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Morgan MacArthur of Charlevoix, parents of the bride-to-be.

Miss MacArthur graduated from Grand Blanc High School in 1978 and with honors from Hope College in 1982. A resident of Washington, D. C., she is presently performing as a soprano with the Soldier's Chorus, United States Army Field Band, and holds the rank of Staff Sergeant.

Her fiance attended the University of Berkley and is currently attending the University of Maryland. He is certified in production and inventory control management, employed by the Hewlett-Packard Corporation in Washington.

Both young people have roots in Charlevoix. The bride-to-be is the grand-daughter of Olive R. MacArthur Scott and Hugh Scott, and the future bridegroom is the grandson of the late Mrs. Ethel Wiesinger. He is also a nephew of Mrs. Julius Gilbert. (Photography by Olan Mills)

Laurie Robb

Robb-Nussbaum

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Morgan MacArthur of Charlevoix announce the engagement of their daughter, Laurie Robb, to David Arthur Nussbaum of Flint. He is the son of Cedric L. Nussbaum of Deal, New Jersey, and the late Marjorie Nussbaum.

The bride-elect, who is also the grand-daughter of Olive M. MacArthur Scott and Hugh Scott of Charlevoix, graduated from Grand Blanc High School in 1969. She later attended Albion College and graduated from Michigan State University. Presently, she is serving as executive director of the Visually Impaired Center in Flint and is a member of the Flint Junior League.

The intended bridegroom graduated from the University of Vermont, and earned a master's degree in social work from Rutgers University. He is currently serving as executive director of the Flint Jewish Federation.

The wedding will take place May 31 in Flint.

Leo P. Meyers

Leo P. Meyers, 81, of Charlevoix, died Sunday, April 5 at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Born in Dexter, Mi., April 16, 1905, Leo Paul Meyers was raised in Dexter and graduated from the Dexter High School in 1923. He attended the University of Michigan. He was married to the former Grace N. Smith who preceded him in death in November 1937. On May 31, 1939, he married the former Winifred E. Monk at Alma. They made their home in Ann Arbor where he was co-owner and operator of the United Cigar Store until 1940. He then became a home builder, realtor and property broker-developer for 25 years until his retirement in 1980.

He was an authorized dealer for U.S. Steel Homes and, after coming to Charlevoix, manager of the Lehavre Condominium Association until the time of his death.

He was a member of the Ann Arbor Board of Realtors, past president of a SPEBSQSA chapter in Ann Arobr, past president of the Ann Arbor Town Club, a member of the Ann Arbor City Planning Commission and the Barton Hills Country Club.

Surviving are his wife, Winifred E.; a son, John J. Meyers of Traverse City; one daughter, Mrs. LeRoy (Mary Elizabeth) Fox of Chandler, Ariz.; four grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials to the Charlevoix Area Hospital Equipment Fund. Envelopes for this purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home which was in charge of arrangements.

Missionary to speak

Rev. Dr. Alton C. Smith, an Assemblies of God missionary to Africa, will be guest speaker on Sunday, April 12 at 6 p.m. at the Charlevoix Assembly of God Church, M-66, the Rev. Lowell Anderson has announced.

Dr. Smith and his wife Norma have just completed 10 years of missionary service at the West Africa Advanced School of Theology (WAAST) in Lome, Togo, where he was academic dean and she was head librarian. They both served on the faculty there.

Prior to missionary service, Mr. Smith served in teaching and administrative positions in public education in the state of Michigan. The Smiths also pastored in Michigan.

Dr. Smith earned his Ph. D. degree in overseas accreditation of bible schools and colleges at Michigan State University. Mrs. Smith holds an M.A. degree in missionary anthropology from the Assemblies of God Theological Seminary in Springfield, MO.

In this service, the Smiths will make a special missions-oriented presentation including a multimedia program entitled "Ten Years in Ten Minutes," a fast moving resume of their ministry in Africa. The public is invited to attend.

LEGAL NOTICE 207

NOTICE OF SPECIAL MEETING OF SHAREHOLDERS TO BE HELD APRIL 22, 1987

Notice is hereby given that a Special Meeting of the Shareholders of Charlevoix County State Bank (the "Bank") will be held at 11:00 A.M., local time, on April 22, 1987, at the Bank's Main Office, 227 Bridge Street, Charlevoix, Michigan 49720, for the following purposes:

(1) To consider and vote upon a Plan and Agreement of Consolidation ("Consolidation Plan"; "Consolidation") between the Bank, Round Lake State Bank ("Round Lake") a Michigan corporation; and CCSB Corporation ("CCSB"), a Michigan corporation formed to act as a holding company for the Bank; pursuant to which among other things, (i) Round Lake, a wholly owned subsidiary of CCSB, will be merged with and into the Bank with the Bank being the Surviving Corporation, thereafter to be operated as a wholly owned subsidiary of CCSB; and (ii) the outstanding shares of the Bank's $10 par value common stock will be converted into and exchanged for the $10 par value common stock of CCSB, on a one for one share basis; all as more fully set forth in the Plan and Agreement of Consolidation, dated March 16, 1987.

(2) To transact such other business as may properly come before the Special Meeting or any adjournments thereof.

In connection with the Reorganization, each outstanding share of $10 par value common stock of the Bank will be converted, on a tax-free basis, into one share of $10 par value common stock of CCSB.

Only those holders of the Bank's Common Stock of record at the close of business on March 24, 1987, are entitled to notice of and to vote at the Special Meeting and any adjournments thereof.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE ON FORECLOSURE BY ADVERTISEMENT

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain Mortgage made by THOMAS O. THIMM and TAMARA W. THIMM, husband and wife, to CHARLEVOIX COUNTY STATE BANK, a Michigan banking corporation of Charlevoix, Michigan, dated 17 July 1985, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for the County of Charlevoix, Michigan, on 19 September 1985, in Liber 180 of Mortgages, Page 840. As of the date of this Notice, there is claimed to be due on said Mortgage for principal, interest and late fees, the sum of $47,161.84, and no proceedings at law having been instituted to recover the debt now remaining secured by said Mortgage, or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained in said Mortgage has become operative;

NOW, THEREFORE, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said Mortgage and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the Mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, or so much thereof as may be necessary, at a public auction to the highest bidder at the front door of the County Building in the City of Charlevoix, County of Charlevoix, Michigan, that being the place of holding the Circuit Court in and for said County, on Wednesday, 29 April 1987 at 10:00 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, and said premises will be sold to pay the amount so as aforesaid then due on said Mortgage, together with 10.5 percent interest per annum, legal costs, attorney fees as provided by law and any taxes and insurance that said Mortgagee, Charlevoix County State Bank, does pay on or prior to the date of said sale, said premises being described as follows:

Land located in the Township of Hayes, County of Charlevoix and State of Michigan, viz:

Beginning at the intersection of the South Eighth line of Section 11, Town 34 North, Range 7 West, with the North and South quarter line of said section; thence South along said North and South quarter line 220 feet; thence West, parallel with said South eighth line, 1018.12 feet to the West line of the East three quarters of the North half of the Southeast quarter of the Southwest quarter of said section; thence North along said line 220 feet to the South eighth line of said section; thence East along said eighth line 1017.99 feet to the point of beginning; being a part of the Southeast quarter of the Southwest quarter of Section 11, Town 34 North, Range 7 West.

The length of the redemption period of said Mortgage as made and provided by statute is twelve (12) months from the time of the sale.

LEGAL NOTICE 207

STATEMENT OF NON-DISCRIMINATION

March 31, 1987

Wolverine Power Supply Cooperative, Inc., P.O. Box 369, Boyne City, Michigan, 49712, has filed with the Federal Government a Compliance Assurance in which it assures the Rural Electrification Administration that it will comply fully with all requirements of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Rules, Regulations of the Department of Agriculture issued thereunder, to the end that no person in the United States shall, on the grounds of race, color or national origin, or on the basis of handicap, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be otherwise subjected to discrimination in the conduct of its program and the operation of its facilities. Under this Assurance, this organization is committed not to discriminate against any person on the grounds of race, color, or national origin, or on the basis of handicap, in its policies and practices relating to applications for service or any other policies and practices relating to conditions and extension of service, use of any of its facilities, attendance at and participation in, any meetings of beneficiaries and participants or the exercise of any rights of such beneficiaries and participants in the conduct of the operations of this organization.

Any person who believes himself, or any specific class of individuals, to be subjected by this organization to discrimination prohibited by Title VI of the Act and the Rules and Regulations issued thereunder may, by himself or a representative, file with the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250, or this organization, or all, a written complaint. Such complaint must be filed no later than 180 days after the alleged discrimination, or by such later date to which the Secretary of Agriculture or the Rural Electrification Administration extends the time for filing. Identity of complainants will be kept confidential except to the extent necessary to carry out the purposes of the Rules and Regulations.

Lake planning committee nears end of over 2 years work

The final report will, in essence, be a plan for carrying out the committee's assignment: recommendations for preserving the quality of the lake. The report is already in the draft stages of preparation, with the assistance of professional writer Dave Knight, former editor of the Courier.

Upon completion of the draft plan, public hearings will be held to give the general public a chance to make recommendations and changes.

These changes will be incorporated into the draft plan, which will then be submitted to the County Planning Commission, the County Board of Commissioners, and the various municipalitis bordering on Lake Charlevoix, for approval.

On-going activities will include working with the townships and cities to get their cooperation in incorporating Lake Charlevoix Management plan recommendations into their own plans and ordinances, and to recommend changes in federal and state policies in accordance with the plan.

The 15-person Lake Charlevoix Management Advisory Committee has been serving without per diem for all its months of work. Its members are appointed volunteers from both environmental and development groups as well as representatives of township and city governments.

Because of the diversity of interests and backgrounds of its members, the committee has done much "thrashing out" of ideas during its many meetings, all of which have been reported in the Courier.

At its last meeting, on March 31, the committee considered greenbelts (the space between the water's edge and man-made structures). The discussion was lively, according to reports, culminating in a recommendation for a minimum width of 50 feet of undisturbed natural vegetation for all greenbelts. Maintained lawns would not be allowed in the greenbelt, although sand would be.

If the area between the water's edge and proposed structures has already been disturbed, the committee recommends that it be replanted with trees, shrubs, and ground cover.

Another greenbelt recommendation bars all structures in the greenbelt area, including decks. It was this latter recommendation that added most to the liveliness of the meeting.

When the Lake Charlevoix Management Advisory Committee plan is finally released, it will be endorsed by most committee members. However, at the last meeting, one member, John Haggard, who represents Charlevoix Township, said he may write a minority report. Haggard is a Charlevoix plumbing and heating contractor and an advocate of sustained commercial growth. He could not be reached for further comment last week, but in the past he has been critical of the makeup of the committee and the work they are doing, saying they are biased toward environmentalists and against development.

from the major epicurean centers like New York, New Orleans, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Washington, D.C.

Even among the more remote region places honored – like Savannah, Georgia or San Antonio, Texas – the village of Ellsworth strikes a rather unlikely note. Add to that the nationwide reputation of Ellsworth's other fine restaurant, The Rowe Inn, and the whole thing seems downright quirky.

But Tapawingo – which means in Chippewa something like "a place of rest" or "a place of joy" – has turned its remoteness into a strength. Situated in the heart of an area known for wild foods and hearty gardens, Peterson has helped establish northern Michigan's unique contribution to Regional American Cuisine.

"I have always thought of this as the best part of the state," says Peterson, who turned a cooking hobby into a profession when he joined the Rowe Inn some 10 years ago as assistant waiter and bartender.

Peterson intended to stay at the Rowe for one year and then go to cooking school in Paris. He ended up staying seven years, the last three as chef, before opening Tapawingo three years ago in a remodeled home just down the road from his former restaurant.

Spring morels have become something of a signature for Peterson. Throughout the morel season he serves morel country dinners, with the delicate mushrooms served in a variety of ways. One of his better known dishes includes dried morels ground up to make a pasta which is served with pheasant or veal with a morel sauce.

But morels are not the only local products to get a unique treatment by Tapawingo chef. The newly sprouted fronds of fiddlehead ferns get more attention than anything he serves, Peterson says. He gets them from Michigan and Maine and serves them as a green. "It's fun to introduce new things to people," he adds.

Also new to many customers are flower blossoms served as an accent to salads in the summer. Nasturtiums, he observes, have a peppery taste like horseradish.

Garden produce and wild foods have become something of a cottage industry in Ellsworth. The DeKorne farm supplies raspberries and the Van Houtens' strawberries. The Circle Herb Farm near East Jordan is called on for a variety of seasonings.

Ken Richards, the Ellsworth postmaster, maintains a huge garden which supplies baby squash and eggplant, herbs, cucumbers and garden flowers for the restaurant. Whitefish comes from Cross Fisheries in Charlevoix and trout from Bellaire. The Green River Trout Farm supplies a variety of smoked products.

Peterson also gets such wild produce as chanterelle and oyster mushrooms from American Spoon Foods in Petoskey.

Tapawingo prepares all of its own pastries, breads and dressings from scratch and cooks all of its meals to order on the top of the stove.

Preparing a meal to order for some 100 customers a night requires a great deal of planning and choreography, Peterson says, whose five-course dinners include hors d'oeuvres and appetisers, salad, entree, dessert and an after dinner treat.

The emphasis is not only on the quality of the food – whether its the finest lamb obtainable or fresh produce – but its visual presentation as well. "If food is presented to you nicely it enhances the whole eating experience," Peterson notes. "So much of food is visual."

His 10 years experience as an auto designer for Ford Motor Co. before moving north helps in the restaurant for "designing" everything from the look of the meals on the plate to the promotional posters.

Peterson, who has served as a councilman in Ellsworth for the last two years, says the village reacts to the restaurant with a mixture of pride and resentment since some cannot afford to eat there. "For some it is just not their kind of food," he says.

Five course meals at Tapawingo range generally from $21 to $26. The menu changes continually, but calls on a basic repertory of dishes. "It evolves, it doesn't change completely," Peterson says.

The menu, which is printed upstairs in Peterson's home, usually includes fish, poultry and red meat. "We try to serve things that are the freshest and best," he adds. "Fresh seafood is hard to get."

Since opening the restaurant Peterson has been assisted by Jean Muha, who does everything from baking breads and pastries to putting out flowers on the tables. Jean owned the house that Tapawingo occupies and raised her family there.

The sous chef is Melissa Yard who had been with the Leeland Lodge. In May Peterson will also hire another assistant chef who has worked at the Sylvan Resort and the London Chop House.

After cooking for as many as 100 guests, Peterson says his own tastes run a bit simpler than the dinner menu – usually something like grilled fish and salad.

But when he wants a break from his own cooking he is likely to visit Juilleret's in Charlevoix for some cinnamon French toast or join the local crowd at the center table of Ellsworth's Kountry Kitchen. Now that's Regional American Cuisine.

SPRING SPORTS ROUNDUP

'Too early to tell' for track prospects

Until the weather and spring break interrupted the program, Coach Hal Evans had his candidates for the Charlevoix Rayder track team preparing for the season which is scheduled to open Wednesday at Traverse City.

With as many as 40 candidates signed up for the program, few assignments have been made Evans said.

Among those who are expected to be distance runners are seniors Doug Bergmann and Duane Herriman, juniors Pat Rajewski, Tom Merta, and Sean Henne, freshmen Scott Miller and Gehry Wiesner.

Expected to fill positions as sprinters will be seniors Paul Anderson, Rick Quinn, Jim Gibbs and Kevin Shepard; juniors Marvin Witthoeft and Mark LaBlance, and sophomores David Miller and Jason Wiser.

David Batdorif, a senior is expected to be a candidate for the pole vault and a relay team assignment; Jason Whitley, a sophomore, hurdles and pole vault and seniors Don Zipp, Bill Marquardt, John Jaskierski and Terry Bonar, the shot.

Others among the candidates who, at this point are unassigned include Matt Cunningham, Steve Mansen, Dan Chase, Mike Stargardt and Dylan Stewart.

Coach Evans did not comment on the kind of season he is expecting.

"It's too early, we've had too little practice and at this time I am not ready to make specific assignments," he said.

The team will be at Petoskey at 4 p.m. on Wednesday, April 15 and will travel to Gaylord Thursday, April 23.

While the team can use the track and related facilities at Kipke field for practice purposes, the track will not be ready for use in competition until the final rubberized surface is completed this summer Evans said.

Hitting looks solid on baseball squad

The Charlevoix Rayder baseball nine will take to the diamond for the 1987 season Tuesday when they travel to Central Lake.

Coach Brian Certa has had his charges practicing for several weeks with some outside practices until spring break. "Hopefully the weather will clear and we'll get in some more outdoor time before next Tuesday. For the first time since taking over as baseball coach, Certa finds himself with seasoned players as candidates for the team. "We've got the hitting. Last year the team averaged .310 at the plate. Now we have to concentrate on our pitching," he commented.

Candidates for this important position are Derek Dutcher, a junior, who pitched in relief last season; Scott Denny, another junior with two years experience; and Mike Thompson, a senior who filled the position last season. Thompson may also fill in behind the plate.

Two other seniors, Kent Seymour and John Gray, will also be available as catchers and may see duty in the outfield, Seymour in left field and Gray in right field.

Dan Drury, recovering from a shoulder injury suffered in football, will not be available for mound duty but is expected to take over at first base; Denny will fill the second base position; Steve Hopkins at short stop with Dutcher playing at third when not on the mound and a sophomore, Mike Wise, trying out for this assignment.

Two sophomores, Mike Himebauch and Shawn Putman, who may take a turn at the pitching position, will probably be at second base and left field as their primary assignments. Nick Mellios, another junior and two year veteran, is expected to play center field. He is also a pitching candidate.

Corey Richardson, a sophomore, looks good as a pitcher Certa said.

Others of his 18 candidates are Jim Tilton, a junior, with one year experience as a freshman who is trying out for right field and is also a pitching candidate; Chad Thorp, a junior with a year's experience, center field; Charles Morrow, a junior who is a newcomer to the school, first base and right field; and sophomores, Bob Jess, catcher and right field and Dave Loder, shortstop and pitcher.

Certa has no freshman candidates.

"It looks like a good season. Our hitting will be good but we do need to work on our pitching. If we can come up with some pitcher it could be an excellent season. For the first time I have some veterans to work with. They're enthusiastic. All we need now is a break in the weather," Certa added.

Certa is also enthusiastic about the fact that he will have some coaching assistance this season. John Hutchinson has volunteered to work with the pitcher. "This will be a great help. He can concentrate on our pitching candidates, who sorely need the extra help, and I can work with the other players. This will mean a great deal to us," Certa commented.

After the opening game on Tuesday, the Rayders will host East Jordan on Thursday and travel to Kalkaska for a game on Wednesday, April 22.

Girls turn out for track team in force

The Charlevoix Rayder girls track team, coach by Ken Plude, will travel to Petoskey Wednesday, April 15 to open its 1987 season.

"It looks like an exciting year. We have 27 candidates out for the team, twice as many as last year. They should do well," Plude said.

Both the boys and girls teams practice together with Hal Evans and Roger Gowell as well as Plude as mentors.

Among the candidates are: seniors Barbie Boss, a sprinter; Michelle North and Amy Pischner, seniors, Betsy Haggard, Heidi Olinger, Stephanie Agnew and Ellen Pearl, juniors, middle distance runners; Amy McKinney and Laura Wilmot, seniors, shot put and discus.

Sophomores Tanya Gruenewald and Marci Wynkoop, long jump and high jump.

Stephanie Martin, nursing a knee injury, is expected to return as a sprinter.

Candidates for the relay team will be Boss, Pischner, Martin, Linda McClanathan and Kathy Pease, a freshman.

Three freshmen, Michelle Jacobs, Chrissy Dillon and Kate Christiansen look like good middle distance runners. Three seniors are out for the first time: Jana Mansen, a prospective distance runner, Julie Martin, field events, and Ruth Kent, mile and two mile.

Other prospects include juniors Christy Engle, hurdles and relays, Lori Jinsky, middle distance, and Jill Austin, who has not found her niche; Barb Haggard, middle distance, Jenny Overlock, distance runner and Kendra Olinger, hurdles.

"We should be competitive this season. We placed fifth last season in conference with 13 girls, so we should do much better on all levels," Plude said of the upcoming season.

Most softball positions up for grabs

Twenty-seven candidates for the Charlevoix Rayder softball team reported for practice Monday night reports Becky Gengla first-time team coach.

Among the candidates are nine returnees from last season, Gengle said. Few positions have been filled at this time. "We've had so little time to see what the girls are capable of doing. We're short on pitchers after graduating two last season; there'll be new faces behind the plate and the others have had little opportunity to show their stuff," Gengle added.

She did say that Amy Antaya would be playing shortstop and Lisa Smith first base, with the majority of other positions open at this time.

Jennifer Sell and Ann Kroll, who missed last season, are pitching candidates along with Shelly Crain a junior.

Among the returnees are Heidi Bolduc, Beth Mauc, Anne Smith and Brenda Sutton, seniors, and junior Michelle Siebert, an outfielder, and Stacey Gebott, a sophomore, either the infield or outfield.

Three freshmen, Kris Morrow and Melissa Boss in the infield, and Shirley Bourdo, in the outfield.

Candidates for the position behind the plate are Billie Jo Habel and Darsi Spencley, a sophomore and junior, respectively; Anna D'Angelo, a junior, third base or outfield; seniors Nicky Christiansen and Maria Parsons, outfielders; and seniors Jackie Potter, Monica Havens and Kristen Pearsall, infielders with Carolyn Beer, a junior either infield or outfield.

"Other than the pitching and catching positions, which are very important, we're pretty solid," Gengle said.

Other candidates, all newcomers, are working toward a chance at a starting position.

Rayders score at indoor track meet

Eight members of the Charlevoix Rayder track teams were in Big Rapids on March 28 to attend an indoor track meet. The group coached by Ken Plude returned home with a trophy and 11 medals.

Heidi Olinger, the only member of the girls team, bettered her time in the distance runs but did not receive a medal.

The boys participating were Jim Gibbs, Paul Anderson, David Miller, Scott Miller, Marv Witthoeft, Harold Herriman and Pat Rejewski.

A six-lap team of Anderson, Witthoeft, David Miller and Gibbs covered the distance in 3:06. The same team placed second in the four-lap relay. Scott Miller, a freshman, came in fourth in the open mile and Rajewski seventh in the half-mile run.

Softball leagues to hold first organizational meeting

Prospective softball players in both the men's and women's leagues sponsored by the Charlevoix Recreation Department are reminded of the organizational meeting to be held at the council room of the city hall, 7 p.m. Thursday, April 9.

All sponsors planning to field a team in either league are asked to notify Dwight Boss, city recreation director of their intentions prior to or at the meeting.

All prospective players and managers are asked to attend the initial meeting in order that plans for the 1987 meeting may be made.

Library to host open house

The Charlevoix Public Library will host a "Say Yes to Literacy" open house at the library located at 109 Clinton St. from 1-8 p.m. Thursday, April 9, Marybeth Wallick, librarian, has announced.

The city of Charlevoix is unique in northern Michigan in having had for several years, a literacy program under the leadership of Betty Potter and Bonnie Hand. They and the Charlevoix library have worked together purchasing materials and helping with referrals to the literacy program's tutors and utilizing the library facilities as a meeting place, Wallick said.

At the present time, 17 literacy programs are opening in northern lower Michigan libraries under the sponsorship of the Northland Library Cooperative under the dition of Sue Williams. The project is underwritten by a $15,000 LSCA Title VI "Say Yes to Literacy" centers project grant from the U.S. Department of Education, Wallick explained.

DNR director to address charter group

Gordon E. Guyer, director of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, will discuss the economic impacts of the charter boat industry on local communities at a Michigan Sea Grant Extension regional charter captains' workshop April 18 at the Grey Gables Inn in Charlevoix.

Dr. Gordon Guyer

A 1985 Michigan State University study of the industry indicated it had a $21 million impact on the state's coastal communities. Numerous communities have since evaluated their accommodations and facilities for this rapidly growing sector of the tourism economy.

Other topics on the workshop agenda are a report of the 1986 Lake Michigan creel census, a discussion of the Lake Charlevoix management plan, a summary of MSU's four-year salmonid diet study, a talk about Lake Michigan-Lake Charlevoix fishery concerns, and a presentation about promoting charter businesses with brochures.

Charter captains will also hear comments on industry issues from representatives of the Michigan Charter Boat Association.

A $10 fee covers the cost of materials and lunch. For registration information, contact John C. McKinney, district Extension Sea Grant agent, 400 Boardman Avenue, Traverse City or call (616) 941-2256.

The Michigan Sea Grant College Program is a cooperative effort of the University of Michigan and Michigan State University in Great Lakes research, education and extension.

Millage increase to fund repairs discussed by committee

A 4-mill tax increase to fund infrastructure improvements could be in the offing for Charlevoix residents.

The taxes would generate the nearly $4 million the city needs to fix its streets, sidewalks, water and sewer lines during the next 15 years.

A special committee appointed by city council has been studying ways to raise the funds. A bond issue of 5.5 to 6 mills, which would require a vote of city residents, also has been suggested. The 4 mills could be levied without a vote.

The figure for the bond issue is higher because it includes interest costs of paying off the bonds.

Ken Staley, a former mayor who chairs the special needs committee, also has suggested looking at using a sinking fund drawn from city utilities.

City Manager Mike Wiesner is leaning toward a 4 mill tax hike. The city charter allows council to levy up to 15 mills. Currently, only 10.6 mills are levied.

While conceding that a voted bond issue would provide money to do the entire fix-up faster, Wiesner said he didn't think speeding up the 15-year program was necessary.

"Although there are needs, I don't see them as pressing needs that have to be done tomorrow," he said at last week's committee meeting.

When city, county and school taxes are figured in, city residents currently pay about 47 mills, Wiesner said. The 4-mill additional levy would bump that up to about 51 mills, which he said is more in line with other cities in the area.

City council would have to approve raising the millage.

Ed Whitley, superintendent of the city's electric and water departments, expressed concern about the millage being raised to the maximum, because it would leave the city with no way to raise additional funds, except by vote, if an emergency situation arose. Councilman Robert Timms also noted another project could arise that would require additional funds.

Wiesner said those situations were possible but not likely.

"I don't know any others (projects), not that you couldn't be surprised," he said.

The first two years of the infrastructure fixup would be dedicated to preventive maintenance on streets and repair and construction of sidewalks throughout the city.

"These first two years, they're visible things," Wiesner said. "They're just real important.

"It's definitely still a 15-year plan," he noted.

In all, there are 24 miles of streets needing repair with an estimated cost of $1.4 million. Costs to bring the sidewalks up to snuff are estimated at $325,000. Bad sidewalks leave the city open to liability lawsuits, Wiesner said.

Problems with the sewer system arise because there are areas of the city where the storm sewer is connected to the sanitary sewer. In addition to causing overloads at the sewage treatment plant, it causes the sanitary sewer to back up into basements during heavy rains. It also results in raw sewage being dumped in the Pine River Channel during heavy rain storms.

Addition of motels north of the bridge will compound the problem, Wiesner noted in a written memo to the commitee. There are also areas of the city where new sanitary sewer is needed.

Projected cost of the storm sewer separation is $375,000, and another $200,000 for the new sanitary sewer.

The city also has problems with its water distribution system. Volume in some areas is quite low, causing a pressure drop during fire fighting and in some cases, the actual pulling of water right out of homes.

John Adams of the engineering firm of McNamee, Porter and Seeley told the committee it could resolve that problem by installing some larger water mains.

Fire Chief John Martin said the city currently has a fire rating of seven on a scale of one to nine, with lower being better. Installation of new mains could lower that to a six, which could lower insurance rates.

Martin said he did not know how much insurance rates would change, however.

Cost of upgrading the water system is projected at $1.63 million.

New nursing home hearing date urged

LANSING — Two Northern Michigan legislators may not know for a couple weeks if their meeting late last week with state health department officials was successful in moving up the date of a hearing on a nursing home in Charlevoix.

The hearing scheduled for February 1988 is an appeal by the Ohio-based Liberatore Health Care Inc., which lost out in the race to build a nursing home to Dehmel Ltd. of Flint.

Sen. Mitch Irwin, D-Sault Ste. Marie, and Rep. Ralph Ostling, R-Roscommon, met last week with two state health facility construction officials.

Although the officials made no promises, Irwin said they'd "try to accelerate the hearing date."

Irwin could not estimate when — or if — the hearing date would be changed.

Ostling agreed, adding, "it's really in limbo right now and we expect to hear (from the state health department) within the next two weeks."

The backlog of hearings is due to complicated legal matters and limited staff within the Michigan Department of Public Health, officials said.

Exceptional riders program underway

The Lake Charlevoix Exceptional Riders spring program started this week and runs through May 26. The course for handicapped children and adults is offered on Tuesday evenings at Lake Charlevoix Farms on the Boyne City Road.

Barbara Lake, director, is seeking volunteers to help with this eight-week session.

Anyone wishing to participate as a volunteer or student should contact Barbara Lake at 347-3300 between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Citizens to council: Don't change scenic reserve

by DOUG TRUAX

Over 100 Charlevoix area citizens jammed City Hall Monday night to voice their opinions on two controversial issues – proposed changes in scenic reserve zoning along the Lake Charlevoix and a plan to put the new Star of Charlevoix and a floating bar at the end of Clinton Street on Round Lake.

Council, meeting in a working session, heard nearly unanimous opposition to the proposed changes in scenic reserve zoning. A steady stream of speakers charged that changes in the scenic reserve could lead to further development along the Lake Charlevoix waterfront and on Park Island, also called Old Island.

Council proposed adding residential housing to the uses allowed in the scenic reserve, a narrow strip of land which stretches along Lake Charlevoix from the city limits on the north to the south end of the Belvedere Club. The area also includes the island in Round Lake which is owned by the Chicago Club.

Several councilmen, City Manager Michael Wiesner and City Attorney Jeffery VanTreese supported the changes. Council members Norm Probert and Shirley Roloff have opposed the change from the start.

The zoning proposal originated with Kenneth Flaska, an attorney hired to argue the city's tax appeal case with the Chicago Club. He said higher assessments on the club could be supported in court if the zoning allowed uses other than the cabanas, boat docks, beach houses, public buildings and similar structures currently permitted.

Flaska also charged that the scenic reserve zoning was confiscatory.

Over two dozen people addressed the council, and all but one (who took a neutral position) were opposed to the change. Audience denunciations of the scenic reserve proposal were frequently greeted by applause.

By the end of the evening several councilmen, including Earl Muma, William Haggard and William Bellows, indicated they would go along with popular sentiment and drop the change.

Bruce MacArthur, president of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, Inc., presented petitions with 276 signatures calling for "the city to retain scenic reserve as is."

MacArthur said the signatures were gathered between Saturday afternoon and Monday's meeting. He noted afterward the group had at least another 100 signatures that had not been received in time for the meeting.

MacArthur said 101 of the signatures were from the First Ward, 51 from the Second Ward and 37 from the Third Ward.

He displayed a series of photos showing a panoramic view of the scenic reserve area. "We are talking about almost the entire Lake Charlevoix waterfront in Charlevoix," he pointed out.

Ruth Ann Curtis, who for 25 years was manager of the Chicago Club, spoke on behalf of the garden club. "We are very much against the removal of the restriction," she said.

Barb Miller expressed a sentiment echoed by many when she told council allowing single family uses would inevitably lead to other development on the property in question.

Pete Phillips said he had no strong opinion on the change in zoning but "at some point, taxes are going to get where they are going to have to put something on it (the scenic reserve)."

Phillips added that "I do believe that by changing the zoning you are encouraging development." He called for a rational, informed decision, not one based on emotion. "If people

Floating bar plan gets hostile reception

by DOUG TRUAX

City residents expressed mixed reactions to a proposal to locate the new Star of Charlevoix dinner-cruise boat at the city docks at the end of Clinton Street at a city council meeting Monday night.

But there was strong opposition to a companion barge that would operate as a full-time bar.

City council chambers were full and some of the crowd had to stand in the hallway during the working session on the proposal.

The Star Line, owned by John McGoff, has proposed locating their new paddlewheel-style boat at the city docks rather than at its current location in front of the Edgewater Inn. In a plan presented by City Manager Michael Wiesner, the Star would pay 2 percent of its gross receipts each year for the privilege, or a minimum of $10,000 in 1987 and $12,000 thereafter.

The Star would be allowed to operate a barge next to the dinner boat as a full-time bar serving the general public. The city would remove one dock at a cost of some $3,000 and pay another $900 in preparation costs.

If the Star did not operate for five years at the site it would pay a penalty of $2,500 per year.

Mike Barnard, realtor and owner of several properties in town, was among those present who applauded the dinner boat but sternly rejected the floating bar. "I'm all in favor of the Star. It's a tremendous boost to the shop owners downtown. But the barge activity would pull away from that base," he said.

"I didn't realize East Park was for sale. There is not a one of us in this group (of businessmen) that can compete against it," he said.

Tom Sheraton, a seasonal resident who is considering purchase of the 218 Bridge Restaurant nearby, also objected to the barge. The thing that attracted him to Charlevoix, Sheraton said, was that the city still had open space near the park where you could see the water.

"If we start putting commercial enterprises on the water, at what point are we going to stop," he asked.

Mike Greeley, owner of the Wharf Side Market next to East Park, welcomed the Star of Charlevoix but also objected to the barge. "I do object to the city leasing out public space for private enterprise," he said.

Pat Jackson, a resident on Round Lake, asked Wiesner if the barge and dinner ship were tied together economically. Wienser said he had been told that the barge was necessary to make the Star operation economically viable.

Others questioned parking for the ship. Mayor Ralph McRae stated that those using the ship would park wherever they could.

Several persons in the audience said that if the property is leased to a private owner, it should be open to bidding by other businessmen.

Bill Martin, owner of the Weathervane Restaurant, said the Star Line's proposal was "blackmail for a lousy $10-15,000. It's an insult."

"I just think he should take his paddle boat and paddle on out of Landfill alternatives to be considered by new Solid Waste Planning Committee

by PEG OHLE

With the work of one county planning committee coming to an end, another planning committee has just begun tackling another problem dealing with the health and welfare of Charlevoix County residents.

The 13-member Charlevoix County Solid Waste Planning Committee appointed by the County Board of Commissioners will meet the last Thursday of every month for six months to develop a plan by which the county can dispose of its garbage and other solid waste in an environmentally safe and cost-effective manner for the next decade or longer.

The work of this committee follows the completion of the work of the Lake Charlevoix Management Advisory Committee, which is finalizing its plan for keeping Lake Charlevoix and its shoreline free from pollution.

The Solid Waste Committee will have the present Solid Waste Management Plan to use as a starting point in its work. However, it will take considerable research to bring it up to a point where it will meet present-day needs, according to County Planner Larry Sullivan.

While the present plan considers only landfills as a means of waste disposal, the new plan will delve into the possibilities of incineration and recycling as well, Sullivan says. He will coordinate the work of the committee.

Most of the solid waste generated in Charlevoix County at the present time is being deposited in the privately-owned Charlevoix Garbage Service Landfill in Eveline Township, south of Charlevoix. This is the only landfill in Charlevoix County and the only licensed clay-lined landfill in northern Michigan.

Because it is the only landfill in the area, the Charlevoix landfill has become the repository not only for waste from Charlevoix County, but from surrounding areas, including the City of Petoskey, other parts of Emmet County, and counties to the east and south. Included in the waste buried in Eveline Township has been oil-soaked soil and chemically-treated wood fibers, which have brought special condemnation from residents of Eveline Township, and others.

Depositing waste matters from all over northern Michigan in the Charlevoix landfill will naturally cause the landfill to "fill up" faster than it would if solid waste from a smaller area were deposited. That is what concerns the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners.

Under Act 641 of 1979, Michigan counties are given the responsibility of having a plan designating how all solid waste generated in each county is to be disposed of: specifically, a plan seeing to it that "all solid waste is removed from the site of generation frequently enough to protect the health and delivered to licensed solid waste disposal areas".

Commissioners hear that foster care reduced

by PEG OHLE

In a "good news" report, County Juvenile Officer Brad Campbell told the Board of Commissioners last week that there had been a 53 percent decrease in days of foster care provided court wards and children in institutions since last October.

Campbell said the reduction is due largely to the hiring of a Diversion Worker and the work she has done with juveniles referred to her.

Mary Fattal, the Diversion Worker, assumed her duties last October 15, when she was given a caseload of 12 juveniles referred from Juvenile Court. Since that time, she has received 38 additional cases, some of which have been closed, leaving her with 29 cases at the present time.

In a written report distributed to County Board members by Campbell, Miss Fattal explains, "At the present time, my casework has been mostly limited to one-to-one visits each week with the juveniles, either in their homes or at school. I meet with their parents at least monthly to both update and work with them. So far, outings with the youths have been limited to shopping and-or having a bite to eat after school...I feel I have been very fortunate to have such an abundance of community resources to make referrals to. So far, I have made referrals to several counseling agencies, community education programs, Volunteers In Probation, Victim Offender Reconciliation Program, Eagle Village, and the Charlevoix Parenting classes.

As for future goals, Miss Fattal says, "I am planning on having my first outing with a group of kids, a weekend in Wilderness State Park. After that, I hope to have one big outing each month. Future plans include a Tiger ball game, a trip to Mackinac Island, a trip to Cedar Point, a summer campout, etc. I also want to get more kids involved with some sporting activities such as tennis, basketball, bicycling, and swimming. I would like to get more kids involved with the community education program, and with the Youth Activities here in Charlevoix County.

"Further down the road, I hope to develop a support group for the juveniles. In the past, my experience has showed that people respond well when involved with a group of their peers. Then, once the group is active, I will have more

Art classes start at Charlevoix library

Four separate art classes for adults and children are being offered at the Charlevoix Library this spring under the sponsorship of the Crooked Tree Arts Council.

Beginning April 16, an adult class in Water Color will be held on Thursday evenings from 6:30 to 8:30, taught by Charlevoix artist Jan Glass. The class of 10 will be limited to those of intermediate and advanced ability. The tuition for five weeks will be $39.

An adult class in Beginning Drawing will be taught by Charlevoix artist Cara Hochhalter on Mondays from 6:30 to 8:30, beginning April 13. The class will be based on the book, "Drawing on the Right Side of the Brain", by Betty Edwards, and will cover such matters as positive and negative space, perceptives, and portraits. "Anyone who can write their name can learn to draw", Mrs. Hochhalter says. The tuition for six weeks will be $46.

Eileen Ileck, another Charlevoix artist, will teach a children's art class for kindergartners through grade five. It will be held Mondays from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m. for six weeks beginnig April 13. The tuition will be $23.

Barbara Steele, also a Charlevoix artist, will teach a children's Water Color class for those in grades five through eight on Thursdays from 3:30 to 5:30. Tuition for six weeks will be $35.

For registration and further information, call the Crooked Tree Arts Center at 347-4337.

Easter musical presented

"The Crimson Bridge" Deric Johnson's Easter musical, is being presented Easter Sunday evening, April 19 at 7 p.m. at the Community Reformed Church by a 40-voice choir, representing several churches in the community.

The musical presents a graphic description of the miracle of Calvary. "The music carries you back to the foot of the cross where you become personally involved in the last hours of Jesus' life," a spokesman said:

"The Crimson Bridge" includes intriguing narrations, done by Garrett Miller. Solos will be offered by Cheryl Thayer, Sheryl Bergmann, Mike Westenbroek, Ken Boss, Pete Kramer and Marlene Evans. Pianist is Francis Boss, with Lori Kopecki playing flute and Heather VanderSlik playing violin. The musical is directed by Cindy Mansen. Everyone is invited to attend.

Chamber dance set for May 2

Initial plans for the annual spring dinner dance sponsored by the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce have been announced by Jacquie Merta, executive director of the chamber.

The date will be Saturday, May 2; the place, the beautiful Belvedere Club Casino; and the band, by popular request, the "Attractions" out of Lansing.

Eileen and Dennis Heck, Chamber members, are organizing this popular event which will begin at 7 p.m. with cocktails followed by a dinner at 8 p.m. offering a choice of prime rib or whitefish entree.

Tickets will go on sale Monday, April 13 at the chamber office or from Chamber members. For more information, please call 547-2101.

Bands present spring concert

The 140 Instrumental music students in the Charlevoix Middle School and High School bands will present their annual spring concert at the high school gymnasium at 8 p.m. Tuesday, April 21, Director Terry Isenbarger has announced.

The seventh-grade band will open the concert with several selections including "Prometheus Overture" by Anne McGinty and "Ticonderoga" by Leland Forsblad.

Among the numbers to be played by the eighth-grade band will be a K.L. King march entitled "Torch of Liberty"; highlights from the Jerry Bock musical, "Fiddler on the Roof" and "Soul Explosion" by John Caruso.

The high school band will open its part of the concert with John Philip Sousa's "Free Lance March" followed by the selected and required numbers the band will perform at the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Festival at Lansing on Saturday, April 25. These numbers are "Aria and Fugue" by George Frederick Handel and "Dithyramb" by Mike Leckrone. Mike Stargardt will play a trombone solo, "Andante and Allegro" by Andre Chailleux.

A highlight of the concert will be the presentation of the annual John Philips Sousa Award to the outstanding senior in the high school band.

Good Friday services planned

The impressive procession of the Cross led by the members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association at 12:30 p.m. will again mark the opening of the Union Good Friday Service.

The procession will begin at the Oleson parking lot on Antrim Street and proceed south on State Street to the Community Church of God at 202 W. Hurlbut where the worship service will begin at 1 p.m.

The Rev. Richmond Thweatt of Christ Episcopal Church will deliver the message which be has entitled "The Message for This Hour."

The service will open with the call to worship by the Rev. Duane Nelson of the Church of the Nazarene, followed by the invocation.

The Reading of the Gospels by the Rev. Jeb Brushard, youth pastor of the Assembly of God Church; a responsive reading by the Rev. Thomas Black of the First Baptist Church; the reading from the Epistles by the Rev. Lowell Anderson of the Assembly of God Church; the pastoral prayer by Rev. David Yingling of the United Methodist Church and the offertory played by Jean Jensen will preceede the message.

An open Communion Service by the Rev. Bruce Hamilton of the host church will be followed by the symbolic act of "footwashing" by the participating ministers. The Rev. Larry Grooters of the Community Reformed Church will conclude the service with the benediction.

Special music will include "A Lenten Prophecy" written by Tom Woehrman and sung by Mr. Woerhman and Irene Woodard; a solo by Vincent Chew of the First Congregational Church; a duet by Steve and Sara Stargardt of the Assembly of God Church; a duet by Linda Brown and Cindy Mansen of the Community Reformed Church and the hymn "Were You There?" by the Handbell Choir of the First Congregational Church.

Mrs. Jensen will play the accompaniment for the congregational singing.

Worshippers of all denominations are invited to attend this service.

Industrial Fair set for Charlevoix

The annual Region 14-15 Regional Industrial Education Fair will be held at the Charlevoix High School gymnasium on Friday, April 24, Bob Lober of Traverse City, president of the fair sponsor, the Michigan Industrial Education Society, has announced.

The one-day fair will feature more than 900 projects completed and entered by students in the seventh through the twelfth grades from a minimum of 27 schools in Region 14-15, the largest geographically in the state, Lober said. The regions extend from Farwell to the straits of Mackinac and from Alpena on Lake Huron to schools on Lake Michigan. Lober added that more schools may enter as the deadline nears.

Projects winning awards in the top four places at the regional level will qualify for entry in the state-wide fair to be held at the Grand Traverse Resort Village near Traverse City the following weekend, May 1 and 2, Lober explained.

Projects to be exhibited in the regional fair at Charlevoix will be delivered to the site on Thursday evening and until 10 a.m. on Friday when a panel of adjudicators will judge them and attach the ribbon each has earned. The judging will close at 1:30 p.m.

The regional fair will open to the public at 1:30 p.m. and remain open until 9 p.m.

The annual convention of the Michigan Industrial Education Society will convene at the Grand Traverse Resort Village on Thursday, April 30. The state Industrial Education Fair will be open to the public from 8 a.m. until 8 p.m. Friday, May 1 and 8 a.m. until noon Saturday, May 2.

The public is invited to view the exhibits without cost at both sites.

Jerry Puhl and Jim Jinsky of Charlevoix are co-chairmen of the regional fair at Charlevoix.

Entries will include architectural and mechanical drawings, pattern making and molding, various phases of welding and metal projects, plastics, graphic arts, electricity and electronics, many types of woodworking, transportation vehicles (trailers and boats), and an open division for projects overlapping or involving more than one category.

Puhl is seeking judges for the various categories entered in the fair. Anyone in the area interested in serving as a judge is asked to contact Puhl or Jinsky at the Charlevoix Middle School at 547-3206.

Juvenile foster care reduced time to plan activities for them to participate in".

Reaching juveniles through a program of diversionary activities before they get into serious trouble has long been a goal of the Charlevoix County Juvenile Court.

"We can keep them out of the court system if we have someone to guide them and keep them busy", Campbell has said. A breakdown of juveniles in the Diversionary Program in recent months shows that they came not only from Juvenile Court, but from Charlevoix, East Jordan, Boyne City, and Boyne Falls schools, as well as from the County Department of Social Services.

The reduced number of foster care days translates into financial savings for the county, according to Don Smith, Juvenile Court liaison person on the County Board. "The cut in days of care so far amounts to a savings of about $17,500. That projects to about $42,000 a year", he said.

Barge plan gets rough reception here," commented Corine Behrens, adding that the Star ship did little for the town.

Tempers flared when Councilman Earl Muma said he had been told the city dock space could be worth as much as $25-30,000 in seasonal rentals. "You've never generated that kind of income," Bill Supernaw shot back. "You're misrepresenting what's possible."

Councilman William Haggard said he bad reservations on the barge operation. Muma objected to the bar and thought the Star had a better location in front of the Edgewater Inn.

Councilman Norm Probert questioned McGoff's track record in owning and then selling local businesses. "I really question the idea of the barge," he added.

Councilwoman Shirley Probert went on record as being for the dinner ship but against the barge and bar. "I think people in this town are totally against giving away property," she commented.

"I think the Star does the downtown business people good," Councilman William Bellows said. He said he did not see a problem with the barge if there were no bands.

"Where's it going to stop?" Patty Sitzema, a city resident, asked. "How many more boats are going to come in here? It starts with one."

Landfill alternatives sought

Charlevoix County prepared a solid waste disposal plan and published it in 1984, after it was approved by the State Department of Natural Resources. Things have changed since then, however.

The 1984 plan calls for depositing waste not only in the Charlevoix Garbage Service landfill, but in landfills in Kalkaska and Crawford Counties. The landfill in Kalkaska was closed by the DNR some time ago, and the one in Crawford County has only limited DNR approval. That means, as noted above, that almost all waste from Charlevoix County is being deposited in the Charlevoix landfill, further hastening the filling of that landfill.

Also, when the earlier County Solid Waste plan was written, the Charlevoix landfill was accepting waste from a much smaller geographical area than it now is.

The 1984 plan notes, "The Charlevoix Garbage Service Landfill takes waste from haulers serving the City of Petoskey, Charlevoix, Sooth Arm, Hayes, Norwood, Marion, Eveline, and Charlevoix Townships. Some wastes from Banks and Central Lake Townships and the Village of Central Lake's transfer station, in Antrim County, are disposed of at this site...The transfer stations in Melrose and Boyne Valley Townships are serviced by a hauler from Petoskey, with the waste being taken back to the Emmet County transfer station, then to the Antrim-Kalkaska or Charlevoix Garbage Service Landfill".

In October, 1985, the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners passed a resolution addressing the problem of the shortening life of the Charlevoix landfill. The resolution asked that "Charlevoix County discourage and take legal action to prevent waste from entering the Charlevoix Garbage Service Landfill that is generated outside of its present service area, in order to prolong its life span and to preserve an area within the licensed portion of the property to be used as a disposal site for incinerator ash".

Dawson Way, owner and operator of the Charlevoix landfill called the resolution "ridiculous". The county took no further action in the matter, but just last month, County Prosecutor Kraag Lieberman advised the County Board that it would be legal for them to ban the disposal of out-of-county waste at the Charlevoix Garbage Service Landfill.

Then, last week, the Michigan Court of Appeals ruled that after Township in Chippewa County could not block a privately-owned landfill from accepting waste from the City of Marquette, some 165 miles away.

With all the problems surrounding landfills, including unsightliness; possible ground, water, and air pollution; and diminishing numbers of suitable locations, it is only natural that other means of solid waste disposal be looked at, even though they may be financially viable only on a regional basis.

Committee members working on the problem are Tad Malpass of East Jordan, C. H. Smith of Charlevoix, Alfred J. Hass of Walloon Lake, and Dawson Way of Charlevoix, representing the solid waste industry; Ralph Richardson of Charlevoix, Tom Wieland of Charlevoix, and Nancy Ferguson of Charlevoix, representing the general public; Larry Levengood of Charlevoix and Phil Johnson of Boyne City, representing environmentalists; Don Smith of Charlevoix, representing the County Board; Junior Hunt of Boyne Falls, representing townships; Randy Frykberg of Boyne City, representing city governments; and Dennis Jason of East Jordan, representing the Regional Planning Commission. 'Round Town

A tale of two swans

EDITH GILBERT

Two swans are nesting over by the Chicago Club and Mother Swan says to Father Swan, "You know, I'm certainly glad the nice Mrs. Douglas, who used to summer at the Chicago Club, was given two swans for a present. Just think, if that had never happened, we wouldn't be here!"

"Yes, we are so lucky. This is the most beautiful place in the whole world, and I wouldn't want to raise my family anywhere else," replied Father Swan. "I am getting a little worried, though. I hear there are plans afoot to rezone the island in Round Lake – from scenic reserve to one family residences."

"Who would want to do that?" asked Mother Swan.

"It has something to do with taxation," answered Father Swan. "There are some people, who think that the Chicago Club and the Belvedere Associations are not paying enough taxes. They want to raise their property assessments."

Mother Swan ruffled her feathers and said, "That's ridiculous! For those old wooden places that aren't even winterized? You remember my grandfather telling us how delighted the city fathers were to have the resorters build their cottages here way back in the 1880s. It brought so many people and so much business and good jobs to the area."

"Yes, I know, but that was so long ago," Father Swan sighs. "People today don't remember. How many people do you think know that the Chicago Club gave that 18 hole golf course to the city? They turned 9 holes into the Industrial Park, which, incidentally, brings in a lot of taxes!"

"You are so right," Mother Swan says. "Speaking of golf, what about the Belvedere Club giving up the course for a week so the State Amateur Tournament can be held here in the summer. They only started doing that to help promote Charlevoix."

"I didn't know that. But what about all the Chamber of Commerce dances they've had at the Belvedere Casino and the Chicago Club," Father Swan recalls. "Don't people remember that?"

"Well, that's not such a big deal." Mother Swan shifts her weight on the nest. "Just think about the hospital. Our friend, the stork, tells me that all you have to do is walk down the halls in the hospital and read the names on the placques to realize that building the hospital was a joint venture between summer people and year around people."

"Right on." Father Swan nods. "So let's agree these old time resorters support the Petunia Auction, the Art Fair, the United Way, the Fire Engine Drive, the House Tour, and heaven knows what else. Let's grant that the Ransoms from the Belvedere Club launched the Chip Counseling Center. Let's admit the local churches have benefitted with many donations, such as stained glass windows, and pipe organs.

"Did you know they even helped buy the parking lot for the Library? The Chicago Club and Belvedere Club people have been good citizens over the years – they never give Sheriff Lasater a hard time like the Castle Farm crowds sometimes do."

"Sure, I'll buy that. Besides that, they don't have children in school, they don't use the fire department, police department and city services for 8 or 10 months out of the year," Mother Swan points out.

"Well, neither do the summer people, who live in the condominiums and cottages all over town," Father Swan argues, stretching one webbed foot in the air. "But the Chicago Club won their case in the Michigan court of Appeals fair and square. Now the mayor is putting on a campaign to change the rules.

"You can't compare a drafty, wooden summer cottage to new condos and assess them the same! He's a nice fellow and done a lot for the town, but he's way off base on this one. Besides, this controversy is costing the Charlevoix taxpayers a lot of money!"

"That's true," Mother Swan stretches her long neck. "I guess the bottom line is that nobody is paying any attention to the recommendation of the planning commission, which favors scenic reserves. They may just as well not exist."

"True, true. I guess the key question now is–why is there this urge to stick it to the associations? It seems like the city is in good financial shape. Who will benefit? Do you know that answer?" says Father Sawn.

"I wish I knew." Mother Swan shakes her head. "But I sure know we'd all lose if we give up our scenic reserves!"

"I just hope this place doesn't get so crowded we'll have to move to Beaver Island. I hear a lot of summer people are buying land over there, just in case," Father Swan cautions.

"Now, Bill, you're getting me all upset," Mother Swan cries. "You know the doctor warned us to keep calm. It's almost time to hatch these eggs and it's important we get our little ones off to a good start."

"O.K. O.K. I'll just fly over to Ferry Avenue Beach for awhile and hope I can pick up some good news at Nanny's." Father Swan stretches his wings and takes off, flying gracefully over Lake Charlevoix.

Fighting words

Clockwise BY BOB CLOCK

Many years ago, someone hired a consultant to tell us why Charlevoix has so much trouble making progress.

After a cursory survey, the consultant concluded that Charlevoix lacked good strong leaders.

I remember chuckling at the time, because precisely the opposite is true. Charlevoix has all kinds of talented leaders in almost every field of expertise, but quite often they pull toward opposite goals.

Charlevoix is like the knight who jumped on his horse and rode off in all directions.

AS A RESULT of our diversified leadership, change in Charlevoix takes place only after knock-down, drag-out political wars. When they end, the landscape strewn with bodies — which somehow rise to fight again during the next civic crisis.

Which may be a good way to run a city, because all parties have a chance to be heard before decisions are reached. At least, Charlevoix — one of the handsomest little towns in the world — doesn't seem to have suffered from all the in-fighting.

The cause celebre this week is a proposed change in scenic reserve zoning which would permit additional construction on the lakeshores. Proponents claim the change not only would put more property on the market but would somehow make it easier to win appeals that come before the Michigan Tax Tribunal.

Maybe so. But I think that tampering with scenic reserves is something akin to tampering with motherhood and apple pie. After all, scenery is our stock in trade. If we lose it — or compromise it — the whole town will suffer.

Another hot issue is whether the Star of Charlevoix should be allowed to have a beverage barge docked near its proposed mooring on Round Lake so that passengers could have a drink or two while waiting to board.

It's never been tried in Charelvoix before, but it sounds like a pretty nifty idea.

THE STAR ALSO would like to swap two percent of its income for docking privileges at the city marina and utilities, a deal which could double city rental from the same slips.

Sounds like another good idea, considering how much Charlevoix's downtown merchants have benefitted from the Star for the past several years. It is idle to argue that Star passengers don't shop downtown because they do. I've seen them — armed with parcels — running across the bridge to catch the boat.

The first year the Star was in business one motel owner told me that fully two-thirds of his business that summer came from people who visited Charlevoix just to have dinner aboard the Star.

Furthermore, the Star's attractive out-state and out-of-state advertising is certain to benefit the entire community.

OF COURSE, many folks are still unhappy about the size of Edgewater Inn on the north shore of Round Lake. True, it appears larger than I thought it would, but it looks a thousand times better than the old lumber yard buildings that were there before. If anything, it has improved the view from the lakeside rooms of the Lodge Motel.

But that's just my opinion. And in Charlevoix, them's fighting words.

Report from Tucson

BY PEG OHLE

The first of April in Tucson, Arizona is like Labor Day in northern Michigan.

On this April first, we were among the thousands of "snow birds" who left Tucson in the same manner "fudgies" disappear from Charlevoix and surrounding areas on Labor Day.

If we watched carefully, we could detect a slight sigh of relief from year-round Tucsonans, something that seemed to say, "Now we can enjoy are sun and mountains our own way".

The snowbird season in Tucson is longer than the fudgie season here, so it will be just a matter of five months or so before the money-laden snowbirds return to Tucson. Unlike our local business people, Tucson merchants have only a short "slow" period.

Mountains and desert are the natural attractions of southern Arizona. There are no lakes or rivers to provide recreational activities such as sailing, swimming, and fishing, but there are mountains to climb, canyons to explore, and deserts to sketch and photograph. The air, like ours is clean and clear, but the sun is different. It is closer to earth and it rises over one mountain and sets behind another mountain, shortening the time it is visible each day.

Tucson is the home of the University of Arizona, a bustling school located right in the center of town. Students add a welcome youthfulness to an otherwise older population. Girls wear short skirts, long skirts, bib overalls, and, on occasion, dresses. Boys seem to prefer shorts this time of year, but always there are jeans, blue jeans and khaki jeans, most often of a western cut. Jeans call for cowboy boots and shorts require Nikes or Addidas, or Reeboks.

The entire University of Arizona campus is a study hall or meeting room. Weather permits sitting on the grass to complete a term paper or visit with a classmate.

And everywhere, all the time, there are motor bikes whizzing here and there, taking students to classes, to work, or to their homes.

Tucson is also the county set of Pima County, a large, sprawling area of large and small ranches, military bases, and industries such as IBM, which have found the "sun belt". The City of Tucson, which is growing by leaps and bounds, is the hub of it all.

Like a bus man on a holiday, we attended a meeting of the Pima County Board of Supervisors (the same as our County Board of Commissioners) to see how they operated.

The County Board is a five-person board (four men and one woman) who are elected for four year terms. They manage county government with the help of an appointed county manager. The county budget for the current year is $448,100,896, broken down into broad categories of General Government; Recreation, Community Services and Education; and Transportation and Utilities.

The population of Pima County has increased 272,633, or over 77 percent, since 1970. The growing population is bringing major problems to this land of sunshine.

Water is in short supply, manufacturing activities create pollutants which hang over the valley on quiet days, and automobiles create not only air pollution but the never-ending need for new county roads and city streets.

While Michigan is celebrating is 150th year of statehood, Arizona is celebrating its 75th. We learned not to be deceived by the age of Arizona, however, when we found that the Spanish explorer Hernando Cortez led his band of men through Arizona in the sixteenth century, long before Father Marquette and other French missionary-explorers came to Michigan.

It's over 2,300 miles by road from Charlevoix to Tucson, but somehow a sterling silver Belevedere Club souvenir spoon traveled that distance some time in the past. We bought the spoon at a Tucson flea market.

Viewpoint

Boat yes, barge no

The Star of Charlevoix dinner boat has been a valuable tourist attraction for the City of Charlevoix. It is a unique form of entertainment that takes advantage of the waters without extracting a heavy price.

While many of the visitors to the Star may spend little time in town, every bit helps. Those who visit the Star and find Charlevoix a pleasant place may well return to spend more time, and money, here.

But the recent proposal to locate the dinner boat at the city docks deserves careful study: Why not continue the operation at the present site? Would the parking for the Star completely push out other visitors from the waterfront areas? Are we setting a precedent that will be difficult to administer with others who request city docks.

The city should work closely with the Star Line Corp. to come to a reasonable solution.

The proposal, however, for the Star to open a floating bar on a barge next to the dinner boat should be rejected outright. It poses far more problems than it is worth.

Most important, it would unfairly impact nearby businesses which have made substantial investments in their operations and which must pay city property taxes.

The waterfront and Round Lake should not be for sale.

The boat yes, the barge no.

Beacons of Blessing

A devotional column prepared
by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association

by Pastor Duane Nelson
Church of the Nazarene

There is a myth about becoming or being a Christian. It says that this religious thing is a bunch of dos and don'ts. This is simply a gross misconception of the lifestyle of a Christian.

Christianity is not based on good deeds; rather on believing in Christ and His power to forgive our sins. "For it is by grace you have been saved, through faith - and this not from yourselves, it is a gift of God - not by works, so that no one can boast" (Eph. 2:8-9).

However, this faith or believing Christ for His forgiveness cannot begin until we have sought forgiveness for our sins from Christ. It is that belief that when we seek forgiveness we are forgiven - that will take us to Heaven. "If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just and will forgive us our sins and purify us from all unrighteousness" (1 John 1:9). It is the forgiven that go to Heaven. It is a hope that we all can have.

Though we have learned that good deeds won't get us to Heaven, we know that evil deeds will keep us out (Gal. 5:19-21). That's why we need to seek forgiveness - not for the good deeds, but for the evil ones. Once we have made that step of faith, we then become children of God. As children of god, we are asked to live accordingly. We cannot live this way on our own, thus working our way to Heaven; but God gives us the power to live like His children.

When forgiveness takes place, we don't feel that we have to do or not do certain things. We sincerely want to do or not do certain things. We want to serve God to the best of our ability and live the way He wants us to live. The power of God's forgiveness for our sins is really amazing. It changed my lifestyle, my attitude and the way I cope with the pressures of life. God can do the same for all of us.

Being a Christian is not a matter of dos and don'ts; it is a matter of forgiveness.

Letters to the editor:

Rebecca's Triumph cast

Dear Editor:

Concerning picture of the group of women in "Rebecca's Triumph" (Nov. 26): It was sponsored by the Maccabee Lodge which was very active there "back when". I would have to guess the date would have been somewhere between 1906 and 1910.

The people I'm fairly sure about: Top row, second from left, Mrs. Merrill Miller (Gertie); fourth from left, Francis Gallagher (Emma). Middle row, from left, 1. Mrs. O'Neil; 2. Mrs. Jacobs; 4. Mrs. Fred Curtis (Anna), my mother, who was this Rebecca; Mrs. "Cap" Taylor (Rose); she and her husband ran the concession at The Inn beach for years. Seated: far right, Mrs. Nels Tillotson (Mollie). I used to be able to name all of them, but at 70 I have difficulty recalling.

As for the Charlevoix sweatshirts, I've done my best to advertise in Toronto, Niagara Falls, and various places in Canada. Although I'm now a Canadian citizen, I still have to claim Charlevoix as my roots.

Engagements

Mary Plagge and Matthew Galer

Plagge-Galer

Dr. and Mrs. Merle Plagge of Charlevoix announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary, to Matthew Galer. He is the son of Raymond Galer of Dearborn.

The bride-to-be graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1982, and from Western Michigan University this year. She is employed by the Ridgeville Nursing Home in Kalamazoo.

Her fiance graduated from Western Michigan University in 1986, and is a substitute teacher in the Portage school system. He is also employed by the Lakeside Home for Boys and Girls in Kalamazoo.

The wedding will take place August 8 in the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix.

Michelle Caturia and A.J. Witthoeft

Caturia-Witthoeft

Michelle Marie Caturia and A. J. Witthoeft will be married June 13 at White Bear Lake, Minnesota.

The intended bride is the daughter of Barbara Caturia of St. Paul and Raymond Caturia of White Bear Lake. She holds a business administration degree from the University of Wisconsin and is presently working on her master's degree at Northern Michigan University.

Her intended bridegroom is studying for a business degree at Northern Michigan University.

50's dance planned for Charlevoix High gym

The 50's Dance, a community-wide party featuring music for dancing, a Lip Sync Contest for anyone interested in entering, and an Elvis Presley look-a-like contest will be held at the Charlevoix High School gymnasium on Friday, May 1.

The admittance charge will be $3 for students and adults. Everyone is eligible for the contests for which prizes will be awarded and for refreshments.

Music for dancing will be by Sound System III of Traverse City.

Sounds like fun? Of course it does!

Annual kindergarten Roundup scheduled

The annual kindergarten round-up is scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday April 27 and 28.

However, appointments must be made through the school a week earlier, Tuesday and Wednesday, April 21 and 22.

The round-up, as in the past, will include registration, family background, speech and motor coordination checks and a readiness test. Parents should plan a minimum of 45 minutes for registration. Appointments will be scheduled between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. on April 28 and April 29.

Appointments must be made through the school before registering the child. You are asked to call 547-3242 during times listed below for your appointment.

The hours will be from 8:30 a.m. until noon and 1 p.m. until 3 p.m. on both Tuesday and Wednesday, April 21 and 22.

If you have any questions or are unable to call in for an appointment on April 21 and 22 please feel free to call 547-3215.

Parents are requested, on the day of their appointment, to bring:

–ONLY the child to be registered for kindergarten.

–Child's certified record of birth with raised seal from county clerk's office. Please note that church baptismal records or hospital records are not acceptable.

–Child's up-to-date immunization record.

–Recent photograph of child being registered. This will be returned to you in September.

The Charlevoix Board of Education recommends that children entering kindergarten be five (5) years of age by September 1, 1987.

It should be noted that in the event a child will not be living with his-her parents within the Charlevoix School district, it is required that guardianship papers must be presented to the school at the time of kindergarten registration.

Way book available

In answer to inquires about the book "From the Oxcart to the Space Shuttle" written by the late Clarence S. Way, copies of this interesting biography of the author, are now available at Brumm's Studio on U.S. 31 South.

The book relates the story of life in northern Michigan from the late 1800s to 1986 when it was published.

Correction

We are sorry the engagement story and picture of Laurie Robb MacArthur which we ran last week were incorrectly headlined. The story headline should have read "MacArthur-Nussbaum", and the picture cutline should have been "Laurie Robb MacArthur".

LEGAL NOTICE 207

NOTICE OF SPECIAL MEETING OF SHAREHOLDERS TO BE HELD APRIL 22, 1987

Notice is hereby given that a Special Meeting of the Shareholders of Charlevoix County State Bank (the "Bank") will be held at 11:00 A.M., local time, on April 22, 1987, at the Bank's Main Office, 227 Bridge Street, Charlevoix, Michigan 49720, for the following purposes:

(1) To consider and vote upon a Plan and Agreement of Consolidation ("Consolidation Plan"; "Consolidation") between the Bank, Round Lake State Bank ("Round Lake") a Michigan corporation; and CCSB Corporation ("CCSB"), a Michigan corporation formed to act as a holding company for the Bank; pursuant to which among other things, (i) Round Lake, a wholly owned subsidiary of CCSB, will be merged with and into the Bank with the Bank being the Surviving Corporation, thereafter to be operated as a wholly owned subsidiary of CCSB; and (ii) the outstanding shares of the Bank's $10 par value common stock will be converted into and exchanged for the $10 par value common stock of CCSB, on a one for one share basis; all as more fully set forth in the Plan and Agreement of Consolidation, dated March 16, 1987.

(2) To transact such other business as may properly come before the Special Meeting or any adjournments thereof.

In connection with the Reorganization, each outstanding share of $10 par value common stock of the Bank will be converted, on a tax-free basis, into one share of $10 par value common stock of CCSB.

Only those holders of the Bank's Common Stock of record at the close of business on March 24, 1987, are entitled to notice of and to vote at the Special Meeting and any adjournments thereof.

Obituaries

Sadie B. Meggison

Mrs. Sadie B. Meggison, 91, died Saturday, April 11, at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Funeral services will be held at the United Methodist Church at 2 p.m. Thursday, April 16. The Rev. David W. Yingling will officiate. Interment will be in Brookside Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Winchester Funeral Home from 7-9 p.m. Wednesday.

Born in Bellaire Jan. 21, 1896, the former Sadie Bedell was raised in Bellaire. On April 6, 1921, she married Clarence B. Meggison. They returned to Charlevoix to make their home. Mr. Meggison preceded her in death Oct. 4, 1967. She was a member of the United Methodist Church and, for many years, had taught Sunday School.

She is survived by a son, Donald B. Meggison of Charlevoix; three daughters, Mrs. Kenneth (Frances) Wilson and Mrs. James (Faye) Alger, both of Charlevoix and Mrs. Jack (Beth) DeWildt of Wyoming; 17 grandchildren; 31 great-grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. Mina Kent of New Lothrop and Mrs. Irma Hurry of New Port Richey, Fla., and one brother, Robert Bedell of Linden.

The family suggests memorials to the United Methodist Church, Clark Memorial Home in Grand Rapids or Children's Methodist Home in Grand Rapids. Envelopes for this purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home.

Lorene R. Ladd

Mrs. Lorene R. Ladd, 76, of St. James, Beaver Island, died Sunday, April 12, at the Grandvue Medical Care Facility at East Jordan.

Funeral services will be held at the Beaver Island Christian Church at 2 p.m. Thursday, April 16. Phillip Gregg will officiate. Interment will be in the Beaver Island Cemetery.

Friends may call at the church until the hour of the service.

Born at Hudson Jan. 23, 1911, the daughter of Frank V. and Zelpha B. (Rhoades) Hale, the former Lorene R. Hale moved to Pontiac in 1914 with her parents. She graduated from Pontiac High School in 1928 and attended the University of Michigan School of Nursing.

On July 3, 1936, she married Edward S. Ladd at Pontiac. She was employed at the Oakland County Road Commission from 1944-55. In 1973 they moved from Pontiac to St. James to make their home. She was a member of the Beaver Island Christian Church and a member and past president of the Beaver Island Medical Center Auxiliary.

Surviving are her husband, Edward S. Ladd of St. James; a daughter, Mrs. James (Susan M.) Sahwartz of Albany, N.Y.; a son, David A. Ladd of Cadillac; five grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials to the Beaver Island Medical Center Auxiliary.

The Winchester Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Beatrice Taggart

Mrs. Beatrice Harrington Taggart, 89, a former Charlevoix resident, died Saturday at the Glacier Hills Nursing Home in Ann Arbor.

A memorial service will be held at the First Congregational Church in Charlevoix at 10 a.m. Monday, April 20. The Rev. Phillip G. Schairbaum will officiate. Interment will be in Brookside Cemetery. There will be no visitation.

The former Beatrice Harrington was born in Leetonia, Ohio, Oct. 12, 1897, to Barney LaRue and Etta (Courtney) Harrington. She received a teaching certificate from Alma College in 1923 and came to Charlevoix where she taught prior to her marriage to V.Y. Tuttle at Traverse City in 1924. They moved to Grand Rapids in 1924 and lived there until going to Sparta in 1949. They returned to Charlevoix to live in 1966.

Mr. Tuttle preceded her in death in 1976. In 1977 she married H.F. Taggart at Ann Arbor where they made their home. He died in 1983. She had taught in Charlevoix and from 1949 until 1966 at Sparta. She had been a member of the Fountain Street Baptist Church in Grand Rapids and the First Congregational Church in Charlevoix.

She is survived by a son, Dr. John R. Tuttle of McLean, Va; and two granddaughters, Mrs. J. Groover of Stafford, Va., and Mrs. D. Bailey of Astoria, N.Y.

The family suggests memorials to the American Cancer Society.

PUBLIC HEARING

The City Council of the City of Charlevoix will hold a public hearing on Monday, April 27, 1987 at 7:00 p.m. in the Council Room of City Hall, 210 State Street, Charlevoix, Michigan. The hearing will be held to receive public comment on a proposed amendment to the Scenic Reserve Zone District to allow R-1 (single family) uses in the district.

Michael R. Wiesner,
City Manager

Citizens object to changes

30 years ago were as anti-progress as people here," he told the audience, "people wouldn't have a place to live."

Judy Probert, wife of Councilman Norm Probert and a property owner on the railroad right-of-way that adjoins the scenic reserve, said the issue was not just the Chicago and Belvedere properties. Developers, she noted, have options on the land from the south end to the north end of the reserve.

The view of the lake must be protected, she added. "I want my grandchildren to see it."

"Charlevoix is sticking out enough now downtown," Roger Peacock told council. "If you let that go, you're going to have condos. It's not going to look right. It's not going to be Charlevoix anymore."

Louis Orlowski, president of the Charlevoix Historical Society, said over 300 volunteers were currently looking at sites for historical districts. The Belvedere and Chicago clubs represent two of the finest historic districts in the state. "Please do not jeopardize anything that's being done to establish historic districts," he said.

Sue Fowler noted that she had spent nearly her entire life in Charlevoix. "Everyone's very sad about the loss of the view," she said in reference to the recent condominiums built downtown. "You can go to West Palm Beach if you want condominiums."

Kari Gilewicz, owner of Karl's Pastry Shop, observed that "Basically you have in your hands the future of the city. We are running out of view, running out of waterfront, running out of a lot of things."

"What this is is a ruse to raise taxes," Dave Strawbridge told council. Zoning should be used to control land use, not to raise taxes, he noted.

"If you change the zoning," Hagen Manker said, "then they ought to put up a plaque on the property and put your names (council's) on it and say you guys did it."

"How dare you fool with our future?" Jeanine Wallace asked.

Dale Boss, who described himself as a city taxpayer and township resident, said he had yet to find anyone who wanted to change the zoning there. "You have a couple of attorneys leading you down the primrose path," he said. "If you fire the dumb attorneys and sit down with the board of directors of the Chicago and Belvedere clubs you wouldn't have any problems."

When public comment had ended, Councilman Earl Muma told the audience, "the people have spoken and 100 percent of them do not want a change in the scenic reserve. As a councilman, I'll honor your wishes."

Councilman Robert Timms remained convinced the change in zoning was necessary. City Assessor Robert Potter put the correct value on the property, he said. "The scenic reserve is a confiscatory restriction. I think it's reasonable to allow some sort of building in that zone."

"Obviously people don't want R-1 uses," Councilman William Bellows concluded.
